Of course, most of these improvements would be no fun for fans. Attendance might dwindle when spectators realize there's no one actually inside the cars.

With McSwain's help, we can probably spread this idea to other occupations. Doctors, lawyers, firefighters ... we don't really need these people to show up in person, do we?

Maybe working from home — hang on, my wife wants me to take out the trash — is overrated.

GARAGE CHATTER

By RICK MINTER / Cox News Service

• With NASCAR's Busch Series venturing into Mexico, talk is heating up about a possible Nextel Cup Series trip to Canada.

Canadian newspapers already are speculating that there may be a Cup race at the Circuit Gilles Villeneuve in Montreal within two or three years.

However, if NASCAR sticks to its current method of expansion, the Canadians' first taste of NASCAR racing will come with a Busch Series or Craftsman Truck Series event.

• Instead of the Southern 500 at Darlington Raceway, NASCAR ran Feb. 27 at California Speedway, where there were an estimated 15,000 empty seats.

With the continuing disappointment in the Carolinas over the elimination of the Southern 500, many in the sport are wondering if NASCAR will bring the old Southern 500 back.

Darlington's lone race is now on the Saturday before Mother's Day, typically a poor racing date.

• Three Nextel Cup crew chiefs were penalized for technical infractions at California.

Tim Weiss, crew chief for Eric McClure, was hit for $10,000 for having the wrong third gear in the transmission of the No. 73 Chevrolet.

Ken Schrader's crew chief, David Hyder, was fined $5,000 for the wrong rear-gear ratio, and Billy Poindexter of Kevin Lepage's team was hit for $6,000 for having an unapproved deck lid and an improper fire-suppression agent.

4-H Club News

SNOWY CREEK
by Hannah Sines, reporter

The Snowy Creek 4-H Club met on Thursday, Feb. 10, at 6:30 p.m. at the Friendsville Elementary School. The meeting was called to order by the president, Drew Glover. Katie Savage led the club in the 4-H Pledge, and Cindy Smearman led the Pledge of Allegiance. Roll call was answered by members telling their favorite winter activities. The secretary's report was approved as read.

The activities attended by members since the last meeting were the Livestock Skill-a-thon, 4-H Ski Day, 4-H Council meeting, and Livestock Association meeting.

Under old business discussed, donations were approved to go to the Farm Bureau booth, new sheep barn, a book to Friendsville School Library in memory of Leah Huber, and trophies for awards at the Garrett County Fair.

Rick spoke to the individuals involved with each donation, and the club will be contacted with the appropriate time and information.

All members who did not get a shirt and sweatshirt last year were to contact Mike Diehl to order them.

New business discussed included 2005 project record sheets, the 2005 Club Plan, telephone network, Adopt-A-Highway Programs, Parade and Float Committee, Booth Committee, and door prizes for Achievement Night.

Leader announcements included the Livestock Association snow tubing event held on Feb. 13 and the Livestock Association meeting held on March 3.

The next meeting of the Snowy Creek 4-H Club will be held this evening, March 10, at 6:30 p.m. at Friendsville Elementary School.

TRAILBLAZERS
by Emily Cosner, reporter

The February meeting of the Trailblazers 4-H Club was held Feb. 17 at Yough Glades Elementary School. The club discussed our donation to the Cheryl Skipper Memorial Fund, and donations from the members were collected to add to the club's contribution.

Emily Cosner reported on 4-H Ski Day, and Emily Green reported on the Livestock Association tubing event.

Emily Green, president, reminded us about the 4-H Public Speaking Contest to be held this month. The topic will be "broiler chick orders." We were also reminded about 4-H T-shirt and sweatshirt sales.

The club then discussed taking a trip in June. Several ideas were discussed, and members were asked to bring information about trips they would like to take, which will be decided on at the next meeting.

The activity for February was speeches. The following members each gave a speech at the meeting: Emily Cosner, Jennifer Cosner, Melinda Smith, Chad Harvey, Jenna Rush, Carey Rush, Emily Green Audrey Bowser, Sarah Cosner, John Zimmerman, and Candace Blamble.

After the speeches, Nicole Pysell and Laura Smith reported on the Clover Bud program for the night.

The meeting was adjourned, and refreshments were served by the Bowser family. The next meeting will be held March 17 at 7:30 p.m. All members are reminded to bring canned food to be donated to the House of Hope.

GIRLS SCOUTS GO TUBING – Local Girl Scouts of the Trillium Council recently spent a Sunday afternoon at the Wisp Resort's Bear Claw Snow Tubing Park. More than 260 Scouts and their families participated in the event. "Everyone seemed to really enjoy themselves, and the trails were great!" said Diana Hetrick, a parent from Troop 5025. "With the generosity of the Wisp and funds from United Way of Garrett County, local Scouts were able to tube for just $6 for a four-hour session," added Elizabeth Huxford, Garrett County community manager. "This was the first time tubing for a lot of girls and we were thrilled to provide the experience." The troops represented that day were 5023 and 5053 from Accident; 5026 from Friendsville; 5020 from Frostburg; 5024 from Grantsville; 5009 from Kitzmiller; 5002, 5003, 5004, 5006, 5013, 5021, and 5025 from Oakland; and 5111 from Swanton, along with Girl Scouts from Preston and Monongalia counties in West Virginia. For more information about joining Girl Scouts, persons may call Huxford at 301-387-2280 or contact their school to get the name and phone number of a troop leader near them. "The Girl Scouts Trillium Council, with the help of our dedicated troop leaders, works very hard to plan family events that afford the girls an opportunity to have quality family time, while meeting new Girl Scouts who share their interests," noted a local leader.

SWANTON

There will be a buckwheat cake, pancake, and sausage dinner at the Swanton Community Center this Saturday, March 12, beginning at 4 p.m. The cost for adults is $6 and for children, $3. Everyone is welcome.

Melvin and Dotty Beckman were among those attending the visitation for the late Sally DeWitt on Friday at Stewart Funeral Home in Oakland.

Frances Otto died suddenly Friday night. Her funeral was held at Stewart Funeral Home on Monday.

Melvin Beckman was an overnight patient in Garrett County Memorial Hospital Saturday. He returned home Sunday afternoon and is "doing better."

On Dean's List At Hood College

Hood College in Frederick recently announced that Tessa Folk, Grantsville, and Dennis Tressler, Oakland, earned dean's list honors for the fall 2004 semester.

Students who qualify for the dean's list have taken at least 12 credit hours on a letter grade basis during the semester if enrolled full time, six credits if enrolled part time; have no outstanding incomplete grades; and have earned at least a 3.5 grade-point average.

Jessica Simpson visited 'The Twilight Zone'

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Jessica Simpson

Q: I was channel-surfing several weeks ago and came upon either "The Outer Limits" or "The Twilight Zone." I missed the opening and closing credits, but I could swear Jessica Simpson was in the show. Is this true? –Deb, Colorado.

A: Before the singer started the unscripted MTV show "Newlyweds" with husband Nick Lachey, she appeared in a segment of UPN's 2002-03 revival of "The Twilight Zone." She played a baby sitter who wasn't too happy to learn what happened to the other sitters who preceded her. We'll get another sample of her acting style when she plays Daisy in this summer's feature-film version of "The Dukes of Hazzard."

Q: I really like the new show "NUMB3RS," and I especially like David Krumholtz. I remember him from "Life With Mikey" and "10 Things I Hate About You," but what else has he done? –Patty Sabin, Milwaukee.

A: The actor's biggest claim to television fame still may be as the troubled patient who killed Kellie Martin's character and wounded Dr. Carter (Noah Wyle) on "ER." Before starting his current CBS job, Krumholtz was a regular on the shows "Monty," "Chicago Sons," "The Closer," "The Trouble With Normal" and "The Lyon's Den." His other movies include "The Ice Storm," "The Santa Clause 2," "The Mexican," "Sidewalks of New York," "Harold & Kumar Go to White Castle" and the much-acclaimed "Ray." This fall, Krumholtz will be seen in "Serenity," the feature-film spinoff of the short-lived Fox sci-fi series "Firefly."

Q: Could you tell me if Paul Giamatti of "Sideways" and Marcus Giamatti of "Judging Amy" are brothers? They certainly look alike, and I don't believe Giamatti is a very common surname. –M. Lubin, New Rochelle, N.Y.

A: No, it isn't. And yes, they are. Marcus is the older sibling.

Q: I remember a TV show from, I believe, the early 1970s called "Longstreet," with James Franciscus playing a blind detective. Is the new show "Blind Justice" based on the same character and premise as "Longstreet"? –Cindi Hittle, Columbus, Ohio.

A: There are some thematic similarities between the two shows, but executive producer Steven Bochco didn't base his new ABC series directly on "Longstreet." One notable difference is that Ron Eldard's "Blind Justice" character is still active on the police force, while Mike Longstreet was an insurance investigator.

February Stats Released By GC Sheriff's Office

The February statistics for the Garrett County Sheriff's Office were recently released by Sheriff Dick Sanders Jr. A total of 1,458 control numbers were assigned during the month for a variety of different functions requiring officer response.

The statistics were: 28 alarms, 84 adult arrests, 1 juvenile arrest, 3 assaults, 24 assists other agencies, 7 controlled dangerous substances with 7 adult arrests, 310 court papers served, 12 destruction of property, 12 disturbances, 4 domestic complaints, 6 domestic assaults with 3 arrests, 8 driving under the influence arrests, 4 hit and run accident investigations, 60 motor vehicle accident responses, 79 patrol checks, 15 thefts, 53 traffic citations with 97 warnings, and 20 traffic complaints.

The Garrett Bureau of Investigation looks into identify theft crimes involving credit card fraud. Quite often, victims are not aware of the fraud until suspicious fraudulent charges appear on their account, said an investigator. Residents are encouraged to monitor credit card use, and not to provide credit card numbers to anyone unless it is a legitimate transaction.

Persons who are a victim of credit card fraud should contact GBI at 301-334-1909 or the Sheriff's Office at 301-334-1911.

Nutrition Month To Be Celebrated At GC Sr. Centers

Garrett County's two senior centers will celebrate National Nutrition Month this year. Community Action Area Agency on Aging is offering two similar programs that will be held at the Grantsville Senior Center on March 22 and the Mary Browning Senior Center, Oakland, on March 23 from 8:30 a.m. until noon.

This year's theme is "Get a Taste for Nutrition!"

Participants will start their day with a healthy breakfast between 8:30 and 9:30 a.m. There will be traditional and nontraditional breakfast foods offered, with cooking demonstrations and instruction by Ronnie Padmos, coordinator of the Older Americans Act Programs for the Area Agency on Aging.

Kathy Elliott of the Garrett County Health Department will add a tropical touch to the program with a tasting of foods such as mangoes, papayas, and kiwi. Participants can visit her booth at the event and play "Guess the Tropical Fruit" to win prizes.

Padmos and Amy Ritchie, R.D., G.C. Health Department, will share the podium for "As We Age We Change," starting at 9:30 a.m.

"As we age, our tastes change, our energy needs change, and our desire to eat may also change," said Ritchie. "Sometimes this makes it hard for older adults to consume all the nutrients their bodies need."

"This program will examine the aging process as it pertains to nutrition and most importantly explain how to consume the nutrients your body needs with changes to improve your eating habits as you age," she added.

In "Get More Bang Out of Your Bag" at 10:30 a.m., Lena Frantz, Maryland Cooperative Extension, will also explain through an inter-active game how to make simple choices that agree with one's taste buds.

Lunch will be served a noon. Reservations are necessary. For more information or to learn more about the programs, persons may call toll free 1-888-877-8403, ext. 137, or 1-301-334-9431, ext. 137, or e-mail vpadmos@garrettcac.org.

Extra Activities Offered In March At Senior Center

The Mary Browning Senior Center, located at 104 E. Center Street, Oakland, will offer extra activities during the month of March to enhance its existing activities program, according to Leona Lavin, Senior Center operations director.

Those activities follow: Thursday, March 10, is Pizza Day beginning with a pizza treasure hunt at 11 a.m. Beanie Baby Bingo will be played at 11:15, and participants will be making their own pizzas for lunch. A game of Texas Hold 'em will be played at 12:45 p.m.

A Scrapbooking Workshop will be held on Tuesday, March 15, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Participants will work with different scrapbooking tools and are asked to bring in a favorite recipe to make a recipe card using scrapbooking techniques. Persons having scrapbook papers or photos are welcome to attend. Participants are asked to bring a covered dish if staying for lunch.

National Frozen Food Month will be recognized on Tuesday, March 22. Peggy Nelson from Garrett College will be at the senior center at 11 a.m. to give free massages. Participants are asked to bring in a frozen food item to be prepared and served for lunch. A game of Texas Hold 'em will be played at 12:45 p.m.

Betty Pritt, Mary Kay independent consultant, will be at the senior center on Thursday, March 31, for "A Day of Beauty." Participants will be given free manicures, skin care analysis, and make-overs. Appetizers will be served.

Advanced registration is required for the additional activities. Persons needing to register or to get more information may contact Lavin at 301-334-9431 or 1-888-877-8403, ext. 133, or llavin@garrettcac.org.

Vendors Sought For Garden Show, "Shopping Mart"

The GFWC Civic Club of Oakland is finalizing plans for its annual Garden and Flower Show to be held Saturday, April 20, at the Garrett County Lighthouse, 20 East Oak Street, Oakland. This year's theme is "Over the Rainbow."

In addition to the show, the club is planning a mini "shopping mart," which will be located on the lower level of the Lighthouse.

"It will be a shopper's delight," said a club spokesperson. "A variety of vendors, merchants, and crafts people will be there with lots of goodies to buy."

Vendor space is limited, but persons interested in participating in this event are asked to call Bobby Andersen at 301-334-4459 for more information.

"Last year we received many requests for perennial plants," said the spokesperson. "That slot has not yet been filled."

Through the Eyes of a Child

The love and trust shown through the eyes of a child remind us daily of the responsibility of teaching and sharing so many things...honesty, compassion, dependability, and caring to mention a few. Taking hold of the hand of one that shows that trust reminds us of how important it is to teach our children and grandchildren about the responsibilities facing them throughout their life – not only in words of encouragement and wisdom, but also by our actions.

In the daily lives of so many families, time with our children and with God becomes set aside for other chores and personal activities. This sometimes allows children to miss out on gathering the knowledge and teachings of the religious heritage that our forefathers fought and struggled to give to all future generations. The eyes and hearts of our children are alert and ready to absorb so many facets of the teachings of our Heavenly Father. Proverbs 22:6 says, "Train a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not turn from it."

We can share our faith in God and help our children learn about the teachings of their religious heritage by attending a church or synagogue of choice each week. The doors to a loving faith are always open to God's children.

Are You A Satisfied Customer?

One of the prime requirements for any successful business are satisfied customers. Those in the business world are keenly aware that a satisfied customer will most likely return to them in the future, and that they will recommend their products and services to others. To be a satisfied satisfied customer, we need to be treated fairly and honestly, and in a civilized manner; we do not like being taken advantage of, cheated or ridiculed in any way. Likewise, on a personal level, we should also strive to have satisfied customers. Everyone we come in contact with is somewhat of a customer and we should be selling our friendship, goodwill and cheerfulness. The Bible tells us to treat others as we want them to treat us, and when dealing with others this "Golden Rule" is necessary for us to have and keep enjoyable relationships. Dissension in one's family, or in the workplace, or with anyone we deal with, is contrary to the way our Lord wants us to live our lives. And although it is not always easy to reflect God's goodwill to others, when we are cordial to others, we receive enjoyment and we are blessed by extending God's love.

Therefore, whatever you want men to do to you, do also to them, for this is the Law and the Prophets.
New K.J.V. Matthew 7:12

Natural Supplements For Arthritis

Several supplements have shown benefit in the treatment of arthritis pain. Two of these are glucosamine with or without chondroitin, and SAMe (S-adenosylmethionine). Glucosamine and chondroitin are natural components of the cartilage in joints. Glucosamine lessens inflammation and cartilage degradation. Chondroitin may also lessen degradation of cartilage. Some research suggests that they are as effective as NSAIDS (non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs) in the treatment of arthritis pain. They are well-tolerated and may be used alone or in combination.

SAMe is a natural molecule that is distributed throughout the body. Preliminary research indicates that SAMe may stimulate the synthesis and proliferation of cartilage components. SAMe is comparable to NSAIDS in reducing arthritis pain, and causes fewer side effects. SAMe may also be used to treat depression.

Homemade Treats

Q. My new puppy's training is going very well, and he responds very well to rewards of little treats. I worry about feeding him so many processed, store-bought snacks though. What are some natural or homemade alternatives for treats? — Maggie T., Nashua, N.H.

A. Many alternative recipes for homemade doggie treats are available on the Internet and at the bookstore, but the healthiest ones share many common features. This means that you can find quite a few good recipes out there, or develop a few of your own.

Common ingredients in dog treats are meat protein (either from fresh meats, broths or strained baby foods), whole-grain flours (like wheat, oats, corn or rice), eggs and powdered supplements (like brewer's yeast or garlic). A variety of flavorings can be added, including peanut butter, sugar or molasses, vanilla, salt, and small amounts of cheese or milk. Dry or instant yeast can be added to biscuit-type recipes, to allow the dough to rise before baking.

A popular training asset is liver treats, which can be made fairly easy and which last about four to five days if stored properly (in an airtight container and refrigerated). Chicken livers, eggs and sweetener are pureed, flour or cornmeal is mixed in (some owners add powdered supplements as well) and the mixture is baked, cooled and sliced into bite-size treats.

Certain foods are never safe for dogs, so don't use any recipe that contains these ingredients: chocolate, onions, raisins/grapes or macadamia nuts. They seem like fairly innocent foods, but can cause serious health problems in dogs.

Baking and testing these snacks out on your puppy can be a lot of fun; remember, you can also share recipes with other dog owners and perhaps find the perfect treat for your companion.

Old Bottles

Q. I have about 50 old bottles that my husband dug up on an old farm several years ago. Can you recommend a good reference book that will help us identify and place values on them? — Pere, Armonk, N.Y.

A. Although there are dozens of books about bottles, one I especially like is the Antique Trader Bottles Identification and Price Guide by Michael Polak, published by Krause Publications and now in its 4th edition. Often referred to as the "bottle bible" by collectors, it has more than 1,000 detailed listings, 300 photographs (many in full color) and accurate price information.

Q. I have a large collection of Royal collectibles, mostly British. In addition to several Lady Di pieces, I have a Prince Charles cup issued when he was born and a coronation plate I purchased in London when Queen Elizabeth II was crowned. Who can I contact to find out current values? — Arthur, Glenwood Springs, Colo.

Strange BUT TRUE
By Samantha Weaver

• Guinea pigs aren't pigs — and aren't even related to pigs — and they don't come from the West African country of Guinea. They actually come from South America, where they were just another kind of livestock to be raised for their meat, much like chickens and rabbits. When explorers of the New World brought some back from their voyages, the rodents became popular in Europe — but as pets, not a source of food. So where did the name come from? Well, many thought that the animals' squeals sounded pig-like; and in England at the time, the word "guinea" was slang for anything foreign. Hence "guinea pig."

• For reasons that are still unclear, the CIA once offered to its agents a pen that caused blisters.

• The original Holiday Inn was named "Holiday Inn Hotel Court," and it offered baby-sitting services, dog kennels and on-call chaplains and doctors.

• It was the Roman poet Horace who observed: "Mix a little foolishness with your serious plans: it's lovely to be silly at the right moment."

• Since the dawn of cinema in the early 1900s, Buffalo Bill Cody has been portrayed in more than 50 films.

• In China in the mid-20th century, there was a Professor Min who taught astronomy at a university. He was apolitical, but he lost his job for criticizing the Communist system. This came as a surprise to him, however; he thought he was just teaching his students about sunspots. The sun was thought to represent Chairman Mao, though, and so talking about sunspots was considered a criticism of the revered leader.

• On March 17, 1762, the first parade honoring the Catholic feast day of St. Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland, is held not in Ireland, but in New York City by Irish soldiers serving in the British army.

• On March 14, 1879, Albert Einstein is born, the son of a Jewish electrical engineer, in Ulm, Germany. Einstein's theories of special and general relativity drastically altered man's view of the universe, and his work in particle and energy theory helped make possible quantum mechanics and, ultimately, the atomic bomb.

• On March 16, 1926, American Robert H. Goddard successfully launches the world's first liquid-fueled rocket at Auburn, Mass. The 10-foot-tall rocket, fueled by liquid oxygen and gasoline, traveled for 2.5 seconds at a speed of about 60 mph.

• On March 15, 1954, the Chords record "Sh-boom," kicking off a new era of "doo-wop" music. Doo-wop combined complex a capella harmonies with swinging beats, often Latin rhythms.

• On March 19, 1971, the Italian American Civil Rights League announces a truce with the producers of "The Godfather." Upset at the portrayal of Italian-Americans as gangsters, the League persuaded the producers not to use the words "Mafia" or "Cosa Nostra" in the film.

• On March 18, 1985, after months of negotiations, Capital Cities Communications seals a deal to acquire media stalwart American Broadcasting Cos. (ABC). The deal, worth $3.5 billion in cash and warrants, was then one of the biggest mergers in U.S. corporate history.

• On March 20, 1995, at the height of the morning rush hour in Tokyo, Japan, five two-man terrorist teams from the Aum Shinrikyo religious cult, riding on separate subway trains, converge at the Kasumigaseki station and secretly release lethal sarin gas into the air. Twelve people died, and 5,500 were treated in hospitals.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

by Dr. Thomas P. Sheahen

Q. I saw that the "Kyoto treaty" went into force on February 16. What is it, exactly? Will it affect us?

The Kyoto Treaty is an international agreement to limit the amount of carbon dioxide (CO_2) being given off into the atmosphere. Proponents say it's a first step toward reducing global warming; opponents say it's a drop in the bucket that won't make any difference. The United States is not a participant in this treaty.

Everyone agrees that the earth is kept warmer by certain gases in the atmosphere (notably water vapor), and that is called the Greenhouse Effect, as discussed last week in this column. The controversy begins when you ask how much warmer? Elaborate machine computations have been performed for over a decade, with varying results. The International Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) issued a report in the mid-1990s saying that there might be man-made global warming of up to nearly 5 °C (= 9 °F) by year 2100. That led to an international convention held in Kyoto Japan, the result of which was the Kyoto Treaty. A major player in that effort was then-Vice President Al Gore.

The essential feature of the Kyoto treaty is that participating countries agree to limit their emissions of CO_2 to an amount below what they emitted in 1990. This seems to carry the implication that countries will reduce the amount of fossil fuels they burn. That in turn means some belt-tightening on energy use, which could cost a country a lot of money, or reduce the size of its economy (a recession).

Soon thereafter, various countries began to consider their participation in this treaty. At once, the world's two most populous countries, China and India, essentially replied "not until we catch up." To accommodate their refusal, the framers of the treaty created a list of only developed countries who should participate. The list included most European countries, Canada, the United States, Japan and a few others. Somewhere around half of the world's production of CO_2 would fall under the terms of the treaty.

Upon examination of the arithmetic of "limitations," it turned out that almost the entire burden of cutting back emissions fell upon the United States. Most European countries were signing a "freebie" that didn't require them to do much. Germany, for example, had absorbed the wretched economy of East Germany in about 1992, so they could meet a target based on 1990 emissions without doing anything. Soon word of this got around, as did word of the other economic penalties associated with the treaty. In 1997, the US Senate passed a resolution 95-0 essentially saying "no way" to a treaty that hits the USA hard while leaving others off the hook. The Clinton Administration never actually submitted the treaty to the US Senate for approval, given the overwhelming opposition expressed by the Senate.

Also, during the late 1990s, new scientific evidence, plus new calculations, showed quite clearly that the programmed emission reductions would make almost zero difference. The high-end estimate of 5 °C global temperature increase turned out to be very unrealistic. Moreover, it was found that certain places actually absorb more CO_2 than they produce: notably North America, of all places!

Thereafter, it became a hard sell for proponents of the treaty to find enough countries to sign up. The treaty could not go into effect until enough countries to account for at least 55% of the CO_2 agreed to participate. Major countries besides the United States were dropping out, not to mention China and India, who were never in at all. By 2003 the Russian Academy of Sciences had concluded that the scientific basis of the Kyoto treaty was flawed, and with Russia about to say "no," the treaty was essentially dead.

One feature of the treaty was an "emissions-trading" mechanism, by which countries that emitted less CO_2 than the goal (that is, the "overachievers") would be allowed to sell a "credit" for CO_2 emission to another country that hadn't met its goal. Because of the decline of the Russian economy after the collapse of the Soviet Union in 1991, Russia was already well ahead of the 1990-based goal, and therefore would be able to sell lots of credits to other countries. Once Russia realized what a lucrative deal it was being offered, their own scientists' recommendations were set aside; Russia signed the treaty in November 2004, putting the assembly of signers over the magic 55% number. The treaty went into effect 3 months later, on Feb. 16.

Since the United States is not a party to the treaty, it has no direct effect on us. However, there are other ways that economic pressure will be brought upon the USA to conform. The response of the American government is to pursue research toward developing new technology that will produce less greenhouse gas emissions in future years. That way, it will not be necessary to have the US economy shrink to meet the old 1990-based targets, and the new technology will be usable by other countries, including such large non-participants as China and India. The grand total global emissions of CO_2 will likely be less this way.

Next time: the scientific issues associated with global warming.

Class On Wills And Probate Set In Oakland

An informational session titled "Ten Most Often Asked Questions about Wills and Probate" has been slated by Garrett College from 6:30 to 9 p.m. on Monday, March 28, at the Oakland Armory. Joseph DiSimone, register of wills for Garrett County, will provide the instruction with assistance from Rita Watson, chief deputy register of wills, who will be available for anyone who may need some one-on-one time.

The session will answer basic questions such as: What is a will and what does it do? What does it take to draft a will? How do I choose an executor and what percentage of my assets do they take as a commission? and What is the probate process and is it necessary for my estate? The presentation, which will include handouts, will be followed by a question-and-answer session.

"Everyone knows the importance of executing a last will and testament, yet many people have never written one or even know where to begin," a spokesperson said. "To those who are unprepared, take note: If you die intestate (without a will), the Probate Court will see that your estate is administered according to the Estates and Trusts Code, and maybe your assets will not be distributed according to your wishes. Perhaps the court will never know the guardian you have in mind for your minor child.

"Find out how much of your assets the state will take if you die without a will. Who are your legal heirs? Take charge of your estate – tell the courts what you want done with your assets."

Registration is required due to limited seating. For more information or to register, persons may contact Pat Baer by calling 301-334-8304, or Kista Wilt at 301-387-3069 or via e-mail at kwilt@garrettcollege.edu.

The class is an offering of the Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett College.

SPAY DAY USA ORNAMENTS FOR SALE – The Garrett County Humane Society is selling handmade wooden ornaments during the month of March to help raise funds its spay/neuter program. Pictured above, the dog/cat cutout ornament features the Spay Day USA logo and comes with a spay/neuter information card. They are $4 each and are available for purchase at Pineview Veterinary Hospital, Oakland, and the Christmas Chalet, Deep Creek Lake. For large quantity orders or more information, persons may contact Lisa Baker at 301-387-4425. The Doris Day Foundation has sponsored Spay Day USA for the last 10 years. "Spay Day is an annual event that takes place in late February and has resulted in over one million animals nationwide getting spayed or neutered," said Lisa Baker of the G.C. Humane Society, which has sponsored a countywide spay/neuter awareness month in March for the last five years. In addition to proceeds from the ornaments, donations from local businesses and individuals will be used to help Garrett County residents with the cost of having their pet spayed or neutered. Discount certificates for $25 off the procedures are available at the Garrett County Animal Shelter by calling 301-334-3553.

American Cancer Society Daffodils Still Available

The American Cancer Society's "Daffodil Days" fundraiser will continue with sales of daffodils slated from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday, March 15 and 16, in the basement of St. Peter's Catholic Church in Oakland. Fresh cut daffodils will be available for a $6 donation per bunch of 10, and potted bulbs for an $8.50 donation.

The daffodil is a symbol of hope in the fight against cancer, representing the courage of cancer patients, the compassion of volunteers, and the commitment of researchers dedicated to conquering the disease.

All proceeds will benefit the American Cancer Society. For further information persons may call 1-888-227-9979.

Scheduling Set For Junior Class At Southern High

GOP Women Set Agenda For Rest Of Year

The executive committee of the Southern Garrett County Republican Women's Club (SGCRWC) met recently to plan its 2005 agenda. Club president Ann Rebele presented the agenda.

Under the direction of Western Region chairperson Ruth Umbel, the Western Region will host the Fall State Convention in September. The SGCRWC will, together with other regional clubs, assume a leadership roll in hosting this event.

Rebele and vice president Nita Roberts gave an informative report on the statewide officer training program they attended recently.

Several state legislative issues of interest to women were discussed, resulting in a club decision to follow up on SB257, which seeks to alter the membership of the Maryland Commission for Women by, among other measures, providing for the appointment of members of the commission to ensure geographic diversity. The bill was recently passed by the state Senate, and has been sent the House of Delegates for its deliberation.

Several SGCRWC committee chairs were appointed, a new member campaign will be initiated, the club will again pursue a "Republican of the Year" award, and the club will continue its "School Supplies" program, voter registration drive, and fundraisers.

Rebele and Fundraiser Committee chair Judy Wilt plan to attend the National Federation of Republican Women Convention, slated for this fall in Nashville.

The SGCRWC meets every third Wednesday at 7 p.m. at Mountain Glade Adult Day Care Center. Refreshments are served. Visitors and new members are welcome. For more information persons may call 301-387-6399.

Military Support Meeting Slated, Celebration Set

A military support meeting will be held at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren on March 16 from 6 to 8 p.m. This support meeting is open to all military service personnel and their families. All community volunteers and business leaders are also invited to attend.

Discussion will be on the planning of the homecoming of Unit 253rd, which will be coming home in a few months. This unit consists of local soldiers who have been deployed in the Middle East for 10 months.

Persons interested in becoming part of the group, wishing to participate in the celebration, or make a donation but are unable to attend the meeting may call Debbie Workman at 301-746-8717 or Cathy Menker at 301-334-5906.

GC's "Second Chances For Women" Offers Education, Inspiration, Support

by Jo Donaldson

Two women who never intended to attend college 20 years ago are now helping to plan an event to attract other women to college. "Second Chances for Women," a workshop about educational opportunities for women, will be held at Garrett College on Saturday, March 19, beginning at 8:30 a.m. in the Student Center.

"I was tired of school when I graduated from high school in 1987," said Gina Lewis of Oakland, "so I went to work at the dry cleaners when my mom worked and at different jobs around the community before some instructors at the Western Maryland Consortium encouraged me to go to college."

Lewis is now completing her second year in the Business and Information Technology program and has been inducted into the Phi Theta Kappa honor society. She plans to take the bridge courses and complete her bachelor's degree through the Franklin University distance learning program.

She credits her mother and her husband Ronald for encouraging her to continue her education, plus the people in the admissions office of the college who made her feel welcome. "Coming here to Garrett has been a good experience for me," she stated. "I have enjoyed meeting the educators from South Africa and the students from Estonia and other countries. I have made some good friends here, and I am very glad I did it."

In addition to studying for her academic courses, Lewis works 35 hours each week in the enrollment development office.

MAKING THEIR OWN SECOND CHANCES – "Second Chances for Women," a workshop about educational opportunities for women, will get under way at 8:30 a.m. on Saturday, March 19, in the Student Center at Garrett College. A panel of women college students will share their experiences and encourage other women to try college, and other informative seminars will profile financial aid, scholarships, support services, and academic programs at Garrett, and career choices and job opportunities. A free lunch will be served and free daycare provided. There will also be a drawing for a $500 scholarship and tour of the college. Pictured from the left are GC coordinator of Career Services Judy Carbone, and Second Chances panel presenters Regina Lewis and Deanna Durst. See story.

Another woman who took a round-about route to college is Deanna Durst of Grantsville, wife of Eugene Durst and mother of a 15-year-old daughter. Durst left high school at the age of 17 and earned her GED 20 years later. Following the death of her father she decided to go to college.

She credits the New Horizons program and Barbara Frey for helping her get started at Garrett. Before enrolling as a credit student, she took several non-credit computer classes. She is now completing her second year in the computer technology program and working in the computer lab. She looks forward to graduating in May and is considering entering the Franklin University program to get her bachelor's degree.

Like Lewis, Durst said she is glad that she finally found her way to Garrett College. "I enjoy the people here," she said. "Sometimes younger students don't understand the real world. It's a big thing to be a wife, mother and a student because you have many responsibilities."

Both Lewis and Durst agree that more women should try college, but often think they can't afford it or they're not smart enough. That is why Second Chances for Women has been planned to make other women aware of the educational opportunities, the financial aid, and scholarships. and academic help available to them, noted Judy Carbone, coordinator of career services.

"Statistics show that persons with a bachelor's degree earn on average 80 percent more than those who have only a high school diploma," Carbone stated. "Women in particular can benefit from continuing their education because of the gender inequity in pay. Beyond the financial benefit, women who continue their education find greater employment options and a sense of self-satisfaction."

In addition to hearing the panel of women students share their experiences and encourage other women to try college, participants will hear about financial aid, scholarships, support services, and academic programs. They will also be able to attend workshops about job opportunities and career choices for women. A free lunch will be served and free daycare provided. There will also be a drawing for a $500 scholarship and tour of the college.

Second Chances for Women is being sponsored by the Garrett Branch of the American Association of University Women, the Business and Professional Women's Club, Garrett College, the Women's Civic Club of Oakland, and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. Marilyn Moors, president of AAUW, is serving as chairperson of the event. Persons who will need child care are asked to pre-register by calling Carbone at 301-387-3046.

Rounds Selected For NYLF/Law Leadership Forum

Ashley R. Rounds, Grantsville, was selected to participate in the National Youth Leadership Forum on Law (NYLF/Law) last month in Washington, D.C. Having demonstrated academic achievement and an interest in the legal profession, Rounds joined approximately 350 high school juniors and seniors from across the United States at the Forum on Law.

"Through intensive simulations, Ashley Rounds had the opportunity to exercise the skills used by Supreme Court justices who rule on key issues facing our country today, in addition to serving as the esteemed legal teams that argue on behalf of and against issues," said Donna Snyder, executive director of NYLF. "Because our legal system plays a vital role in our daily lives, the National Youth Leadership Forum on Law offers students the opportunity to learn directly from partners at law firms, criminal defense attorneys, and prosecutors, as well as professors and other experts of the legal profession. This is where the future for many students begins to take shape."

The curriculum for NYLF/Law is based on actual events, which allows its participants to learn from the examples set by attorneys of law and court officials that range from municipal court to the U.S. Supreme Court. The process encourages participants to develop perspective and resolve. Throughout the forum, students examined how court cases often change the legal system.

In the past, NYLF/Law has visited several law firms and area courthouses, including the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, District of Columbia Superior Court, and various county circuit courts. The program has also included visits to some of the nation's most prestigious law schools, including University of Maryland School of Law, Washington College of Law at American University, and Howard University School of Law.

Rounds is the daughter of Lisa Rounds Harvey and Frank Davis, Grantsville. A junior at Northern High School, she is a member of the National Honor Roll and Who's Who, and is an Academic All-American. She is involved with Student Tobacco Elimination Among Minors (STEAM), the mock trial team, volleyball, and yearbook, and serves on the prom committee.

NYLF is a nonprofit, educational organization committed to empowering young people to make well-informed career choices. For additional information, persons may visit www.nylf.org.

SOUTHERN AUTO HELPS HOSPICE – Hospice of Garrett County Inc. recently received a donation from Southern Auto Supply's "Take a Gift, Give a Gift" promotion that was held in December to benefit Hospice. "We want to thank our customers for the support they have received over the past nine years," said Greg Lawson, owner of Southern Auto Supply. "Some customers look forward to helping with this project. It is their way of helping to care for the terminally ill in Garrett County." Above, Lawson presents the check to Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice.

Men Of Faith Set To Hold Conference

The Men of Faith will hold their second annual conference on Saturday, April 2, at Garrett College auditorium from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. The conference's theme is Walking By Faith.

The conference is non-denominational in its doctrine, but evangelical in its intention, said a spokesperson. It is open to all men and male youth, ages 13 and above, who "want to mature spiritually in their Christian walk." The speakers have been selected for their messages of faith and inspiration, not for their church affiliation or doctrinal beliefs, added the spokesperson.

The registration fee of $20 includes a boxed lunch and beverage. Persons may contact Mike Saturday at 301-387-8858 with questions.

On Dean's List At Greensboro

GBI Warns Residents Of Another Scam

The Garrett Bureau of Investigation has discovered information regarding another possible scam in the area. Residents are urged not to participate in a scam being conducted by Fulfillment Services of Bellmore, N.Y.

According to GBI, letters are being sent to Garrett County residents advising that they have won a $12,500 cash giveaway, and in order to claim the money they must send a personal check in the amount of $8.92. Once the check is received, the resident's checking account number becomes accessible. The application also asks about the resident's Visa or MasterCard.

Residents are reminded to never give personal information to offers that seem "too good to be true."

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Board of County Commissioners will conduct a public hearing on March 15, 2005, at 9:00 a.m. in the County Commissioners' meeting room. The Board will review and receive comments on proposals made by the Garrett County Planning Commission to amend the Garrett County Subdivision Ordinance. The amendment proposals are summarized as follows:

1) Add a new Article 12 to the Subdivision Ordinance for Planned Residential Development (PRD) outside of the Deep Creek Watershed. The Article as drafted is similar in nature to the text established for Planned Residential Development in the Deep Creek Watershed Zoning Ordinance. The Article establishes specific eligibility requirements, standards, specification and review procedures for planned developments located out of the zoning area. The Article is intended to provide flexibility in design of development, encourage innovations in residential structures and encourage more efficient use of land.

2) Amend Section 1002G.5 of the Subdivision Ordinance to establish design standards relating to radii and sight distance for private roads based upon AASHTO publications of Geometric Design of Highway and Streets and Geometric Design of Very Low Volume Local Roads (ADT < 400).

3) Amend Section 1002.H of the Subdivision Ordinance to establish design standards relating to Sight Distances at Intersections for all private roads based upon AASHTO publication for Geometric Design of Highway and Streets and Geometric Design of Very Low Volume Local Road (ADT < 400). Also to establish standards for intersections of private roads with public roads based upon County Road or State Highway entrance standards.

4) Amend Section 1002.I.2 of the Subdivision Ordinance to establish appropriate hammerhead turnarounds at the end of any private road serving 10 dwellings or less.

5) Amend Section 1002.I.3 of the Subdivision Ordinance to establish a requirement for any dead end turnaround serving more than 10 dwelling units to have a cul-de-sac with a minimum radius of 25 feet.

Copies of the specific proposals are available upon request from the Office of Planning and Land Development at 301-334-1920.

All interested citizens are urged to attend.

NOTICE TO PUBLIC OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT AND NOTICE OF INTENT TO REQUEST RELEASE OF FUNDS
Town of Grantsville

The purpose of this Notice is to identify two separate but related actions to be taken by the Town of Grantsville.

On or about March 28, 2005, the above named Town of Grantsville will request that the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development release funds under the Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Program to be used for the following project:

Project Title: Grantsville Blighted Property Abatement Project.

Purpose of Project: Purchase, demolish, and remove a blighted and dangerous building located in the town's business district.

Location: 143-145 Main Street, Grantsville, Maryland

Finding of No Significant Impact

Notice is hereby given that the above named municipality has prepared an Environmental Review Record on the project described in this Notice and has determined that said project will have no significant effect on the quality of the human environment. No further environmental review of said project is proposed prior to requesting Release of Funds.

The Finding of No Significant impact is based on the following:

Completion of this activity will produce positive impacts for the residents of Grantsville by removing a dangerous building from the town's commercial district. Asbestos contained within the building will be removed by a licensed contractor and deposited in an approved facility. On site inspection will be provided during the removal effort. No negative, long term environmental issues have been noted by review agencies.

The Environmental Review Record which documents the Environmental Review of this project is available for public examination at the Grantsville Town Hall during normal business hours.

Public Comments on Finding

All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments respecting the environmental impacts of the described project to the Grantsville Town Hall and to the Department of Housing and Community Development. All such comments must be received no later than March 25, 2005. All comments will be considered and the Town of Grantsville will not request the release of funds nor take any action of the project prior to this date.

REQUEST FOR RELEASE OF FUNDS

The Town of Grantsville will undertake the project described above with Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Funds. This Notice also certifies that Gerald E. Beachy, serving in the official capacity of Mayor, consents to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental reviews decision-making, and action; and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that upon its approval, the Town of Grantsville may use the Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Funds and the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

OBJECTIONS TO RELEASE FUNDS

Objections to the release of funds will be accepted by the Department of Housing and Community Development only if it is on one of the following bases: (a) that the certification was not in fact executed by the Certifying Officer; or (b) that the Town of Grantsville Environmental Review Record for the project indicated omission of a required decision, finding or step applicable to the program in the Environmental Review Process; or (c) no opportunity was given to the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation or its Executive Director to review the effect of the project on a property listed on the National Register of Historic Places, or found to be eligible for such listing by the Secretary of the Interior, in accordance with 35 CFR, Part 800 (d) Objections by a Federal Agency. All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments to the Town of Grantsville and to the SCCDBG Program Manager, Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development, 100 Community Place, Crownsville, Maryland 21032-2023. All such comments must be received no later than April 12, 2005.

GARRETT COUNTY

GA2002G014/3 - Lake Shore LLC, c/o Michael Gallatin, 11 Oak Court, Annapolis, MD 21401, has applied to increase an existing water appropriation from an annual average of 9,400 gallons of ground water per day (gpd) and an average of 12,900 gpd in the month of maximum use to an annual average of 20,000 gpd and an average of 33,400 gpd in the month of maximum use. The water will be withdrawn from 99 wells in the Pottsville Formation. The permit increase is requested to supply an additional 52 lots in the Gallatin Woods subdivision. The project is located on the east side of Lake Shore Drive, 0.6 mile south of U.S. Route 219, 1.3 miles northwest of Thayerville, Garrett County, Maryland.

Aquifer characteristics were derived from a hydrogeologic study conducted by Chesapeake Environmental Management Inc. for the Gallatin Woods residential development. Using a transmissivity of 842 gpd/ft and a storativity of 0.0002, a simulated drawdown of 8 feet was determined at the property boundary. Drawdown simulations were modeled by MODFLOW using the maximum pumping rate of the 99-unit subdivision pumping for 90 days with no recharge to the aquifer system. To simulate maximum ground water drawdown for the entire development, six simulation wells were used, each well representing a cluster of wells that will be drilled throughout the development. The use of multiple drawdown points drives a more accurate representation of pumping conditions throughout the development.

PUBLIC NOTICES

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
GARRETT COUNTY
Amendment to the Water and Sewer Master Plan

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing of the board of County Commissioners of Garrett County is scheduled for Tuesday, March 22, 2005, at 11 a.m. in the Garrett County Commissioners' Public Meeting Room, located at the Courthouse, Oakland, Maryland, to consider an Amendment to the Water and Sewer Master Plan.

Amendment to consider is as follows:

A request has been received from the developers of the Glendale Woods Subdivision for the Department of Public Utilities to accept the operation and maintenance of public water and sewer service to the Glendale Woods Subdivision located southeast of the Glendale Road, .7 mile northeast of U.S. Route 219, being the same property as referenced by Tax Map 58, Parcel 693. The developers of Glendale Woods intend for this parcel to be a residential development. The plat of survey for this subdivision includes 6 residential building sites.

The proposed water system will consist of two wells. The raw water will be piped to a control building for treatment and distribution to the lots within the subdivision. The water will be tested to determine potable treatment requirements. Based on the surrounding geology and other groundwater sources in the area, it is anticipated that the treatment will be only chlorination.

Garrett County has prepared a draft operations and maintenance contract to provide to the developers which will be executed once the design and construction of the system are complete. The Department of Public Utilities intends to operate and maintain the system utilizing licensed water plant and distribution system operators and maintenance technicians.

Interested persons will be heard at the public hearing on March 22, 2005, to determine if the amendment to the Water and Sewer Master Plan are necessary for the public health, safety, and welfare of the residents of the current or proposed service areas and if the projects are feasible financially from an engineering standpoint.

MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT
WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION
NOTICE OF TENTATIVE DETERMINATION
Garrett County
Application for State Discharge Permit 03-DP-1422, NPDES Permit MD0055182:

Mettiki Coal Corporation, 293 Table Rock Rd., Oakland, MD 21550 submitted an application for renewal of a permit to discharge an average of 11.5 million gallons per day of waste water that includes acid mine drainage, storm water, and treated sewage, from an underground coal mine, located at 293 Table Rock Rd., Oakland, MD to the North and South forks of Sand Run, Chestnut Ridge Run, and Dutch Run (all use III-P waters) and 1.5 million gallons per day of metallic hydroxide sludges and alkaline coal combustion byproducts to ground waters of the State.

The Department proposes to renew the permit with limits for total suspended solids (30 mg/l average and 45 mg/l maximum), settleable solids (0.5 ml/l maximum), total iron (1.0 mg/l average and 2.5 mg/l maximum at Outfall 002, and 3.0 mg/l average and 6.0 mg/l maximum at other outfalls), total manganese (2.0 mg/l average, 4.0 mg/l maximum), oil & grease (20 mg/l average and 20 mg/l maximum), chloride (230 mg/l average and 860 mg/l maximum), settleable solids (0.5 ml/l maximum), biochemical oxygen demand (30 mg/l average and 45 mg/l maximum), fecal coliform (200 MPN/100 ml average and 400 MPN/100 ml/maximum), E. coli (126 MPN/100 ml average) and pH range (6.0 to 9.0). The permit also requires best management practices and a storm water pollution prevention plan.

A public hearing on the tentative determination will be scheduled if a written request is received by March 23, 2005. The request should be sent to the Maryland Department of the Environment, Water Management Administration, 1800 Washington Blvd,, Baltimore, Maryland 21230-1708, Attn.: Edwal Stone, and must include the name, address, and telephone number (home and work) of the person making the request, the name of any other party whom the person making the request may represent, and the name of the facility and permit number. Failure to request a hearing by March 23, 2005 will constitute a waiver of the right to a public hearing on the tentative determination. Written comments concerning the tentative determination will be considered in the preparation of a final determination if submitted to the Department, to the attention of Mr. Stone at the above address, on or before April 4, 2005. Any hearing-impaired person who requests a hearing may also request an interpreter at the hearing by contacting Mr. Stone at 410-537-3323 or 1-800-633-6101 by written request to the above address at least ten working days prior to the scheduled hearing date.

Information supporting the tentative determination, including the draft permit and fact sheet, may be reviewed by contacting Mr. Stone at the above telephone number to make an appointment or by written request to Mr. Stone at the above address. Copies of documents may be obtained at a cost of $0.32 per page.

INVITATION FOR BIDS

Separate and sealed Bids will be received by the Town of Grantsville, Grantsville Town Office, 171 Hill Street, P.O. Box 296, Grantsville, MD 21536, until 10:00 a.m. (EST) prevailing time on Thursday, March 31, 2005, for the following Contract:

CONTRACT 3495-G-01
SUMMERS AUTO PARTS BUILDING DEMOLITION

Work consists of, but not limited to, the demolition of 1½ story timber and masonry building and paved parking lot, including the abatement of hazardous materials consisting of asbestos and PCBs at 143-145 Main Street in the Town of Grantsville, Garrett County, Maryland. Work also entails the backfill and stabilization of the site upon removal of the building.

Contract Documents, including Drawings and Technical Specifications, may be reviewed by interested Bidders at the office of The EADS Group Inc., 450 Aberdeen Drive, Somerset, PA 15501, or at the office of the Town of Grantsville, Grantsville Town Office, 171 Hill Street, Grantsville, MD 21536. Copies of the Contract Documents may be obtained by a NON-REFUNDABLE deposit of Twenty-Five Dollars ($25.00), which price includes 5% Pennsylvania Sales Tax, with the EADS Group Inc. for each set of documents so obtained. Addenda, if any, will be issued to only those persons whose names and addresses are on record with the Engineer as having obtained the Contract Documents.

Bid Bond in an amount equal to 10% of the Total Bid shall be submitted with each Bid. A certified check, payable to the Town of Grantsville, will be acceptable.

A pre-bid meeting has been scheduled on March 16, 2005, at 1:00 p.m. at the project site. Prospective bidders are encouraged to attend to examine the extent of the work and take into account the conditions affecting the prosecution of the work and operational requirements.

This project is funded in part by Federal funds through the Community Development Block Grant Program. Attention is called to the fact that not less than the minimum salaries and wages as set forth in the Davis-Bacon Act, and as described within the Contract Documents, must be paid on this project; that the Contractor must ensure that employees and applicants for employment are not discriminated against because of their race, age, color, religion, sex, national origin, or handicap; that a mandatory ratio of apprentices and trainees to journeymen is required in each craft and the Contractor (and any Subcontractors) is obliged to make a "diligent effort" to achieve these ratios; and that to the greatest extent feasible, opportunities for training and employment be given lower income persons of the project area and must to the greatest extent possible utilize project area businesses located in or owned in substantial part by project area residents.

In addition to the Equal Employment requirements of Executive Order 11246, the Contractor must also establish a 6.9% goal for female participation and a 6.3% goal for minority participation in his/her aggregate on-site construction workforce. The Bidder/Offerer must submit documentary evidences of Section 3 business concerns who have been contracted and to whom commitments have been made. Documentation of such solicitations and commitments shall be submitted concurrently with the Bid.

All Bidders are hereby notified that minority/women businesses will be afforded full opportunity to submit Bids in response to this notice and will not be subjected to discrimination on the basis of race, color, sex, or national origin in consideration for an award. The Contract sets forth a 5% goal for minority business participation and 3% goal for women business participation and specific requirements for meeting that goal in the procurement of subcontractors, material suppliers or services by the Contractor in accordance with Executive Order 11625 and 12138.

Bids shall be submitted on forms prescribed and Bids may be held for a period not to exceed sixty (60) days from the date of bid opening for the purpose of reviewing the Bids and investigating the qualifications of Bidders, prior to awarding the Contract. No Bidder may withdraw his/her Bid after the hour set for opening thereof, or before award of Contract, unless said award is delayed for a period of more than sixty (60) days.

The Owner reserves the right to reject any or all Bids, or to waive any informalities in the bidding.

The successful Bidder will be required to furnish satisfactory Performance Bond and a Labor and Materialmen's Bond before awarding the Contract.

The successful Bidder will be required to fully complete all work within sixty (60) consecutive calendar days from, and including, the date indicated by the Town of Grantsville in their written Notice to Proceed.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Mtn. Lake Park Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing on March 30, 2005, at 6:00 p.m. in the Mtn. Lake Park Town Hall. The Board will review an application made a Mr. David Stull on behalf of Mighty Auto Parts (Docket 2005-VR-1) for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the rear yard setback requirements for the expansion of the warehouse on the Mighty Auto Parts property located at 515 D Street in a C-Commercial zone. Specifically, Mr. Stull proposes to build an addition to the existing warehouse that would extend to within 11 feet of the rear property line instead of the required 20 feet. Interested citizens are welcome to attend.

SHERIFF'S SALE
OF VALUABLE IMPROVED PROPERTY KNOWN AS 100 GLEN MEADOW ROAD, SWANTON, MD 21561

Pursuant to a Writ of Execution entered in Manufacturers and Traders Trust Company v. Yoders Inc., et al. Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, Case No. 11-C-04-008437 CJ, the Sheriff for Garrett County, Maryland, shall offer for sale at the rotunda of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland on APRIL 4, 2005, AT 1:15 P.M.

All the real property an the improvements thereon described in the deed from George W. Terrant and Caroll A. Terrant, husband and wife, to Ronald J. Gulledge and Jacqueline Gulledge, husband and wife, dated November 15, 1999, and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, in Liber 790, folio 491, which real property and improvements are more commonly known as 100 Glen Meadow Road, Swanton, Maryland.

TERMS OF SALE: A cash deposit or certified check of $15,000.00 shall be paid at the time and place of sale, balance in cash at settlement which shall be fifteen (15) days after final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, time being of the essence, with interest on said balance at the rate of 10% per annum from date of sale to date of settlement. Failure of the purchaser to settle as set forth herein will result in resale of the property at the purchaser's risk and expense and/or forfeiture of the deposit at the election of the Assignee, who reserves all legal and equitable remedies available to him. The defaulting purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds or profits resulting from any resale of the property. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, including, but not limited to, exceptions to this sale, bankruptcy filings of interested parties, court administration of the foreclosure or unknown title defects, there shall be no abatement of interest. The sale is subject to post-sale confirmation that the borrower did not file for protection under the U.S. Bankruptcy Code prior to the sale. In such event, this sale shall be null and void, and the Purchaser's sole remedy, in law or equity, shall be the return of his deposit without interest.

This sale is made subject to the mortgage from Ronald J. Gulledge and Jacqueline Gulledge to Wells Fargo Financial Leasing Inc. in the original principal amount of $275,800.52 dated June 6, 2003, and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, in Liber 891, folio 143.

Taxes, water, rent, and all other municipal liens and charges to be paid by purchaser without proration. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis shall be paid by purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes, document preparation and title insurance shall be borne by purchaser. The Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. The property and the improvements thereon are being sold in an "as is" condition and subject to prior conveyances, restrictions, liens and agreements of record affecting the same, if any. Neither the Sheriff, the Plaintiff, nor their respective agents, successors or assigns make any warranty or representation, either express or implied, with respect to the property.

The Sheriff reserves the unqualified right to reject any and all offers.

Paul R. Sanders Jr., Sheriff for Garrett County, Maryland

Note: Inquiries regarding the foregoing should be directed to Michael Scott Cohen, Esquire, at 213 Washington Street, Cumberland, MD 21502, 301-724-5200.

MeadWestvaco Announces New Company Name

MeadWestvaco Papers Group has unveiled "NewPage" as its soon-to-be new company name, which will become official upon the closing of the January sale between MeadWestvaco and a new company (unnamed) controlled by Cerberus Capital Management L.P., a New York-based investment firm. The sale closure is expected to be completed in the second quarter of 2005.

"The symbolism behind the NewPage name is fairly straightforward," said vice president of Luke Operations Rick Watro. "The 'New' refers to all that is new in launching the new company: a new beginning, a new attitude, a new commitment to the business, new opportunities, and new solutions for the needs of customers. 'Page' represents the fact that paper will be the core business, and that NewPage will operate as a focused and independent corporation – solely dedicated to bringing the best in coated and carbonless papers to its customers."

LOCAL REAL ESTATE OFFICES HELP TSUNAMI VICTIMS – Local real estate offices joined forces with the National Association of Realtors in its partnership with Habitat for Humanity to build "Realtor Villages" in the hard-hit countries of India, Thailand, Sri Lanka, and the Sumatra area of Indonesia. Over $1,000 was donated which will build one permanent home for a homeless family. John Macy, president of the Garrett County Board of Realtors, is pictured above accepting donations from Karen Myers representing Deep Creek Mountain Resort and Kevin Liller representing Railey Realty. Jerry Humberson representing United Country Mountain Properties also participated but could not be available for the photo.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

I'm sitting in my house looking out the window at what seems to be a complete winter whiteout. The wind sounds like a freight train, and my thoughts slowly turn into a prayer of sorts for all the animals that must endure the brunt of Mother Nature.

This beautiful winter wonderland called Garrett County must have been a hard life for the early settlers. If they weren't organized and tough, they certainly would have perished. My heart seems to slow down in these cold days, a form of hibernation waiting to wake up to May or June when my ancestors would begin to plow Bittinger's fertile soil, which is the result of being between two ridges and where streams deposited the richest top soil in the world. Our land in the distant past was filled with abundant deer herds, buffalo, and mountain lions, making it almost as wild as Africa. Our farm is bordered by wetlands that, even in the dead of winter, produce unusual colors through the seemingly dead sticks, such as tans, cream, gold, rust, and even purple. This wind has even made unusual patterns in the snow as though some clever sculptor were hard at work, bringing to mind that the best artist is Mother Nature.

My neighbor Sheila has not seen any deer munching on her shrubs, and like many of the local residents, she was pretty much snowbound. As soon as you had your driveway plowed, the wind would fight back, closing it again. Her brother Denny braved the elements and religiously plowed the driveway again and again.

It is amazing how the rest of the world in this modern age doesn't realize how cold this part of Maryland gets. In fact, there are parts of Maryland where people are completely naive about Garrett County winters, as though winter is the "best-kept secret."

Remember, what doesn't kill you will only make you stronger. That is why Ida Reckner will reach 100 years old on this Palm Sunday. I visualize her as a young girl wading through snow drifts to milk cows. I heard from my grandmother how lucky they felt when they got a pump on their front porch, as she was always afraid of her children falling into the spring when getting water. Now the spring is hardly noticeable.

My nephews' band is called "White Noise." They are actually good musicians in this modern world, and also have an appropriate name for our thundering winters.

I have strange visitors in my house at this time, as a crop of wasps mysteriously appeared and were just as shocked as I was when they saw the snow.

It was regrettable that the Bittinger 4-H Club had to cancel Friday's buckwheat dinner, but there was another important engagement and that was the playoff basketball game. However, they have rescheduled the dinner for March 18 from 4:30 to 7 p.m.

My heart goes out to Southern and Northern high schools, who both played their hearts out in the playoffs and should be extremely proud of the way they represented Garrett County. We are very proud of them. My heart was pounding as I was listening to the game between Northern and Hancock, as it went into overtime, and I am so proud of my nephew, Matt Bass, who fought extremely hard to win with the rest of the team.

It was just exactly 10 years also when my life was too full and I thought, what a relief to have one day with not much to do. My daily life then was like this blizzard, then suddenly stopped and the silence since makes it harder to bear the noisy fast pace.

Many people ask me if I ever get writer's block. Actually no, but it does take a whole lot of thinking, which I would rather not do these days. Sometimes when I think too much about a subject it brings tears to my eyes or I wish I could hide under a blanket. But what if I miss something or fail to do something I should do? The job of being a mother is a big job the first dozen years of her children's lives. Then suddenly they don't need you.

I was a little disappointed this ugly Tuesday morning that school was open, even though when the kids are here they like to watch different shows than what I am used to watching.

My mother took off Saturday morning for Winchester to visit her friend Betty. She also visited her cousin Lucille Patton Ritter on Monday at her home on Braddock Road in LaVale. Lucille is doing pretty well following her extensive surgery.

Investigators Of The Paranormal To Speak At GC

Nancy and Ron Stallings, founders and past directors of the Maryland Committee for Psychical Research, will present a program titled "A True Haunting" from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Thursday, April 14, at the McHenry Campus of Garrett College.

The Stallingses are investigators who have spent years in the study of psychic phenomena, spirit photography, and the recording of paranormal voices in and around Maryland. Nancy is the author of the book Show Me One Soul: A True Haunting, which describes the experiences of her family as they lived in a haunted house in Baltimore. She and her husband, described as two logical people, will outline the course of action they took in trying to find answers for the odd occurrences experienced in their "handyman's special" on Evergreen Street.

For more information or to register, persons may contact Kista Wilt at 301-387-3069 or via e-mail at kwilt@garrettcollege.edu.

The class is an offering of the Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett College.

Landscaping Class For Beginners Set At Garrett College

"Choosing the Right Plants for Your Landscape," a four-session course, will be offered from 6 to 8:30 p.m. on four Monday evenings, March 21 to April 11, in McHenry.

This new course is being offered for beginning gardeners who want to increase their knowledge of identifying and selecting trees, shrubs, and perennials. Students will also discuss the appropriate placement of various landscaping materials. The instructor for this course is Joby Tasker, a local landscape designer who holds a degree in landscape architecture.

For further information or to register, persons may call the Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett College at 301-387-3069 or e-mail jyoder@garrettcollege.edu.

Court Rules In Favor Of MLP On Annexation

What has become somewhat of a feud between the governing bodies of Mountain Lake Park and Oakland over a property annexation issue was settled this week when Judge James Sherbin of Garrett County Circuit Court ruled in favor of the mayor and town council of Mtn. Lake Park.

The controversy began some two years ago when both towns became involved in the process of attempting to annex similar property, including the ground on which Southern High School and Dennett Road Elementary School are located. Mountain Lake Park's petition also included adjacent acreage in the Weber Road/Yough Glades area (including Yough Glades Elementary School), as well as property along Oakland Drive and along Rt. 135.

The initial hearing of the matter was held July 26, 2004, when the court found that the town of Oakland had not complied with the requirements of Article 23A, Section 19, of the Annotated Code. It required that the town publish four advertisements of a public hearing in a local newspaper (The Republican), with the hearing to be held "not less than 15 days" following the fourth and final advertisement, which appeared in the April 8, 2004, issue of The Republican.

However, Oakland held the hearing on April 23, which was one day less the required 15 days after the publication of the last advertisement.

"When the statute reads 'not less than 15 days from the date of the last publication,' it means not less than 15 full days from the last publication," Judge Sherbin wrote in his opinion, "... and 15 days is not 14½ days."

Meanwhile, the town of Mtn. Lake Park had enacted its petition to annex the same — and additional — property, and a petition for referendum was filed the very next day, which, according to Sherbin's opinion, was timely filed and published conspicuously. The referendum was held and the annexation was en-

NOW, THAT'S A SNOWMAN! Actually, it's more of a snow . . . mouse . . . clown, maybe? No matter what sort of creature it is, it certainly is an impressive snow sculpture, reaching at least 10 feet high at the peak of the hat. It is located along Steyer Mine Road south of Oakland, and was built by Terry Michaels and Mark Riley, with help from Terry's son Jeffrey. Give Garrett Countians a March snow storm, and they'll turn it into art. Fantastic job, guys! The weather will probably not let the sculpture stay up very long, as the temperatures are expected to rise somewhat over the next week. Springtime approaches, ever so slowly. Photo by John McEwen.

Fed. Highway Bill Passes House; Bypass Included

The federal Highway Funding Authorization Bill passed by the U.S. House of Representatives last week includes a $1 million allocation toward the proposed Oakland bypass. Passed by a 417-9 vote, the "Transportation Equity Act: A Legacy for Users" (HR-3) will provide $284 billion in federal highway transit and road safety funding through 2009.

The Oakland bypass would reroute Route 219 along the town's eastern edge to meet Rt. 135 at the Ninth Street traffic signal. Although the right of way will encompass enough land to provide for a four-lane highway, the bypass is being planned as a two-lane, limited access roadway, tentatively slated to include at-grade intersections at Memorial Drive and Dennett Road.

"We were hoping the bill would go through to provide the funds necessary for the preliminary engineering and surveying for the bypass; we believe the surveying is going to be done this

Industrial Park Project Awarded $100,000 Grant

The Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) has approved a $100,000 grant to the Garrett County commissioners. The federal funds, along with $40,000 from county sources, will be used to complete Phase II of a construction project for an access road to the newly developed Keyser's Ridge Industrial Park.

The ARC also approved more than $400,000 in August of 2004 for Phase I construction of the new road.

Phase II will extend the access road from U.S. Route 40 to the American Woodmark property line and other currently undeveloped sites at the park.

Jim Hinebaugh, director of Garrett County Department of Economic Development, said recently that American Woodmark may begin constructing its 150,000-square-foot dimension mill next month. The $25 million project is expected to create about 250 jobs.

At the mill, green lumber will be rough cut, kiln dried,

Lawmakers Say Malpractice Reform Process Hampered By Lack Of Facts

by Ryan Basen
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — With a House committee expected to vote on several medical malpractice bills today, lawmakers are complaining they lack the facts they need to make informed decisions.

Accusations from concerned parties are plentiful, but without enough evidence, key lawmakers doubt any substantial malpractice reform will be enacted during the final month of the legislative session.

"It's almost a certainty," said Montgomery County Democrat Luiz Simmons, chairman of a House malpractice subcommittee created last week. "We're constantly legislating in the dark. . . .

"The problem is many people put their ideology before the facts," Simmons said. "You can ask for information and they give you information that is not what you asked for."

Simmons' subcommittee will try to dig up the details lawmakers need to properly analyze the situation. They should not push for reform now, he said, because there may no longer be a malpractice crisis in Maryland.

After doctors threatened to close practices over rising insurance costs, lawmakers created a fund to cap doctors' malpractice premium increases by overriding a veto by Gov. Robert Ehrlich in January. The legislators also have endorsed a technical bill to make it easier for the Maryland Insurance Administration to implement the new law.

Many concerned parties want more malpractice reform, but key lawmakers have not heard enough evidence to favor any.

When the House Judiciary Committee heard nearly two dozen malpractice bills Tuesday, witnesses provided plenty of anecdotes and charges, but few facts.

Don Hogan, Ehrlich's deputy legislative officer, said the governor's plan, which caps pain-and-suffering damage awards, is needed because plaintiffs in

Record To Remain Open On Proposed PRD Amendments

The Garrett County commissioners will hold the record open on five proposed amendments to the county's Subdivision Ordinance for Planned Residential Development (PRD) until March 29. A public hearing was held this week on the proposals in the commissioners' meeting room.

The first proposed amendment would add a new article for developments outside the zoned Deep Creek Watershed. The article is similar to the text established for PRD in the Deep Creek Watershed Zoning Ordinance. It establishes specific eligibility requirements, standards, specifications, and review procedures.

"This article is intended to provide flexibility in design of development, encourage innovations in residential structures and encourage more efficient use of land," said John Nelson, director of Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Development.

The second amendment of the subdivision ordinance would establish design standards relating to radii and sight distance for all private roads based upon American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials (AASHTO) publications. One section of the amendment would pertain to subdivisions with 40 or more dwellings. Another section sets standards for subdivisions with 39 or fewer homes.

The third proposal would establish design standards for site distances at intersections on private roads, based on AASHTO recommendations. It would also establish standards for intersections of private roads with public roads, based upon county road or state highway entrance standards.

The fourth proposal would establish appropriate

House Committee Scales Back State Budget, Cuts Property Tax

by Mike Torralba
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — A House committee performed surgery Wednesday on Gov. Robert Ehrlich's budget proposal, cutting some of his legislative plans and slicing the property tax increase he imposed in his first year in office.

The committee cut $103 million from the $12.2 billion general fund. All told, the surgery was minor — barely 1 percent of the account paying for public schools, health, public safety, human resources, and other day-to-day activities. But that sliver of cash is what the General Assembly and the governor will spend the remaining weeks of the legislative session haggling over, budget experts said.

Under the revised budget, the state property tax rate would fall by a nickel to 8 cents per $100 dollars of assessed value. Ehrlich increased the rate to balance the budget two years ago. The cut is made affordable mostly by rising property assessments, said Warren Deschenaux, policy analysis director for the nonpartisan Department of Legislative Services.

Most of the committee's Republicans opposed cutting the property tax rate. Delegate Adelaide C. Eckardt, R-Dorchester, said she worried that near-record oil prices could put a damper on the economy and leave state coffers wanting.

Some of Ehrlich's legislative proposals received cuts or were reshaped: $4 million in cuts to the $6 million appropriation the governor wanted for tax credits to lure movie studios to film in Maryland; and restoration of $350,000 of $375,000 cut by Ehrlich from Baltimore's lead-poisoning prevention program.

The governor's Office for Children, Youth, and Families was gutted.

Ehrlich decried such moves as "shenanigans" at Wednesday's meeting of the Board of Public Works.

The committee amended the budget to close the $38 million gap in health benefits for employees and retirees of state government, but scaled back the governor's cost-of-living raise for state workers.

Some 400 state positions will be eliminated, mostly by way of the governor's budget. About 150 of the positions to be cut are currently filled.

"All the cuts were tough to make," said House Speaker Michael Busch, D-Anne Arundel. The committee's Republicans disagreed with many of the amendments passed by the Democratic majority.

"This budget pretty much has micromanaged the governor," Eckardt said. "This is governing through the budget."

Despite the cuts, the revamped budget proposal does little to address the fact that the state is spending money faster than it is earn-

Health Dept. Notes First Rabies Case

Environmental Health Services of the Garrett County Health Department has reported the first laboratory confirmed case of rabies for 2005 in Garrett County. There was no human exposure from the infected animal.

The incident occurred Thursday, March 10, when a raccoon fought with a dog in Mtn. Lake Park. The raccoon was chased up a tree after the encounter, and shot and killed by Department of Natural Resources personnel.

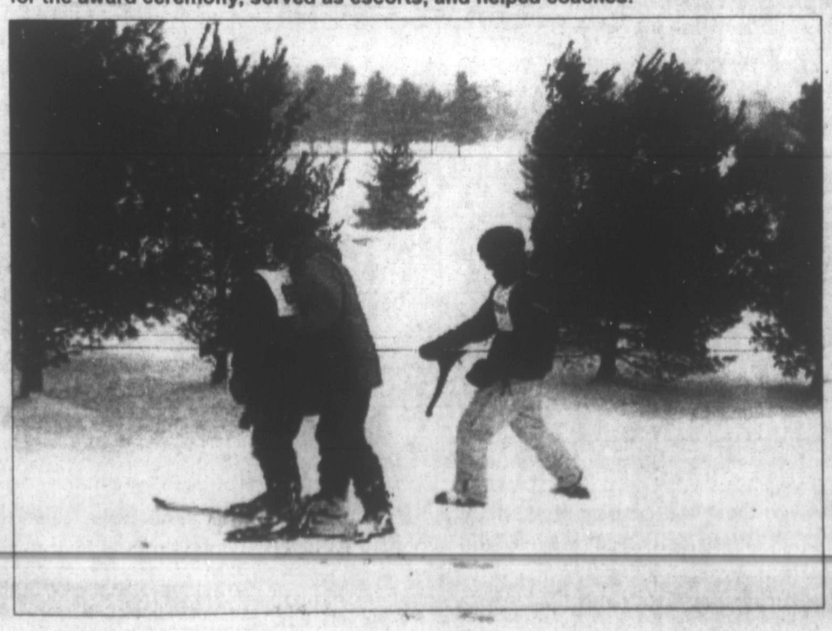
The raccoon was sent to the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene Rabies Laboratory in Baltimore and was confirmed to have rabies on Tuesday. The dog involved in the encounter was currently vaccinated against rabies and received a booster shot after the encounter. The dog will be closely observed for the next 45 days.

The public is reminded to avoid contact with pets for two hours after an incident with a wild animal. It is also important not to handle either the pet or the wild animal unless absolutely necessary and protective gloves are available.

Pet owners are urged to verify that their pets, 3 months and older, are vaccinated against the rabies virus. The annual series of Health Department sponsored rabies clinics are tentatively scheduled to begin in early May.

Persons with questions regarding rabies may call Environmental Health Services at either 301-334-7760 or 301-895-3111 for information.

HELPING OUT THE OLYMPIANS – Even though schools were closed because of snow, many students from both area middle and high schools headed to the Wisp to give a helping hand to the Special Olympics. Northern Middle School students had to fill out an application and score well on the MSA test. Students at Southern Middle were selected by their teachers for showing maturity and adaptability. They also had to meet an academic level to qualify. Above, are Stephanie Law (NHS) and Charlie Anderson (SHS) at the top of Squirrel Cage keeping time and names for the downhill slalom. Adult volunteer Judy Pittman has her back turned to the wind. Below, NHS student Zach Trautwein helps a Special Olympian participant and coach with the rope tow. Students also helped prepare the medals for the award ceremony, served as escorts, and helped coaches.



Fire Investigation Continues; Public Input Requested

Deputy state fire marshals are continuing their probe to determine the cause of an early morning blaze on January 25 that heavily damaged a building at Sisler Lumber Inc., Mtn. Lake Park. The 2:25 a.m. fire caused an estimated $3,000,000 in damage to the wood-frame, metal-clad building, located in the 1700 block of Maryland Highway.

Investigators have identified a second floor area as the likely point of origin of the fire, but the exact cause has not been determined. No potential cause, including arson, has been ruled out, so investigators are encouraging anyone who may have been in the area at the time of the fire or persons who may have information regarding the fire to contact the Office of the State Fire Marshal at 800-492-7529.

"LITTLE MUSHERS" AT REL – Young readers from the Kids' Book Club are shown gathered around Kim Trickett, owner of Yellow Snow Dog Sled Adventures, and her huskies at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland recently. The children had read Woodsong, the autobiography of dogsledder Gary Paulsen, and Trickett treated them to an equipment demonstration and a chance to pet her dogs. She showed them the harnesses, gang line, first aid kit, dog booties, and a Sprint sled. Engaging the children in a discussion about Alaska's Iditarod, Trickett asked, "What might I need with me on this race? How are you going to eat? What can you give your dogs to keep them warm?" When the children eagerly responded, she told them, "Now you are thinking like little mushers!" Shown from the left are, first row: Isaiah Spaid and Lexie Trickett with the dogs Chester, Nikita, and WeeWilly. Second row: Rachel Huxford, Leon Dubansky, Katie Petersheim, Leah Ringer, Alicia Harpole, and Santanna Howdyshell. Third row: Carl Ringer, T.J. Meadows, Kim Trickett, and Grace Dubansky. GC Commission Inducts Three Local Women Into Hall Of Fame

SUSAN ATHEY-OXFORD

LINDA L. FLEMING

The Garrett County Commission for Women held its 11th annual Women's Hall of Fame brunch last Saturday at the Will O the Wisp. The 2005 inductees chosen by an independent selection committee were Cleda Baker, Susan Athey-Oxford, and Linda Fleming.

The Garrett County commissioners and Delegate George Edwards recognized the honorees for their contributions to the county. Each inductee received resolutions from the State Senate, the House of Delegates, and the Board of County Commissioners, saluting them for the leadership each provides on important issues facing women and families.

After "Women's Voices" – the keynote presentation provided by N. Sharon Leatherman, chair of the Maryland Legislative Agenda for Women – Beverly Beard, vice chair of the Garrett County Women's Commission, introduced this year's inductees.

Baker is a lifelong resident of Garrett County and has been actively involved in the political doings in the county for many years. She is especially appreciated for her honesty and dedication, noted a commission spokesperson.

An active member of the Northern Garrett County Republican Women's Club, she has served as its president numerous times, representing both the northern and southern clubs of Garrett County at many state meetings. She was named Republican Woman of the Year in 1985. She also served as a Garrett County election judge, chief judge, and machine judge.

Baker was an active member in the Garrett County Homemakers Club, going so far as to complete a Rural Women's Short Course at the University of Maryland in food preparation, flower arranging, gardening, art, and other homemaker subjects.

She is described as a "tireless volunteer," having helped during weather-related emergencies and catastrophes such as major winter storms in 1966 and 1974 and a plane crash in 1964, preparing and serving meals for those in need. Baker has also cooked and served many dinners for the Farm Bureau, Grantsville Rotary, and Lions Clubs.

"Cleda has been an inspiration for a better community and an example of what a woman can achieve," said the spokesperson.

Athey-Oxford is a 30-year resident who comes from a family with a more than 200-year history in Garrett County.

"A tireless leader," said the spokesperson, "she has and will continue to have a lasting influence in Garrett County through the many organizations she has served and founded."

Athey-Oxford is a founding member of the Garrett County United Way, Big Brothers Big Sisters, Garrett County Teen Pregnancy Coalition, and Garrett's Promise. She is also a charter member of the Garrett County Commission for Women, where she helped found the Women's Hall of Fame, and the Garrett County Domestic Violence Shelter. She has also served as coordinator for Equal Pay Day.

She has served on numerous boards, including the presidency, state legislative chair, and public policy chair for groups such as the League of Women Voters of Garrett County, American Association of University Women, Business and Professional Women of Garrett County, and the American Cancer Society.

In addition to the many hours she spends as president/CEO of the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families Inc., Athey-Oxford donates more than 300 hours a year to various causes and organizations.

Besides completing a dual master's degree in management/business administration, she is active in a statewide effort to promote universal health care and other social justice issues.

"She is truly an inspiration for all women in Garrett County," said the spokesperson.

Fleming is a 53-year resident of Garrett County and is described as a "beloved educator."

"She uses her gifts to provide education and spiritual growth for young and old alike," the spokesperson said.

Additionally, Fleming is a Christian singer and songwriter who serves her church, Otterbein United Methodist, in many capacities, and shares her music at other churches and nursing homes.

As an educator, she has impacted generations of students at Dennett Road Elementary School, where she taught for 15 years, and Swan Meadow, where she served as principal for 10 years before retiring. While at Swan Meadow, Fleming instituted many programs that live on, including a small animal sanctuary.

While principal, she started a GED program at Swan Meadow which has enabled 15 people to get their GEDs. Since her retirement in June 2004, she has been the teacher of that program.

"She models high moral standards and character for all and is an outstanding role model for young women in Garrett County," said the spokesperson.

The Garrett County Commission for Women's mission is to promote a positive image of women, promote awareness of issues affecting women, and facilitate the dissemination of information affecting women that will assist them in attaining the best possible quality of life.

In addition to Beard, the other current commission members are chair Peggy Nelson, treasurer Janna Frazee, secretary Mary Beckman, and Cathy Ashby, Debbie Bishop, Barbara Hornyak, Sharon Teets, and Beverly Williams.

Police Charge Driver With Giving False Information

Numerous charges including giving false information were filed against an Oakland woman after her vehicle was stopped for speeding on Jasper Riley Road Monday evening, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Rhoda Lee Boldman, 28, gave a false name when police stopped her vehicle, and she failed to perform field sobriety tests to the deputy's satisfaction.

Boldman was charged with driving under the influence (DUI), DUI per se, driving while impaired, operating an unregistered vehicle, driving an uninsured vehicle, giving a false statement to a police officer, and exceeding the posted speed limit.

She was transported to the Garrett County Detention Center and is awaiting a bond hearing.

Pa. Men Jailed For Drugs After Speeding Stop

A traffic stop of a speeding car in Friendsville last Thursday evening, March 10, led to drug charges being filed against two Pennsylvania men by the Maryland State Police.

Mark A. Criswell, 37, Smithfield, was stopped at 5:04 p.m. on Interstate 68 near Route 42. As the trooper spoke with Criswell, he detected an odor of suspected burnt marijuana coming from the 1997 Pontiac Bonneville. A search of the vehicle revealed numerous burned suspected marijuana cigarettes in the car's ash tray, and a suspected marijuana cigarette located elsewhere inside the vehicle.

A search of the front seat passenger, Michael J. Norris, 39, Uniontown, revealed suspected marijuana, suspected marijuana cigarettes, and CDS marijuana paraphernalia.

Both Criswell and Norris were charged with possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, and Criswell was charged with speeding and driving without a license. Norris was released from the Garrett County Detention Center after he posted a $5,000 bond set by a District Court commissioner. Criswell was released under unspecified circumstances without being booked at the jail.

ACCIDENT NAMES VOLUNTEER ORGANIZATIONS OF THE YEAR – Accident's mayor and town council recently named the Accident Cultural and Historical Society and Flowery Vale Garden Society's Drane House Garden Committee their volunteer organizations of the year for their endeavors at the historic Drane House. Last year, the historical society began operating a small museum with regular hours at the Drane House, offering a variety of programs that changed every month, including special events for elementary students. Local teachers also developed curriculum for their classrooms. The garden society committee created a museum garden on the property. "The Friends of the Drane House" was also established for support and community involvement. Pictured accepting the award from Mayor Richard Carlson are some of the groups' members. From left to right are Bob Calvert, Beth Calvert, Sherry Georg (director of FVGS), Susan Keller (vice director of ACHS), Carlson, and Clark Kolb. "This award belongs to more than just the members of these two organizations," said Georg and Becky Aiken, ACHS director. "It would be impossible to name all the people who made this a successful year for us. This award also belongs to everyone who gave us encouragement and those members of the community who donated everything from dirt to cookies." Those specifically mentioned, however, include the Woodmen of the World for a flag pole; Garrett County educators for bringing the History Wagon to the county; Arlene Georg for sewing costumes; the Accident mayor, town council, and secretary Ruth Ann Hahn; Garrett County Chamber of Commerce; and The Republican for publishing "What's Happening at the Drane House" in the newspaper. "The number of comments, phone calls, visitors to the Drane House, and correspondence in response to the articles was overwhelming," Georg and Aiken said. "We heard from people as far away as Florida and Missouri who told us they enjoyed reading about the Drane House and hearing about our activities."

The Family of

A year has come and gone,
the time has flown by so fast.
Closing our eyes we live once again the loss of a wife, mother, daughter, sister and friend.
We remember the good times and the memories.
We share the tears we still shed
because you are not there.
As God holds you safe in his arms above,
Know that down here you're missed, cherished and loved.

Forever loved and missed,

SERVING YOU FOR OVER 14 YEARS!

Needed: Warm Bodies...

When it comes to generosity, at least in monetary terms, Garrett County folks rank well above average. Despite the fact that we live in an "economically depressed" area, most of our citizens don't hesitate to donate money to worthy causes — local, state, national, and even international causes — as was recently demonstrated following the tsunami disaster half a world away. The same can most likely be said of people in many communities across the country.

However, when it comes to sharing our time and ourselves, we are considerably more stingy, and a number of local organizations and programs are beginning to suffer because of it. While most people barely hesitate to reach into their pockets and give when the hat is passed, far fewer are willing to become one of the volunteers who is passing that hat.

Just in the past month or so we have received calls in our newsroom from such volunteers — people who say that financial support for their program or organization is not the problem. The problem is a lack of people, a lack of willing hands to do the work. A couple organizations that contacted us are Cindy's Fund and the United Way of Garrett County. Cindy's Fund, which was established in memory of Cindy Kutchman and raises money to help cover the cost of early-detection cancer screening, is doing reasonably well financially, but there are only a few people doing 99% of the work. They are slowly succumbing to burnout. United Way, which raises funds for numerous other local organizations, has a similar human-power problem, and the same can be said for umpteen other boards, organizations, projects, and programs. There just aren't enough warm bodies.

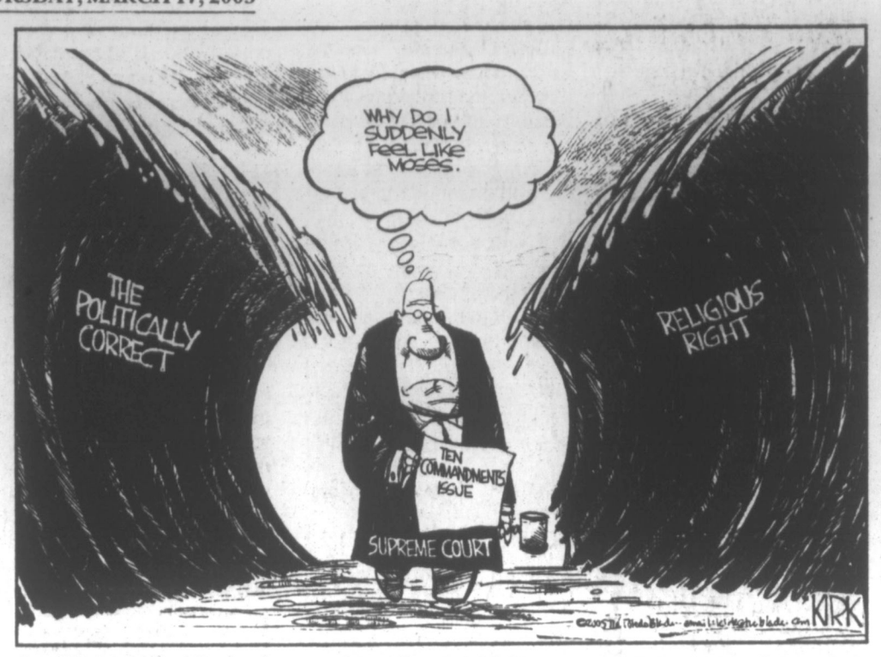
Certainly this is a growing problem for our two county rescue squads, and many of our local fire departments, as it is becoming more and more difficult for them to respond quickly and with the needed personnel.

Typically, the people who are volunteering in one capacity are the same ones who are doing so in many other capacities; the same who are called most often to join yet another board or organization. It becomes a case of too few being called upon to do too much, with the end result being the aforementioned burnout.

Everyone's time is precious, and it takes a lot of time and energy in our fast-paced world just to see to our own affairs, especially those who are the parents of young children. In most families both parents must work to make ends meet, and there are many single-parent situations, making it especially difficult to find extra time. But surely there are at least hundreds of others, particularly older residents, who would be tremendous assets to local organizations; people who have lots of life experience and expertise; people who have some extra time (not extra money, necessarily) to commit to a worthy cause. Surely there are high school students and many young adults (especially those without children) who could spare some time and energy for at least one of dozens of local organizations.

We won't provide contact information in this column, but can direct readers to an excellent resource guide published by the Civic Club of Oakland. The booklet, which provides contact information for virtually every organization in the county, is available at our libraries and other locations.

Anyone who cannot obtain a copy of the booklet is invited to call us here at The Republican office, and we'll track down the contact information.



Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The ACLU does not need contributions! It has found a gold mine. A little-known 1976 federal law called the Civil Rights Attorney's Fees Awards Act enables the ACLU to collect attorneys' fees for its suits against crosses, the Pledge of Allegiance, and the Ten Commandments. This law was designed to help plaintiffs in civil rights cases. But the ACLU is using it for First Amendment cases, asserting that it is a civil right not to see a cross or the Ten Commandments.

The financial lure created by this law is the engine that drives dozens of similar cases nationwide. Every state, county, city, public park, or school that has a cross, a Ten Commandments monument, or recites the Pledge of Allegiance, has become a target for ACLU fundraising.

The most famous Ten Commandments monument case is the one in the State Judicial Building in Montgomery, Ala., installed by former Chief Justice Roy Moore and ordered removed by a Carter-appointed federal judge. As their reward for winning its removal, the ACLU, Americans United for Separation of Church and State, and the Southern Poverty Law Center collected $540,000 in attorneys' fees and expenses from Alabama taxpayers.

Kentucky taxpayers have handed over $121,500 to pay the ACLU for its action against the Ten Commandments display outside its state capitol. Taxpayers in one Tennessee county had to pay $50,000 to the ACLU for the same "offense."

Similar lawsuits could challenge "under God" in the Pledge of Allegiance, since the U.S. Supreme Court ducked deciding the issue June 14 in the Michael Newdow case. There are 16,000 public school districts that could become targets of lawsuits to ban the pledge.

Rep. John N. Hostettler, R-Ind., has introduced H.R. 3609 to end this racket by amending the federal law that makes it possible. Most lawsuits do not award attorney's fees to the winner, and the law should not give a financial incentive to those suing to stop our acknowledgment of God, or to continue a practice or a symbol that the U.S. people have approved for decades.

Christians, let's fight back! If you believe that your constitutional right to freedom of religion is being violated, then contact the following: Alliance Defense Fund (ADF) – http://www.alliancedefensefund.org, Thomas More Law Center (TMLC) – http://www.thomasmore.org, American Center for Law and Justice (ACLJ) – http://www.aclj.org, The Rutherford Institute – http://www.rutherford.org/ or Stop the ACLU Coalition – http://www.stopthe aclu.org. They will help you pro bono– unlike the ACLU.

To the Editor:

Have you heard about the Garrett County United Way? If not, keep reading to find out what this organization is.

United Way is a nonprofit organization that helps local people in Garrett County. You could be helping PAWS (Partners for Animal Welfare and Safety), Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, and Habitat for Humanity.

Another organization that may receive your donation is the Make-a-Wish Foundation. This organization helps kids who have serious illnesses. They probably won't live to be adults. These kids get one last wish. It could be that they want to meet a famous pop star or go to Disney World. If you donate, you could be the one to help them get their wish.

United Way's mission in Garrett County is to make sure the money that you donate is wisely spent and that the money supports groups in Garrett County. For more information, you can call 301-359-9697.

To the Editor:

All this fuss about those windmills is driving me mad! All I ever hear is loss of money of property value and beauty in Garrett County. I have lived in Garrett County all my life. I used to live in McHenry, but have moved near Frostburg; not for college or a better paying job, but because there are way too many houses, stores, and condos being built.

Talk about taking away from the beauty of Garrett County, every time I come up to the lake I shudder at all the new buildings everywhere. What is happening to all the valuable farm land? Where are the cows and barns disappearing to? Are they going to Baltimore?

Birds and bats get killed all the time flying into windows and moving cars. Should we quit driving and have no windows in our houses? Property values are going down because of the windmills? Good! Quit spoiling the country with all the development! Pretty soon the people who are wanting to come from the city may as well stay there because Garrett County will be a city!

I am for the windmills. I live near the ones in Pennsylvania and see them daily. I do not think they're ugly or spoil the beauty of the mountainside. Those gaudy condos and million dollar houses do! Bring the windmills to Garrett County!

To the Editor:

Attention, all citizens of Maryland. The new proposed budget for the next fiscal year has been drafted. This budget includes 42 million dollars in budget cuts for the long-term care facilities in Maryland. This, my fellow Marylanders, is a serious crisis. The governor has proposed these cuts to balance the budget. Thousands of elderly will be hurt by these cuts. Fellow citizens, please let the governor know, we will not stand for this.

For the past three years the Ehrlich administration has proposed adding legal slot machines to race tracks in Maryland. This would add tens of millions of dollars to the budget coffers in Maryland. If this legislation had passed, we would not have to worry about cutting the budget. The idea is, let those who want to waste their money spend it and raise revenue for the cause of the greater good. I am not sure why democratic leader Michael Busch has such reservations against this legislation, but I know he would rather raise taxes on the middle class instead of allowing those with extra money to spend it on pleasure, to create revenue for the better of all Maryland citizens.

Without these funds, over 65% of Maryland's seniors will suffer great benefit cuts. Without the funding, long-term healthcare facilities cannot maintain a suitable standard of living for our elderly citizens. Please let the governor and Mr. Busch know, we will not stand for this elder abuse. Thousands of middle class health care workers will be put out of a job under this budget. Maryland already has a shortage of

THE COMMITTED OBSERVER

It has happened to me before. One occasion, 30 years ago, is especially vivid. I was reclining in the back seat of the car, reading Tools for Conviviality by Ivan Illich. My mother was driving, and my grandmother was in the front seat with her. We were on that flat stretch of I-70 which runs parallel to the Potomac River, just east of Hancock, Maryland.

I sat up in the seat and looked around at the mountains, the trees in full leaf. I realized that never again would I see the world as it had been before I started reading that particular book. There is a slightly vertiginous, physical experience that accompanies such moments. The world has shifted a few degrees, and I stagger.

The colloquium held here in Paris last week commemorating the centenary of Raymond Aron's birth provided another such experience. Aron was, in his own words, a non-practicing Jew and a citizen of France who had his own bout of vertigo when he visited Germany in 1930. As he witnessed the first great success of the Nazis, he shed a facile progressivism and commenced a more critical engagement with the world.

The Germans of the 1920s were arguably the most intellectually sophisticated people of Europe. Aron recognized – and this is extremely important for U.S. Americans to understand – that if Germany could be reduced to a state of anti-human totalitarianism, then the same could happen anywhere.

Aron was among the first to realize that Russian communism and German Nazism were but two brutal faces of the same slavery to an idea, against all human value, history and experience. With resolute clarity, Aron identified and challenged the dangerous, ideological palaver of the next half century.

During the colloquium, Aron was referred to as a "committed spectator" and a "public intellectual." He was what the Jewish Bible, the Christian Old Testament, calls, simply, a "prophet." To understand his role in France, Europe and, indeed, the world, one does well to study the figure of Isaiah.

That old prophet of Judah understood politics better than the politicians. When he met his king as each strode Jerusalem's perimeter wall, Isaiah pronounced the Word of the Lord as indispensable as it was unwelcome. Though Aron worked in a secularized context, his Isaianic vision was clear.

The experience of the colloquium was a little like getting a college education in a day and a half. Each speaker was entitled to 10 minutes (teachers who are accustomed to lecture at leisure for two or three hours at a time), but who often took 20 or even stole another 10 as they pronounced upon democracy in relation to passions, values, ideologies, religion, markets, liberalism and the welfare state, decadence and renaissance, imperialism and internationalism.

There were two words spoken, especially prophetic in regard to the United States. One was pronounced by Pierre Manent, for whom I came to Paris. He teaches regularly in the U.S.A., and has taken considerable trouble to understand our country in our own terms.

Monsieur Manent said that President Bush labored "under an honorable illusion," namely the identification of terrorism as an equal and a successor to communism and Nazism. However honorable, it is an illusion because the equation simply does not hold. Terrorism is an instrument of attack, but not a totalitarian system.

Premised by that illusion, President Bush "has assumed a sovereignty over the planet," which is itself an assault upon exactly those democratic values which he purports to advance. Thus the response to a real danger has itself become a danger at least as great.

The second word was almost the last word of the colloquium, and it was missed, I think, by most who heard it. Spontaneous, eloquent and exasperated, Professor Irving Horowitz of Rutgers University tried to put things straight.

"The problem with the Bush administration," he said, "is not political; it's theological. For somebody who calls himself a Christian, Bush shows no sign of understanding the dark side of human nature. Even at this colloquium, it is amazing that we have talked almost wholly about the good side of human nature, but there is a dark side too, and it must be taken into account."

The dark side is not just in somebody else's nature, in my enemy's nature, but in mine too. Whatever I do, I must take that into account. It is that which President Bush and, sadly, most Americans with him have forgotten.

As I took my afternoon walk with any unsteady gait, I saw hawthorn leafing. Cherry promised its bloom. Emboldened forsythia extended their green shoots. A day and a half of words – and many lifetimes of words – worked within me.

Since the time of Plato one definition of the good society has been "the society which is safe for philosophy." By that definition, Paris is a very good society, indeed.

Local Naturalists, Entrepreneurs To Speak In D.C.

Garrett County residents Ron Boyer and Liz McDowell have been invited to speak at the 19th annual Lahr Symposium at the U.S. National Arboretum in Washington, D.C., this Saturday, March 19. This event focuses on natural landscaping with native plants and supports the funding of the Lahr Fellow Internship in the Fern Valley Native Plant Collection at the National Arboretum. The theme for this year's symposium is "Native Plants: Connecting Gardens, Nature and People."

Joan Feely, curator of the Native Plant Collection, asked Boyer and McDowell to share their experiences in creating Elk Ridge NatureWorks, their family business that includes a native plant nursery specializing in propagating local plant ecotypes.

McDowell will present a slide program titled "Creating a Wildlife Garden in a Shrinking Forest." She will discuss how habitat is being lost at an alarming rate, even in the most wild and rural areas of Maryland, and will describe their efforts to reclaim an abused site for wildlife. Using native plants propagated from seed collected on the Allegheny Plateau, they are working at turning their property into a "wildlife magnet."

LIZ McDOWELL AND RON BOYER

McDowell will also cover their attempts toward preserving and enhancing regional biodiversity through the use of wildlife habitat practices, conservation landscape techniques, invasive species control methods, "citizen scientist" field reports and environmental education outreach.

Boyer and McDowell will also be participating in the National Arboretum's native plant sale slated in conjunction with the Lahr Symposium. Elk Ridge NatureWorks will be offering its own native plants and habitat boxes for bats and solitary bees.

McDowell has over 25 years of experience in education and the environment. She earned her master of science degree in wildlife management at the Appalachian Laboratory at Frostburg University in 1983, where she studied the feeding habits of cave-dwelling bats in the central Appalachians. Her varied career has included being park naturalist and resource biologist for the Department of Natural Resources, environmental specialist for the Maryland Department of the Environment, and science teacher at Northern High School.

Boyer has been an educator since 1969. He earned a bachelor of science degree in zoology and a master of science degree in education, supervision, and curriculum from the University of Maryland. He taught middle-school earth, life, and physical science for 27 years in Anne Arundel County before moving to western Maryland. In Garrett County he continued in education, instructing "homebound students" and adult basic education courses prior to starting Elk Ridge NatureWorks.

For more information on the Lahr Symposium and native plant sale, persons may consult the web site www.usna.usda.gov or call 202-245-5898.

Man Faces Drug, Gun Charges After I-68 Stop

A Virginia man was jailed on drug and gun charges after he was stopped for a seat belt violation last Thursday, March 10, according to Maryland State Police troopers assigned to the McHenry barrack.

At approximately 3 p.m., Tremaine Antoine Holder, 23, Chesapeake, was stopped on eastbound Interstate 68 at Grantsville. When troopers detected the odor of suspected burnt marijuana, they undertook a search that uncovered a glass pipe bearing the suspected drug, and a handgun that had been reported stolen.

Holder was charged with possession of marijuana, possession of paraphernalia and possession of a handgun. He subsequently posted a $3,000 bond set by a District Court commissioner to gain his release from the Garrett County Detention Center.

Two-Vehicle Accident Sends One To Hospital

One person was injured in a two-vehicle accident on Herrington Manor Road Friday afternoon, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Michael Welch, 34, Oakland, was traveling south on Herrington Manor Road when his vehicle skidded on the snow-covered road, crossed the center line, and struck a northbound vehicle, operated by Doris Tasker, 51, Oakland.

Tasker was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries. Oakland firefighters and Maryland Park Service personnel also assisted at the scene.

Welch was issued a citation for failure to drive right of center.

Driver Cited, No Injuries In Vehicle Mishap

A Wheeling, W.Va., woman was cited for failure to control speed to avoid a collision last Thursday afternoon on Garrett Highway near Knoll Crest Heights Drive, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Nancy H. Bowman, 56, was operating a 2002 Cadillac and failed to stop as she approached a 1990 Ford truck that was stopped for an off-loading school bus. The Cadillac struck the truck and skidded into the ditch. No injuries were reported.

In other police news, Carol Iner, 59, Westminster, was injured when she lost control of her snowmobile and struck a tree. She was transported by Northern Rescue Squad to GCMH. No citations were issued, police said.

In a separate incident, a juvenile was treated and released after a single-vehicle accident on Oakland Sang Run Road Saturday. According to police, the vehicle slid off the road and struck a tree. No charges were filed.

W.Va. Man Rolls Car Completely Across Interstate

A single-vehicle crash on Interstate 68 yesterday slightly injured a Morgantown man, who was lucky to escape from the mishap without more serious injuries, according to the Maryland State Police.

Dinesh Kumar Mohan, 23, Morgantown, was charged with negligent driving after the 7:25 a.m. accident, which troopers said occurred when he diverted his attention from his driving.

While traveling eastbound near the 12 mile marker, halfway between Pig's Ear Road and Keyser's Ridge, Mohan reportedly reached down to retrieve an object from the floorboard of his car. As he did so, the 1993 Honda Accord drifted off the rightside of the roadway and struck the guardrail.

The impact caused Mohan to lose all control of the sedan, which caromed back onto the highway, across both eastbound lanes, and into the median strip, where it began to overturn. The vehicle continued rolled several times as it bounded across the first two lanes of the westbound interstate before coming to rest on its wheels in the slow lane.

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported Mohan to Ruby Memorial Hospital, where troopers said he was treated for minor cuts and bruises.

The Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the accident scene.

Injured Owl Finds Refuge With MSP, DNR Assistance

An injured great horned owl discovered by a employee on her way to work at the McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police was eventually transported to a rehabilitation center at Rocky Gap State Park, where it is recuperating under the care of wildlife specialists with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources.

The incident unfolded at approximately 6:30 a.m. Saturday morning, when MSP public communications officer Leslie Nightingale discovered the injured owl south of Accident along Garrett Highway near Keller Road. MSP Tfc. Greg Byrnes responded to the scene and recovered the owl, which was transported to the McHenry barrack.

Officer Friend of the Natural Resource Police then responded to the barrack and transported the owl to Rocky Gap.

Great horned owls are a protected species under federal law.

SARA K. DONLEY

Sara Katherine (Fredlock) Donley, 70, Oakland, died at her home of complications from cancer on Thursday, March 10, 2005.

Born Aug. 25, 1934, in Cumberland, she was the daughter of the late W. Harold Fredlock and Katherine (Bissett) Fredlock.

She was an active member of St. Peter's Catholic Church in Oakland where she served as a eucharistic minister and lector. She was a 1952 graduate of St. Peter's High School in Westernport, and was a member of the first graduating class of Bon Secours Hospital School of Nursing in Baltimore in 1955. She also attended St. Anselm's College in New Hampshire. During her career she worked as the director of nursing at Bon Secours hospitals in Baltimore and Methuen, Mass. She also worked for the Christian Appalachian Program in eastern Kentucky.

She was also active in Garrett County, where she worked for the health department and the Hospice program. She spent several years teaching prepared childbirth classes and served as a nurse midwife on many home deliveries in both Kentucky and Garrett County. She also taught clogging classes in Oakland and in Leesburg, Fla.

She is survived by her husband of 24 years, Daniel Donley; two stepsons, Danny Donley, Oakland, and Chris Donley, Huntingtown; and one brother, William H. Fredlock III, Swanton.

Friends were received at the Fredlock Funeral Home in Piedmont, W.Va., and at St. Peter's Church in Oakland.

A Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated at the church on Saturday, March 12, with Father Don Parson as celebrant. He was assisted by Monsignors Rick Woy and Paul Byrnes and Father Adam Parker. A bereavement dinner for family and friends was held after the Mass at St. Peter's social hall.

Private interment was in Philos Cemetery, Westernport.

The family requests that memorials be directed to the Garrett Co. Hospice, P.O. Box 271, Oakland, MD 21550; or to the Stain Glass Window Fund – St. Peter's Catholic Church, 135 Church St., Westernport, MD 21562.

The guest speakers included Del. Joe Bartlett of the House Ways and Means Committee, and MFRW president Betty Carroll, who told the audience of that one of her goals for this year is to establish a volunteer training program. For information about SGCRW membership and activities, persons may call 301-387-6399. Pictured from the left are Nita Roberts, Carroll, and Rebele.

ANN M. REDMOND

Ann Margaret Redmond, 82, Cottonwood, Ariz., died Wednesday, Feb. 23, 2005.

Born June 2, 1922, in Uniontown, Pa., she was the daughter of William Hosea Meyers and Ruth G. (Cuppett) Meyers.

She retired as secretary of Euclid, Ohio, Board of Education. She was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star, Diamond Chapter #7.

Surviving are two sons, Richard D. Redmond, Cottonwood, and John R. Redmond, Morgantown, W.Va.; one daughter Suzanne J. Pollack, Cottonwood; six grandchildren; six great-grandchildren; and numerous cousins in Garrett County.

There are no public services planned. At her request, her body was cremated, and the remains will be scattered over the Point Lookout in Arizona.

Westcott Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

BARBARA BURRUSS YELL

Born September 9, 1915, to William and Louise Burruss in Springfield, Mass. Barbara died Dec. 1, 2004, at her home in the care of Presbyterian Hospice and her loving daughter, Jennifer Yell Kirwin, and Jennifer's husband, William Kirwin, Newport Beach, Calif.

Barbara lived a truly remarkable life until several months ago when she succumbed to serious illness.

Barbara was the wife of Eugene Yell, professor of theater arts at the University of New Mexico. Gene died in 1992.

Their time together included amateur and professional theater. Barbara attended high school in Newton, Mass., and received her degree in fine arts from the Goodman Theater at the Chicago Art Institute, also the alma mater of her husband. She became a fashion model, and later was deeply involved in the Federal Theater, taking shows on the road for that organization.

Following their marriage in Chicago, Gene and Barbara moved first to Florida and then, in 1948, to Albuquerque. Barbara worked for many years in real estate and market research in Albuquerque.

Barbara had an exciting and fulfilling life which included working for the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, where she enjoyed fighting for human rights and better working conditions in factories.

She and Gene spent the summers for 50 years at "Hemlock Hollow," a wooded retreat in Pleasant Valley where Barbara had spent many happy summers as a child, forging friendships that would remain strong throughout her life. Beginning in 1955 and for 30 years the Yells operated the Garrett County Playhouse, a summer stock theatre located in McHenry and later on Beckman's Peninsula, Deep Creek Lake.

Barbara and Gene enjoyed travel and spent many winter vacations with friends in their favorite city of Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, and many autumns in London for the theater season and for visiting friends there.

She numbered among her many friends in the arts and letters the late novelist and critic Julian Symons, late playwright Philip King, and Studs Terkel, author, interviewer, radio talk-show host and distinguished scholar at the Chicago Historical Society. Barbara and Gene shared their life and home with long-time friends from the university who will miss her great generosity and wonderful bon vivant spirit.

Services for Barbara were held at the University of New Mexico Alumni Chapel on Dec. 19, 2004.

God looked down on your body,
So tired from hanging on
From a life that was overwhelming you.
And wanted back His son.
So He took away the air you breathe,
And gave you what was best,
A place to be at peace
A final place to rest.

Sometimes God picks the flower
That is still in full bloom;
Sometimes the rosebud's chosen
That we feel He has picked too soon.
Sometimes the flower is fading
With petals floating down,
But God knows the perfect time
To gather flowers from the ground.
There is a heavenly garden
In which God takes great pleasure,
Because He has placed within it
The loved ones that we treasure.
He walks among the blossoms
Giving them eternal rest,
And we know that it must please Him
Because He chose our very best.
Sadly missed by your children,

GC Humane Society, Animal Shelter Stress Importance Of Spay/Neuter

by Lisa Baker,
GC Humane Society

March is Spay/Neuter Month in Garrett County, and 2004 marks the fifth year that the local Humane Society and animal shelter have taken on the challenge to inform pet owners about the importance of spaying and neutering their pets.

I personally have visited our local shelter once a week for the last two years. During each visit I have seen the many dogs and cats that are there, now homeless because of an unexpected circumstance, or perhaps they were picked up as a stray and never reclaimed. In the summer months there are dozens and dozens of unwanted kittens and puppies that are dropped off.

Many people aren't aware of the number of animals that come into our local shelter yearly. Last year, about 1,300 animals came into the Garrett County Animal Shelter. Of these, 700 were strays and 500 were owner give-ups. The good news is that there were 140 adoptions, 80 returned to their owners, and another 500 plus "rescued" (taken out and adopted elsewhere).

But even with these positive numbers, 500 animals still had to be euthanized. Though some of these animals were aggressive or sick, most were simply just unwanted.

I know no one likes to hear these facts, but they are reality. They are the facts reflecting the need for pet owners to have their pets spayed/neutered and for others to simply think about the responsibilities that come with owning a pet.

People should not blame the shelter employees for having to do their job. They do a great job caring for all those animals. What we need to do is be responsible for our own pets and for the feral animals that we see in our communities. Instead of feeding the strays, catch them and take them to the shelter, where they will be fed and warm, and have a chance to be adopted into a good home. This way they are not out breeding and causing problems in our neighborhoods.

If your pet is not "fixed" then please get a discount certificate and have it done. It is better for your pet's health and helps reduce the numbers of unwanted animals in our county.

Additionally, if your pet has offspring, please do not give one to people you don't know. Ask yourself, Will they care for it? Will they have it spayed or neutered? Will it end up at the shelter after it is grown and no longer cute?

It is better to take them to the shelter where they will have a chance to be adopted by someone who is willing to fill out the adoption papers and pay the adoption fee, which is deducted from your bill when you have the animal spayed and neutered

Every year during Spay/Neuter Month, the Humane Society and animal shelter give out discount certificates to residents who need to have their pets fixed. Any of the three veterinarians in our county will accept the certificates. They are available to Garrett County residents, and there are no complicated forms to fill out. In both 2003 and 2004, 200 certificates were given out. This is a positive note, but we still have a lot more we can do to help reduce the number of animals in our shelter and erase the numbers of feral animals in our communities.

For more information, persons may call the animal shelter at 301-334-3553 or me at 301-387-4425.

BPW Meeting To Highlight GC Women

Business and Professional Women of Garrett County will hold a special meeting Thursday, April 14, at Will O' the Wisp "to throw a spotlight" on Garrett County women who are in business.

This spotlight will be an opportunity for women in business to network with one another, share resources and information, and learn about marketing strategies, said Donna McClintock Fost, president of the local BPW.

Tabletop exhibit space will be available on a first come, first-served basis. Benefits include a complimentary registration for the forum, attendee list, and a brief description of the business in the program. Exhibit space will include a draped table, two chairs, and signage.

Businesses interested in having a display at the event should contact Suzanne Nicolas at 301-533-0331. Nicolas is owner of the Oakland and McHenry Curves.

"We need to work together to help each other succeed in business and in life and to continue to demonstrate to the community the foundation business women provide for future economic development," said Judy Carbone, BPW member.

The evening will begin at 6 p.m. During the networking hour, participants will be able to visit displays of the businesses of several Garrett women and talk to them about developing strategic relationships. Connie Eades will give a presentation on target marketing strategies at 7 p.m.

Sponsored and organized by the local BPW, the event is supported by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

"Women business owners are an important part of the county's economy," said chamber president Charlie Ross. "The Chamber is pleased to support this event as part of its mission to encourage and help business owners in Garrett County."

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Army Pvt. Nathan A. Rodeheaver has graduated from the Chaplain Assistant Advanced Individual Training course at the Chaplain School, Fort Jackson, Columbia, S.C.

The course emphasized religious support, development of interpersonal skills, and unit ministry support to soldiers and family members. The support training provided services in a battlefield environment and battle fatigue casualty care.

Religious support classes instructed students to prepare altars for Protestant, Catholic, Jewish, and Orthodox worship services, and stressed the importance of being knowledgeable of all faith groups represented in the Army.

Rodeheaver won a physical fitness award from the course.

He is the son of John T. and Renata L. Rodeheaver of White Church Steyer Road. The private is a 2003 graduate of Southern Garrett High School.

Employers Urged To Register Now For GC Job Fair

Employers wanting to take part in the Garrett County Job Fair, slated for April 22 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., in the Continuing Education Building at Garrett College, are encouraged to register now.

Participating employers will be offered display space, including a table, chairs, and a sign with the company name. Morning beverages will be provided, as well as a lunch at the end of the job fair.

The fair is open to any employer who is expecting to hire people within the next few months, whether full-time, part-time, summer, entry level, or experienced.

Businesses are encouraged to return the registration form by March 18 to be assured of being mentioned in pre-fair publicity, although registrations will be accepted as long as space is available. Also, access to electrical outlets will be available on a first come, first served basis.

"We are prepared to host a well-organized and well attended event and hope that you will consider joining us'" said Judy Carbone, coordinator of Career Services at Garrett College. "Space is limited and is expected to be reserved quickly."

The Job Fair will be open to all members of the community including college and high school students and experienced workers seeking a job or career change. The job fair will be promoted through newspaper articles, radio announcements, fliers, listing with the Maryland Job Service, and through electronic means.

"Job seekers will be encouraged to bring copies of their resumes and to prepare to make the most effective impression possible on the employers with whom they speak," said Carbone.

The job fair is being sponsored by Garrett College in conjunction with the Maryland Job Service, Western Maryland Consortium, and Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

For registration forms persons may contact Carbone at 301-387-3046 or jcarbone@garrettcollege.edu.

PAWS Ready To Offer KIND News To '05-'06 Classes

The PAWS Adopt-A-Classroom campaign is under way, and the organization is seeking *KIND (Kids in Nature's Defense) News* subscribers for the 2005-2006 school year. This is the fourth year PAWS (Partners for Animal Welfare and Safety) is offering to all interested county teachers and home-schooling parents of pupils in grades kindergarten through 6 a free year's subscription to the KIND News.

The publication is an award-winning children's newspaper which is published by the National Association for Humane and Environmental Education, a PAWS spokesperson said. Its purpose is to encourage students to value, respect, understand, and cultivate a sense of responsibility for the health and welfare of all forms of life and the environment.

The PAWS Adopt-A-Classroom Program was able to make this monthly education resource available to 95 classrooms in Garrett County for the current school year. That represents a 34% increase in subscribers over the previous year, the spokesperson said.

"We continue to receive very positive comments from teachers and students currently enrolled in the Adopt-a-Classroom Program," she said. "Overall, teachers seem to feel this is a very worthwhile program that PAWS has begun in the county. Teachers and children alike look forward to reading the KIND News together each month. They enjoy the activities the publication provides and the classroom discussions it stimulates."

The focus of KIND News is to help teach children to treat each other, animals, and the environment responsibly, with kindness, respect, and compassion.

"It is an excellent supplement to the character education curriculum," the spokesperson said. "Written in a captivating, lively style, the paper fosters a love of reading, and provides opportunities for children to utilize their math, language, and writing skills.

"Each year PAWS gets numerous thank-you letters and drawings from classrooms subscribing to KIND News. It's very rewarding to read how positively this program is impacting children. The price of providing these subscriptions is well worth it, considering the positive influence humane education is having on the children's future and the future of the community," she said.

Any teacher or home-schooling group not currently enrolled but interested in signing up to receive a free year's subscription to KIND News for their class next year is invited to call 301-334-2699 or e-mail paws@garrettpaws.org.

More information about the program can also be obtained by visiting the PAWS web site at www.garrettpaws.org. Sample issues of KIND News are available.

Teachers currently receiving the publication are reminded to return their subscription renewal requests to PAWS by April 1. The address is PAWS, P.O. Box 745, McHenry, MD 21541.

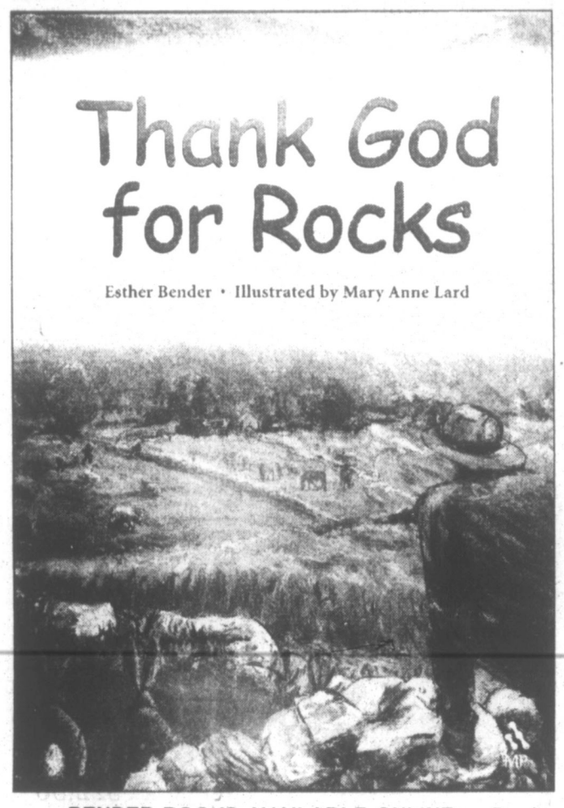
The Arts



BENDER BOOKS AVAILABLE ONLINE — Books written by area author Esther Bender are now available on her web site at www.estherbender.com. Thank God for Rocks, pictured above, is one of Bender's newest releases. It tells the story of a poor man who buys a small farm with a field filled with rocks. Though he didn't have much, he thanked God for everything, including the rocks, which turned out to be a blessing in disguise.

Esther Bender Launches New Site For Books

Local author Esther Bender recently launched a new web site. At www.estherbender.com, persons may read about the author's background and purchase signed copies of her books.

Bender grew up in the Springs, Pa., area. In 1974, she graduated with honors from Frostburg State University with a master's degree in elementary education. She began teaching in the public school system that year, and continued teaching for 23 years.

She also took graduate courses in children's literature, fiction writing, and children's book writing. She is certified as a reading specialist, and is a member of the Society of Children's Book Writers and Illustrators.

In 1976, Bender was diagnosed with Parkinson's disease. She began writing articles for newspapers and magazines, and decided to pursue a writing career in 1984.

To date, nine of Bender's books have been published, as well as more than 100 articles, photographs, and poems. She noted that her training and experience with children influenced her writing style, and she believes that children will be motivated to read if they can follow a story and get a message without knowing all the words.

"Start reading to children while they are very young," Bender said. She remembers her mother reading many stories to her when she was a child. As a teacher, she preferred good read-aloud books that appealed to the five senses.

Bender noted that she accepts the life she has been handed. "I attribute my success to my unfaltering faith in God," she said. "I am determined to turn obstacles into opportunities."

Bender's books are written from a teacher's perspective with the idea of holding the interest of the reader. "The reader, in turn, should experience the story through the five senses," she said.

Bender says she considers the concept and thought processes of the child to whom she is writing, which makes it possible to share more complicated concepts with children.

Bender's stories are written in family/nature settings from a blended family perspective.

Four of Bender's books have received Excellence in Media awards. Katie and the Lemon Tree and A Cry from the Clay received Silver Angel awards, and April Bluebird and Virginia and the Tiny One each won Merit Angel awards.

Excellence in Media was founded to honor creative people in motion pictures, television, radio, books, albums, or other media whose works are of high moral, spiritual, or social impact.

In addition, April Bluebird was named to the C.S. Lewis list of 50 best picture books with Christian values in 1995.

Bender's books are also currently available at Penn Alps in Grantsville and the Book Mark'et in Oakland.

Bender resides in Springs with her husband Jason.

READY TO PERFORM – William Georg is pictured as he readies to perform J.S. Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" on the marimba during "Garrett County's Best; The Ultimate Talent Show," slated for Friday, March 18, 8 p.m., in the Garrett College auditorium. The community event is being sponsored by Total Biz Fulfillment and will involve a number of local teenagers. Tickets are $5 each and are available by calling Garrett Lakes Arts Festival office at 301-387-3082. Tickets will be on sale at the box office on Friday evening only if they are not sold out in advance, a GLAF spokesperson said.

The Season's Final "Kidstuff" Slated At OTT

This season's last installment of Our Town Theatre's "Kidstuff," a creative dramatics program for children, will take place on Saturday, March 19, from 10:30 a.m. until noon.

Kidstuff is designed for children in grades kindergarten through fifth, and involves such things as movement, stories, acting, art projects, mime, and improvisation. All local children are invited to attend.

Pre-registration is required and must take place before Friday, March 18, at 5 p.m. This allows for organizers to have enough materials for all children attending. To register their children, parents may call the theatre at 301-334-5640, option 2.

If the weather is bad, parents are asked to call the theatre on the day of the class to check for a cancellation. The cost of Kidstuff is a modest donation to the theatre.

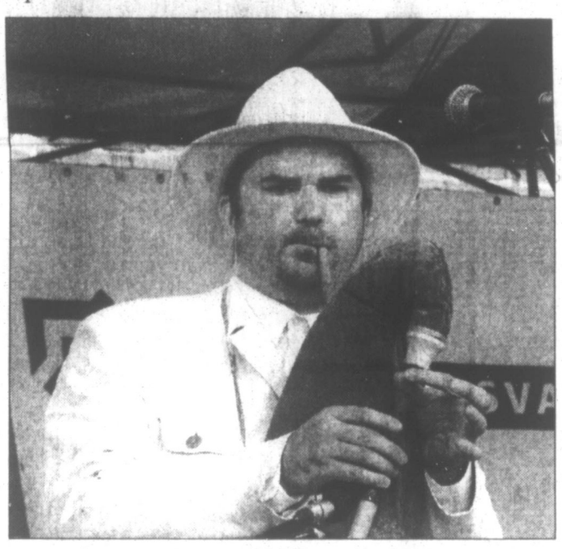
Our Town Theatre is located along Center Street in Oakland.

Mtn. Anthems To Perform At Cherry Grove

The Mountain Anthems are scheduled to perform at Cherry Grove Church of the Brethren this Sunday, March 20, at 7:30 p.m. The church is located along U.S. Route 219 near Grantsville.

The Mountain Anthems Mixed Chorus is under the direction of Menno Beachy, and has been ministering in song for 42 years. The group consists of approximately 40 members of the Mountain View Mennonite Church in Salisbury, Pa., who serve on a volunteer basis. They have produced 18 recordings and performed in 23 different states, as well as Washington D.C. and Canada.

The public is invited to attend the free concert.



KIVIBERG TO PERFORM AT COLLEGE – Ando Kiviberg of Viljandi, Estonia, will perform a public concert on April 6 at 7 p.m. at Garrett College. As part of his performance, he will play the torupilli, a traditional Estonian bagpipe. Kiviberg will also perform in area schools during his visit to America.

Reservations Now Being Taken For Next OTT Play

Persons may now make reservations for Twilight of the Golds, a play being presented at Our Town Theatre. Persons may make reservations by calling the theatre at 301-334-5640 and following the directions on the answering machine.

The dates for the show are March 29, 30, 31, and April 1 and 2, with all shows at 8 p.m. Tickets for the Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday performances are $5 per person, and $8 for Friday and Saturday nights.

The play, which stars Alex Hill, Doug Gaither, Erin White, Lynne Elmlinger, and Richard Hill, is an adult look at eugenics, homosexuality, and abortion. Jane Avery, director, cautioned that the show is for adult audiences only, and is not for the "faint of heart" or people who have strong objections to thinking about these topics.

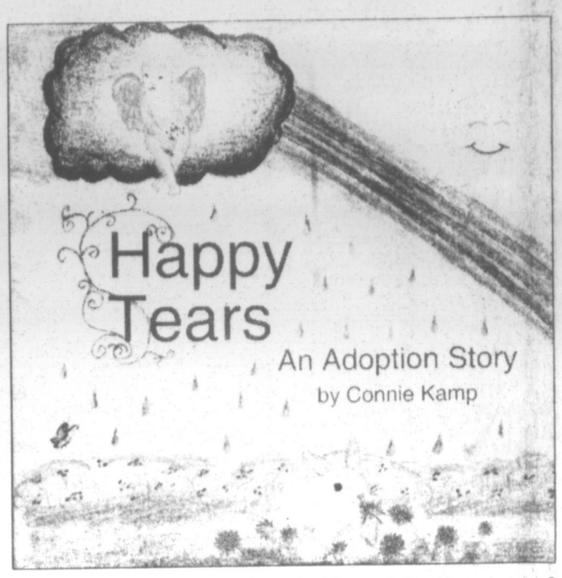
"It's a brilliant play, but it isn't for everyone," Avery said.

Ben Sincell is the scenery and lighting designer for the production, and Deirdre Kildow is the stage manager. The play is produced with special arrangement by Samuel French Incorporated and sponsored in part by the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

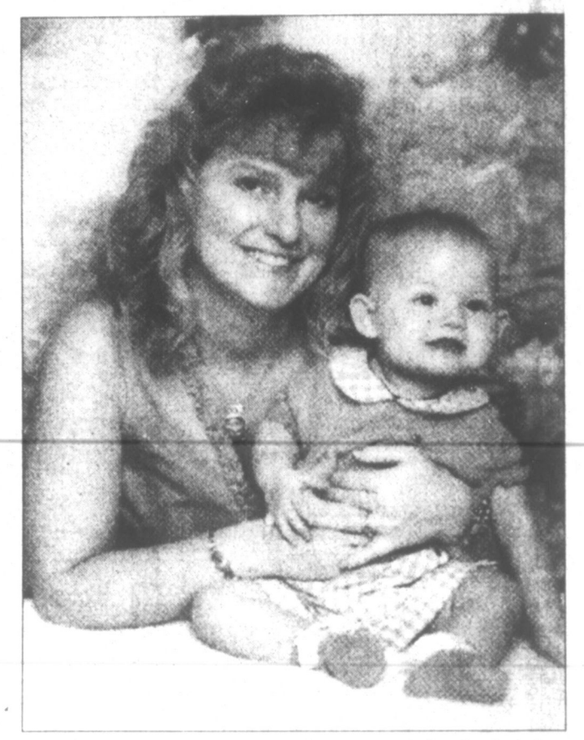
Kamp Publishes A True Story Of Adoption Process

Connie Kamp, Avilton, has written a book to share the story of her daughter's adoption. Happy Tears: An Adoption Story was recently published by AuthorHouse.

The book tells the true story of how Kamp and her family found the answer to their prayers when they adopted a baby girl they named Autumn Angel. It explains the events of the adoption process to young readers as each step unfolds.



A NEW BOOK by Connie Kamp tells the story of her daughter's adoption. Happy Tears: An Adoption Story is available at several area locations. See story for details. Pictured below are Kamp and her daughter, Autumn Angel.



A spokesperson for AuthorHouse noted, "Perfect for parents, counselors, teachers, and social workers who deal with family and adoptive issues, as well as young women who may be troubled by an unwanted pregnancy, Happy Tears offers an inspirational story that proves miracles happen and prayers are answered."

Kamp holds a bachelor's degree in elementary education and a master's in guidance and counseling from Frostburg State University. She taught first and third grade for 10 years before becoming an elementary school counselor.

"After being blessed with Autumn Angel through adoption, I felt compelled to share my story in the hopes it may provide hope and inspiration for adoptive families and counselors," Kamp said.

Happy Tears is available locally at Hen House Restaurant, Sherry Carey's Beauty Salon, Deb-est U Can Be Beauty Shop, Penn Alps Restaurant, Little Crossings Country Store, Hill Top Fruit Market, and McHenry Book Store.

TWO LATIN JAZZ GREATS TO PERFORM – The Frostburg State University Cultural Event Series Jazz Club, sponsored by Kauffman Music, will present Hilton Ruiz and Dave Valentin Latin Jazz Ensemble on Friday, April 1, at 8 p.m. in the FSU Performing Arts Center Pealer Recital Hall. Ruiz is also an expert bob player who has been playing Latin jazz since age 8. He combines together the influence of bop and Brazilian music with Latin jazz to create a "slick and accessible form of crossover jazz," said a spokesperson. Valentin received a Grammy in 2003 for best Latin Jazz Album. "Together they deliver a sizzling combination of Latin jazz, progressive jazz, and blues," the spokesperson added. The program is sponsored in part by Mid Atlantic Arts Foundation, Maryland State Arts Council, and the Allegany Arts Council. To purchase tickets or find out more information, persons may call the FSU box office at 301-687-3137 or 1-866-TIXX-CES or visit online at ces.frostburg.edu.

WINS DRAMA COMPETITION – The entry from Brenda's Body Shop won the first Maryland Drama group competition, which was held recently at Braddock Middle School in Cumberland. The local group's original production, a courtroom comedy, told the story of Old Woman winter as she wreaked havoc on local events including the Autumn Glory Parade. She was eventually exonerated when it was determined that the area needed the moisture winter storms provide. Pictured from the left, in the front row, are Megan Fitzwater, Vicki Stevens, Carson Quigley, Micaela Beckman, and drama instructor Wendy Walker. In the back row are Stephanie Weaver, Patricia Sherrard, Rebecca Wilkes, Whitney Walker, Corinne Weaver, and Morgan Sanders.

Lawmakers Say

malpractice cases are overcompensated.

Trial attorneys and malpractice victims said Ehrlich's measure, which also requires the court to appoint a neutral expert to testify in malpractice cases, would unfairly protect doctors and insurers.

House Majority Leader Kumar Barve, D-Montgomery, defended Maryland's chief physician insurer, the Medical Mutual Liability Insurance Society, claiming its highly criticized surplus was reasonable. When committee members asked witnesses for solid evidence, though, little was provided.

A proponent of Ehrlich's bill, for example, said insurers "have gone bankrupt writing malpractice policies recently," but did not cite any.

"In a couple of years now we still have not gotten adequate answers on the insurance side," said Delegate Robert Zirkin, D-Baltimore County. "We're going to need these answers to pass a tort reform bill."

The committee is scheduled to vote today on the measures it heard Tuesday. Simmons does not anticipate any of them becoming laws.

The technical bill stands a better chance. It has the support of Insurance Commissioner Al Redmer and passed the Senate last week. It should pass the House as well, said Prince George's Democrat Dereck Davis, chairman of the House Economic Affairs Committee, one of two committees assigned to examine the bill.

Davis and Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee Chairman Brian Frosh, D-Montgomery, bill cosponsor, said his technical changes should be allowed to work with the new law before lawmakers enact further reforms.

"This bill makes it much simpler," Frosh said, "for doctors to get their rate relief . . . They didn't get everything they wanted (but) I think we ought to see how this works."

Barve, who has sponsored three malpractice bills, disagreed that the new law and Frosh's bill would rectify the situation. There is a malpractice crisis, he said, and lawmakers should at least establish courtroom accountability to counter it. "Even if we did not have a crisis, it would make sense," Barve said, "to say that expert testimony by doctors is a part of the practice of medicine and ought to be regulated."

The measure should pass now, he said. "We have to do something to reform the medical malpractice system."

Senate Minority Whip Andrew Harris, R-Baltimore County, agreed. Frosh's bill, along with the new law, provides only a short-term fix, he said.

"We didn't solve anything. We put a Band-Aid on a gaping wound," said Harris, an anesthesiologist.

Harris criticized Democratic Senate leaders for their inaction, accusing them of being "beholden to the trial lawyer interest.

"As long as you have the current makeup and power structure of the Senate," Harris said, "I don't think there's going to be meaningful tort reform."

Simmons, Barve, and Frosh disagreed, noting that reform's greatest obstacle is the lack of proof — not politics. Citing the Maryland Hospital Association's testimony before his committee last week, Frosh said:

"How do they know" the new law won't be effective? "There is some burden of proof that they have to meet. At a minimum they have to give us some numbers that show there is a crisis . . . You'd think they'd come to the hearing with that."

Revival Slated At Fresh Fire Church Of God

The Fresh Fire Church of God, located at 2148 George Washington Highway, Red House, in the old Chimney Corner Restaurant building, will hold a revival on March 27 through 30 at 7 p.m.

The guest speaker will be evangelist Bill Snyder, National Chai Alpha recruiter for the Assemblies of God churches. Pastors Tom and Sandra McGinnis invite the public to attend.

ISN'T THE LIBRARY SUPPOSE TO BE QUIET? Usually, but not last Monday night when Josh Gambetta, a gifted drum-circle facilitator, joined the Teen Book Club at the Oakland Ruth Enlow Library for an evening of sounds, rhythms, and raucous book discussion. Gambetta brought African drums of various sizes and many homemade noisemakers made from soda bottles, plastic eggs, and rice. He is shown here with the African djembe drum. Led by Megan Shewach, the teens discussed The Perks of Being a Wallflower by Stephen Chbosky. "Everyone's favorite part of the book involved the theme of 'feeling infinite,'" said Shewach. "This crazy, kooky drum circle was a celebration of individuality, experimentation, and synergy. Together, we beat and banged and shook and rattled our way to feeling infinite."

spring and summer, and we will use some of the federal funding for that effort," said Garrett County commissioner David Beard.

The bill now goes to the U.S. Senate for its deliberations. No Senate bill number had been assigned as of yesterday.

CENTRAL GARRETT TERPS WIN CHAMPIONSHIPS – An exciting match-up between the Central Garrett Terps and the Grantsville Seminoles took place in the recent Northern Youth Basketball League Division I Championships. The Seminoles maintained a lead over the Terps through the first three quarters, but near the end of game, Matt Gibson scored a three-point shot to put the Terps ahead by two. Steven Holtschneider scored on a jump shot for the Seminoles to tie and push the game into overtime. With less than two minutes to play, Morgan Brosnihan made two foul shots to give the Terps a two-point lead. As the Terps controlled the ball on offense and with the clock working against the Seminoles, they were forced to foul two times, sending Gibson and Austin Doerr to the foul line. Each boy successfully completed his shots. The final score was Terps 15, Seminoles 10. The Terps are coached by Pete Brosnihan and the Seminoles are coached by Jed Wilhelm. The Terps are pictured. In the front row from left are Bryan Ferrell, Matt Gibson, and Will Larsen. Second row, same order: Michelle Moll, Dakota Fazenbaker, Rebecca Wilkes, Austin Doerr, Coach Brosnihan, Morgan Brosnihan, and Whitney Murphy.

HAVING A GREAT SEASON are the members of the Southern Mat Club, a youth wrestling squad based in the Oakland area. The SMC wrestlers' latest tournament was the Western Maryland Spring Classic, hosted Saturday by Fort Hill High School, an event in which 20 SMC members won a total of 17 top four places. (See story for details.) Pictured seated, from left, are: Jean-Luc Strawser, Robbie Browning, Cory Horner, Alec Horner, Jeremy Ashby, Austin Shaffer, Logan Cvetnick, and Troy Deckman. Kneeling are: Shaun Chapman, Ryan Schrier, Tanner Massey, Dalton Cooper, Bradley Clary, Logan Hinebaugh, Nick Schrier, Jimmy Schwab, Raymond McGehee, Colton Holland, Warren Wright, Evelyn McGehee, and Ian Jobe. In the third row are: Alora Taylor, Cory Ozias, Gavin Murphy, Scott Cooper, Derek Hinebaugh, Travis Newton, Matthew Shaffer, Justin Ashby, Caleb Hawk, Garrett Beachy, Lex Ozias, Dillon Bennett, Jarod Arnold, and Nick Brant. Laker Baseball Squad Off To Tough Start; Drops First Four

Off to a rough start in the 2005 spring baseball season are the Garrett College Lakers and new coach Eric Hallenbeck, who opened their campaign this past week with four straight Maryland JUCO defeats.

The Lakers dropped both ends of a doubleheader to host Montgomery-Germantown on Sunday, 11-1 and 7-3, were whipped by Hagerstown CC on Tuesday, 14-4, on the Hawks' diamond, and were finally hammered yesterday, 20-1, by host Allegany College.

Jeff Romberger had a pair of hits and knocked in the Lakers' lone run in the first game against Germantown.

Garrett took a 2-0 lead in the second game when Brian Kasecamp smacked a two-run homer. Germantown knotted the score at 2-2 with a pair of runs in the fourth, and took the lead for good with three runs in the fifth.

It was way too little, way too late for the Lakers in their game against Hagerstown on Tuesday, as all four of their runs were scored in the top of the seventh after the Hawks had built a 13-0 lead. The most damaging inning for Garrett was the fifth, when the Hawks erupted for 10 runs.

A pair of Hagerstown pitchers limited the Lakers to five hits, three of which were recorded by Brandon Benson, who had two doubles and a single. He also drove in two runs.

Leading the Hawks' 12-hit effort were Steve Von Block with two doubles, Robbie Davis with a solo homer, and Marty Kaetzel with a double and a single.

The Lakers were blistered by 16 hits yesterday in their game against Allegany, as the Trojans scored in every inning, while Garrett was held scoreless by AC starter Eric Donahue. The game was shortened to seven innings because of the 10-run rule.

Pacing the Trojans at the plate were M.J. Parsons, who had a pair of triples and a sacrifice fly which drove in a total of six runs, Scott Hugney with a triple and a double for three RBIs, Jimmy Collins and Jeremy Potter with three singles and two RBIs apiece, Tyler Hostetter with two singles and an RBI, and Ryan Lose with a home run.

The win evened Allegany's record at 3-3.

The Lakers will begin their spring-break swing south this Friday by facing Morris Hill, N.C., in a 1 p.m. doubleheader. They will play a single game at King College on Saturday and travel to Surry CC for a single game Monday before returning home to host Finger Lakes CC in a 2 p.m. twinbill next Tuesday. They will also entertain Montgomery Rockville in a single game next Thursday at 2:30.

GIRLS TAKE FIRST PLACE – The Northern sixth and seventh grade girls' basketball team has finished in first place in the regular season of the seventh grade tri-county basketball league. The team competed in 16 games, finishing with a 13-3 record. Garrett County was well-represented in the tri-county league contest, which included Keyser, Frankfort, and all the Allegany County schools. The battle for first place came down to the final game of the season with both Southern and Northern tied atop the standings. The Huskies edged out the Rams 18-14 to claim the first place ranking. "With the talent developing and the intensity we have seen so far, there is no doubt that these Garrett County teams will have some very competitive games for years to come," said Coach Steve Fratz. The Huskies are coached by Fratz and Pete Brosnihan. Both the Huskies and Rams will compete in the Scaletta Tournament, to be held at Westmar High School soon. Pictured above in the front row, from left, are Chelsi Kling, Adria Graham, Jennifer Shaffer, Kaitlynn Fratz, Amber Miller, Eulinda Logan, and Morgan Brosnihan. Second row, same order: Coach Fratz, Brittany Mallow, Tara McKenzie, Alyssa Rounds, Melissa Myers, and Coach Brosnihan.

Winners Noted In Annual Cystic Fibrosis Ski Race

The Second Annual Cystic Fibrosis Ski and Snowboard Race was held at the Wisp recently with 73 racers participating on a giant slalom course. This year the race raised $1,200, nearly doubling last year's total. The money will go directly to the CF Foundation and will be used to find new treatments and hopefully a cure, said Lisa Willig, race coordinator.

Sponsors donated prizes, which were raffled off to the racers. "The success of this race relates back to many local sponsors," said Willig. "We would like to thank the Pittsburgh Pirates, High Mountain Sports, Ski North (Wexford, Pa.), Day 1 Studios (Baltimore), Honi-Honi Bar, Rudy's, Deep Creek Brewery, Brenda's Pizzeria, Underwater Wear, Ed King of Long and Foster, Garrett College Bookstore, and Schneider Downs (Pittsburgh, Pa). A special thanks to the Wisp Ski Resort for supporting our cause."

Below are the top finishers in each category.

Cystic fibrosis is a genetic disease that affects over 30,000 in the US. CF damages the lungs by coating them with a thick mucus secretion. The condition also affects the way the pancreas breaks down fats. Because of this problem, most CF patients take enzymes to help with the breakdowns of fats. Nearly 1,000 children are diagnosed with this disease on a yearly basis.

Winners Of Ice Fishing Contest Are Announced

One winner in the Garrett County Ice Fishing Contest, sponsored by Deep Creek Outfitters Hardware and Bait House and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, for the week ending February 27 was named, and is as follows:

Crappie: 1 lb., 4 ozs., 13 ins., caught by Woody Kenner, Grantsville.

Weekly winners are awarded a certificate, and plaques are awarded for the season's largest catches of bluegill, brown trout, chain pickerel, crappies, northern pike, largemouth and smallmouth bass, rainbow trout, walleye, and yellow perch. To enter the contest, anglers must take their catches to Deep Creek Outfitters Hardware and Bait House at 32 Outfitters Way, McHenry.

The ice fishing contest will continue as long as the lake has sufficient ice cover.

Deer Hunt Kill Tally Declines In Western Md.

Despite a healthy increase in the number of deer killed statewide during the Maryland hunting season, sparked by a record tally of 59,229 antlerless deer, the region that encompasses all of Garrett and Allegany counties saw its harvest figures drop for the second straight year.

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Wildlife and Heritage Service divides the state into two Deer Management regions, with Region A composed of Allegany and Garrett counties and Region B spanning the rest of the state. In Region A, deer harvests were measurably reduced from past seasons. The Region A antlered harvest of 4,659 deer is 25 percent lower than last season, while its antlerless harvest of 5,253 is 12.5 percent below last season.

"We recognize the concerns raised by some western Maryland hunters and will be reaching out to them during the coming months to discuss the results of this season and our plans as we go forward," said DNR Deer Project leader Doug Hotton.

"Maryland's Deer Management Plan guides DNR toward stabilizing white-tailed deer populations at 1997-1998 population levels," Hotton explained. "The current deer seasons and bag limits are designed to meet this goal. Recent deer harvest trends indicate that Region A's deer population has exceeded the deer plan goal. We are currently evaluating the status of current Region A deer hunting regulations in relation to the deer population target."

When both regions are added together, the harvest numbers improve considerably. Maryland deer hunters harvested a statewide total 93,868 deer this season, a 7.6 percent increase over last year. In addition, hunters bagged a record 59,229 antlerless deer (58,373 white-tailed deer, 856 sika deer). The 2004-05 antlerless deer harvest climbed by 9.5 percent from the previous record set in 2002 and exceeded the 2003 figure by 19.6 percent.

"This is great news, because we know that increasing the antlerless deer harvest is the most important step toward balancing our deer population," said Wildlife and Heritage Service director Paul A. Peditto. "The new record harvest demonstrates that hunters are embracing this management strategy and helping us move toward our desired goal."

In contrast, the 2004-05 season saw a decrease in the number of antlered deer taken. The number of bucks included 33,740 white-tailed deer and 899 sika deer and represented a decline of 8.1 percent over the previous season.

"The decrease in buck harvest combined with an increase in antlerless harvest suggests we have been successful in implementing our deer harvest strategies," Peditto commented. "The outcome of this effort over the long-term will be a healthier, higher-quality deer population that is balanced with its environment and human neighbors. We've got a long way to go but this data demonstrates that we're on the right track."

Deer hunting is one component of DNR's deer management project. In Maryland, deer hunting provides outdoor recreation for over 80,000 hunters who spend over 1 million days hunting in the state's woods, fields and marshes. Deer hunting also contributes to a healthy Maryland economy, contributing over $150 million to the state's economy and generating $1.4 million in state income tax and $4.1 million in state sales tax.

Almost eight out of 10 Maryland citizens support hunting, according to the DNR. A 2003 survey of Marylanders by Responsive Management, an internationally recognized natural public opinion research firm, revealed that 78 percent approve of hunting.

Charts of current deer harvest figures compared to last year's harvest, plus additional facts regarding deer biology, deer management, hunting regulations, and deer hunting are available at DNR's Web site at www.dnr.state.md.us/hunters-guide/index.asp.

Scales Back

ing it, Deschenaux said. He estimated the state now faces a $750 million budget shortfall — although it would have been larger if revised revenue estimates released by the state comptroller's office this week hadn't covered some of the gap.

If that figure sounds familiar, it's because the state was projected around this time last year to face a larger deficit.

But the hole turned out to be smaller than predicted, largely thanks to the improving economy. The general fund doesn't include higher education, federal funds, and special funds for specific projects, such as land preservation — the remainder of Ehrlich's $25.9 billion operating budget.

And those figures don't include funding for public-school construction — most of which comes out of the capital budget, which the Appropriations Committee will tackle later this week.

The General Assembly is expected to cut more than $250 million from the overall budget, Deschenaux said. The revised budget is expected to reach the House floor on Friday but won't be debated on until Monday, said committee chairman Norman Conway, D-Wicomico.

WING NIGHT SCHEDULED

The Friendsville Volunteer Fire and Rescue Dept. Inc. will hold Wing Night this Friday and every Friday until further notice from 6 to 9 p.m.

SPECIAL MEETING HELD

A special meeting was held Tuesday, March 15, concerning the parking situation in Friendsville for trucks parking on town streets and in the town parking lot. Over 30 citizens attended. Councilman Tom Fike opened the meeting by squelching any rumors that the town parking lot for tractor trailers. As of the present time, there have been no complaints filed about the town lot or any other streets in Friendsville except for several complaints pertaining to 2nd Ave. Complaints have been filed since last summer pertaining to a truck parking on 2nd Ave. and obstructing the passing of vehicles and also obstructing the view of other travelers. Mr. Fike admits that there was a brief discussion pertaining to truckers obtaining permits to be able to park, but that the ideas were not realistic and there has been no litigation.

Most of the citizens present at the meeting were there because of rumors that the out-of-town truckers were going to be "run out" of the town parking lot. These rumors were quickly recognized as being false, and discussion was done in an orderly fashion. No actions have been successful thus far pertaining to 2nd Avenue, but the Mayor and Town Council assured citizens that by following all available routes, "somehow something will be done."

FRIENDSVILLE COMMUNITY WATCH

The Friendsville Community Watch is sponsoring a bowling trip for Sunday, April 10. A bus will transport to Par-Matt Lanes and will be leaving the school at 1:45 p.m. The bus is scheduled to return around 5 p.m. This event is open to students age 10-21 and the cost is $2 per person. Anyone under the age of 10 must be accompanied by an adult and pay the full price of $9.50. This includes two games of bowling, two slices of pizza, free shoe rental, and a drink. Those wishing to attend should register with JoAnn Ross at 301-746-4210 by April 3.

Teen Recreation will be held every Wednesday from April 20 through May 25 from 6:30 to 8 p.m. at the town park. Youth must attend at least five of six scheduled sessions to be eligible for the free trip to Smiley's for golf, Lazer Tag, and pizza. Free snacks and door prizes will be given each evening of teen recreation. For more information and to register, persons may contact JoAnn Ross at 301-746-4210.

COLLECTING ALUMINUM CANS

Mary Ann Umbel is currently collecting aluminum cans, with the proceeds to go toward the Tim Umbel Memorial Scholarship Fund. Anyone who has cans that they would like to donate to this cause may do so by contacting Mary Ann at 301-746-5109, and she will come pick them up.

The Tim Umbel Memorial Scholarship Fund is a scholarship set up by Coach Paul Edwards of the Northern High School boys' basketball team in Tim's name to be presented to an NHS senior boy or girl athlete who has played four years of basketball, is a leader in the community, and has achieved the academic requirements set forth by the fund. The fund is through the First United Bank & Trust, and donations can also be made at any bank location in Tim's name.

Red Cross Sets April Health And Safety Courses

The Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross, which serves a wide region including Garrett County, will offer several local health and safety services courses next month at the Oakland ARC office, located at 12 S. Third St., and at the Cumberland and Keyser (W.Va.) ARC offices. Preregistration is required for all classes.

The April course listing follows:

•Community CPR – This four-hour course includes caring for and recognizing breathing and cardiac emergencies in adults, children, and infants, including choking; and injury prevention and how to lead a healthy lifestyle for people of all ages. A discount is offered when the course is taken in conjunction with First Aid.

The cost is $30 for a new student and $25 for a student seeking recertification, and includes the text, CPR kit, and certification for one year.

Community CPR will be presented from 6 to 10 p.m. on the following dates at these locations: Tuesday, April 5, in Cumberland; Wednesday, April 13, in Keyser; and Tuesday, April 26, in Oakland.

•Professional Rescuer CPR – This eight-hour course is developed for volunteers and career professionals who routinely respond to emergencies. The course emphasizes how to recognize and respond to respiratory and cardiac emergencies in adults, children, and infants, including two-rescuer CPR and AED training. This course meets the standard requirements for nursing, allied health professions, and emergency medical services.

The cost is $35 for a new student and $30 for a student seeking recertification, and includes the text, pocket mask, and certification for one year.

Professional Rescuer CPR will be offered from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, April 16, in Cumberland.

•Community First Aid and Safety – This eight-hour course combines Community CPR and First Aid courses into an entire day of training.

The cost is $40 for a new student and $35 for a student seeking recertification, and includes the text, CPR kits, FA practice kit, and certification card.

Community First Aid and Safety will be presented from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the following dates at these locations: Saturday, April 2, in Cumberland; Thursday, April 7, in Oakland; Tuesday, April 12, in Cumberland; Tuesday, April 19, in Oakland; Saturday, April 23, in Cumberland; Wednesday, April 27, in Oakland; and Thursday, April 28, in Cumberland.

•First Aid – This three-hour course covers techniques for recognizing and caring for life-threatening emergencies in adults, such as burns, injuries to muscles, bones and joints, sudden illnesses, bleeding, and poisonings, as well as heat and cold-related emergencies. This course meets OSHA guidelines, and is designed to fit the needs of businesses and industries. A discount is applied when taken in conjunction with a CPR class.

The cost is $25 for a new student and $20 for a student seeking recertification, and includes text, practice FA kit, and a three-year certification card.

First Aid will be offered from 6 to 9 p.m. on the following dates at the these locations: Thursday, April 7, in Cumberland; Monday, April 11, in Keyser; and Thursday, April 28, in Oakland.

•Babysitter's Training – This seven-hour course is offered to individuals between the ages of 11 and 15, and includes information and skills teaching necessary to provide safe and responsible care for children. This training will help participants develop skills in basic care, safety and safe play, first aid, leadership, and professionalism.

The cost is $38.

Babysitter's Training will be presented from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Saturday, April 16, in Grantsville.

For further information, or to pre-register for any course, persons may contact ARC Western Potomac Chapter Health Services director Lorri Witt by calling 301-722-1760, ext. 307, or via e-mail at lkwitt@allconet.org.

BETHLEHEM BUNCH CONDUCTS SNOWFLAKE CHALLENGE – The Bethlehem Bunch Community Planning Group recently held a dance with some of Bethlehem youth serving as disc jockeys. The event featured a "Snowflake Challenge" alcohol- and other drug-related educational quiz, and the answers to the questions were posted around the room on multi-colored snowflake cutouts. A correct answer earned a "Play Hard, Live Clean" prize. Pictured are the winners of the Snowflake Challenge, as from the left are Tyler Moore, Andrew Lucas, Brian Schreck, Henry Moore, and Mikey Hardesty. Community Planning Group activities are supported in part by funds from the Garrett County Health Department to prevent alcohol, tobacco, and other drug use, as well as teen pregnancy.

Adorable Adoptables

FRIENDLY, BUT ENERGETIC is how this German shepherd mix is described. She was picked up as a stray and is waiting to be adopted from the Garrett County Animal Shelter. "She will need room to play and some training," said a Garrett County Humane Society spokesperson. Last week's featured canine is still looking for a new home. The Humane Society also reminds residents to please have their pets spayed or neutered. Discount certificates for the procedures are available this month from the animal shelter. Rural Enterprises Event To Explore Land Preservation Issues Saturday

Protection of farmland and preservation of resources and heritage will be discussed by experts from Maryland and West Virginia during the Rural Enterprises Conference, slated for this Saturday, March 19, at Camp Dawson, located off Route 7 just east of Kingwood. Sponsored by the Garrett-Preston Rural Development Coalition (RDC), the daylong forum is open to the public.

"One of the major issues faced by landowners is the pressure to sell property for development," explained RDC chairperson Joyce Bishoff. "We want to offer options to our farmers that provide the incentives to keep their farms and to maintain this way of life that is so much a part of our heritage."

In order to explore farmland preservation options, RDC has invited representatives from regional land trust offices to speak at the annual educational conference.

Among those presenters is Barbara Levin, western Maryland land conservation planner for the Maryland Environmental Trust (MET), a statewide local land trust governed by a citizen board of trustees. MET works to preserve open land, such as farmland, forest land, and significant natural resources.

Levin has spent the last eight years as MET's western Maryland land conservation planner, and also serves as the organization's legislative liaison and Land Trust Alliance conference planner.

"MET's primary tool for preserving this magnificent part of Maryland is the conservation easement, a voluntary agreement between a landowner and MET," Levin explained. She will discuss this and other programs available through the trust during a session at the conference.

Also scheduled to speak is Lavonne Paden, who will address land preservation from the West Virginia perspective. A West Virginia farmland protection specialist with the Canaan Valley Institute, Paden is a certified public accountant and financial institutions consultant with over 25 years' experience.

Since 1990, Paden has researched and written about the preservation of land, including estate planning, conservation easements, and land use issues. She focuses on land planning concerns, new models of land development and protection, and the promotion of public awareness of land protection.

Paden helped to author West Virginia's Voluntary Farmland Protection Act in 1999. She is active in her home county in the eastern panhandle, Berkeley County, most recently serving on the county's Planning Commission, SWAP committee, and Farmland Protection Board. She is working part-time through a CVI-NRCS cooperation agreement to assist counties in West Virginia with their Farmland Protection boards and programs.

In a separate seminar, Donna Dudley will speak about farm heritage and its value to the region. Associated with the Maryland heritage areas program since 2001, Dudley serves as executive director of Four Rivers, the Heritage Area of Annapolis, London Town and County. She initiated the first mini-grants program in the state heritage areas system and produced the first heritage tourism product in the state program, which is an audio CD travelogue tour called Roots & Tides: A Journey Through Southern Anne Arundel County.

Persons may register to attend Saturday's RDC conference through the web site www.morefarmmoney.org, or by calling the Garrett County Extension office at 301-334-6960.

STEAM GROUP STICKS IT TO TOBACCO ADVERTISING – The STEAM anti-tobacco group from Southern High School recently visited medical offices in the Oakland area, as well as school libraries. Their mission was to put anti-tobacco stickers on the covers of magazines that advertise tobacco products. The stickers read as follows: "WARNING: This material contains tobacco advertisements that insult your intelligence. Tobacco ads are lies. The tobacco industry tricks people (especially teens) into believing that tobacco is cool. The truth is: TOBACCO KILLS." Pictured above are some of the participating members of the group, taken as they were working in the library at Southern Middle School library. In the front, from left, are Tabitha Ringer, Britney Hinebaugh, and Ashlee Meyer. In the back are Stephanie Lee (left) and Devynn Brant. For more information about this STEAM project or to have the members visit any local office, persons may contact Sadie Liller at the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-7730 or 301-895-3111.

Frostburg Man Sentenced For Sexual Offense

A 24-year-old Frostburg man was sentenced last week in Garrett County Circuit Court for a third-degree sexual offense. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Perry Nelson Hamilton Jr. to four years in the Division of Corrections, suspending all but 18 months.

Following his release from the Garrett County Jail, Hamilton will be on supervised probation for two years and must register as a sexually violent offender.

Hamilton was arrested and charged in August 2004 by officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation after they determined he had inappropriate contact with a 15-year-old female. The incident occurred in the Friendsville area.

Hamilton pleaded guilty to the third-degree sexual offense last month. A second-degree assault charge was not prosecuted based upon his plea.

In other recent Circuit Court news, Antonio Keith Lappegard pleaded guilty to violating the terms of his probation. Sherbin reimposed Lappegard's original six-month sentence, suspending three months, and ordered him to pay court costs of $355.

Following his release from the Garrett County Jail, Lappegard, 24, will be on supervised probation for three months.

The Upper Marlboro resident had been placed on probation in October 2001 after pleading guilty to theft charges. He never reported for probation supervision, according to the state's attorney.

In an unrelated case, Todd William Riley, 29, also pleaded guilty to violating probation. Sherbin reimposed the Mtn. Lake Park resident's one-year jail sentence.

Riley had originally been placed on probation in 2000 after serving one year for distribution of marijuana. He had been found in violation of his probation, and two years of the three originally suspended sentence were imposed. After serving those two years, Riley was again placed on probation.

"The basis for the violation of his probation was a urinalysis test result that was positive for marijuana and cocaine," said the state's attorney.

Randy Robert Paugh, 40, of Swanton also pleaded guilty last week in Circuit Court to violating his probation. Sherbin reimposed one year of his sentence, which had previously been suspended.

Paugh was placed on probation after serving a one-year sentence in the Garrett County Jail for a DUI conviction received after a jury trial in March 2003. While on probation, Paugh had been charged with and convicted of a DUI in Preston County, W.Va., said the state's attorney.

dorsed by a majority vote of the citizens residing in the annexed area.

Thus, the court's ruling is that Oakland did not comply with the 15-day requirement, and that Mtn. Lake Park's annexation was valid.

When asked if an appeal to Sherbin's ruling would be filed, Oakland Mayor Asa McCain said he did not know at this time.

Oakland Man Handed Jail Term For CDS

An Oakland man was handed a jail term after he pleaded guilty to two separate charges of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) during a recent Garrett County District Court hearing.

Brandon Alexander Louden, 20, was arrested by Garrett County Narcotics Task Force officers in November following a search of his South Fifth Street residence. That search led to charges of marijuana possession and illegal possession of the prescription medication Clonazapan. Louden pleaded guilty to the marijuana charge and was handed a six-month jail term by Judge Ralph M. Burnett, while the prescription medication infraction was not prosecuted by the state attorney's office.

Louden was also arrested in October by Oakland Police officers who apprehended him in front of his South Fifth Street residence after a reported shoplifting at the Oak Street BFS convenience store. He was found to be carrying several items that had been allegedly stolen from the store, and a smoking device that bore burnt marijuana residue. Additional charges of drug misdemeanor theft and drug paraphernalia possession were not prosecuted. Burnett handed down a 30-day jail sentence in that case.

In other District Court news, a Grantsville man received a jail sentence after he pleaded guilty to second degree assault.

Mark Anthony Griffin, 22, was handed a six-month sentence, all but six days of which was suspended, placed on six months' supervised probation, and ordered to complete 30 hours of community service and make a $361 restitution payment to his victim. The charge stemmed from Griffin's November arrest by Maryland State Police troopers who apprehended him after he left the scene of an altercation. Griffin hit another man with a sledgehammer during the incident, then allegedly punched his wife. A second count of second-degree assault was not prosecuted.

A second-degree assault charge faced by Tiffany Lynn Tilgner, 20, Grantsville was placed on the stet docket. State troopers arrested Tilgner after a January domestic altercation, during which she reportedly kicked her boyfriend.

Michael Robert Scouten, 19, Downers Grove, Ill., faced possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia charges filed during a traffic stop by Garrett County sheriff's deputies. A K-9 drug detection dog alerted on Scouten's vehicle during the Interstate 68 stop, and a subsequent search uncovered suspected marijuana in the console and a smoking pipe on his person.

Samantha L. Snyder, 18, Pickerington, Ohio, faced charges of marijuana and drug paraphernalia possession that were placed on the stet docket. The charges were filed by state troopers who searched her vehicle during an August traffic stop on I-68 at Friendsville. A smoking device bearing suspected burnt marijuana residue was discovered in her purse during the search.

CORRECTION NOTED

It was incorrectly reported last week that Glenda Marie Sisler, 25, Md., pleaded guilty to passing a stopped school bus; she actually entered a "not guilty" plea during the hearing, and was handed a PBJ and an $80 fine.

House Scraps Plan To Remove Tax On College Students' Books

by Deitrich Curry
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — The House of Delegates has scrapped a plan to cut student costs by eliminating a tax on textbooks, converting the bill into a plan to create a bulk book buying consortium to reduce prices.

But some lawmakers and book store workers say the bill now won't do much of anything to help students reduce the price of expensive texts.

"Bulk buying has no impact upon cost reduction of text books," said Joyce Nelson, book store manager at Morgan State University. She said books are bought at a fixed price per unit and that unless someone persuades the publisher to reduce the cost of books, the bill probably would not do anything.

"Textbooks are expensive, but so are tennis shoes," she said.

The bill, House Bill 70, passed the House unanimously a week ago, but language eliminating the sales tax on textbooks was deleted in favor of a proposal to create a University Textbooks Consortium within the University System of Maryland.

Members of the House Ways and Means Committee, which heard the bill, said exempting student books from the state's 5 percent sales tax was not worth the estimated $12 million dollars the bill would cost. The bill passed with the major change.

Its purpose to reduce the cost of textbooks for students is still the same, but the method is different, said Delegate Peter Franchot, D-Montgomery, the bill's sponsor.

"I think it's a valid change," said Franchot. "And I hope it passes the Senate."

The cost of education is soaring for college students, and not just in textbooks. Tuition for undergraduate in-state students in the University of Maryland System has risen by an average of about 30 percent over the last few years.

This fiscal year tuition is expected to increase by an average of 5.8 percent. Textbook costs, meanwhile, fall directly in line with inflation, increasing an average of 2.5 percent a year, said J. Bruce Hildebrand, of the Association of American Publishers.

Still, Jahantab Siddiqui, a freshman business and government major at the University of Maryland, College Park, said he's in favor of anything that would make textbooks less expensive. He said he spent about $600 on 10 books this semester for five classes. Some of his classes required five or six books, he said.

"Anything that the state or the university could do to bring down the price of books would be welcomed by students," Siddiqui said.

One Ways and Means Committee member said the General Assembly should take a look at the issue of expensive books in the future.

"One of these days we will truly tackle the question of expensive college textbooks," said Delegate Jean Cryor, R-Montgomery. "But this is not the bill that does it."

Grantsville Man Sentenced For CDS Distribution

A Grantsville man was sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court this week to three years for distribution of a controlled dangerous substance and to two years for attempted distribution of a CDS. Lawrence Denver Wilburn, Grantsville, will serve the two sentences concurrently in the Division of Corrections.

In June 2004, the 42-year-old Wilburn sold hydrocodone, a prescription medication, to a police informant. Using this information, Garrett County Narcotics Task Force officers obtained an arrest warrant for Wilburn.

Later that month, Wilburn was seen driving his vehicle and was stopped for arrest under the warrant. During the search of Wilburn and his vehicle after his arrest, a quantity of prescription medication was located that was consistent with the officers' information that Wilburn was delivering the pills to the informant again, according to the state's attorney.

He pleaded guilty in Circuit Court in January, and sentencing was postponed by the court to have a presentence investigation report completed.

In other Circuit Court news, Joshua Guy Damron, 20, Swanton, pleaded guilty on March 8 to possession with intent to distribute marijuana. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced him to one year in the Garrett County Jail, with six months suspended. He will be on probation upon his release from jail.

Garrett County sheriff's deputies arrested Damron at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry last August. While on patrol on the premises, the officers were talking to a group of people when they observed Damron to have what appeared to be baggies of marijuana sticking out of the pocket of his sweatshirt.

In an unrelated case, Theodore James Shuck, 25, Linden, Va., pleaded guilty in court on March 10 to possession of marijuana. He was sentenced to 30 days in the Garrett County Jail, with 24 days suspended. Upon his release, Shuck will be on probation. He was also fined $200.

A similar charge against Larry Douglas Shuck, 36, Front Royal, Va., was dismissed after Theodore Shuck pleaded guilty to the crime.

The Shucks were charged last April by officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force who were working a drug interdiction assignment along I-68. After their vehicle was stopped for a speeding violation, a drug detection dog alerted to the presence of a controlled dangerous substance, and a marijuana pipe with residue was located, said the state's attorney.

In an unrelated case, David Wayne Welch, 42, Terra Alta, W.Va., pleaded guilty to driving under the influence and driving on a revoked license. The judge sentenced him to 18 months in the local jail for the driving violation and to 30 days for DUI. A $200 fine was also imposed.

Garrett County sheriff's deputies stopped Welch last March after he was seen driving by officers who knew that his privilege was revoked. Upon contacting Welch, officers had observations of his condition and abilities that led also to the DUI charge, according to the state's attorney.

Town Of Oakland Municipal Election Results Noted

The Oakland municipal election was held this Tuesday to choose three town council members. Elected were incumbents Frank Custer, receiving 66 votes, and Harvey "Jay" Moyer, with 67 votes; and former councilman Willard Ringer, with 65 votes.

There are 1,124 registered voters in Oakland, and 75 people voted in this election. "We were extremely pleased with the turnout for this uncontested election," said Mayor Asa McCain.

Write-ins on the ballot were Steve Cowgill and Leanna Boal, each receiving one vote.

Also serving on the council are Kenneth Gotsch, Margaret Jamison, and Christopher Todd.

AN ORCHID GREEN THUMB – Helen R. Friend, who turned 85 last October and is a resident of the Cuppett & Weeks Nursing Home, Oakland, has a knack for growing things. Specifically, she has a green thumb in the difficult cultivation of orchids. She is pictured holding a blooming phalaenopsis orchid, which is purple and white. It takes years for orchids to bloom, and in that time, they must be tended carefully and very regularly. Mrs. Friend has lived at the nursing home since August of 2001. She was born and reared in Altamont, where she lived most of her life except for the 25 winters she spent in Florida with her husband, Sherman L. Friend. Mrs. Friend was a longtime member of Our Father's House log church. She is enthusiastic about all sorts of flowers, but said her favorite type to raise is the elusive orchid.

Loggers/Forestry Field Days Event Set At GC Fairgrounds

The 2005 Western Maryland Loggers/Forestry Field Days and Equipment Show is set for Friday and Saturday, June 10-11, at the Garret County Fairgrounds in McHenry. The biennial event is sponsored by the Maryland Forests Association (MFA).

The Field Days will feature commercial exhibitors representing many major dealers of logging and trucking equipment. Some of the demonstrations will include band saw mills, wood splitters, engines, log trucks, skidders, loaders, chainsaws, and feller bunchers.

The festival will also feature the popular skidder pull competition, during which professional skidder operators compete in two different classes pulling a weighted sled. Also scheduled is a professional game of logging competition, featuring professional loggers from the local area competing in various events similar to those seen on ESPN television. Nearly $5,000 in prizes will be awarded during the skidder pull and logging competition.

Other special events included a professional horse pulling demonstration, an apprentice log loader checker board competition, and Maryland sediment and erosion control (green card) training.

The Loggers/Forestry Field Days will also feature family-oriented educational displays, programs, and demonstrations on many different aspects of forests, forestry and the forest products industry, and old-fashioned craft exhibits.

There will be presentations by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources' Birds of Prey and Scales and Tales interpretive naturalists, artistic demonstrations by chainsaw carver Shelly Upole, and appearances by Smokey Bear.

Food and beverages will be available throughout the two-day festival.

Pre-sale tickets, which are good for both days of the event and include a commemorative hat, are available for $10 while supplies last at locations including the DNR Forest Service offices at Mt. Nebo and in Cumberland, Beckman's Saw Shop in Mtn. Lake Park, the scale house in Luke; Leonard's Saw Shop in Addison, Pa., and Reckhart Equipment in Somerset, Pa., and Elkins, W.Va., and Pioneer Equipment in Elkins.

Advance tickets can also be obtained by contacting Field Days co-chairs Jessica Wilhelm at 301-387-8258 or Anita Simmons at 301-268-6279.

Further details about the Loggers/Forestry Field Days are on the MFA website at www.mdforests.org/fieldays.

hammerhead turnarounds at the end of any private road serving 10 dwellings or fewer, and the fifth proposed amendment would require any dead end turnaround serving more than 10 dwelling units to have a cul-de-sac with a minimum radius of 25 feet.

After getting clarification from Nelson and the commissioners on some of the issues, Charlie Thorne of McHenry said the amendments were "a step in the right direction."

Engineer James Saunders also voiced his concerns about the intersection specifications. He thought some would disturb more areas than necessary, cause problems with ditches, and create dangerous situations. He noted there would be enough room at the intersections for cars to park there, causing problems for people pulling out.

Commissioner Fred Holliday suggested that the county roads department engineer evaluate Saunders' concerns.

Because of the questions and concerns raised at the hearing on Tuesday, Commissioner Ernie Gregg said the record on the amendments would remain open for two more weeks.

Copies of the specific proposals are available upon request from the Department of Planning and Land Development at 301-334-1920.

and then shipped on to an American Woodmark component plant – one of which is located in Moorefield, W.Va. – for further finishing work.

American Woodmark is the only company so far that has committed to locating in the park, but Economic Development has been working to get others to locate there.

"The funds will help in the completion of a new comprehensive industrial park, which will serve as an incubator for job creation," said Sen. Paul Sarbanes, who announced the grant funding. "I'm glad to see that the Appalachian Regional Commission has continued to support job growth in our state's rural areas, as is evident in the Keyser's Ridge Industrial Park project."

The ARC is a federal-state partnership that works with the people of Appalachia to create opportunities for self-sustaining economic development and improved quality of life."

healthcare workers. Let us not add to this ever increasing problem.

I encourage all citizens who are concerned about the safety and wellbeing of the elderly and disabled in Maryland to write the governor at governor@gov.state.md.us. Let him know that this budget cut is unacceptable. Also, let Mr. Busch know that he has created this problem with his stubbornness, and encourage him to support the slots legislation so we can have a balanced budget without tax increases or harmful budget cuts. Mr. Busch is trying to frame the governor as the bad guy, by making it look like he is hurting seniors, when it is really Mr. Busch hurting us all. Don't fall for his tricks.

To the Editor:

Can the citizens of Garrett County afford these sewer costs? One tap for one house now costs $9,500, plus installation! To build a 300-seat restaurant the cost would be an astounding $2,400 per seat or $720,000 for sewer and water taps! This will have an extraordinarily inflationary effect to families and will stop business from expanding employment. This is not an "us" vs. "them" developers' issue.

Our current system is NOT at capacity! The DCL plant has a capacity of 1 million gpd. In 2004 we operated at a mean average of 36% of that number. We did reach 90% of capacity for one day, and 80% capacity on two other days. In 2003 we had one day that broke EPA permitted maximum capacity. Flow at the WWT plant is down to a five-year low in 2004, more than 20% off the maximum incurred in 2002.

How can flow be down with all of the growth, you ask? There are likely several causes, from fewer guests in 2004 to less rain water getting into the system.

Real estate value reaching extraordinary highs does not mean that more people are utilizing the homes for more days of the year. Simply put, the "Aspen syndrome" finds that as the value of homes increases, the very wealthy who buy those homes don't visit as many times, and as homes get bigger, will utilize restaurants and other services less.

The second reason may be that ground water is contributing more than toilet flushes to amount of waste water. March 2003 had 18.9 million gallons, while the busy August only had 14.7 million gallons. Many original installations had old septic system plumbed into the waste water pipes and thus are allowing the old leach bed to add flow into their system.

Businesses and developers are not the driving force behind this issue. The county is acting on advice of council that they have oversold the system. Their lawyer thinks the law requires the plant to provide for the capacity to handle all 5,500 ERUs, even the 2,200 inactive. If the commissioners had the courage to make those 2,200 expire after, say, three years or repurchase them, we would have years of reserve available.

Please let the commissioners know that we can not afford this system. Tell them to utilize all resources to fix the ground water, move to meters, and get the inactive ERUs off the books. Complicated problems often have simple, if very politically tough, answers.

To the Editor:

Did you know that just 5 percent of the population donates blood each year, although as many as 10 times that amount meet donor eligibility guidelines? Your American Red Cross Blood Services urges more members of our community to join this life-sustaining minority who help ensure adequate supplies for all of us.

Your help is urgently needed. Recent winter storms and the widespread outbreak of colds and flu have battered regional blood supplies due to canceled bloodmobiles and donor appointments. Supplies of type O Negative, the universal blood type, have dropped to as low as a half-day supply. Most blood types are below a two days' supply, well below the desired week's supply level.

Patient care at the nearly 100 hospitals served by our Red Cross blood region will be compromised unless more people donate blood. Our neighbors, friends, or family might be the ones who have to postpone a surgery or spend an extra day in the hospital because all our needs cannot be met.

There is no substitute for blood donation. The only way out of this crisis is for people to give life-saving care for others by donating blood.

If you are at least age 17, weigh at least 105 pounds, and are in generally good health, you may be able to donate blood. Individuals with questions about donor eligibility can call us toll-free at 800-542-5663.

For more information on upcoming Red Cross bloodmobiles, call 800-GIVE-LIFE or visit www.redcrosslife.org.

Sincerely,
Dr. Donald D. Forrester

To the Editor:

The forest industry of Maryland announced opposition to a bill designed to protect 3,000 acres of the Crabtree as a Wildland. They have historically opposed any efforts meant to protect Maryland's public forests from logging. They seem to think the public forests belong to them – not the public. That's the real battle going on – not recreation, insects, or fire – but removal of a part of the public forests from access by the logging industry.

Crabtree Slopes contains the largest old growth forest left in Maryland. It's truly a remarkable forest with trees approaching 350 years old. People from all over the state visit Garrett County each year to view the beauty and diversity of species in old growth forests. Swallow Falls is a similar old growth forest whose beauty attracts thousands of visitors each summer.

Visitors to old growth forests spend large amounts of money in Garrett County sleeping in motels, purchasing gas at local stations, eating in local restaurants, and purchasing goods. Studies have shown that four times more money comes from recreation users of public forests than comes from logging activities, and once a forest is logged it's unattractive to recreation users for decades. Money from recreational activities flows directly to businesses, and is good for the county. Most all recreational activities are allowed in wildlands.

The forest industry suggests that fire and disease can't be controlled in a wildland. This is a self-serving statement designed to convince people that forest industry intervention, which means logging, is the only way to produce healthy forests. The "fire and disease" story is being promulgated to convince everyone that the forest industry must "manage" all forests – but a healthy 350-year-old forest, like Crabtree, disproves it.

The ancient Crabtree forest has experienced fire and disease many times, and is still extremely healthy. The trees that remain in this forest are nearly impervious to fire, but they all reveal limited damage from the many fires that have raced through the area over the centuries.

Tell the Garrett County commissioners that old-growth forests deserve our highest protection, and saving forests is good business for the county. Let's reclaim our public forests for public users.

Med. Transcription Courses Slated At Grantsville Ctr.

Garrett College is accepting applications for a new series of medical transcription courses set to begin in May at the Grantsville Outreach Center. The program will run from May 16 through December 19, 2005.

Admission requirements for transcription include proficiency at college level English and typing speed of 45 accurate wpm. Transcription professionals must be familiar with medical terminology, the anatomy of the human body, disease processes, professionalism and medical/legal issues.

"According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, employment in both careers is more in demand than ever before," a college spokesperson said. "This program of study trains students for entry-level positions and allows for the possibility to prepare for certification examinations. Opportunities for employment include physicians' offices, hospitals, other health care facilities and at-home employment. The issue of properly managing and protecting patient health information has steadily increased the demand for coding and transcription professionals.

"Supported by the latest technology, the medical transcription curriculum provides the opportunity for individuals to learn to interpret and transcribe dictation by physicians and other healthcare professionals in order to document patient care and facilitate delivery of health care services. Financial assistance for the program may be available to qualified students," the spokesperson said.

For additional information about these training programs, persons may contact Grantsville Outreach Center coordinator Terry Beachy at 301-895-3368 or via e-mail at tbeachy@garrettcollege.edu.

SOCIAL WORK MONTH PROCLAIMED – The Garrett County commissioners last Tuesday proclaimed March as National Professional Social Work Month in Garrett County. The officials noted that social workers are dedicated to improving society, helping people help themselves, and standing up for others to make sure everyone has access to the same basic rights, protections, and opportunities. The commissioners urged residents "to join in celebration and support of social workers and the social work profession." Pictured, left to right, in the front row are Commissioners Ernie Gregg, Dave Beard, and Fred Holliday. In the back row are Jessica Moran, a student working on her bachelor's degree in social work at the Garrett County Health Department; Nancy-Elizabeth Nimmich, Hospice of Garrett County; Sara Burdett, Garrett County Memorial Hospital; and Donna Fost, G.C. Health Department. Photo courtesy of the Health Department.

Materials On Display At BOE Building

Two instructional materials are being considered for approval by the Garrett County Board of Education and have been placed on display at the board's office at 40 S. Second Street, Oakland. The materials are reading/English language arts curriculum, pre-kindergarten through eighth grade; and mathematics curriculum, pre-kindergar-ten through eighth grade.

Members for the community are welcome to review and comment on this material. The material will be available on weekdays between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. through April 11.

Park Clean-Up Day Scheduled

A spring clean-up day will take place at New Germany State Park on Saturday, April 16. Volunteers are asked to meet at the lake house at 9 a.m., where they will join park staff and members of the Friends of New Germany in cleaning winter debris from trails, cabins, campgrounds, and other park facilities.

Participants should wear work clothes and bring their own rakes if possible. The workday will end with a free lunch. For further information, call 301-895-5453.

Western Md. Science Expo Set To Present Top Young Talent At FSU

Young scientists from schools in Garrett and Allegany counties are preparing for competition in the 17th annual Western Maryland Science Expo, scheduled for Friday, April 1 at Frostburg State University. The Expo is dedicated to promoting science education within the region by recognizing and rewarding student achievement. Garrett County students who qualified for the regional event were selected through science fairs held at Northern and Southern high schools earlier this year.

The many outstanding projects entered in the Expo were locally judged by scientists from various community organizations, resulting in first-, second-, and third-place winners from 13 different categories being invited to represent their schools at the regional fair. The categories at this year's Expo are behavioral and social science, biochemistry, botany, chemistry, earth and space science, engineering, environmental science, medicine, health, microbiology, physics, zoology, and mathematics.

During the daylong Expo, high school students will participate in science workshops conducted in the Compton Science Center on the Frostburg campus designed to extend the problem-solving, inquiry-based science programs occurring in local schools.

Garrett County students will also take a field trip into downtown Cumberland to experience artisan, economic, and cultural diversity as a component of an intense learning experience. This interdisciplinary activity will provide an opportunity for students to experience local history, art, and marketing, along with a culinary presentation and sampling of food products prepared by post-secondary students currently enrolled in the culinary program at Allegany College.

The Cumberland field trip was planned in collaboration the Cumberland Downtown Development Commission, the Regional Educational Service Agency (RESA), and the Garrett County Board of Education, and is partially funded by the Foundation for Education in Rural Maryland.

The students will return to the Frostburg Campus at 6 p.m. for the public viewing of the projects prior to the Awards Ceremony, set to begin at 7 p.m. First-, second-, and third-place awards will be presented in both high school and middle school divisions. The high school grand prize winner and runner-up will both be invited to attend the weeklong Intel International Science and Engineering Fair, slated for May 8-14 in Phoenix.

Twelve middle school students will be nominated for the Discovery Channel's "Young Scientists Challenge." The eventual winner of that competition will participate in a weeklong field trip to Washington, D.C., and will be awarded a $10,000 scholarship.

Special awards will be presented the U.S. Army, U.S. Navy, U.S. Marine Corps, U.S. Air Force, and Eastman Kodak, which are affiliate sponsors of the Expo.

The Western Maryland Science Expo is sponsored by RESA in cooperation in Garrett and Allegany County public schools, Frostburg State University, and Allegany College of Maryland. This year's competition is being coordinated by Dr. Robert Larivee, professor of chemistry at Frostburg State University.

The Expo is made possible by corporate sponsors including CBIZ; Verizon; the Rotary clubs of Oakland, Frostburg, and Grantsville; the LaVale and Cumberland Lions clubs; ABS Warrior Run; First United Bank; David and Mary Margaret Dusenberry; TWR Communications; Delta Kappa Gamma Society International; Mettiki Coal; Dr. Margaret Kaiser; Debbie DeBruin; and Demaree Inflatable Boats.

In addition to the corporate sponsors, the Maryland Science Center from Baltimore will present a special free program for student participants on the day of the regional competition.

FSU will also be making a major contribution by providing lunches for the judges, presenters, and teacher chaperones.

KNOWLEDGE MARCHES ON, and on and on, at the region's high and middle school science fairs that began earlier this year and which will culminate in the upcoming 17th annual Western Maryland Science Expo, set for Saturday, April 1, at Frostburg State University. Public viewing of the events will open at 6 p.m., and the awards ceremony is set for 7 p.m. See story.

JWCC INDUCTS NEW MEMBER – Local resident Ellen Spiker was recently inducted into the Junior Woman's Civic Club. Welcoming Spiker (center) into membership is JWCC president Kathleen Seaman (left) and membership chair Marta Schroyer (right). Junior Woman's Civic Club of Garrett County is a social and civic organization that meets the first Thursday of every month at 6:30 p.m. The object of this organization is the development of its members in intellectual endeavor and community service. The club is open to any woman 18 years of age or older. Persons interested in joining may contact Schroyer at 301-387-5898 or jwcc@iceweb.net for meeting time and information. The annual wine tasting is scheduled for Thursday, April 14, at DC's Mountain Steak House at Wisp. "Save the date now and help the JWCC ladies celebrate 50 years of active service to the county," Schroyer said.

Kamp Awarded ACM Scholarship

The Allegany College of Maryland Foundation announced this week that a local resident was among eight students receiving scholarships supported by tristate area individuals for the current 2004-05 academic year.

Kayla Kamp earned the Iris and Peter Halmos Foundation Scholarship. She is pursuing an associate degree in dental hygiene. A 2004 graduate of Northern High School, she is the daughter of Gregg and Joyce Kamp of Lonaconing.

Deadline Slated For Garrett Soil Scholarships

High school students are reminded that scholarship applications must be received by the Garrett Soil Conservation District by the close of business on April 1. The Conservation District awards two $1,000 scholarships to qualifying applicants each year.

Application forms and eligibility guidelines are available at area high school guidance counselor offices, area college financial aide offices, or the Garrett SCD office, located at 1916 Maryland Highway, Suite C, Mtn. Lake Park.

Salisbury VFD Slates Dinner

An all-you-can-eat roast beef dinner has been set for Sunday, March 20, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Salisbury (Pa.) fire hall, located along Ord Street in Salisbury.

The menu consists of roast beef, mashed potatoes and gravy, noodles, vegetables, cole slaw, choice of beverages, and dessert. Takeouts will be available.

The cost is $7 for adults, $3 for children under 12, and children under 5 eat at no cost. Proceeds benefit the Salisbury Volunteer Fire Department and Ambulance Service.

Jimmie Johnson comes up a big winner at Vegas

By AL LEVINE
Cox News Service

Las Vegas

As the Nextel Cup Series heads to Atlanta Motor Speedway this week, a number of teams really hope what happens in Vegas, stays in Vegas.

Sunday's UAW-DaimlerChrysler 400 at Las Vegas Motor Speedway was a comedy of errors.

Jimmie Johnson had the last, loud chuckle, winning the race in the No. 48 Chevrolet, ahead of teammate Kyle Busch in the No. 5 Chevy and Kyle's big brother, Kurt, in the No. 97 Ford.

It was Johnson's fifth win in the past nine races, with two second-place efforts. However, a post-race inspection uncovered the car was too low on the roof measurement. Meanwhile, Kyle Busch's car, the No. 5 Chevy, was found to be too high at the rear quarter-panel.

And then there were the crashes.

Dale Earnhardt Jr., who will be returning to Atlanta as the defending champion of the Golden Corral 500, didn't have much time to warm up for the event.

He caused a wreck that wiped out four cars, including his own No. 8 Chevrolet, on just his 12th lap. Earnhardt clipped the rear of Brian Vickers' No. 25 Chevrolet going too hard into Turn 1. Bobby Labonte's No. 18 Chevrolet and Ricky Rudd's No. 21 Ford got caught in the wreck.

Earnhardt finished 42nd. He was 32nd two weeks ago at California, and the two finishes dropped him 13 spots to 27th in points.

"I pride myself in not making too many mistakes, but I made a big one today," Earnhardt said. "I got into the corner too hard. He got into the corner a lot easier than I expected him to and I got him turned around. It's my fault and it's a shame. I apologized to him and everyone at Hendrick Motorsports."

Vickers finished 43rd, Labonte finished 41st and Rudd ended up 37th.

"It's been a real frustrating season," Rudd said. "The first three races, we've wrecked in all of them."

Kevin Harvick, in the No. 29 Chevy, battled his way to near the front after starting 42nd because of a qualifying violation only to be set back by speeding on pit road late in the race. Somehow, he finished fifth.

"We had the car to beat today," Harvick said, "but it wasn't to be. We were put back to the back twice and still got a top-five [finish]."

LAS VEGAS NOTEBOOK

Struggling Marlin looks to the future

By AL LEVINE
Cox News Service

Las Vegas

Sterling Marlin turns 48 in a few months, it's been 99 races and three years since he last won a race and his boss says they need to talk.

Can you blame the guy for feeling a bit insecure?

Marlin's No. 40 Dodge finished 35th Sunday. He's 17th in points after three races.

"Winning helps everything," Marlin said. "We know we've got a team that's capable of winning in this series. There's no doubt in my mind that I can still get the job done."

He said he'd like to drive two more years but he's got to talk with team owner Chip Ganassi.

"Chip said something about us talking about the future. I've just got to get with him and sit down and see what he wants to do. I'd like to get something worked out by May or June. A few people have walked up and asked me when my deal's up with Chip, but I like where I'm at. If I can stay here, I'll stay here."

He's also well aware that younger drivers have taken over Nextel Cup.

"I guess most people think you've got to be 22 to drive a Cup car now," Marlin said. "I think that's a crock. We could have won a couple of races last year."

He said he doesn't appreciate some of the kids behind the wheel.

"Some of them are good, but nowadays it ain't their fault. Somebody's got their eye on somebody and they threw them in a Cup car. I think some of them need two or three years of Busch racing so they can work their way up to Cup."

A 'dumb mistake'

Two-time defending race winner Matt Kenseth, in the No. 17 Ford, took himself out of contention Sunday when he bumped into the rear of Elliott Sadler's No. 38 Ford, starting a six-car wreck on Lap 66.

"I made a dumb mistake," Kenseth said. "I just didn't expect him to swap lanes. He came from the lap-down lane in front of me and I couldn't get slowed down. That got us behind and we just had an uphill battle all day."

Johnson looks back

Race winner Jimmie Johnson recalls the previous race at Atlanta, October's emotional victory a week after the Hendrick Motorsports plane crash near Martinsville, Va.

"We did a tire test there recently," Johnson said, "and coming back in the gates, driving in the track, brought back a lot of memories. I think that was good for the team to go back. We left there on such a high note. We were able to win, and I think we'll have a good shot there again."

COMMENTARY

For safety, some drivers prefer to be on the track

By JEFF GLUCK
Cox News Service

The drive down to Daytona from North Carolina just about killed me.

Cruising toward Florida on I-95, a construction zone sprung up suddenly somewhere in South Carolina or Georgia. It was accompanied by a left-lane closure and merge sign, which the car in the right lane failed to see.

As I put on my turn signal and drifted into the right lane, the other car tried to pass a truck, squeezing me out of the rapidly ending stretch of pavement.

I honked once, accelerated onto the shoulder and made the pass — just missing the first orange construction barrel.

The surge of adrenaline was exactly the kind of thrill NASCAR fans get when they act like their favorite drivers on the highway. But race car drivers say the comparisons between racing and interstate driving are few.

"Both are tough for different reasons," NASCAR driver Eric McClure said. "On the track, you have a lot of people who want to be Richard Petty. On the highway, you have a lot of people who think they already are Richard Petty."

McClure is one of the drivers who employs the Williams Co., a public relations firm featuring media ace Chip Williams.

Williams asked several of his clients to address the traffic-vs.-racing question after two Mexican drivers missed a Mexico City news conference leading up to the Busch Series race there. The reason? They were caught in traffic.

It's something fans often wonder — how do NASCAR drivers fare off the track? Do they get in accidents?

The ultimate irony would be the race car driver who gets injured or killed in a street vehicle. There's a reason that rarely happens — race car drivers are experts at avoiding wrecks.

"Nobody is perfect, but you see a whole lot fewer mistakes on the race track than you do the interstate," said Chris Festa, who drives in the Infiniti Pro Series. "If somebody does make a mistake on the race track, the other drivers are usually pretty good at avoiding it."

Festa said he feels safer from accidents on a race track than on a highway like I-95.

"I'd say there are a lot more chances to have a wreck if you are driving down a public road than on the race track," he said.

Auto accident fatalities have held relatively steady over the past 10 years. According to the National Highways Traffic Safety Administration, 36,254 people were killed in vehicle crashes in 1994. Only a small increase from the 38,252 fatalities reported in 2003, the most recent data.

Meanwhile, track safety has continued to improve, especially in NASCAR. The addition of the SAFER barriers or "soft walls" at every track has prevented countless injuries or deaths.

Last year, U.S. Department of Transportation Secretary Norman Mineta attended a Nextel Cup race at Richmond, examining the SAFER barriers and suggesting they could be used on highways.

"The main difference I have seen is the 'awareness factor,' " Infiniti Pro Series driver Travis Gregg said. "Race car drivers know who is around them and can usually tell you who else is near, whether they can see them or not. Too many people driving passenger cars are under the constant assumption they are the only car on the road."

Of course, as Busch Series driver Stanton Barrett pointed out, the biggest difference is the amount of people watching.

"You mess up on the highway, and there are three witnesses and a state trooper to figure it all out, and your insurance company to answer to," he said. "Make a mistake on the race track, and 100,000 people in the grandstands and a million or so more watching on television will tell you how you could have avoided the whole thing."

MATHEMATICIANS HONORED – Mathematicians of the Month for February were recently recognized at Yough Glades Elementary School. In the front, from the left, are Brodie Robison, Jacob Roberts, Dalton Cooper, and Dakota Lambert. In the middle are Austin Helbig, Lindsay Crawford, and Linsay Thomas. In the back are David Lewis, David Dilley, Cecil Travis, and Brandon Umbel.

READERS "ACCEL" AT ACCIDENT ELEMENTARY – The Accelerated Reader Program at the Accident Elementary School plays an important part of the reading curriculum. Each class strives to achieve its grade level goal by reading a certain amount of books and taking an independent test on each book's content. Mrs. Kolbe's first grade and Mrs. Otto's second grade classes, both pictured above, have reached 100%, which means that each student has met the reading goal and has achieved mastery on the tests. Each class received three bean bag chairs, donated by the Beiderlack Company. "Many thanks to our PTO for supporting this program," said Sheila Miller, principal.

HONORED AT FRIENDSVILLE SCHOOL – Students of the Month for January were recently recognized at Friendsville Elementary School. These students demonstrated the character trait of fairness. In the front, from the left, are Brooke Rishel, kindergarten; and Logan House, pre-kindergarten. In the back are Levi Sisler, third grade; Patrick Sines, fifth grade; Ashley Edmonds, fourth grade; Abby Ireland, first grade; and Ella Sisler, second grade.

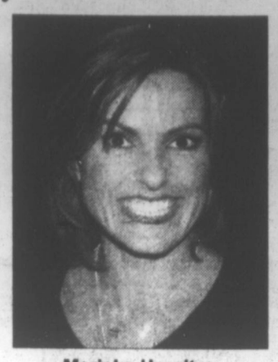
TV PIPELINE

Hargitay did 'ER' duty before 'L&O: SVU'

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it



Mariska Hargitay

Q: Was Mariska Hargitay of "Law & Order: Special Victims Unit" ever on "ER" as Dr. Greene's (Anthony Edwards) girlfriend in the mid-'90s? She had really long hair and looked taller, but for some reason, I keep thinking it was her. –Gregory Erdman, Middle Island, N.Y.

A: That's because it was. She appeared throughout the show's 1997-98 season, then started her "L&O: SVU" role – for which she recently earned a Golden Globe Award – in the fall of 1999.

Q: What is Simon Baker, who starred in my favorite show, "The Guardian," doing now? –Jeanne Jayne, Jackson, Mich.

A: You can see him on the big screen opposite Naomi Watts as well as Sissy Spacek and Emily VanCamp ("Everwood") in the just-opened horror sequel "The Ring Two." Baker will stay in a scary vein with his next movie, "Land of the Dead," from "Night of the Living Dead" and "Dawn of the Dead" mentor George A. Romero.

Q: Is the actor who plays Teri Hatcher's ex-husband on "Desperate Housewives" the same actor who played Amy Brenneman's ex-husband on "Judging Amy"? –E.M. Witmer, York, Pa.

A: Yes. He's Richard Burgi, who is currently breaking his streak by playing a still-married man as a full-fledged star of the eerie Fox drama series "Point Pleasant."

Q: Recently, my husband said he wanted to watch the movie "Red River." I said I remembered that movie with John Wayne and Montgomery Clift. He said, "No, the movie is with James Arness and Bruce Boxleitner." Was the movie he wanted to watch a remake, or am I losing my memory? –Audrey Arney, Cedaredge, Colo.

A: Don't worry; you aren't. He was thinking of a 1988 made-for-CBS remake of the classic, Howard Hawks-directed 1948 Western that did star Wayne and Clift.

Q: Several sources reported that Sissy Spacek was scheduled to appear on "ER" as Dr. Kerry Weaver's birth mother, but when the episode aired on Feb. 10, it was Frances Fisher playing the role. What happened? –Thomas C. Rizzo, Jr., Largo, Fla.

A: After NBC had widely touted landing the rarely-seen-on-television Spacek for the part, about a week and a half before the episode aired, the network suddenly announced she had pulled out because of a "scheduling conflict" and was being replaced by Fisher.

Hotel Rwanda
Rated PG-13 - Running time: 2:01
Review by Adam Sincell

Not since Schindler's List have I come across a story so incredibly moving in its ability to depict the strength of human integrity in the midst of horrific tragedy. Hotel Rwanda takes a look at the true story of Paul Rusesabagina, a remarkably courageous hotel manager who saved over a thousand lives during the political struggle against the Hutu militia in Rwanda during the mid-1990s. Though he was thought to be a Hutu sympathizer, he sheltered countless Tutsi refugees in the face of such brutality. Though violent at times, this movie is certainly one of the most inspiring films I have seen in a long time. It is a movie of overwhelming depth, emotionally and educationally.

Paul Rusesabagina (played by Don Cheadle; Swordfish, After the Sunset) ran Rwanda's finest hotel, and was known to have visited with the top officials of the country on a regular basis. He was known for his genuine sociability and his knack for hospitality. He was truly a man of high class and importance when it came to business affairs, but as the atrocities toward the Tutsi party of Rwanda ensued, Paul was the first man to trust. Having a wife (Tatiana Rusesabagina, played by Sophie Okonedo) and three children of his own, Paul was a family man who could not turn his back on the helpless. As the war gradually began to worsen, he offered his hotel as an unofficial refugee shelter. Thus, as many times as the place was ransacked and threatened to be evacuated, the armies could do nothing to eliminate those who were not technically receiving protection. They were merely considered guests at the hotel. With numerous yet still inadequate attempts by the UN to keep the country in a state of peace, the hotel remained a beacon of hope for countless citizens of Rwanda. In the end, Paul Rusesabagina's determination proved victorious over the atrocious violence taking place against the Tutsi.

The acting in this film is absolutely phenomenal all around. Don Cheadle and Sophie Okonedo were both nominated for Academy Awards for their roles here, and rightfully so. Cheadle's portrayal of Paul Rusesabagina is poignant and maintained extremely well, and Okonedo's passionately executed supporting role gives a perfect balance to the film. Their chemistry together radiates through the screen as if one were watching a real-life husband and wife. Not to be overlooked also are the performances of Nick Nolte as the United States UN leader, as well as Cara Seymour's interpretation of Red Cross leader Pat Archer. The entire cast succeeds admirably as they present a story that is gut-wrenching, heartbreaking, but ultimately uplifting.

As I stated earlier, this movie is rather violent. The PG-13 rating is appropriate, but it is in light of the violence more than anything. However, I never once got the feeling that the brutality portrayed in the film was overdone. So many movies take the idea of movie magic for granted and offer so much blood and gore for shock value alone. This movie keeps it under control so as not to detract from the overall message of the piece. I walked out of the theatre with so much to think about, and in my opinion, that's what constitutes a great movie. It shows the capability of the human spirit, both good and bad. Despite the treacherous acts one group of people can inflict on another, what resonates is the fact that one human being can make a huge difference. In light of our own country's state of conflict, I think it is important to be able to watch a movie that reminds us of the preciousness of life and the integrity of selfless human beings. Hotel Rwanda did so much for me on numerous levels. It's not to be missed by anyone who has a chance to see it.

Hospice Slates Faith In Action Vol. Training

Hospice of Garrett County Inc. has slated its Faith in Action in Garrett County volunteer training classes for Saturday, April 2, 9, and 16. The classes will be held at the Hospice office, located at 69 Wolf Acres Drive, lower level, Oakland, and will last from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. each Saturday.

Hospice is seeking patient care volunteers who provide companionship to terminally ill individuals and their families. They may be asked to sit with the patients, run errands, or help in other various ways.

More volunteers are needed for bereavement after-care, a spokesperson said. The Hospice Bereavement Team stays in touch with the family for one year after the death of a loved one. Mailings, home visits, and a continuing telephone relationship are maintained during that time.

The April 2nd agenda will include an overview of the organization by Brenda Butscher, Hospice executive director. Ida Maust, Hospice volunteer coordinator, will present Working with the Volunteer Coordinator, and Nancy Elizabeth Nimmich, social worker, will discuss the following topics: Listening Skills, Family Dynamics, and Stress Management.

On April 9, a class on Personal Care will be led by Cheryl Scheffel, RN, director of clinical services. She will also teach HIPAA and Patient Privacy, Universal Precautions, Infection Control, Documentation, Confidentiality, Safety, and Signs and Symptoms of Approaching Death. Shirley Fitzwater of First United Bank & Trust will teach a session on Legal and Financial Planning, and Audrey Kennedy of Garrett Rehab Services will lead a discussion titled Transfer Skills.

The final session, set for April 16, will offer the class Spiritual Aspects, led by Pastor Paul Yoder. Grief Counseling Skills will also be given that day by Jane Sealing, director of bereavement. Lynn Newman of Newman Funeral Homes will lead a class titled Funeral Home Aspects.

"Hospice extends an invitation to local residents to become part of the Hospice team and to be a patient care volunteer or bereavement volunteer," said Butscher. "Volunteers will find working with the terminally ill and their families is very rewarding. Keep in mind that doing good for others is doing good for yourself."

To register for the training class, or to obtain more information, persons may call the Hospice office at 301-334-5151; or in the Grantsville area: 1-800-521-5252.

Cinnamon and Type 2 Diabetes

Diabetes is a condition characterized by high blood sugar that results from problems with insulin secretion, insulin action, or both. Chronic high blood sugar levels are associated with increased risk of heart attack, stroke, kidney failure, and blindness. Recent attention has focused on the possible benefit of using cinnamon in the management of Type 2 diabetes (also called adult-onset diabetes). Cinnamon has been shown to increase glucose uptake in animal and human studies. A recent study in patients with Type 2 diabetes showed that cinnamomum cassia given in doses ranging from 1-6 grams per day lowered blood glucose by 18-29%.

Chinese cinnamon is the only form that has been studied for this purpose. This form is widely used in the US, although commercial preparations often contain various other forms. More research is needed to fully understand the role of cinnamon in the management of Type 2 diabetes. Prescription medications and a diabetes diet should be continued, and blood glucose monitored carefully if cinnamon is added to the therapy.

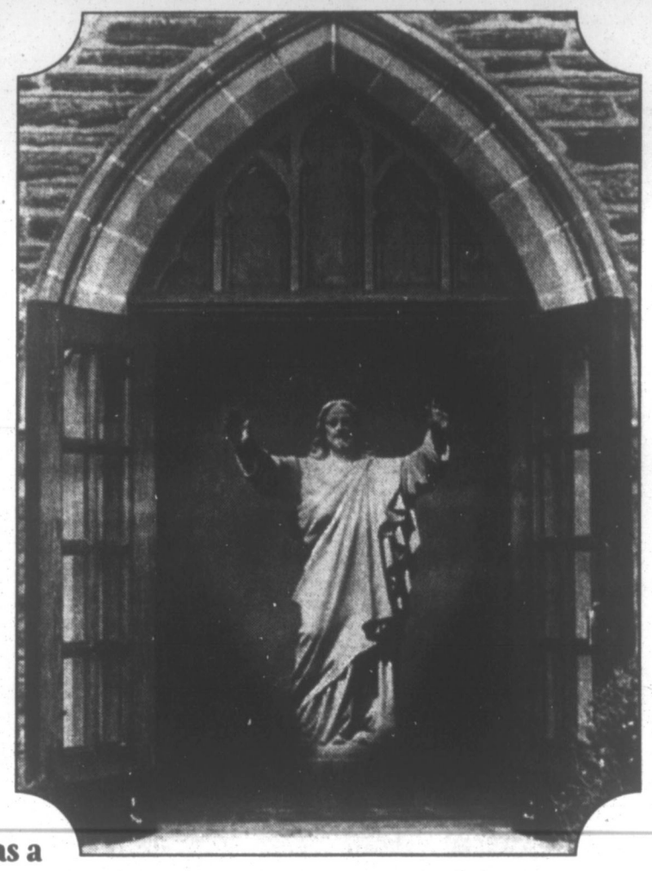
The Strength of His Outstretched Arms

"The apartment building was ablaze! A horrific scream pierced the roar of the flames as the terrified woman held her toddler out the window. Miraculously, an alert onlooker, seeing the child, caught her in his outstretched arms! How incredible! What trust! How everyone cheered!"



What a refreshingly positive story. Yes, that mother placed all of her trust in the onlooker, but what was she to do? She had to make the choice to trust his ability to save her precious child. She had faith in the strength of his outstretched arms. It was a choice of life or death.

In much the same way, our spiritual lives face jeopardy. We feel the pressure of society to conform to unhealthy habits. We feel the economic pressure to sacrifice family time for the sake of possessions. We must make choices as well that will decide the fate of our spiritual lives.

Won't you choose the outstretched arms of your Heavenly Father? We read in Deuteronomy 33:27, "The eternal God is your dwelling place, and underneath are the everlasting arms..." God's earthly dwelling place is your local House of worship. He waits there to rescue you from harm.

Dancing Lessons with God

A wise man once said that unusual travel suggestions are likened to dancing lessons from God. The point of this, I suppose, is that we might learn more about life by traveling to unusual places or by traveling in unusual ways. For instance, going to Australia instead of Disney World, or traveling by bus instead of by plane are more likely to be life-enhancing, consciousness-expanding experiences; in short, a dance lesson with God. Another lesson to be taken from this is that moving through life should be more like dancing than simply taking a walk, which means we should try to move gracefully and beautifully as well as joyfully. How should we dance through life? The simplest and most beautiful way to do this is through love. By opening our heart to love, and loving those around us, the world is transformed from a dark, cold and dreary place to one of light, warmth and joy.

This is my commandment, that you love one another as I have loved you.
R.S.V. John 15:12

First-Time Reptile Owners

Q. I'm interested in buying a lizard or a snake as a pet, but I don't have any experience in keeping such exotic creatures. What's the best way for me to find out which reptile is best for me, and how to care for it? — Lacy T., Savannah, Ga.

A. Numerous books on reptile selection and care are available, but I recommend talking to people who already keep these interesting pets. They can point out the most important aspects of choosing a pet and providing a home for it.

People who keep reptiles are just as enthusiastic about their pets as any other pet owner. They form clubs and associations to keep each other informed on the latest methods of care, to show off their companions, and to address issues that concern them all. They also correspond with professional societies of reptile researchers, like the Society for the Study of Amphibians and Reptiles (SSAR) and the Herpetologist's League.

The best place to start your search for a reptile or amphibian is the local pet store. This may or may not be the best place to actually purchase your pet (some stores specialize in these pets, while others have little or no knowledge of them). However, it doesn't hurt to ask around; you may find a reptile owner working there, or someone who knows of an owner, a specialty shop, a club, book or Web site.

In any case, you'll likely be pointed in the right direction and will be able to gather essential information quickly, allowing you to find the perfect pet — and a group of fellow enthusiasts who can help you care for it properly.

Parlor Stove

Q. I have an old heating stove that is made of cast iron with chrome and brass trim. It appears to be quite old and is in near mint condition. How can I find out its value? — Shawn, Bellevue, Neb.

A. Old stoves have become a hot collectible, especially the more elaborate models that were crafted for front parlors. I suggest you begin your investigation by contacting the Antique Stove Association, 2617 Riverside, Houston, TX 77004. Two dealers who might also be helpful are Richard Richardon, Good Time Stove Company, P.O. Box 306, Goshen, MA 01032; and Mike Tainor, Mike's Stove Works, 98 Webster St., Haverhill, MA 01830.

Q. Where can we find the value of a letter that we think is signed by Abraham Lincoln? — Tony, Crossville, Tenn.

Q. I have old land grants signed by Andrew Jackson, Martin Van Buren and John Tyler. Any value? — Ed, Oakwood, Ill.

A. The first thing to do is find an expert who can help you determine if the signatures are authentic. Three established dealers who will help you in that area are Brian Kathenes, P.O. Box 482, Hope, NJ 07844; Caroline Birenbaum, c/o Swann Galleries, 104 East 25th St., New York, NY 10010; and Ray Nugent, Nugent Appraisal Services, P.O. Box 11984, Naples, FL 34101. Always remember to get several opinions before you agree to a sale.

• Yet another example of the strange evolution of language: The word "fastidious" originally meant "something disgusting."

• Rod Serling is best known as the creator, writer and producer of the TV series "The Twilight Zone," which first aired in 1959. It seems he was also quite witty; he's the one who made the observation, "It is difficult to produce a television documentary that is both incisive and probing when every 12 minutes one is interrupted by 12 dancing rabbits singing about toilet paper."

• Those who study such things — whoever they are — claim that a single 28-ounce jar of Jif peanut butter contains 1,218 peanuts.

• After its release, "Lawrence of Arabia" won many film awards and was one of the most popular movies of its time. Considering how many people saw it, it seems strange that few people notice that during the entire film — which runs three hours and 36 minutes — there is not a single line spoken by a woman.

• An undertaker in France, Claude Pommereau, was killed in a freak accident: A coffin crushed him in his hearse. Those making the funeral arrangements must have had a sense of irony: They had him buried in the coffin that crushed him.

• Maine lobsters are coveted delicacies the world over, but one was recently caught that is becoming famous in its own right. "Bubba" — as the locals have named him — is enormous, weighing in at 50 pounds. He's so large that an ordinary lobster would fit in one of his claws. Experts say he's probably 50 years old. Unsurprisingly, this specimen is now on its way to a Ripley's Believe It or Not museum.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

DOES MANKIND CAUSE GLOBAL WARMING?

by Dr. Thomas P. Sheahen

Q. First you said there is such a thing as global warming. Then you said the Kyoto treaty wouldn't help much. So, are people the cause of global warming, or not?

A. Great question! And nobody knows the answer!

The trouble is, the predictions of man-made global warming are based on computational models, and there are precious few facts to depend on. The idea that mankind might cause global warming is a good reason to take precautions, but the idea of spending a whole lot of money for a "maybe" is certainly not very popular. Scientifically, this question is wide open.

First, a quick review: The globe is kept warmer by certain gases trapping heat radiation near the earth's surface. Foremost among those gases is H_2O, water vapor, and we like the warming it causes. CO_2 (carbon dioxide) also is a "greenhouse gas" but has a much smaller effect. One theory says that CO_2 produced by mankind will become a significantly larger effect within about 50 years. The Kyoto treaty strives to limit the amount of man-made CO_2 that nations produce, but it will only reduce CO_2 by a tiny amount, not enough to prevent any warming.

That "one theory" is a huge computational model that tries to emulate the earth's climate system, by including the absorption effects of several gases. The weakness of the model is that it does not include the effects of clouds, which have a dominant effect upon the world's climate. Any model that looks toward the future should be able to "predict the past" – that is, when run with known input data from the past, it should calculate the results that actually happened. That has not been successfully done. Therefore, many scientists are understandably suspicious of its predictions about the future effects of CO_2.

The even bigger problem is that the climate itself changes from time to time, regardless of what mankind may be doing. Earth undergoes occasional ice ages, warm periods when all the glaciers melt, and so forth, over millions of years. It is possible to rediscover what Earth's temperature has been for thousands of years in the past by means of certain measurements; these are called "proxy" measurements because they tell the temperature indirectly. Tree rings, ice cores, and a few other measurements fall into this class. The data from such measurements shows that Earth was as warm as today as about 1,000 years ago, and around 1400 Earth went into a cooling period until the mid-nineteenth century. Since then the average temperature has drifted back to higher levels. During the 20th century there was substantial warming up to 1940, then cooling until 1975, a sudden rise in 1976-78, then more cooling, and finally more warming in the last decade of the century. It's very difficult to make the case that mankind caused such erratic temperature swings.

Scientists argue about the details all the time. About six years ago, a study came out claiming that the temperature was almost flat for 1,000 years and then rose sharply during the 20th century. The clear implication was that mankind was to blame. The shape of the temperature chart looked like a hockey stick lying on its side, and so this was dubbed the "hockey stick" model. A recent study closely examined the data-crunching methods, and then discredited that model, citing an error in computer programming. Still more recently, new data has appeared indicating that the ocean is getting warmer, and of course the ocean is able to store a lot more heat than the atmosphere. So the controversy continues, as scientific measurements are interpreted in conflicting ways. Experts on both sides argue their points with some validity. That's the way science is supposed to happen.

Unfortunately, international politics has crept into the global warming issue, and there is a lot of hostility and unscientific behavior going on as a result. Some very reputable scientists have stated, "Don't put faith in computer models, but instead look at the data." They are being denounced as heretics by media-hungry types, who say "everybody knows..." or "there is a consensus..." or claim the doubters of global warming have been bought off by the oil companies, or some such conspiracy theory.

The fact is that there is not a scientific consensus, despite what you might have seen on the evening news on TV. So at present there is no answer to the question "Is mankind to blame?" Still, it's a wise precaution to avoid producing additional CO_2 whenever possible.

POSTER FEATURES HISTORIC NATIONAL ROAD – Deb Clatterbuck, director of tourism and marketing with the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, points out historic information and photos on a framed copy of the National Road poster to Donald Hershfeld of Streams and Dreams Bed & Breakfast. A limited number of the posters, featuring the western Maryland portion of the road, is available through the chamber to educators and history buffs. Those interested may stop by the Visitors Center in McHenry. See story for details.

National Road Posters Available From Chamber

Posters of western Maryland's portion of the historic National Road are available through the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce to educators and history buffs on a first-come, first-served basis.

With photos and short sections of information about locations along the road passing through Allegany, Garrett, and Washington counties, the map is a "real history lesson in brief," said Deb Clatterbuck, chamber director of tourism and marketing, and president of the Maryland National Road Association.

A road rally is being planned for this coming Father's Day, June 20, along the historic National Road. This poster can help people understand historical events and places along the road, noted a chamber spokesperson. More information will be provided closer to the event.

"The Road that Built the Nation" was the first federally financed highway. In 1806, Congress authorized and President Thomas Jefferson signed legislation approving construction of the Cumberland Road. The road was to connect the populated East to the Ohio River.

The National Road eventually stretched from Baltimore to Vandalia, Ill., by 1850. For the most part, it lies southeast of the old Braddock Road, the route taken by General Edward Braddock and George Washington on their ill-fated march to Fort Duquesne during the French and Indian War. Parts of American history from the 1700s through 2003 are noted on this map, said Clatterbuck.

The map was financed in part by a grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission. The historic postcards on it and research were provided Albert Feldstein.

GC Airman Earns Awards, Meets Two Presidents

U.S. Air Force Airman 1st Class and Garrett County native Nathan Fitzwater has recently been recognized with several awards, including the Commander's Ground Safety Award for his role in the rescue of a Navy pilot whose plane's navigational equipment malfunctioned, forcing an emergency landing at Andersen Air Force Base, Guam.

Fitzwater's various service awards helped earn the firefighter and emergency services member of the 36th Civil Engineering Squadron, 36th Air Expeditionary Wing, the unique opportunity of meeting two presidents. He was one of seven airmen selected to greet Presidents George H.W. Bush and Bill Clinton during the pair's recent stop at Andersen AFB while en route to Sri Lanka to monitor tsumani relief efforts. The selection was made by a board that reviewed a pool of airmen's service records and award packages.

Fitzwater also recently received the Airman of the Quarter Award and Airman of the Group Award for the quarter.

In addition to those official recognitions, Fitzwater was featured in the February issue of The Department of the Defense magazine, which contained a close-up picture of the airman in face camouflage. That photo, which appears on this page, may also be viewed on the magazine's web site at www.defenselink.mil/photos/Feb2005/050129-F-5040D-009.html.

Readers of The Republican may recall that in January, Fitzwater and six other firefighters from his Guam-based squadron had received orders to aid in the Sri Lankan tsunami relief efforts. After the necessary preparation and being put on standby for almost a week, the mission was canceled for the Andersen AFB Fire Department, and another military fire department was sent in its place. The change in orders was a "great disappointment" for the airman, according to his mother, Joyce Fitzwater.

In his spare time, the 2003 Southern High School graduate is playing pro baseball for the Guam AK Islanders. The former Ram standout plays first base for the Islanders squad.

Fitzwater is the son of Joyce and Ralph Fitzwater and the grandson of Patience Fitzwater, all of Oakland; the grandson of Retha and John Duckworth, Frostburg; and the great-grandson of Dessie Bell, Accident.

Dietetic Caucus Donates Books To Area Libraries

March is National Nutrition Month, and to observe the month, local members of the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center (WMAHEC) Dietetic Caucus are promoting good nutrition by donating books to libraries in Allegany, Garrett, and Washington counties. County libraries will receive seven new children's books that promote healthy eating in a "fun and entertaining" way. New titles include Apples, Apples, Apples; In the Kitchen; Now I Have Grown; The Surprise Garden; Jamberry; Today is Monday; and Picking Apples & Pumpkins.

Nutrition books will also be donated to libraries at the Thomas B. Finan Center, the Western Maryland Health System, and the Western Correctional Institute. A copy of the video Cardiovascular Nutrition 2005 will be presented to the Western Maryland AHEC Learning Resource Center. Additionally, the book Eating Well on Campus will be donated to the libraries of Allegany College of Maryland and Frostburg State University.

The Dietetic Caucus is supporting the WMAHEC Social Work Caucus' food drive, which benefits the Western Maryland Food Bank. March is also National Social Work Month.

The caucus meets bimonthly to plan continuing education and other events, as well as to discuss current issues affecting dieticians. To learn about the WMAHC Dietetic Caucus, persons may contact JoAnn Fletcher, caucus liaison, at 301-777-9150, ext. 141.

DAV GROUPS DISBAND, DONATE – Mtn. Top Chapter #29, Disabled American Veterans (DAV) and DAV Auxiliary, recently disbanded and donated flags, scrapbooks, and political memorabilia to the Garrett County Historical Society. The society is planning to unveil a display of these items in the window of the Lettman Building, located across Oakland's Second Street from the museum. Pictured, from the left, are former officers of Mtn. Top Chapter #29, Wilda Sanders, Lena Uphold, Clara Gauer, and Dorothy McPhail.

GBI Charges Juveniles With Phone Misuse

Three Oakland juveniles were charged with telephone misuse and harassment after an investigation was completed by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation. The juveniles allegedly used a cell phone to place numerous prank phone calls to the Garrett County Emergency Management 911 system from January to March 2005.

"The Garrett County Emergency Management System experience great difficulty answering legitimate emergency calls when the prank phone calls were placed," according to an emergency management spokesperson.

Any person with information relating to prank phone calls being placed to 911 should contact GBI at 301-334-1909.

Rite Aid Plans Hot Dog Sale For Charity

Grantsville Rite Aid will sponsor a hot dog cart in the Grantsville Plaza parking lot on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, April 1, 2, and 3. All proceeds will benefit the Children's Miracle Network.

Items for sale will include hot dogs, chili dogs, chili cheese dogs, baked goods, and soda.

For more information or to make a donation, persons may contact Colleen Welch at 301-895-5722.

Public Auction Set To Benefit Youth For Christ

A public auction to benefit Mt. Top Youth for Christ will be held this Saturday, March 19, at the Grantsville fire hall, beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Current artisan donations for the auction include a wood-carved feather by bird carver Gary Yoder, a Lynn Lais pottery casserole dish with lid, a Beitzel Corporation hand-made copper tool box, a Critchfield shadow box display, a Critchfield cross stitch, 20 hand-crafted fishing flies, and slate paintings.

Current business and local donations include a Keystone Lime truckload of gravel, Penn Alps jelly and jam sets, Fern Wood soap baskets, leather belts, bird feeders and houses, a stained glass and oak cupboard and coffee table, marble rollers, wood patio furniture, school desks, a kitchen table, an oak library cupboard, refinished and used furniture, and various household items.

Baked goods and other items will also be available.

Association Slates Sunrise Service

The Garrett County Ministerial Association will hold its 44th annual Easter Sunrise Service on Sunday, March 27, at 7 a.m. at Garrett County Memorial Gardens in Oakland. The event will be held regardless of weather conditions.

Following a musical prelude, Rev. Mark Hickman and Rev. John Grant will lead the service.

Group participation will be sought for the singing of "Jesus Christ is Risen Today" and "Welcome, Happy Morning, Age To Age Shall Say."

Crellin Assembly To Host Easter Musical Program

The Easter musical Jesus, We Crown You With Praise will be presented by the Crellin Assembly of God at 6 p.m. on Sunday, March 20, and 7 p.m. on Monday, March 21.

With a choir and cast of over 60, the drama brings to life Christ's ministry with his disciples, the anticipation and excitement of his entry into to Jerusalem, the agony and suffering of his crucifixion, and the power of his resurrection," said a church spokesperson.

The public is invited to attend. The Crellin Assembly of God church is located just west of Oakland at 2220 Hutton Road. For more information, persons may call the church at 301-334-3867.

PARTICIPATING IN A MOCK TRIAL AT NHS – The Northern High School U.S. government class participated in a trial demonstration at the high school recently. The trial, State v. Alex Goldman, came from the Maryland State Bar Association's statewide high school mock trial competition. The case was about Alex Goldman, who was charged with violation of the Maryland criminal code 2-209, and claimed that Goldman was charged with three accounts of vehicular manslaughter and the death of three teenagers. The case dealt with a young teenage driver who may have been drinking alcohol. Students tried the case in the school cafeteria with Mr. Price, teacher at NHS, as the judge and the Northern Mock Trial team as the jury. Kenny Rogers, a student at the NHS, said he learned about the Maryland court system and how it works. Brad Brinegar participated as a lawyer. "I learned a lot about the law by experiencing what actually happens in the court trial," said Ronnie Wilhelm, who portrayed Goldman. Michael McKewen said it helped with his public speaking skills, and Rick Mosser said he enjoyed acting as a forensic specialist because he used math to disprove people's testimonies. The trial demonstration project was "as realistic as possible for a high school presentation," said Price. Above, in the front from the left, are Mosser and Amy Sliger. In the back are Tom Ables, Wilhelm, Brineger, Paul Railey, Rogers, Gerald Rizer, Mike Bender, and Kevin Jones. Absent were McKewen, Justin Compton, Amanda Friend, and Johanna Winter. 4-H Club News

The Bittinger 4-H Club will sponsor a buckwheat cake supper on Friday, March 18, at the Bittinger Fire Hall. Homemade buckwheat cakes will be featured along with pancakes, sausage, sausage gravy, and drinks. The meal is an all-you-can-eat, and will be served from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. Cost is $5 for adults, $3 for children ages 6 to 12, and children ages 5 and under eat for free.

Servers at the dinner will be Darryl, Elliot, and Blakely Glotfelty; Emma, Scott, and Matt Bass; Caity and Mere Sussman; and Alex Beitzel, David Beitzel, and Sam Sherrard. Claire Sussman and Robbie Glotfelty, home for spring break, will also help with the dinner. "Come out and enjoy some of the best homemade cakes in the county," said a club spokesperson.

Future dates for buckwheat cake dinners are April 8 and 29.

Members of the Bittinger 4-H presented their speeches at the March meeting. They were Blakely Glotfelty, The Death Penalty; Elliot Glotfelty, Tsunamis; Darryl Glotfelty, Pollution; Scott Bass, Gambling, is it a waste of money; Caity Sussman, Advertising; Mere Sussman, Jennifer Aniston; Alex Beitzel, Person I look up to the most; and David Beitzel, My favorite type of music and why. Blakely Glotfelty will attend the county public speaking contest, which will take place on Thursday, March 17.

LOCAL CHURCH MEMBERS "WINTER BUILD" – Members of Oak Park Church of the Brethren recently spent a Saturday participating in Garrett County Habitat for Humanity's "Winter Build." The new program was started to lengthen the building season by constructing home walls inside the spacious Simon Pearce facility. A crew of 17 men and women, five Habitat personnel, and future owner James Parsons met at the glass company, located near Mtn. Lake Park. "Armed with building plans, saws, hammers, nails, and the willingness to get the job done, we completed not only the exterior walls but all the interior walls of this new home," said Pastor Cathy Menker. "In addition, headers for a second home were completed along with drilling electric cable holes in all the studs." The women of Oak Park Church supplied a hearty lunch for the crew, which worked from 8 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. "This same crew is so excited about what they accomplished – the fun and fellowship they received – that the same question keeps being asked, 'When do we put up our walls?" Menker said. "Through their dedication to our Lord, these selfless workers know that two wonderful things began that day – a brand new home and their desire to be part of more Habitat projects. Thanks, Habitat for inviting us to be a part of something really special." The organization plans to build one additional home this year and is in need of local people to get involved. Churches that would like to participate in the Winter Build program may contact Doug Riley at 301-533-0600 or driley@garrettcac.org.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Today is my favorite day in the year – "The Ides of March." Anyone with any basic knowledge of literature will recognize the quote "Beware the Ides of March." It is from Julius Caesar by Shakespeare. For some reason it seems to hit my sense of humor, and often on March 15 I quote that phase to anyone I happen to meet.

This "Ides of March" is an unthreatening day, with no falling snow, no wind, and at least some sunshine; even some solar warmth shining through. Glory hallelujah! Thank God! This short dreary winter is starting to die, and you can believe spring will come soon. Just the possibility of spring is enough to lift my spirits noticeably. I am busy putting some finishing touches on a nice painting of winter in my neck of the woods. Most people can't see any color in the winter landscape except for white, black, and a little green, but if you look closer there are also gold, yellow, red, purple, and, of course, blue.

I thoroughly enjoyed last evening, as I listened to two old rock songs. One was "Blinded By The Light" as I drove toward the setting sun, and then an old Cat Stevens song, "Moon Shadows."

I learned with deep pain that I was very much too optimistic about our climate conditions, as it is still very chilly and somewhat windy. The actual solar heat is inside the glass.

It is spring break for students of West Virginia University, including my Claire. They are free from classes and she did come home instead of heading to the beach. She is pleased as punch that the Mountaineers basketball team got into the "Big Dance (the NCAA tournament); however, we Maryland fans are not so lucky.

A reminder that the 100th birthday of Ida Reckner will be celebrated this Sunday at services at St. John's Lutheran Church, Meadow Mountain, at 8:30 a.m.

Daniel Vagnetti and his grandfather are starting Dan's adventure in Italy this week. Daniel will play professional basketball in the land of Rob's forebearers. What an exciting prospect that will be for him.

Pastor Pat Pittsnogle attended a meeting of the Synod Task Force on Restructuring at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Morgantown on Tuesday of this week.

Bible study continues each Thursday at Cherry Hill Assisted Living from 11:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. If you would like to attend, bring your Bible, your insights, and a brown-bag lunch.

The life of J.S. Bach will be aired on Sunday, March 20, at noon on the Hallmark Channel. Enjoy a one-hour program on the life of this classical composer.

The last couple of weeks saw the passing away by several of my peers' parents. Sam Stanton lost his mother, Lucretia Stanton, after a long illness. She was 95 years old and resided along Maynardier Ridge Road. Their family farm had an identical barn to ours. They were designed and built by the same man. My closest friend from high school days, Penny Friend, flew in from the state of Washington to help comfort her mother Bernadine after her dad Amos "Bud" Friend died recently.

Even if spring is only a few weeks, away it is too long for me. I can't stand any more ice, but I guess I will have to stand it, just as I have to stand the unbearable things. My challenge is to not let things shut me down.

Lenny and Sally Poholosky spent the weekend in Newport News, Va., taking in several games that their son Torrey played in against Christopher Newport University. His team, from Greensboro, N.C., won two games, compared to one win by Christopher.

Ruth DiPaolo attended the Garrett County Commission for Women 11th annual Hall of Fame breakfast at Will O' the Wisp Saturday morning.

Lea Stanton Pochet traveled in from Beavercreek, Ohio, last week to visit with her family and attend the funeral of her grandmother, Lucretia. She and Ferne Beachy visited Ida Reckner and Donna Glotfelty on Saturday afternoon.

Sally Poholosky and Ferne Beachy recently visited Bill Green and Ruby Orendorf in LaVale.

Margaret Hershberger Wagner has been undergoing tests in Morgantown last week and also this week.

Donald Sealing is now recuperating at home after returning from the hospital last week.

April 4-7
Linux System Administration (CS 290C): Learn the basic tasks of being a Linux system administrator such as understanding security issues, how to keep the system operational, setup users and file permissions. Participants will learn how to install a network interface, assign IP addresses, how to mount CDs and floppies, and how to monitor system performance and do process management. Students will learn how to install the Apache web server and aspects of internet security. File backup methods will be discussed. There is no text to purchase. The instructor will provide handouts.
Navigating the Information Highway (LS 290A): Learn where to look for the information you need, find the information you need without wasting time looking for it, and effectively evaluate of the information you find. These skills will help make you a better student, increase your value to employers, and make you better prepared for lifelong learning.
April 11-14
Personal Finance: Retirement
This course concerns practical guidance in analyzing and making personal financial decisions pertaining to retirement. Students will study budgeting, savings, credit, investment, and other areas directly linked to planning for retirement. The course will provide a strong overview and review of financial matters connected with retirement planning.
Emerging Technology: Digital Camera
This course will familiarize the student in the basic functions of the digital camera with ample time to take pictures of individuals, groups, landscapes and close-ups. It will deal with motion, light, composition, and in-focus pictures, and how to download pictures to the computer. There is no text to purchase. The instructor will provide handouts.
It's a great new way for busy people to attend college. Classes run Monday-Thursday from 5:30- 9:00 p.m. for one week. Each General Studies class is worth 1 credit which may be used for general elective credit in most Garrett programs. Visit our website for a complete list and description of all the classes.

Sign-Up For Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program Now Open

Governor Robert L. Ehrlich, Jr. announced Wednesday that Maryland and the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) have renewed a major agreement to help protect water quality in the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries by offering landowners special incentives to plant streamside buffers, create wetlands, and protect wildlife habitat on environmentally-sensitive lands adjacent to waterways.

Sign-up for the enhanced and newly-signed Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program (CREP) will begin March 16 and continue through December 31, 2007 or until 100,000 acres are enrolled.

"This partnership is a great example of State and federal agencies working together to protect our natural resources and restore our great Chesapeake Bay," said Governor Ehrlich. "It shows just how much we can accomplish when we pull together as a team for the Bay. CREP is a program that works for farmers and the environment."

CREP is a voluntary initiative that pays landowners to take environmentally sensitive cropland out of production for 10-15 years and plant vegetative buffers, create wildlife habitat, or establish wetlands to protect local streams. Eligible landowners receive annual rental incentive payments of $50 to $200 an acre and a one-time signing bonus of up to $150 an acre. The program helps to protect water quality by reducing soil erosion, controlling nutrient runoff, and increasing wildlife habitat on enrolled lands.

"The original Maryland CREP agreement was extremely successful, with approximately 72,000 acres planted in conservation practices," explained Elizabeth Anderson, state executive director for the USDA Farm Service Agency. "We are extremely confident that with the new agreement in place we can reach enrollment of 100,000 acres."

"We are pleased to help provide landowners with conservation incentives that focus on keeping farmable crop and pastureland available to farmers while protecting the most environmentally sensitive lands and wildlife habitat," said Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley.

"The new CREP will provide a tremendous boost to the Chesapeake Bay restoration effort by creating stream buffers and wetlands to enhance wildlife habitat and reduce pollution runoff to the fragile tributaries of the Bay," added C. Ronald Franks, secretary of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources.

Maryland's Agricultural Water Quality Cost-Share Program and USDA's Farm Service Agency will provide landowners with up to 87.5 percent cost-share to install best management practices on enrolled lands. Incentive payments worth 40 percent of the cost of installing certain practices are also being offered.

Vegetative and forested streamside buffers, stream protection measures, and wetlands restoration projects are among the BMPs covered under the program, along with several new practices including habitat for declining species and wetland and habitat buffers on marginal pastureland. Free technical assistance to install BMPs is provided by local soil conservation districts. In certain instances, landowners will have the option of selling a permanent easement on their land to the state of Maryland.

The Chesapeake Bay Program has established ambitious goals to reduce nutrients entering the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries by 2010 while increasing habitat and restoring wetlands. When fully implemented, CREP will help to achieve Maryland's water quality goals by:

•Reducing an estimated 5,750 tons of nitrogen and 550 tons of phosphorus from entering Maryland waterways each year;

•Reducing the amount of sediment entering the Bay and its tributaries by approximately 200,000 tons annually

•Establishing and enhancing 93,000 acres of riparian buffers, 5,000 acres of wetland habitat, and 2,000 acres of habitat for declining, threatened, or endangered species, including the bald eagle, Eastern bog turtle, dwarf wedge mussel, glassy darter, and harparella, a nearly extinct aquatic plant that grows only where suitable water quality conditions are present.

The USDA share for Maryland CREP is estimated to be $170 million for rental payments, to be made over the next 15 years, and about $21 million for cost-share payments during the same period, for a total of $191 million. Farmers have also received additional bonus payments through private sources and USDA incentive payments. Maryland has spent more than $13 million in cost-share and other incentive payments through 2004 and expects to spend an estimated $2.2 million in cost-share payments for the remaining life of the program.

In 1997, Maryland became the first state to participate in the voluntary Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program. CREP funds have been used to protect approximately 72,000 acres of environmentally sensitive cropland in Maryland with streamside buffers, conservation cover, and other best-management practices aimed at improving water quality, enhancing and establishing wildlife habitat, and protecting highly erodible land. Pennsylvania, Virginia, and Delaware also have CREP agreements with USDA to help restore and preserve local waterways and the Chesapeake Bay.

Landowners interested in Maryland's Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program should contact or visit their local soil conservation district office or USDA Service Center, or contact Bebe Shortall, USDA, 410-381-4550, Ext. 110.

Youth Shepherds Sought For Rare Sheep Breeds

Youth shepherds are currently being sought by the Youth Conservationist Program to help preserve rare sheep breeds and serve as ambassadors for the program.

"Heritage sheep breeders are committed to encouraging youth to raise sheep and to the preservation of their sheep breeds," a spokesperson for the group noted.

"The Youth Conservation Program was orchestrated by Richard and Donna Larson in 1998, to enable youth and their families to experience the many unique qualities of uncommon breeds of sheep and to share in the joy of helping to preserve these breeds."

Currently, the following breeds of sheep have been pledged: karakul, Scottish blackface, Tunis, Cotswold, American coopworth, Leicester longwool, Hog Island, Icelandic, Navajo Churro, Jacobs, and Lincoln. Available breeds can be researched by logging on to the University of Oklahoma web site.

Youth applicants must be between 12 and 18 years old. If selected, they must be present to receive the ewe at the Maryland Sheep & Wool Festival (MS&WF) on Sunday, May 8, at the Howard County Fair Grounds. They must also agree to exhibit the ewe at least twice in 2005 at a county fair or local sheep show and the state fair in the state where the recipient lives.

In addition, they must agree to breed the ewe to a registered ram in the fall of 2005, either use the ewe's fleece to personally make a woolen item or sell the fleece to a spinner, felter, or weaver, and submit a two-page report with pictures to the donor breeder by April 30, 2006.

Applications from interested youth must be postmarked by April 1, 2005. In the application/essay, youth should describe themselves and their experience with animals, explain their interest in sheep, and explain why they would like to help preserve a heritage breed of sheep. The total application/essay should be no more than two pages in length. Applicants should indicate if they wish to be considered for a particular breed or any of the breeds available.

Applicants who are selected to receive a ewe will be notified of their selection by April 22, 2005.

Interested persons should submit their letter of application/essay to Elaine Ashcraft, 46118 CR 58, Coshocton, OH 43812.

For more information, persons may contact Ashcraft at 740-622-1573 or tankewe@tusco.net.

A SPECIAL BABY — Ethan Broadwater, Grantsville, was last year's recipient of a karakul sheep from the Youth Conservation Program. As one of the requirements, the ewe was bred to a registered ram last fall, and gave birth to her first lamb on Feb. 9. "I think this is a great program for kids," Broadwater said. "It's been fun having a chance to learn about and care for a wool breed, and I hope other kids my age will get involved too."

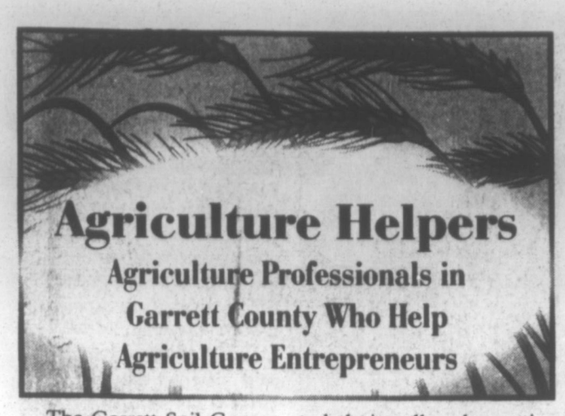
THE SCIENCE OF COMMON SENSE.



The Garrett Soil Conservation District has been providing assistance to the landowners of Garrett County for over 60 years.

Soil conservation districts and the Natural Resources Conservation Service formed after the Dust Bowl of the 1930s highlighted the importance of properly managing the land.

The federal Soil Erosion Service was formed in 1933 to assist landowners with conservation practices that minimized soil erosion and preserved the productivity of farmland. The agency soon changed its name to the Soil Conservation Service, and in 1994, became the Natural Resources Conservation Service.

Soil conservation districts began to form in the late 1930s to provide local input into the need for conservation practices and to prioritize and approve plans for district work.

The Garrett Soil Conservation District (GSCD) was formed in 1943 as a political subdivision of the state of Maryland, with boundaries contiguous with Garrett County.

The GSCD is located in the Glotfelty building in Mtn. Lake Park. The staff of the GSCD includes personnel of federal and state agencies, as well as employees of the GSCD itself. The supervisors of the GSCD are: George Bishoff, chairman; Delvin Mast, vice chairman; Brooks Hamilton, treasurer; Carl Bender; and Kris Enlow.

Chad Bucklew, district conservationist, and Kim Meyers, soil conservation technician, are employed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture Natural Resources Conservation Service (USDA-NRCS). District manager Shaun Sanders, planner Roger Kitzmiller, and technicians Butch Miller and Chuck Hayes are employees of the Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA). District administrative assistant Wanda Foley and technician Randy Storey are employed by the GSCD.

All staff work cooperatively to provide cost-share programs and technical assistance to the landowners of Garrett County. The staff members of the GSCD have more than 150 years of combined experience in assisting landowners.

The GSCD staff commonly utilizes six cost-share programs to provide assistance to landowners in Garrett County. The programs provide financial assistance to help install such practices as water developments, pasture division fences, woodland exclusion fences, animal waste storage buildings, tree plantings, woodlot thinning, wildlife habitat enhancement, windbreak establishment, grassed waterways, manure transport, and winter cover crop establishment.

Participation in cost-share programs is voluntary. Technical assistance is also available for landowners who are not participating in cost-share programs. Additionally, the GSCD reviews each erosion and sediment control plan and forest harvest management plan submitted for Garrett County.

The GSCD board of supervisors meets monthly on the third Tuesday at the GSCD office at 1916 Maryland Highway, Suite C, in Mtn. Lake Park. Board meetings are open to the public. The meetings from March to October begin at 7:30 p.m. From November through February, the meetings begin at 10 a.m.

The GSCD, MDA, and USDA-NRCS can be contacted by phone at 301-334-6951 or 301-895-3822.

County Youth Participate In Stock Contest

4-H and FFA members from across the state met in Hagerstown on Saturday, March 5, to test their knowledge of beef cattle, sheep, and hogs. A total of 92 youth participated in the second annual Stockman's Contest, conducted by the Maryland 4-H program and sponsored by the Maryland Cattleman's Association.

The contest required the youth members to identify breeds of livestock, meat cuts, feeds, and livestock equipment. They also were required to judge a class of hay samples and rib eye steaks. Contestants also completed a written test, and senior contestants were required to complete a team problem, which involves solving a livestock management problem.

In the junior division, Katelyn Gnegy, member of the Country Explorers 4-H Club, placed second individually. She received a set of livestock resource books.

The Garrett County A Team, with members including Gnegy, Ashley Rodeheaver, Catlin Carrico, and Kim Cogley, placed third in the competition.

Also participating from Garrett County in the junior division were Nathan Tichnell, Faith Tichnell, Greg Tichnell, Kelsy Skipper, Aaron Lantz, and Levi Lantz.

The Garrett County senior team consisted of Becky Berkebile, J.B. Gnegy, Rachel Schmidt, and Eric Tichnell.

Several adults also participated in the adult division of the contest, with Terri Rodeheaver of Garrett County placing second. The youth teams were sponsored locally by the Garrett County Livestock Association.

EQIP Assistance Deadline Noted

The deadline to apply for the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) is Friday, March 25. EQIP provides cost-share assistance to private landowners to improve the quality of grazing land, cropland, or timber land. Eligible conservation practices include water developments, pasture division fencing, woodland exclusion fencing, liming grazing land, grassed waterway construction, buffer establishment, tree planting, and non-commercial thinning of woodlots.

Cost-share rates generally range from 50% to 75% of the practice costs, but limited income and beginning farmers may qualify for cost-share rates of up to 90% of practice costs.

Incentive payments are available in the amount of $500 for developing a grazing management plan and $1,000 for addressing animal waste handling through a comprehensive nutrient management plan.

For more information about EQIP and other conservation programs, persons may contact USDA-NRCS District Conservationist Chad Bucklew at 301-334-6957 or 301-895-3822 or visit 1916 Maryland Highway, Suite C, Mtn. Lake Park.

VEGETABLE PRODUCTION WORKSHOPS
Disease Control in Tomatoes, Cucumbers, and Pumpkins

Charles Schuster is the Commercial Horticulture Educator in Montgomery County, Maryland. Montgomery County has over 1,000 acres of commercial vegetable production. Charles will address the biology and control of the major diseases of tomatoes, cucumbers, and pumpkins. With last years' problems with powdery mildew on cucumbers, and pumpkins and late blight on tomatoes, this will be a workshop not to miss. The workshop is free and will be held on March 23 from 6:30 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. at the Pleasant Valley Community Center. Please call the extension office at 301-334-6960 to register for the workshop.

Meat Goat Conference

The MPWV Meat Goat Producers Association will sponsor its annual spring meat goat conference on March 26, at the Continuing Education building (Room 205) at Garrett College. We have a good set of speakers lined up for this year's meeting. We will have topics on pasture parasite management, parasite detection and management, livestock guardian animals, goat enterprise management and web site development. Bring photos (digital or paper) that can be used to make your own web site. Pam Adams will be working to help members get info onto the web site. Susan Schoenian, area agent, sheep & goats, Western Maryland Research & Education Center, University of Maryland Cooperative Extension, and Kenneth E. Turner, Ph.D., research animal scientist and lead scientist USDA, ARS Appalachian Farming Systems Research Center will be the featured speakers. Registration will begin at 9:15 a.m., and the cost for the program is $10 which includes lunch. The MPWV Meat Goat Producers will hold their annual spring meeting starting at 2:30 p.m.

STUDENTS HONORED AT SOUTHERN HIGH SCHOOL – Students of the Month were recently honored at Southern High School for February. In the front, from the left, are Esther Sharpless, Larry (Dean) Hoffman, and Stephanie Lee. In the back are February Ram Business partners Kiley and Traci Royce from Get 'n Go, Sarah Anderson, Megan Viar, Jill DeVoré, and Principal Tom Woods. Absent was Ian Wolf. See story.

Students Honored At Southern High

The Students of the Month winners for February at Southern High School were recently recognized. Honorees were Jill DeVoré, social studies; Larry (Dean) Hoffman, science; Esther Sharpless, English; Stephanie Lee, math; Megan Viar, art; Sarah Anderson, journalism (yearbook); and Ian Wolf, CTE (machine tool).

Jill DeVoré, a freshman, is the daughter of William T. and Cynthia C. DeVoré. She was named Student of the Month in her eighth grade year. Because of her artistic awards earned throughout elementary school, she plans to study art. She would also like to become a sign language translator.

Larry Hoffman, a sophomore, is the son of Fernando and Janet Beltza. He has played football for the past two years. He also won the Most Outstanding Player award for football. His future goals are undecided.

Esther Sharpless, a junior, is the daughter of Glenn and Diana Sharpless. She is a member of the Christian Club and participates in various fundraisers to raise money for school and church activities. She was also named Student of the Month last year for math. Outside school, she enjoys doing human videos for her church youth group, and participating in church activities. Esther won the gold medal in teen camp in 2003, She plans to go to college, do some volunteer work, and find herself a full-time job.

Stephanie Lee, a freshman, is the daughter of Walter and Diane Lee. She is a member of the volleyball team and STEAM team, and is a statistician for the boys' basketball team. Sarbanes Announces Retirement; Senate Race Already Taking Shape

by Kevin W. McCullough
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — Another House democrat dipped his toe into the Senate waters Tuesday, one day after a former congressman said he was in the race to succeed Sen. Paul Sarbanes for sure and a current congressman said he was out. Sarbanes announced last week that he would not seek another term.

Rep. C.A. "Dutch" Ruppersberger, D-Cockeysville, said Tuesday he would form an exploratory committee for the race and would spend the next few months traveling the state and listening to what people want from a senator.

Ruppersberger's quasi-announcement come a day after Kweisi Mfume announced his candidacy and after Rep. Albert Wynn, D-Mitchellville, bowed out of the race.

Mfume, a former Baltimore congressman and former president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, is the only candidate who has formally declared himself in the running, so far.

Ruppersberger, Wynn, and three other House democrats said Friday that they were considering a Senate bid: Reps. Chris Van Hollen of Kensington, and Benjamin Cardin and Elijah Cummings, both of Baltimore. But none of the other three had announced a decision by Tuesday.

While speculation over potential candidates was rampant after Sarbanes's Friday announcement, some other high-profile Maryland democrats have reiterated their decision not to run for the open seat.

Both Baltimore mayor Martin O'Malley and Montgomery County executive Doug Duncan, who are preparing for gubernatorial bids in 2006, said that they would not be entering the fray.

And Rep. Steny Hoyer, D-Mechanicsville, said he will not run, his staff repeated Tuesday.

Ruppersberger, in his second term in Congress, dismissed questions about his lack of experience compared to the rest of the potential field.

"I'm not as worried about experience; I'm worried about what the issues are," he said.

Ruppersberger said he has a unique perspective because of his prosecutorial background and his work on the House Select Committee on Intelligence, and because he is the only one of the potential successors who has managed a major government. He was Baltimore County executive before being elected to Congress.

"It's a dangerous world," Ruppersberger said, "Unfortunately, terrorism and the issues relating to terrorism are very relevant." Ruppersberger said that his travels around the state will help introduce him to voters outside Baltimore County, but noted that he is "homegrown Maryland, all the way," with roots in the state and a degree from the University of Maryland.

Mark Plotkin, a political commentator for WTOP radio in Washington, said Ruppersberger's lack of statewide appeal may hurt him. "I just don't see his support broad enough," Plotkin said. "He's unknown in Prince George's and Montgomery. His only constituency is Baltimore County."

Blair Lee, a political columnist for the Gazette newspapers, said the Democratic primary is currently a political "game of chicken," with each candidate waiting for the others to drop out of the race. Lee said that Wynn's decision to drop out is "more important than Mfume getting in." The two Democrats, who are both black, might split the African-American vote if both stayed in, he said.

Both Plotkin and Lee said that Cummings' presence in the campaign represented a threat to Mfume's chances, but both also doubted that Cummings would stay in the race against Mfume. Cummings office said Tuesday he was still considering a bid.

If nothing else, Lee said, "in 2006, voters cannot say they do not have a choice."

Gout Can Be Managed With Medications

Gout, a condition occurring throughout the body, is caused by the buildup of uric acid in the joints. Excessively high levels of uric acid result from either overproduction in the liver or consumption of a diet rich in red meat, cream sauces, sardines, liver, scallops, and red wine. Over time, uric acid crystallizes in joint spaces causing inflammation, swelling, stiffness, and pain. Surprisingly, diabetes, obesity, kidney disease, and sickle cell anemia all raise a person's risk of developing gout. Regular alcohol consumption interferes with removal of uric acid from the body and makes the condition worse.

The two most common drug treatments are allopurinol or occasional colchicine. One causes less uric acid to be produced by the body. The other enhances the elimination of uric acid that is already present. Both of these drugs rely heavily on the kidneys for elimination. Therefore, decreased doses may be needed in persons with kidney disease. Commonly forgotten, avoiding alcohol and rich foods may also help the condition, as will drinking plenty of water, regular exercise, and maintaining a healthy weight. Talk to your pharmacist if you have questions about gout or the drugs used to treat it.

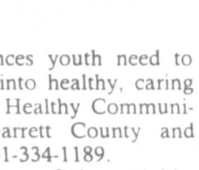
Real Estate Facts by...



Dale Carpenter

A TAXING SITUATION!

No one likes thinking about taxes, but when you do, you probably don't think about real estate agents. But they're thinking about taxes and their effect on buyers and sellers. Most agents can't offer tax advice, but they are very attentive to local and national developments that could positively or adversely influence real estate transactions.

You may not be buying or selling right now, but you should be aware of the implications of new tax legislation that could possibly be enacted during George W. Bush's second term.

President Bush wants to make his tax cuts permanent and he is pushing for tax simplification. That usually means bringing the old concepts of a "flat tax" or "national sales tax" out of the closet for consideration again.

It's impossible to say if either of those scenarios will play out, but we should keep our eye on popular tax deductions like mortgage interest. Bush clearly supports keeping that deduction, but anything can happen when the tax code is rewritten.

Although it's unlikely, the passage of a national sales tax could translate into taxation of rent payments or on the sale of real estate. This is why it's important for you and for me to educate ourselves and let our local, state, and national representatives know where we stand. A little knowledge could save you a lot of money!

If you'd like to buy or sell your home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call at the office, or on my cell phone at 301-501-DALE

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
GARRETT COUNTY
Amendments to the Water and Sewer Master Plan

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing of the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County is scheduled for Tuesday, March 8, 2005, at 11:00 a.m. in the Garrett County Commissioners' Public Meeting Room, located at the Courthouse, Oakland, Maryland, to consider an Amendment to the Water and Sewer Master Plan.

Amendment to consider is as follows:

Maryland Developers LLC has requested that public sewer be provided to a development located adjacent to the Oakland Sang Run Road, being the same property referenced by Map 57, Parcel 53. Providing public sewer service to this area will allow a residential development to be constructed consisting of 30 homes. The soil conditions in this area are not suitable for long-term septic drain field life. For this reason, it has been determined to be in the best interest of Garrett County to provide public sewer to this development. Public sewer service to this site will prevent contamination of Deep Creek Lake from wastewater inadvertently flowing from a failing septic drain field.

Interested persons will be heard at the public hearing on March 8, 2005, to determine if the amendment to the Water and Sewer Master Plan is necessary for the public health, safety, and welfare of the residents of the current or proposed service areas and if the projects are feasible financially from an engineering standpoint.

MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT
WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION
NOTICE OF TENTATIVE DETERMINATION

Garrett County

Application for State Discharge Permit 03-DP-0493, NPDES Permit MD0000027:

Clayburn Inc., 16306 Bittinger Road, Grantsville, MD 21536 submitted an application for renewal of a permit to discharge an average of 15,000 gallons per day of noncontact cooling water (2 days per year) and 400 gallons per day of strainer flushing water (weekly) and variable volumes of storm water from New Savage Works, a clay refractory, located at 16306 Bittinger Road, Grantsville, MD, to the South Branch Casselman River, Use-III waters.

The Department proposes to reissue the permit with the following discharge limitations: total suspended solids (30 mg/l monthly average and 45 mg/l daily maximum), temperature (68°F, maximum), dissolved oxygen (5.0 mg/l minimum), and a pH range of 6.0 to 9.0.

A public hearing on the tentative determination will be scheduled if a written request is received by April 6, 2005. The request should be sent to the Maryland Department of the Environment, Water Management Administration, 1800 Washington Blvd., Baltimore, Maryland 21230-1708 Attn.: Edwal Stone, and must include the name, address and telephone number (home and work) of the person making the request, the name of any other party whom the person making the request may represent, and the name of the facility and permit number. Failure to request a hearing by April 6, 2005 will constitute a waiver of the right to a public hearing on the tentative determination. Written comments concerning the tentative determination wilt be considered in the preparation of a final determination if submitted to the Department, to the attention of Mr. Stone at the above address, on or before April 18, 2005. Any hearing-impaired person who requests a hearing may also request an interpreter at the hearing by contacting Mr. Stone at 410-537-3323 or 1-800-633-6101 by written request to the above address at least ten working days prior to the scheduled hearing date.

Information supporting the tentative determination, including the draft permit and fact sheet, may be reviewed by contacting Mr. Stone at the above telephone number to make an appointment or by written request to Mr. Stone at the above address. Under a power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Mark Waligorski dated February 12, 2003, and recorded in Liber 1011, Folio 225 among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, default having occurred under the terms thereof, the Substitute Trustees will sell at public auction at the Courthouse door for the Circuit Court for Garrett County, on March 18, 2005 at 10:30 a.m.

ALL THAT FEE-SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND and the improvements thereon situated in Garrett County, MD, and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust. The property is improved by a dwelling.

The property will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting same, if any and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $12,500.00 by cash, or certified check. Balance of the purchase price to be paid in cash within five days of final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County. Interest to be paid on the unpaid purchase money at the note rate from the date of sale to the date funds are received in the office of the Substitute Trustees. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of interest. Taxes, ground rent, water rent, condominium fees and/or homeowner association dues, all public charges/assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges, if applicable, to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. Purchaser agrees to pay $245.00 at settlement, to the Seller's attorney, for review of the settlement documents.

If the purchaser shall fail to comply with the terms of the sale or fails to go to settlement, the Substitute Trustees may, in addition to any other available legal remedies, declare the entire deposit forfeited and resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser. In such event, the defaulting purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of resale, reasonable attorney's fees, and all other charges due and incidental and consequential damages, and any deficiency in the underlying secured debt. The purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds or profits resulting from any resale of the property. If the Substitute Trustees cannot convey insurable title, the purchaser's sole remedy at law or in equity shall be the return of the deposit.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Mtn. Lake Park Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing on March 30, 2005, at 6:00 p.m. in the Mtn. Lake Park Town Hall. The Board will review an application made a Mr. David Stull on behalf of Mighty Auto Parts (Docket 2005-VR-1) for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the rear yard setback requirements for the expansion of the warehouse on the Mighty Auto Parts property located at 515 D Street in a C-Commercial zone. Specifically, Mr. Stull proposes to build an addition to the existing warehouse that would extend to within 11 feet of the rear property line instead of the required 20 feet. Interested citizens are welcome to attend.

INVITATION FOR BIDS

Separate and sealed Bids will be received by the Town of Grantsville, Grantsville Town Office, 171 Hill Street, P.O. Box 296, Grantsville, MD 21536, until 10:00 a.m. (EST) prevailing time on Thursday, March 31, 2005, for the following Contract:

CONTRACT 3495-G-01
SUMMERS AUTO PARTS BUILDING DEMOLITION

Work consists of, but not limited to, the demolition of 1½ story timber and masonry building and paved parking lot, including the abatement of hazardous materials consisting of asbestos and PCBs at 143-145 Main Street in the Town of Grantsville, Garrett County, Maryland. Work also entails the backfill and stabilization of the site upon removal of the building.

Contract Documents, including Drawings and Technical Specifications, may be reviewed by interested Bidders at the office of The EADS Group Inc., 450 Aberdeen Drive, Somerset, PA 15501, or at the office of the Town of Grantsville, Grantsville Town Office, 171 Hill Street, Grantsville, MD 21536. Copies of the Contract Documents may be obtained by a NON-REFUNDABLE deposit of Twenty-Five Dollars ($25.00), which price includes 5% Pennsylvania Sales Tax, with the EADS Group Inc. for each set of documents so obtained. Addenda, if any, will be issued to only those persons whose names and addresses are on record with the Engineer as having obtained the Contract Documents.

Bid Bond in an amount equal to 10% of the Total Bid shall be submitted with each Bid. A certified check, payable to the Town of Grantsville, will be acceptable.

A pre-bid meeting has been scheduled on March 16, 2005, at 1:00 p.m. at the project site. Prospective bidders are encouraged to attend to examine the extent of the work and take into account the conditions affecting the prosecution of the work and operational requirements.

This project is funded in part by Federal funds through the Community Development Block Grant Program. Attention is called to the fact that not less than the minimum salaries and wages as set forth in the Davis-Bacon Act, and as described within the Contract Documents, must be paid on this project; that the Contractor must ensure that employees and applicants for employment are not discriminated against because of their race, age, color, religion, sex, national origin, or handicap; that a mandatory ratio of apprentices and trainees to journeymen is required in each craft and the Contractor (and any Subcontractors) is obliged to make a "diligent effort" to achieve these ratios; and that to the greatest extent feasible, opportunities for training and employment be given lower income persons of the project area and must to the greatest extent possible utilize project area businesses located in or owned in substantial part by project area residents.

In addition to the Equal Employment requirements of Executive Order 11246, the Contractor must also establish a 6.9% goal for female participation and a 6.3% goal for minority participation in his/her aggregate on-site construction workforce. The Bidder/Offerer must submit documentary evidences of Section 3 business concerns who have been contracted and to whom commitments have been made. Documentation of such solicitations and commitments shall be submitted concurrently with the Bid.

All Bidders are hereby notified that minority/women businesses will be afforded full opportunity to submit Bids in response to this notice and will not be subjected to discrimination on the basis of race, color, sex, or national origin in consideration for an award. The Contract sets forth a 5% goal for minority business participation and 3% goal for women business participation and specific requirements for meeting that goal in the procurement of subcontractors, material suppliers or services by the Contractor in accordance with Executive Order 11625 and 12138.

Bids shall be submitted on forms prescribed and Bids may be held for a period not to exceed sixty (60) days from the date of bid opening for the purpose of reviewing the Bids and investigating the qualifications of Bidders, prior to awarding the Contract. No Bidder may withdraw his/her Bid after the hour set for opening thereof, or before award of Contract, unless said award is delayed for a period of more than sixty (60) days.

The Owner reserves the right to reject any or all Bids, or to waive any informalities in the bidding.

The successful Bidder will be required to furnish satisfactory Performance Bond and a Labor and Materialmen's Bond before awarding the Contract.

The successful Bidder will be required to fully complete all work within sixty (60) consecutive calendar days from, and including, the date indicated by the Town of Grantsville in their written Notice to Proceed.

MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION NOTICE OF TENTATIVE DETERMINATION

Garrett County
Application for State Discharge Permit 04-DP-3490, NPDES Permit MD0069418:

Garrett County Department of Public Utilities, 2008 Maryland Highway, Mtn. Lake Park, Maryland 21550, applied for a new permit to discharge an average of 50,000 gallons per day of treated domestic wastewater from the Keyser's Ridge Wastewater Treatment Plant (WWTP). The proposed WWTP will be located in the vicinity of National Pike (Alternate US Route 40) and US Route 219 intersection, Grantsville, Garrett County, Maryland 21536, and it will discharge to Puzzley Run downstream of Lake Louise just north of the National Pike (Alternate US Route 40) which is designated Use I waters protected for water contact recreation and aquatic life.

The Department proposes to issue a new discharge permit with the following effluent limitations for future Outfall 001: BOD_5, 10 mg/l maximum monthly arithmetic mean, 15 mg/l maximum weekly arithmetic mean; total suspended solids, 10 mg/l maximum monthly arithmetic mean, 15 mg/l maximum weekly arithmetic mean; ammonia nitrogen - N, 1.5 mg/l maximum monthly arithmetic mean; E. coli, 126/100 ml maximum monthly geometric mean value; total residual chlorine, 0.013 mg/l maximum when chlorine or chlorine compounds are used in any treatment process. Regular effluent monitoring and reporting are required including whole effluent toxicity testing and priority pollutant scans. The effluent limits reflect water quality based requirements necessary for compliance with both the Maryland and Pennsylvania water quality standards.

A public hearing on the tentative determination will be scheduled if a written request is received by April 6, 2005. The request should be sent to the Maryland Department of the Environment, Water Management Administration, 1800 Washington Blvd., Baltimore, Maryland 21230-1708, Attn.: Stephen Luckman, and must include the name, address, and telephone number (home and work) of the person making the request, the name of any other party whom the person making the request may represent, and the name of the facility and permit number. Failure to request a hearing by April 18, 2005 will constitute a waiver of the right to a public hearing on the tentative determination. Written comments concerning the tentative determination will be considered in the preparation of a final determination if submitted to the Department, to the attention of Mr. Luckman at the above address, on or before April 18, 2005. Any hearing-impaired person who requests a hearing may also request an interpreter at the hearing by contacting Mr. Luckman at 410-537-3671 or 1-800-633-6101 by written request to the above address at least ten working days prior to the scheduled hearing date.

Information supporting the tentative determination, including the draft permit and fact sheet, may be reviewed by contacting Mr. Luckman at the above telephone number to make an appointment or by written request to Mr. Luckman at the above address. Copies of documents may be obtained at a cost of $0.32 per page.

INVITATION TO BID
INTERIM UPGRADES TO THE BFS WASTEWATER TREATMENT PLANT

The Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland, will accept sealed bids for furnishing all labor, equipment, and materials to construct an interim upgrade to the existing Bruceton Farm Service Wastewater Treatment Plant, which is located at Keyser's Ridge, Maryland. Plans and specifications were prepared by Thrasher Engineering. The project basically will modify the existing flow equalization tank, new flow meter, new composite sampler, new PolyAluminum Chloride (PAC) feed system, and new ultraviolet disinfection unit and other incidentals to allow the 14,000 gallon per day plant to function until a new plant can be constructed at the Keyser's Ridge Industrial Park. The contractor will be required to complete the construction of the project within ninety (90) calendar days after issuance of the Notice to Proceed. A bid bond or certified check in the amount of 5% of the total bid amount shall be submitted with each bid. A performance/payment bond in the full bid amount will be required of the successful contractor.

A Pre-Bid Meeting will be held at 10:00 a.m. on Wednesday, March 30, 2005, in the Commissioners' Public Meeting Room located at 203 South Fourth Street, Room 209, in Oakland, Maryland.

Bid documents and specifications may be obtained in person from the Procurement Office of the Garrett County Department of Financial Services, 313 East Alder Street, Room 105, Oakland, Maryland 21550. The cost of the bid specifications and drawings is $50.00 per set and is nonrefundable. All out of town contractors must pre-pay for shipping and the cost of the plans. Inquiries may be made by calling 301-334-5003.

Sealed bids must be submitted to the Procurement Office of the Garrett County Department of Financial Services, Courthouse Room 105, 313 East Alder Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550, on or before Thursday, April 14 2005, at 1:30 p.m. (local time). Sealed bids will be publicly opened and read aloud in the Commissioners' Meeting Room at 2:00 p.m. on April 14, 2005. All bidders are required to submit three (3) copies of their bid documents at the time of submission. All bids submitted should be enclosed in a sealed envelope and should be clearly marked "Bruceton Farm Service Wastewater Treatment Plant Interim Upgrades Bid" on the outside of the envelope. Any bids received after the time due will not be considered for award and shall be retained as documentation for the bid file.

The Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland, reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids, to cancel this invitation to bid and to waive technicalities in any part deemed to be in the best interest of Garrett County.

PUBLIC NOTICES

DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION
Notice of Applications Received for State Permits and Opportunity for Hearing Issue Date: March 17, 2005, in The Republican

The Water Management Administration is reviewing the application for State Permit listed below. The application and related information are on file at the Administration; arrangements may be made for inspection and copying. Opportunity is afforded individuals to provide written comments, to request a public informational hearing, or to be placed on an interested persons list for any listed application. Any further notices about actions on an application will be provided only by mail to those individuals on a mailing list of interested persons. Comments or requests for an informational hearing must be received in writing by the Administration on or before March 31, 2005. All inquiries and requests should include your name, address, and telephone number, and should be addressed to John Grace, Chief, Source Protection and Appropriation Division, Water Management Administration, 1800 Washington Blvd., Baltimore, Maryland 21230. Telephone: 410-537-3590.

GARRETT COUNTY

GA1928G002/4 - The Department of Natural Resources, Bear Creek Trout Hatchery, 956 Fish Hatchery Road, Accident, MD 21520, has applied to increase an existing appropriation from an annual average use of 1,500,000 gallons per day (gpd) of ground water and a maximum of 3,000,000 gallons in one day to an annual average use of 2,600,000 gpd and 4,000,000 during the month of maximum use. The water is to be used for trout propagation at the hatchery. The water is to be diverted from Bear Creek, at a point located at the southwest side of Dung Hill Road, 0.2 mile south of the junction of Dung Hill Road and Rabbit Hollow Road, 2.3 miles northeast of Accident, Garrett County, Maryland.

Impacts to the resource and nearby users were evaluated using data from geological reports and investigations available to the Water Management Administration. The water is used for a flow-through hatchery system, all but a small portion (a maximum of about 0.1% during the summer) of which returns to Bear Creek about ⅛ mile downstream of the diversion point. A flow-by is required to protect the aquatic habitat between the diversion and return flow points.

Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development
Community Development Administration
100 Community Place
Crownsville, Maryland 21032
410-514-7489

On March 2, 2005, Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development (the "Agency") published a combined notice to inform the public of the Agency's intent to submit a request to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). The request would be made for the release of Federal funds under the HOME Investment Partnerships Program (Title II of the Cranston-Gonzalez National Affordable Housing Act of 1990) to undertake a project known as Pysell Ridge, a new construction affordable rental housing project for families in McHenry, Garrett County, Maryland.

The Corrected Notice extends the comment period for the public to respond to the Agency to March 28, 2005. Furthermore, the objection to the Agency request may be accepted by HUD before authorizing a release of funds. Objections must be prepared and submitted to HUD in accordance with the required procedure (24 CFR Part 58), and should be addressed to the HUD Maryland State Office, City Crescent Building, 10 S. Howard Street, 5th Floor, Baltimore, Maryland 21201.

Anyone wishing to object to the release of funds should contact HUD for the actual last day of the objection period.

POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT

JOB TITLE: Part-Time Airport Assistant-Maintenance

DEFINITION: Assist in the operation of the County Airport.

EXAMPLES OF WORK: Daily airport management and control of airport facilities to insure the safe, efficient, secure, and continuous operational use of airport runways, taxiways, buildings, and other related areas, including airplane fuel and oil sales. Will operate Airport snow removal and grass mowing equipment (i.e. single-axle dump truck with plow, tractor with pull mower). Make inspections of runways, taxiways, and ramps. Perform preventative maintenance and initiate airport repairs through the appropriate County department. Communicate airport business by written and verbal communications. Maintains and updates records for the airport. Work and coordinate airport matters regularly with the Airport Manager or Director of General Services. Communicate with citizens as necessary to maintain good relations with the public to insure that citizens have an opportunity to receive airport and aviation information. Monitor and maintain the airport Common Air Traffic Advisory UNICOM system. Other duties may be assigned.

QUALIFICATIONS: Requires knowledge of the following: equipment operation, light maintenance, vehicle and equipment preventative maintenance, and mechanical skills.

EDUCATION and/or EXPERIENCE: High School Diploma or GED. Experience in Airport Management/Facilities Operations preferred. Computer experience desired.

SALARY: $7.50 per hour. Hours will fluctuate depending on weather and activity.

APPLICATION PROCESS: A completed Garrett County Government application is required. Qualified individuals may apply by forwarding an application to the: Office of Human Resources, 203 South Fourth Street, Room 206, Oakland, MD 21550. Applications are available on our website at www.garrettcounty.org or will be mailed by calling 301-334-8975. Deadline for application is March 21, 2005.

Garrett County Government is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Qualified applicants are considered without regard to race, color, creed, religion, gender, national origin, age, marital status, or the presence of a non-job-related medical condition or handicap.

West Virginia

News from Preston, Tucker, Grant and Mineral Counties.

TERRA ALTA NEWS

FILING FOR OFFICE

Town of Terra Alta candidate filing certificates for mayor, recorder, and council are now being accepted at city hall. Candidates must meet the same eligibility requirements of a registered voter. Forms may be picked up at city hall and returned no later than 4 p.m. March 25.

SEATS FOR SALE

Terra Alta East Preston School is selling memorial auditorium seats for $95 each. Each seat will have a brass plaque with the name of the donor's choice. All donors' names will also be placed on a large plaque that will be on display in the auditorium. Checks should be made out to the school, with "Attn: Auditorium Fund" written on the envelope.

WALKING 100 MILES

The Terra Alta Health Toppers are participating in the Healthy & Alive in 2005 11th annual Walk 100 Miles in 100 Days event, March 21 — June 8. Persons may participate as individuals or on teams of 5-20 people. The Toppers have sign-up sheets and the mile logging forms. At the end of the walk the Toppers will distribute T-shirts to those who complete the walk.

The event is part of the wellness program organized by West Virginia University. For more information, persons may call 304-789-6585.

The Toppers are also sponsoring weight-watching meetings, with new classes slated to start in three weeks. The meetings are held on Tuesdays at Fit & Fabulous Fitness Center upstairs, with a 5:30 check-in and the meeting at 6 p.m. The first 10-week session involved about 14 people who lost a total of over 215 pounds.

The Toppers hold their regular meetings the third Thursday of each month at the Fit & Fabulous building (first floor), beginning at 6 p.m.

The Toppers will hold a "Healthy Family's Night Out" on Saturday, April 16, at the Terra Alta East Preston School, beginning at 5:30 p.m. There will be music, a square dance, and healthy food. All are welcome, and admission is free.

LIBRARY NEWS

The Terra Alta Library will be closed March 25th in observance of Good Friday.

The library has obtained the 11-volume A Series of Unfortunate Events by Lemony Snicket.

A collection of puzzles for youth has been donated by Mathew Noland.

VFW DINNER

The Ladies Auxiliary elimination dinner will be held at the VFW on Saturday, April 9. Persons may call 304-789-2672 for tickets and information.

MEMORIAL BRICKS

Applications for memorial bricks, to be used at the Terra Alta Park entrance at the end of Caldwell Street, are available at city hall.

NOTE CARDS

Note cards featuring Terra Alta scenes will be on sale at Gregg's Pharmacy and city hall. These are designed and printed by Jim Feather as a fundraiser for TABI.

STEELERS RETURNING

Members of the Pittsburgh Steelers football team will be in Terra Alta this Saturday, March 19, to play basketball against a local team. The games are being sponsored by the Terra Alta East Preston Athletic Boosters, with all proceeds going to the auditorium restoration project at the school.

There will be two games, the first of which will be Saturday at 8 p.m., and the second on Sunday, March 20, at 2 p.m.

CONFERENCE SET

The Preston/Garrett Rural Development Conference will be held at the Robert C. Byrd Training Center at Camp Dawson this Saturday, March 19. The cost to participate is $15, which includes lunch. The event will be of interest to anyone involved in farming and/or gardening. More information can be obtained by telephoning the Garrett County Extension office at 301-334-6960 or the Preston Extension office at 304-329-1391, or checking the following web site: morefarmmoney.org.

EGG HUNT

There will be an Easter egg hunt for children ages 0-12 held at the town park at 2 p.m. on Saturday, March 26, sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary.

SPORTS BANQUET

A sports banquet for the youth league will be held at the school on Sunday, April 3. Persons may contact Helena and Todd Slaubaugh at 304-789-6089 for details.

TAX HELP

Free assistance with preparing income taxes is available through the VITA program at the town hall every Thursday from 10 a.m. to noon.

SUNRISE SERVICE

The annual Easter sunrise service at the Alpine Lake boathouse is set for 6:30 a.m. Sunday, March 27. Rev. Michael Daniels of the Terra Alta First United Methodist Church will lead the service, which will include special music.

Free Tax Return Help Available At TA Town Hall

Taxpayers can get free Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) in preparing tax returns every Thursday, 10 a.m. to noon, at Terra Alta Town Hall until April 14. There are no age or income restrictions.

The VITA volunteers are from Alpine Lake and are trained by the Internal Revenue Service to "insure full credits and refunds," according to a group spokesperson.

Credits include earned Income, child tax, education, child and dependent care, and elderly or disabled.

Taxpayers can expedite the process by bringing copies of their 2003 returns as well as information needed for 2004 returns.

AURORA/EGLON

HOLY WEEK SERVICES SET

An Easter sing is planned for March 23 at 7:30 p.m. at the Bethel United Methodist Church. Maundy Thursday services are planned by individual churches.

On Good Friday, a walk from the Aurora Post Office to St. Paul's Lutheran Church is planned, and all are asked to gather at 11:45 a.m. The public is invited to attend Good Friday services at St. Paul's beginning at 7:30 p.m. on March 25. "The Last Words of Christ" is a Tenebrae service recognizing the death of Christ. Candles, visual symbols, Mary's reflections, hymns, and scriptures set the mood for this day of acknowledging the crucifixion of Jesus.

The local churches will be observing Palm Sunday, March 20, at their Sunday morning services. Everyone is invited to attend any or all of these events.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

A memorial service for Leota Lantz Elsey, who died February 15, 2005, will be held Saturday, March 26 at 2 pm. in the Stemple Ridge United Methodist Church. All friends and relatives are invited to join the family for this service.

SUNDAY BREAKFAST AT AVFD HALL

A regular monthly breakfast is being served this Sunday, March 20, at the Aurora fire hall, from 8 a.m. until 1 p.m. Pancakes, buckwheat cakes, French toast, biscuits, sausage, and sausage gravy will be served. A donation of $6 for adults and $3 for children 12 and under is being asked.

SOUP AND SALAD AT MAPLE SPRING

An all-you-can-eat soup and salad meal is being served at Maple Spring Church of the Brethren on Saturday, April 2, from 4 until 8 p.m. Chili, potato, and bean soups wil be available, plus salad, bread, and dessert for donations of $6 for adults and $3 for children 12 and under.

"ADOPT" A SOLDIER

Persons may assist the Aurora VFD Auxiliary in its effort to implement the "Adopt a Soldier" program by calling Mickie Elliot at 735-5149 with the name of a local relative-spouse, brother/sister, or son/daughter. The auxiliary is compiling a list of those who need to be remembered.

TRIPS PLANNED

Some of the dates and locations of possible trips this spring and summer are listed below. Persons interested in any of these may call Bernadine Bachtel at 304-735-5192.

A visit to Allenberry Theater on May 25 for "Smoke on the Mountain" and dinner; a July 7 trip to Bedford County, Pa., to see covered bridges and learn their histories; July 1, "Sentimental Journey" musical at the Jennerstown Playhouse; performances of "The Psalms of David" and "Ruth" at the Sight and Sound Theater, Aug. 3 and 4; attending the Mercersburg, Pa., "opera" for musical show, which includes comedy, plus popular, country, and gospel music, this planned for Sept. 24.

MYERS BIRTHDAY

About 50 relatives and friends of Marguerite Myers of Aurora were on hand to wish her well on her 85th birthday, despite the stormy March 12 weather. Visiting her last week were son Robert and wife, Patience, of Houston, Texas, and remaining to visit this week is son Jim and wife, Carol, of Brownsville, Texas. Daughter and son-in-law, Mary and Alan Teets of Middletown, Del., were guests of Jerry and Barbara Hauser in Cash Valley, as was granddaughter, Denise Enslinger, and children, Jessica and Ryan, Sterling, Va. Other out-of-town guests included grandsons Richard Myers and Don Myers of Virginia; nephews, Joe Myers of Baltimore and Richard Myers of Shenandoah Junction.

TEETS TO NOTE 92ND BIRTHDAY

Lorrayne Teets, formerly of Aurora and currently a resident of Heartland of Preston County in Kingwood, will celebrate her 92nd birthday on March 24.

Cards may be addressed to her at 300 Miller Road, Room 107, Kingwood, WV 26537.

OBITUARY

Isabel Twigg Spiggle

Isabel Twigg Spiggle, 97, Davis, died March 4, 2005, at her home.

She was born July 25, 1907, in Davis, a daughter of the late George Harry and Bessie Belle Twigg Eshelman.

Survivors include one son, George Allen (and Nancy) Spiggle, Prestonburg, Ky.; a stepson, Dr. Wayne C. (and Betty) Spiggle, Short Gap; two sisters, Mildred Eshelman and Ruth E. Edwards, both of Davis; a niece, Betsy Edwards, Davis; nine grandchildren; and 13 great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Wayne C. Spiggle; a stepson, David Spiggle; a sister, Mary Eshelman; and a granddaughter, Mary Lenora (Lynn) Spiggle.

She graduated from Shepherd College and taught school in Canaan Valley and Davis. She assisted her husband in management of the Spiggle Funeral Home (now Hinkle's) in Davis. She was also a member of the Davis United Methodist Church.

Friends were received at the Hinkle Funeral Home and services held on March 7 from the Davis United Methodist Church, with Pastor James Martin officiating. Interment followed in the Aurora Cemetery.

PERSONAL MENTION

Dee and Keith Douglas returned March 7 to their home in Aurora after an extended winter vacation in the south, which also included attending funeral services for Mrs. Douglas's mother, Leota Elsey, in Sebring, Fla., and visiting with her sister, Vada Fusselman, there.

Leonard Parsons of Horse Shoe Run and his brother, Steve Parsons, Mtn. Top, were recent visitors at Martinsburg with their cousin, Van and Janet Marceau, and son.

Tom, Linda, and Sara Lewis of Eglon were Saturday overnight visitors at Martinsburg with Chuck and Emily Young.

Carl Winter of Manassas, Va., was a Friday morning visitor in Eglon with his parents, Claude and Jean Winters.

Carol Everly, Kingwood, and daughter of Marie Martin, Aurora, have recently been hospitalized and undergone diagnostic tests that are yet incomplete.

Bill Hauser of Stemple Ridge was admitted Sunday to Monongalia General Hospital, Morgantown, and is undergoing treatment.

Ron "Butch" Wilson of Horse Shoe Run was admitted Saturday evening to Garrett County Memorial Hospital after an episode of chest pain.

Mrs. Charles (Dodie) Burrell of Brookside underwent gall bladder surgery last week at a Morgantown facility.

Reports from Retha Johnson, patient at Ruby Memorial Hospital, seem to indicate a slight improvement.

Feather To Mark 95th Birthday

Willard Feather of Aurora will celebrate his 95th birthday on Tuesday, March 29. A lifelong farmer, he has also operated a farm machinery business for the past 62 years.

Feather was married to the late Alice Blamble Feather for 60 years. The couple had three children: Glendora Skidmore, who resides with him; Arvita Loftin of Las Vegas, Nev.; and the late Colleen Cooper. He has also has six grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Family and friends have indicated that persons interested in sending cards to Feather may do so at RR1 Box 143, Aurora, WV 26505.

April Visits Of Bloodmobile Set In Preston County

The Mt. Laurel Chapter of the American Red Cross, based in Morgantown, has announced the April schedule of bloodmobile visits for Preston County.

The bloodmobile will be at the Fellowsville fire hall, Rt. 92, on Friday, April 1, welcoming donors from 2 to 7 p.m.; Preston High School in Kingwood on Monday, April 4, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.; Reedsville fire hall, Thursday, April 14, noon to 8 p.m.; Terra Alta Ambulance building, Wednesday, April 20, noon to 6 p.m.; and Union Ambulance squad hall, Rt. 50, Aurora, Friday, April 29, 1 to 7 p.m.

Persons with questions about the ARC blood services program may direct them to the Mountain Laurel Chapter at 304-598-9500, or by e-mail at mlchap-@crossnet.org.

DNR Announces 2005 Black Bear Hunting Quota

The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has announced its harvest quota for the 2005 black bear hunting season. After reviewing data from the 2004 bear hunting season, non-hunting bear mortalities, and other population monitoring surveys, the state agency has set the quota at 40-55 bears for the 2005 season.

Maryland held its first black bear hunt in over 50 years last fall in a highly regulated hunt conducted throughout all of Garrett County and Allegany County west of Evitts Creek. A maximum of 200 black bear hunting permits were issued for last year's hunt, with 362 permittees and subpermittees participating in the 2004 hunt. The scheduled five-day hunt was closed after 20 bears were taken on opening day.

The bears taken in last year's hunt had an average weight of 178 pounds, and ranged in size from an 84-pound, 1½-year-old sow to a 496-pound male bear.

The harvest objective for 2005 is set at a level that will continue to slow the growth of the region's black bear population while ensuring its long-term stability. Interested hunters will again apply for a chance to get one of 200 bear hunting permits through an Internet and telephone lottery process that will begin on July 1. Detailed application instructions will be included with the 2005-06 hunting license, which goes on sale July 1.

This year's quota-driven hunt will take place Oct. 24-29 and Dec. 5-10. All hunters will again be required to call in each evening to learn if the quota has been met. Once it is met the hunt will be closed.

"Our comprehensive population monitoring models continue to support that Maryland's black bear population is growing in western Maryland," said Wildlife and Heritage Service director Paul A. Peditto. "DNR will continue to manage western Maryland's bear population conservatively, ensuring that future generations will be able to enjoy bears on the landscape. With that in mind, we have selected a range for this year's quota to help us better respond to hunting pressure and success rates while remaining below the maximum harvest quota that we could have selected."

GETTING CREATIVE WITH CRAYONS – The Roulier/Conlan family's toboggan, pictured above, was just one of the many creative entries in Saturday's third annual Cardboard Box Derby race held at the Wisp. The event, sponsored by the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club, raises money for the club's various charitable activities, primarily the Blind Skier Program. Hundreds of spectators watched as 36 unusual "sleds" raced down the slopes of Wisp's Bear Claw Tubing Park. Pictured above careening down the slope are Laura Roulier and Kate and Noah Conlan. GC Task Force Arrests Three MLP Residents

Three Mtn. Lake Park residents were arrested after a search and seizure warrant was executed last Thursday on an N Street residence, according to investigators with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force.

A search of the residence revealed suspected marijuana, cocaine, numerous prescription medications, and drug paraphernalia. Charles Collins, 25, was arrested and charged with possession with intent to distribute and possession of oxycodone, possession of marijuana, possession of cocaine, possession of prescription medication, maintaining a common nuisance, and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Ashley Collins, 20, was arrested and charged with possession of cocaine, possession of prescription medication, possession of marijuana, and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Adam Warner, 18, was arrested and charged with possession with intent to distribute and possession of oxycodone, and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Task force personnel were assisted by uniformed deputies with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Rookie Robotics Team Attends First Competition

Garrett County was well represented in Annapolis last week at the 2005 Chesapeake Regional FIRST (For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology) Robotics Competition by team 1629, the "Garrett Coalition." The rookie team, composed of students from both Southern Garrett and Northern Garrett high schools, competed against 55 other teams from 13 states, the District of Columbia, and the United Kingdom. The Garrett County team was one of 14 teams that participated from the state of Maryland.

The competition was held from March 17 to 19 in the Halsey Field House on the campus of the U.S. Naval Academy. The Chesapeake Regional Competition is one of 30 regional competitions that 1,100 teams will compete in during the 2005 FIRST competition season. By the end of the 2005 season, teams will have competed from Brazil, Canada, Ecuador, Great Britain, Israel, Mexico, and almost every U.S. state.

During the event, the team's 120-pound robot, nicknamed Meshach, competed in alliance with two

Three Men Face Charges After Garrett Hwy. Stop

Maryland State Police troopers arrested three men during a Monday morning traffic stop on Garrett Highway just north of the Cove scenic overlook.

Scott Donaldson, 34, of Pennsylvania, stopped near Ryland Court at 11:40 a.m. for a seat belt violation, and a computer check led to a second charge of driving on a suspended license. When a search uncovered suspected marijuana and a glass smoking device in Donaldson's pockets, he was arrested for possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia.

A passenger, Jeremy Fischer, 25, also was charged with possession of CDS paraphernalia.

Donaldson and Fischer were taken to the Garrett County Detention Center for a bond hearing, and subsequently released on their own recognizance.

A second passenger, Coby Jones, was charged with giving false information to an officer.

Suspicious Letter Sent To District Court Investigated

Various local authorities were summoned to District Court in Oakland Monday afternoon for a threatening letter with a small quantity of white powder. The court was closed until Wednesday, when the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene Laboratory in Baltimore ruled out the possibility of the powder being anthrax.

The Hazmat team from Allegany County responded and packaged the letter and contents for shipment to Baltimore. Also responding to the scene were members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, Oakland City Police, Garrett County

Beekeepers To Host Spring Bee School

The Appalachian Beekeepers Association will offer a beginners' beekeepers school next month. The two-day event will be held on April 16 and April 23, both Saturdays.

The sessions will cover topics such as the advantages of beekeeping, what one needs to get started, building the equipment, how to locate supplies and assistance, and year-round management of hives.

The class will include hands-on experience, a spokesperson said, and will be taught by experienced beekeepers from the local area. A highlight of the class will be a lottery giveaway of two complete hives with bees.

The class will be held each day from 9:30 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the Garrett County Extension Office, located along Rt. 135, east of Mtn. Lake Park. Those planning to attend are asked to pre-register by phone at BEEKEEPER SCHOOL TO BE OFFERED – Area beekeepers are anxiously awaiting the arrival of warmer weather so their bees can begin their work of filling frames with honey. Madonna Poole of Honey Grace Farm is pictured as she puts collecting frames, known as "supers," on her hives. The colony of bees will fill every available space in the hive with honeycomb, some to be used by the bees for food, and the extra available for the beekeeper. The Appalachian Beekeepers Association is offering a two-day course in April on beginner beekeeping. See story for details.

Local Woman Charged With Accepting Bribes

Maryland Attorney General J. Joseph Curran Jr. announced last week that a "criminal information" charge has been filed against Lori Hare of Grantsville in the Garrett County Circuit Court.

The charge alleges that Hare, 34 – a former employee of the Maryland State Highway Administration maintenance facility in northern Garrett County between January 2001 and November 2002 – received bribes from Stone Cold Chemical Inc., a janitorial and maintenance supply company from whom she ordered numerous items using her state credit card.

Hare is accused of accepting hundreds of dollars in gift certificates from Wal-Mart and Lowe's for the purpose of influencing her in the performance of her official procurement duties as a state employee and for neglecting and failing to perform the same.

Stone Cold's owners and salespeople have been successfully prosecuted in Georgia and Florida state courts for bribing state employees. To date, Curran has charged six former state employees with corruption in connection with his ongoing criminal investigation into Stone Cold Chemical.

A criminal information is merely an accusation of wrongdoing, and every individual is presumed innocent until the charges are proven by the state. The maximum penalty for bribery is 12 years' incarceration. The matter was referred to the Attorney General's Office by the legislative auditor, and was investigated by the Curran's Criminal Investigations Division and the Maryland State Police.

Officials Approve Amendments To Garrett County Master Plan

The Garrett County commissioners on Tuesday voted unanimously to include two new amendments to the county's water and sewer master plan. Two proposed private developments in the Deep Creek Lake area will now be able to receive service from Garrett County Public Utilities.

The first approved amendment involves the Glendale Woods Subdivision, to be located southeast of Glendale Road. Developers want the Garrett County Department of Public Utilities operate and maintain water and sewer service at their site when their project is completed. A public hearing on the issue was held this week.

Director Mark Tonkovich, Public Utilities, said the developers plan to drill two private wells to serve six residential buildings.

"The raw water will be piped to a control building for treatment and distribution to the lots within the subdivision," he said. "The water will be tested to determine potable treatment requirements. Based on the surrounding geology and other groundwater sources in the area, it is anticipated that the treatment will be only chlorination."

Public Utilities' licensed water plant and distribution system operators and maintenance technicians will operate and maintain the system. Once the developers design and complete their system, they will sign a contract with the county.

Tonkovick noted that a force main line was already available for the site to receive public sewer service.

Commissioner Dave Beard asked if public water service was planned for the Glendale Woods area. Tonkovich indicated the service would be provided in the future, but no preliminary plans had been made yet.

Commissioner Fred Holliday wondered if it would be feasible for the county to maintain and operate a private water system that only served six houses.

Tonkovich indicated it would be feasible under contact stipulations, which will outline fees and repair costs for property owners. He noted that similar agreements had been made with 12 or 14 other subdivisions.

A second master plan amendment approved by the commissioners this week will enable Public Utilities to provide public sewer service to another new development, which will be located adjacent to Oakland Sang Run Road and near the Deep Creek Lake Wastewater Treatment Plant. Maryland Developers LLC, which requested the service, plans to build 30 homes at the site. A new force main will be constructed from the plant to the development.

The commissioners held a public hearing on the issue two weeks ago, but the record was kept open until Tuesday.

According to county officials, the soil conditions in this area are not suitable for a long-term septic drain field. For this reason, the county will provide the service to the site to prevent contamination of Deep Creek Lake from wastewater inadvertently flowing from a failing septic drain field.

Oakland Sang Run Road resident Russell Sines asked that the main line from the plant to the development come to Oakland Sang Run Road. This would allow residents in that area who do not have public sewer service at this time to receive it in the future.

"I think that's what public service is about, for the public, not just for developers," he told the commissioners on Tuesday.

Kyle Newsome, a principal with Maryland Developers, agreed that the line should be set up as Sines suggested.

Holliday noted that all the capital for infrastructure will be borne by the devel-

Pilot Magazine-Recycling Proj. Launched In GC

The Garrett County Solid Waste & Recycling Division, General Services Department, with the assistance of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, will launch a special pilot project for magazine recycling.

A 20-foot closed container will be placed in the parking lot at the Visitors Center located at 15 Visitors Center Drive in McHenry for the months of April and May.

Magazines, catalogs, guides, obsolete brochures, or paper with a high-gloss or shiny appearance may be brought to the container for recycling. The materials may be placed in the container in cardboard boxes, and no plastic bags are allowed.

"Plastic bags will contaminate the recyclables; therefore, we must ask that no plastic bags be used in delivering materials," said Kimberly Madigan, recycling coordinator for Solid Waste & Recycling.

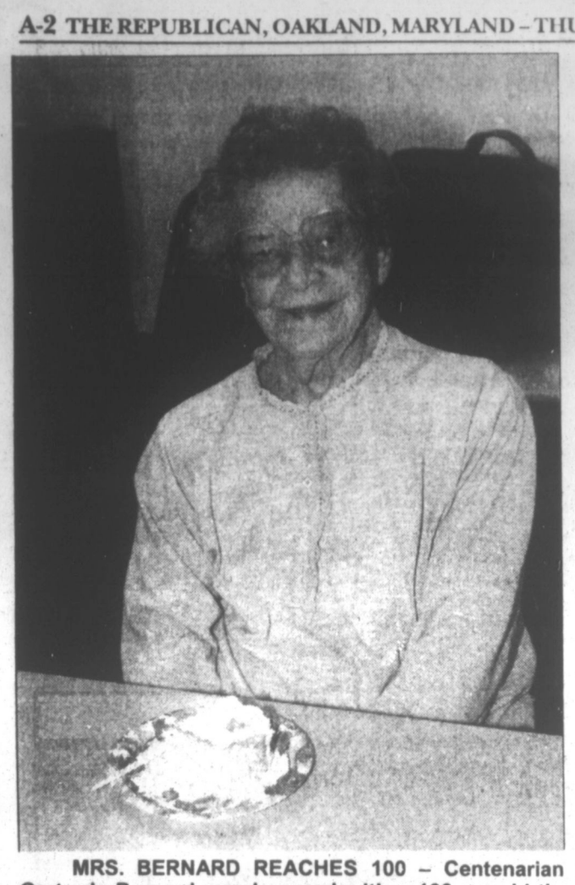
Residents and businesses are invited to participate in the magazine recycling program. All of the materials collected will be recycled at Pen-Mar Recycling Center in Cumberland, according to Madigan.

The Visitors Center is open seven days a week from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. The container may be accessed during regular business hours, unless special arrangements are made with the Solid Waste & Recycling office.

"We would like to thank the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce for their assistance with this pilot project," Madigan said. "The Chamber is a great advocate of recycling in Garrett County and encourages all residents and businesses to participate in the magazine recycling program."

If additional information is needed with regard to this pilot project or any other recycling issue, persons may call 301-387-0322.

THOUGHT-PROVOKING PLAY GOING UP AT OTT – A play to make the audience think is being produced at Our Town Theatre next week. Twilight of the Golds, written by Jonathan Tolins, is an adult look at eugenics, homosexuality, and abortion. Director Jane Avery cautions that it is not for the "faint of heart" or for people who have strong objections to thinking about those topics. However, she said the play is "brilliant" and very much worth seeing. It will be given March 29, 30, 31, and April 1 and 2, with all shows at 8 p.m. Tickets for the Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday performances are $5 per person, and $8 for Friday and Saturday nights. Reservations are strongly encouraged and may be made by calling the theatre at 301-334-5640, option 1. The cast is pictured. In front are Erin White and Doug Gaither. Seated behind them are Lynne Elmlinger and Richard Hill, and in the back is Alex Hill. Ben Sincell is the scenery and lighting designer for the production, and Deirdre Kildow is the stage manager. The play is produced with special arrangement by Samuel French Incorporated and sponsored in part by the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council. Photo by Richard Hill.



MRS. BERNARD REACHES 100 – Centenarian Gertrude Bernard was honored with a 100-year birthday celebration at the Mary Browning Senior Center on Sunday, March 20. She was born in Ohio on March 15, 1905. She lives in the Oakland area and still maintains her own home. When ask what stood out in her mind about how things have changed over her lifetime, she said, "Years ago, if you could afford a car, you could just drive it. There was no getting a 'driving license' at that time." She also said that children were happy playing outdoor games, at least when they had time to play. Mrs. Bernard, very alert and healthy, said her joy in life is her family — grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and great-great-grandchildren. She plays an active role in their lives, she said.

"John Garrett" To Be Guest Of Historical Soc.

The namesake for Garrett County — John Work Garrett — will be portrayed by area historian Al Feldstein at the annual dinner of the Garrett County Historical Society, scheduled for Friday, April 22, at the Pleasant Valley Community Center south of Oakland.

Feldstein will be speaking as John W. Garrett in the year 1884. His presentation will incorporate Garrett's experiences during the Civil War, his leadership as president of the B&O Railroad, elements of his personal and family life, and his role in the development of Garrett County as a resort area along the B&O mainline.

This will be Feldstein's seventh appearance for the Garrett County Historical Society.

As an amateur regional historian, Feldstein has, since 1980, published 26 books, prints, and videotapes depicting various historical aspects of Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties, as well as nearby areas in West Virginia. He resides in LaVale with his wife Angela and two daughters, Natasha and Josinda.

The April 22 dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. and feature a deluxe, home-cooked meal with dessert. Tickets may be obtained at the Garrett County Historical Society Museum in Oakland and/or from society officers. Proceeds will go toward expenses incurred by the recent renovation project at the museum.

The commissioners also recently approved an amendment allowing the proposed Holy Cross development to receive public sewer service. Developers of that project had requested the service for 26 to 32 homes, to be located near Paradise Acres.

A public hearing was also held for that amendment, but no one voiced any opposition to it at the event.

Developers of the project will also be responsible for the cost of the design, right-of-way acquisition, and construction of infrastructure to connect to the existing Deep Creek sewer system. Additionally, because the Holy Cross site is currently not in a sanitary district, sewer service customers at the development will pay out-of-district rates.

As with the Glendale Woods Subdivision, a contract will be made between the Holy Cross developers and the county. Linda Lindsey, Garrett County General Services, said the contract would "spell everything out," including project costs, connection fees, ERUs, line diameters, and the linear feet of the lines. A similar contract will be drafted for the Maryland Developers project.

The beekeepers stressed the importance of honey bees as pollinators in nature. Bees pollinate about 130 fruit, vegetable, ornamental, nut, and fiber crops in the United States. The presence of honey bees improves crop yields and product quality.

Bees are facing many threats to their survival and their populations are decreasing at an alarming rate, the spokesperson said. Most honey bee colonies now depend on the care of beekeepers for their survival.

Terra Alta Man Charged With Drunk Driving

A Terra Alta, W.Va., man was charged with drunk driving after his vehicle was stopped for speeding on Rt. 219 Thursday by a deputy running stationary radar, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Matthew Clyde Peach, 22, failed field sobriety tests, and a check through the MVA reported that his West Virginia driver's license was revoked.

Peach was charged with driving under the influence (DUI), driving on a revoked license, DUI per se, and driving while impaired (DWI).

Maryland House Of Delegates Approves $25.9 Billion Budget

by Mike Torralba
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — The Maryland House of Delegates Wednesday approved a budget plan that cuts property taxes and provides money for public-school construction.

The lower chamber's 134-0 vote is the first round in what looks to be a boxing match with the Senate, which is set to consider the matter today.

The Democratic-shaped budget proposal could undercut the appeal of legalized slot-machine gambling by meeting this year's $250 million school-construction benchmark, set by a study panel.

The House budget also would return the state property tax to 8 cents per $100 of assessed value, the level it was before Gov. Robert Ehrlich raised it by a nickel to balance the budget in 2003. The change would mean an annual savings of $48 for a house worth $100,000, for example. Rising property values make the cut affordable for now, budget analysts and House Democrats have said.

But the Ehrlich administration has called the House school construction plan and property tax cut "nearsighted" and little more than a "political gimmick."

Republicans said cutting property taxes this year would force Ehrlich to raise them again next year — when he's expected to run for re-election. And they pointed out that the House school-construction plan provides money only for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Last year, a task force led by state Treasurer Nancy Kopp said $250 million is needed for construction each year for the next eight years. Ehrlich's slots proposal would yield $100 million a year in extra school-construction money.

But lawmakers of both parties now say slots legislation is moribund because the chambers have failed to agree on both the number and location of the slots.

Senate President Thomas V. Mike Miller Jr., D-Calvert, said the delegates' changes to the budget are not realistic.

"I think their hearts are in the right place," Miller said. "It's just a question of whether we can afford $250 million at this point in time without jeopardizing Program Open Space and other items, including money taken from capital projects and higher education."

Most of the school construction money would come from $157 million Ehrlich allocated in his capital budget. The rest would be clipped from other capital budget items.

Miller said his chamber will likely stick closer to Ehrlich's budget than its across-the-hall counterpart.

"The House has taken a more partisan approach in terms of the budget-making process than I think the Senate will," Miller said.

House Republicans and the governor have criticized some of the state job cuts, which they said were politically motivated. Democrats defended the eliminations as part of recommendations by the nonpartisan Department of Legislative Services.

Despite their criticisms, House Minority Leader George Edwards, R-Garrett, and Minority Whip Anthony O'Donnell, R-Calvert, both conceded that there was "more good than bad" to their chamber's final product.

The governor's original budget plan would have eliminated $30.6 million in grants to 10 counties and Baltimore City for their large electricity-generating plants. But the House Appropriations Committee instead chose to phase out the grant fund, leaving $6.1 million for fiscal 2006.

The committee also restored $11.8 million cut in the Ehrlich budget from Medicaid prescription-drug assistance. That fund helps adults who don't quite qualify for the federal-state health program for the poor.

Overall, the committee cut $43 million in state Medicaid money from programs that are to become obsolete with last year's creation of a federal prescription drug benefit for seniors, said Deputy Majority Whip John Bohanan Jr., D-St. Mary's.

The House also cut $2.9 million in state funding for improvements to Maryland's voting systems as part of the federal Help America Vote Act of 2002.

Other notable program cuts include: $9.2 million from upgrades to the state's computer and information systems; and $60 million from Maryland's contribution to the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit system.

Bill To Stop Teens From Using Cell Phones While Driving Almost Sealed

ANNAPOLIS — The Maryland Senate Wednesday approved a measure banning teens from using cell phones while driving and a similar bill passed the House last week — moves that make it more likely the prohibition will hit the governor's desk later this session.

The House has approved a number of bills to significantly curtail teen driving privileges, while the Senate Wednesday began to catch up, in a year when the entire General Assembly seems bent on trying to protect teens from themselves.

Senators debated the bill's provision to suspend a minor's license if caught driving while talking on a cell phone — a punishment in keeping with the penalty for drunken driving.

"This bill goes way too far in the penalty phase," said Sen. Edward J. Pipkin, R-Queen Anne's, who tried to lessen the penalty. "This is a nuclear option."

"To compare using a cell phone to drunk driving is way out of line," said Minority Leader J. Lowell Stoltzfus, R-Somerset. "This is not a good bill."

The Senate passed the bill 27-17. The House, in comparison, debated little over its version of the cell phone bill, spending more time arguing a measure to restrict the number of passengers allowed in a teen's vehicle. A passenger restriction bill has yet to reach the Senate floor.

The chairman of the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee, which presented the cell phone bill, defended the measure.

"This bill will save kids lives," said Sen. Brian E. Frosh, D-Montgomery. "If you think this is tough, just wait till you see the administration's bills."

Wednesday afternoon his committee approved those Ehrlich administration bills. The bill that had the most debate, and the tightest vote, in Judicial Proceedings was one to restart the 18-month provisional period if a teenager has a moving violation, is caught out during the curfew hours between midnight and 5 a.m., or if anyone in the car fails to wear a seatbelt.

Sen. John A. Giannetti Jr., D-Prince George's, who voted for the bill, said it is unfair to elevate the measure to a primary offense and restart the clock.

"I support the measure begrudgingly," he said.

The committee amended all of the administration's bills: SB 206, which restarts the 18-month probationary license period for curfew violations, driving without seatbelts or moving violation convictions; SB 207, which revokes the license of a teenager convicted of alcohol- or drug-related driving offenses for one year on a first offense and two on a second; and SB 209, which changes the learner's permit age to 15 years and 9 months, the provisional license age to 16 years and two months, and the licensing age to 17 years and 9 months.

While Frosh said the punishments meted out in the administration's bills are draconian, he said changes to teen driving privileges are necessary.

"We need to make them accept responsibility," Frosh said later. But he said he's pleased the committee mitigated the penalties, particularly shortening the suspension of driving privileges for alcohol and drug use from the administration's three years or until age 21, whichever is longer.

"I wouldn't have supported it in the original form," Frosh said. "We put it in better shape, but it's still potentially problematic."

Also on Wednesday, Judicial Proceedings heard testimony on a bill to penalize people providing alcohol to minors with revocation or suspension of their driver's license. Although current law imposes fines for allowing minors to have or consume alcohol, the bill's sponsor, Sen. Robert J. Garagiola, D-Montgomery, said by revoking a license you are making a statement.

"In our society, we've come to rely on our cars," Garagiola said. "Two months without a driver's license is going to have a big impact."

One Clear Piece of Advice...

Much is being written about the case of Terri Schiavo, who presently lies on what is almost undoubtedly her death bed in Florida while unprecedented measures are being taken to either spare her life or allow it to end. The issues and arguments in this case are so incredibly complex, and the ramifications of actions being taken, or not taken, will likely be huge, whatever the outcome.

Congress and President Bush have intervened with emergency legislation to try to keep Schiavo alive, and while the sanctity of life may well be their primary motivation, frankly this type of intervention is quite unnerving, even for those who believe that this woman should be allowed to live. At risk here are some of the basic blocks in the foundation of our nation's system of governance, including the separation of powers and the rule of law. The congressional intervention was essentially a move to interpret law, a duty that rests solely with the courts, or judicial branch of the federal government. It's interesting that it is under the leadership of Republicans, those long-time stalwarts of state's rights and hands-off government, that this intervention has taken place.

There are many other similar medical cases at any given time in the United States, so one question is, will Congress and the president intervene in all of them? If not, why not?

As to whether or not Schiavo should be kept alive or allowed to die, there are many more questions and strong points to be made on both sides. Her quality of life is obviously extremely low, and her cognition of things is severely impaired. But she is apparently not in pain, and no one can really know for sure just how much she may comprehend things. Her parents, who have evidently been at her side almost daily for years, understandably want desperately for her to be kept alive, but her husband, by virtue of the laws governing the marriage union, legally has the right to make that determination. Michael Schiavo said his wife told him she would not want to live under such conditions, but there is apparently nothing in writing.

Then we get into the religious argument about mercy killing, and the strong belief of many that the determination of life should, in all cases, be left up to God and not to human beings, which is utilized to justify total opposition to abortion and capital punishment as well.

In this particular case, it is the opinion of this writer that the husband of Terri Schiavo, who now has a life and children with another woman anyway, should simply hand over control of the situation to Terri's parents and allow them to continue caring for her for as long as she lives. Michael Schiavo says that he is adamant about complying with his wife's wishes, but again, those wishes are not in writing.

Therefore, one absolutely clear piece of advice that can be gleaned from this complex, difficult, awful affair is that living wills are a must for everyone. In fact, perhaps they should be required by law for every citizen.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Garrett County is so fortunate to have such an excellent library system. I must congratulate the employees of the Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County. Their knowledge, capability, and desire to help anyone who enters the doors of the library is admirable.

From personal experience, I can say they are the best! No matter how many times I ask for assistance, they readily assist me and, if one person can't help me, they will make every effort to find someone who will be able to help.

Now, that's loving your job! You can tell because they always have a smile for you.

To those who haven't been to our library recently, you'd be amazed at what's available. Computers, printers, Internet connections, and a library network where almost any book can be found in the Maryland library system and ordered for you are available to you. It's definitely ready for the 21st century.

My thanks goes out to the county commissioners for being farsighted enough to provide sufficient funds to make the library an A-one facility. Also, thanks to the many patrons who provide donations so that our library has what is needed to give our young students the tools and information they need in this competitive world.

I hope everyone in Garrett County would think about a donation to our wonderful library system.

John Couey is the alleged pedophile murderer of Jessica Lunsford. His possible defense of his pedophilia: He could claim to have been born that way! For him, pedophilia is just as normal as being right-handed or blonde-haired. He could claim that being a pedophile chose him–he did not choose pedophilia. He could ask, "Would anyone choose to be a pedophile–knowing the social and legal consequences?" He believes that there is some–yet undiscovered–pedophile DNA that causes pedophilia.

"And," he could add, "recent animal studies show that adult chimpanzees–our closest living relative–often molest young chimpanzees. So...it must be normal!"

Hey, it works for other perversions! Why not pedophilia?

As many people already know, Elaine Kackley, who directed the Flowery Vale Health & Fitness Center since it opened, leaves her post this week. She will be heading off to Annapolis to be closer to her family. She has provided a fine service for all of us who are 55 or older by encouraging us to get up off the couch and move! Adina Brode and Ronnie Padmos at the Area Agency on Aging had dreamed of opening such a center and providing age-specific exercise programs for us. Elaine was the right lady to do that. She has done a super job and will be missed by all. Thank you, Elaine.

To the Editor:

Like many people, I was dismayed by the outcome of the missing person investigation in Citrus County, Florida, when authorities determined Jessica Lunsford was allegedly abducted and killed by a sex offender living nearby. Persons commenting on the case have asked why information on sex offenders isn't available. Please advise your readers that Maryland has a web site from which this information can be obtained, www.dpscs.state.md.us/sor.

I would also like to remind parents and caretakers of the need to be ever vigilant of your children and their activities. Too often I see children who are left unattended in local stores or other public places. Living in a rural community with a fairly low incidence of serious crime, we become complacent and believe "these things couldn't happen here." I suspect the persons in Jessica's rural town of 2000 persons probably believed the same thing.

The time and effort needed to take precautions is a small price to pay to assure the safety of our children.

Sincerely,
Lisa Thayer Welch

To the Editor:

The performances of Garrett County teenagers on Friday, March 18, during the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival event, Garrett County's Best – The Ultimate Talent Show, demonstrated to us the enormous talent of our Garrett County teenagers. Twenty-five girls and guys sang, danced, presented drama, and played instruments. It was obvious that they loved performing, and the sellout crowd in the Garrett College auditorium was treated to their magical works of art.

We appreciate the time that the teenagers and their parents have devoted to their pursuit of the arts. To the many people of the community and the teachers who have nurtured their interest and turned that interest into individual expressions of art, thank you! You could feel the radiance of the performers and their pride in their art. They should be very proud of what they created and gave to the audience.

To those who missed this enchanting evening, make sure that you pay attention to The Republican newspaper and to the school notices of the children when they are to perform. You will be glad that you attend such future endeavors.

Our company, Total Biz Fulfillment, and our associates who work in the company were proud sponsors of this event. A multitude of other Garrett County companies support our children in our community. To bring the arts to the children and to the community organizations, GLAF and many others bring in outside talent. We must continue to do so.

Again, well done, teenagers! You are an inspiration and you enrich our lives.

To the Editor:

Could gun clubs become the next hazardous waste sites in Maryland? Consider this – Suppose every fisherman deposited ½ lb. to 20 pounds of lead in the lakes or rivers each time they went fishing. It would not take very long before fishing would be banned in Maryland.

The fishermen don't, but some sportsmen deposit 1 to 1½ ounces of lead for each shot, and it is left on the ground. The problem is, when the BB size shot hits the clay target, fragments fly off to be breathed in or settle to the ground, then filter into the ground water or wash into the streams, lakes, or rivers. I visited a gun club that had a shooting match, where, on occasion, they shoot approximately 100,000 shots or rounds in a day. That's about 9,000 pounds of lead, and I find no law requiring them or any gun club to clean it up.

Well, to the point – Our Maryland lawmakers in Annapolis do not want to make a law requiring gun clubs to clean up the lead; they want to make a law saying if you live next to a gun club or, shall we say, "hazardous waste site," your county will not be able to make a law restricting noise from that gun club. The proposed law restricts Garrett County, Allegany County, and Washington County from making any law that would force the gun club to lower the noise level on any adjoining landowners' property. Any complaints would be handled by the Department of the Environment standards, where the noise level limits are set so high that they are meaningless.

Please call Senator Hafer, who is sponsoring the two bills (House Bill 756 and Senate Bill 685), and tell him and your delegate that you and your county will make our own laws about noise, and if they really want to do something down there, make a law requiring the gun clubs to clean up the lead every two years or so.

A public hearing was set for March 23 in Annapolis.

To the Editor:

On behalf of the entire Special Olympics Maryland family, I take this opportunity to thank the Garrett County community for hosting a truly incredible SOMD "Mountain Madness Weekend" Feb. 25 – March 1. Every single aspect of the weekend reinforced what we have known for years – that Garrett County is Maryland's hidden treasure!

The embrace of Special Olympics Maryland athletes by the Garrett County community is second to none, and there is a tangible sense of pride among the residents who serve as the hosts of our annual Winter Games, and the entire Mountain Madness Weekend. Over the past seven years, this has been clearly evidenced in the show of support that the Maryland State Police Deep Creek Dunk receives. Another group of people that I would like to recognize is the Dunk Committee. Because of them, there is a Dunk – especially given the challenging weather we have had over the past couple of years!

It is rare that we enjoy the kind of enthusiastic support that we receive from every aspect of the Garrett County community. Businesses have wholeheartedly endorsed this weekend, including Wisp Deep Creek Mountain Resort, WKHJ, Uno's, Garrett Co. Chamber, Long & Foster, Black Bear Tavern, Tub Tech, Sounds Fun Entertainment, and many others. We thank every one of these businesses and the people who make these partnerships a reality.

I would be remiss in not also mentioning the amazing volunteer support we received from both Northern and Southern Garrett middle and high schools. The students participated in a Service Learning project centered on our competition. With Winter Games being held over two weekdays, it is always challenging to get students involved, but by integrating it into the curriculum, it became a fun and educational experience. We doubly applaud these students because, despite the fact that the schools were closed and it would have been a free day for them, they honored their commitment and still showed up at Wisp, ready to volunteer. In fact, many of the students' parents drove them to Wisp and stayed to volunteer themselves. It was a remarkable show of support for our ath-

by Jeffrey Wilson

SILENT AS THE GRAVE

Even in the grey light, two hours before the dawn I can see that the sky is clear. The only lights are those which stay on during the night, nightlights, those in stairwells and on the street. The human world sleeps in silence, but the birds know that a spring morning is about to break. They chatter and sing, signs of what is to come.

My senses take in the various stimuli, coordinated by that inner sense common to the five external senses. My imagination feeds phantasms to my intellect which formulates impressions first of what I see and then of whether what I see is real.

All this comes to me in my half-conscious state; I am witness to the world through this particular window only because I have taken that short nocturnal walk familiar to middle-aged men.

I now know what the birds already knew. The day is coming, and it will be a beautiful, spring day. I return to my bed for another hour or two of rest. Later I make my way through the empty streets. In human silence the day has dawned.

Walk, walk, walk through the streets, through the pages, through the centuries. It is not Paris but another city, it is not I, not a man at all, not a solitary walker, rather three women. The birds are singing there too. The dawn is coming, and it is spring.

The graveyards of Paris are locked until some hour reckoned decent by French standards. Behind the walls one can visit philosophers and rockers and unknown mortals in untold scores. In that other city there not graves so much as tombs.

The body is anointed and wrapped in bands of cloth or perhaps wrapped and then anointed. The wrapped body is laid on a bed-like shelf in a cave worked from sandstone. A door-shaped stone covers the opening to the tomb.

After the body has undergone the natural process of decay, someone enters the cave, and places the bones in an urn which remains in one corner of the tomb. The shelf is then ready for the next body.

These women seek a body hastily put away in a tomb without the appropriate obsequies. They have come to remedy that fault. It is their intention properly to bury the dead.

Is it the dead who bury the dead? It is the dying or, at very least, those who shall die who undertake such work. The serpent did not lie completely. Adam and Eve did not fall over dead as if the fruit had been poisoned. The necessary consequence took some time to unfold. With very few exceptions, the consequence has proved inexorable.

It is amazing how quiet the streets of Paris are early on the morning of the first day of the week. Someone sent me an article from an American Christian magazine which described the new openness to the gospel of Christ in this secular, nearly atheistic country.

What the author missed, what most Americans miss, is how Christianity is embedded in the culture. French atheists keep sabbath on the Lord's Day – dimanche – while American Christians go to the mall on pagan day of the sun. On that point, which is the more Christian nation?

In that other city long ago, the sabbath had ended at sundown the evening before. The women came to the tomb before the bustle of day began. What chores awaited them? Cooking and cleaning certainly were on the agenda. The habit of house-wifely women from time immemorial has been to do the laundry on the morning after a day of rest, recreation or celebration. Gardening, commerce, sewing, fuel-gathering, some craft or trade were all possibilities for filling their day.

This one thing they had to do before they got on with their lives. The town talked of this man's death. These three had seen him die. They had loved him while he lived. What talk there had been about what he might accomplish. Anything might have happened, but all that was over. The last gasps of hope had become their despair.

People, even French priests, tell me that the French people do not go to church. All I know is that from my own experience, they must not go to churches other than the ones I have attended here. I walk through the quiet, almost eerily quiet streets, sometimes take the Metro, and arrive at a massive pile of stone which fills up, sometimes with traditional French Catholics, sometimes with immigrants from the former French empire.

It has long been a complaint that Christian practice interferes with commerce. How like God to ignore the profit margin. Those women had things to do, but they knew the duty of love, and had made room for it in a busy day.

Did they chatter on their way or were they silent in the fashion of the half-awake? In either case, they did not accomplish what they had come for. There was no longer need. Only the dead need burying after all. And how does one talk about one who lives in spite of all?

"It does last, spring does," Faulkner has one of his characters say, "You'd almost think there was some purpose to it."

Senate Backs "Life Partner" Registry

by Sarah Lesher
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Both opposite- and same-sex couples will be able to register as life partners, giving them rights to make medical decisions for each other, according a bill tentatively approved Wednesday by the Maryland Senate.

Citing the Terri Schiavo case in which where relatives of a brain-damaged bill had nothing to do with health insurance issues, but just made the rights of partners "very, very clear."

The bill would grant life partners the right to make decisions about medical care for incapacitated partners, ride in ambulances, visit them in intensive care wards, and dispose of their organs and remains — rights now possessed by married couples in all states and registered domestic partners in Vermont, Cali-

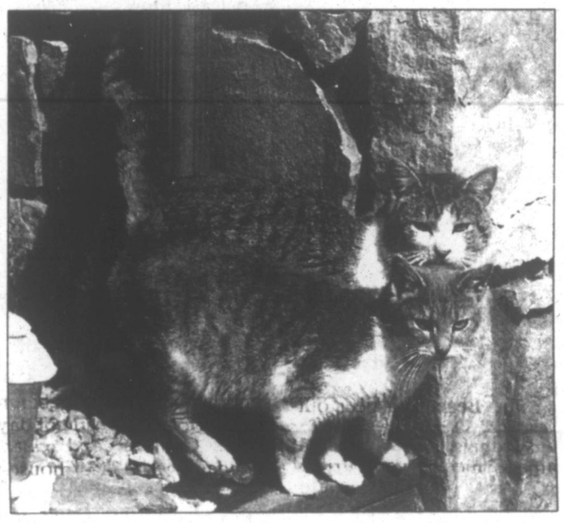
PAWS: RAFFLE RESULTS, ORPHANED CATS – The local Partners for Animal Welfare and Safety, or PAWS, raffled two Mary Kay gift baskets in conjunction with selling PAWS Calendars last fall and this winter. Kelsey Blough, 14, pictured above, Kingsville, won the winter basket. She purchased her chances at Naylor's Hardware, Oakland. Another basket raffled was won by Yvonne Sisler of Virginia. PAWS appreciates the following businesses for allowing volunteers to set up sales tables at their establishments: Proudfoot's Pharmacy, Naylor's Hardware, the Book Mark'et, Arrowhead Market, and Foodland Fresh. Proceeds from the raffles are being used to support PAWS Help For Homeless Cats spay/neuter program. Pictured below are two cats that recently benefited from the program. Both were found in the Ben DeWitt/ Royal Charlotte Road area of Pleasant Valley. PAWS volunteers are hoping to find their owners or place them into a new home. The larger dark tabby and white cat is a male, approximately 8 years old, and the smaller gray and white cat is a 2- to 3-year-old female. In addition to being spayed and neutered, both cats are up to date on shots. "They are very sweet, friendly, and get along very well together," a PAWS spokesperson said. Persons interested in the cats may e-mail paws@garrettpaws.org or call 301-334-2699.



Florida woman are bitterly contesting her husband's removal of her feeding tube, Sen. Paula Colodny Hollinger, D-Baltimore County, said everyone should have advance medical directives, legal documents specifying their wishes with respect to medical care if incapacitated. But it is also essential, she said, that the state let citizens formally recognize relationships — not necessarily sexual — of mutual affection and shared living.

"At the worst times in your life, the people who matter most to you should be there. When you're sick, you want people close to you to be around. It's a sensitivity bill," Hollinger, a nurse, said.

The bill would establish a "life partner" registry in the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, where for a modest fee couples could certify that they shared a common residence and were mutually interdependent, though they need not make equal contributions.

"A widow and widower who live together might not (find it a) benefit because of the tax system to marry," Hollinger said, noting that in Florida, "lots of couples live together." She said the

Traffic Stop Leads To Arrest Of Local Man

An Oakland man was arrested after his vehicle was stopped for speeding on Gorman Road near White Church Road Friday evening, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Investigation revealed that Michael Adam Kile, 20, was giving deputies a false identity. He was arrested and charged with giving a false statement to a peace officer, exceeding the maximum speed limit, driving on a suspended license, and failure to provide vehicle registration.

In another incident, Barry Ray Livengood, 38, Mtn. Lake Park, was charged with drunk driving after he overturned his 2004 Yamaha scooter on Mason School Road Saturday afternoon.

According to police, he failed to negotiate a turn in the road and upset the scooter. Livengood also failed field sobriety tests. He was charged with driving while impaired (DWI), driving under the influence (DUI), violation of an alcohol restriction, and failure to reduce speed in a turn.

In other police news, Ryan John Upperman was stopped after a deputy observed his vehicle in the area of several closed businesses and then sitting crossways in the intersection of Mountainview Drive and Ridgeview Drive early Friday morning.

According to police, the vehicle was blocking the intersection and its lights were turned off to avoid identification.

Upperman was arrested and charged with DUI, DUI per se, DWI, and two counts of destruction of property.

In a separate incident, no charges were filed in a single-vehicle accident Saturday just off Boiling Springs Road, at a private hunting camp road just west of Decost Road in Deer Park.

Leroy Franklin Fazenbaker, 63, was operating his 2005 Dodge truck on the private road and attempted to avoid striking a deer in the roadway. He swerved the vehicle, snagged a stump, and then collided with a tree. Injured was a passenger, Donald Wayne Fazenbaker, 48, Lonaconing, who was treated and released at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Marraccini Joins Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty

Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty announced this week that Jennifer Marraccini has joined the company as a sales associate. She began her real estate career with Coldwell Banker in Ohio in 2000.

"We are happy that Jennifer has decided to join Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty," said Ruth Seib, broker/co-owner. "Jennifer's local knowledge and her familiarity with Coldwell Banker's Buyer Services System and Seller Services System will help home buyers and sellers reach their goals."

Marraccini is a Garrett County native who was reared in Friendsville. After living in Gaithersburg and locations in Virginia, Connecticut, and Ohio, she returned to Garrett County in 2003 with her husband and young daughter. She said she looks forward to rearing her daughter here.

Marraccini enjoys living in the mountains, gardening, cooking, traveling, and outdoor activities. She is a member of the Mountain Laurel Garden Club, Mommy and Me Association, and Mothers of Organic.

Note of Thanks

The Family of

will greatly miss our Mother, Grandma, and Great-Grandma. We would like to express our deepest gratitude to her friends and neighbors who were such a great help to her as her health declined. We especially would like to thank Dr. Margaret Kaiser, Hospice of Garrett County and Elonda Wright, RN, who assisted her so she could remain in her home as long as possible. Although Huldah was at Cherry Hill Assisted Living Center for a very short time, we appreciate the tender, loving care she received and the concern the staff gave her family. Pastor George Loar provided a touching service as a tribute to a woman who put her faith and trust in God her entire life. Pastor Loar and his wife Shirley and pianist Gay Rodeheaver also provided beautiful music and hymns of faith. Thank you also to Newman Funeral Home for all their help. It is at times like these we realize and really appreciate the kindness of friends. God bless you all.

4-H Club News

GRANTSVILLE
by Ethan Broadwater, reporter

The March meeting of the Grantsville 4-H Club was attended by 19 members and 10 parents.

Heidi Fazenbaker accepted pizza orders for the fundraiser and noted that the delivery date will be Tuesday, March 15. She will call all the members with the delivery time next week.

Leader Duane Wilhelm stated that the new coats and T-shirts have been ordered and should be delivered in time for the members to wear their shirts to Achievement Night.

Achievement Night will be held at Northern High School, Saturday, April 2. All families have been requested to bring a finger food and arrive by 6:30. The program will begin at 7 p.m.

Duane Wilhelm also asked the members for nominations for Club Friend of the Year, Club Family of the Year, and the 4-H Alumni award.

Members will decide at the next meeting where they would like to take their 4-H trip during the summer vacation. Three members will check prices for different amusement parks and bring the information back to the April meeting.

The meeting was followed by a demonstration by Brittany Wilhelm on "How to Make No-Bake Cookies"

Demonstrations for the next meeting will be Dean Rounds, Adam Rounds, Alana Morgan and Kasondra Broadwater. The snack will be provided by Megan Kamp and Megan Bittinger.

GRANTSVILLE

GVFD BARBECUE

The Grantsville fire department will hold a chicken and rib barbecue on Saturday, April 2, from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. The chicken and rib dinners are $6 and include a half chicken or ribs, baked beans, cole slaw, and roll. Persons may also order a half chicken or ribs for $5.

CASSELMAN VALLEY SPORTSMEN'S CLUB

An "all-you-can-eat" buckwheat cake and pancake supper will be held Saturday, April 2, from 5 to 7:30 p.m. at the club. The dinner includes buckwheat cakes, pancakes, sausage, sausage gravy, and a beverage. The cost is $6 for adults and $3 for children 12 and under. The club is located along Route 40, one mile west of Grantsville.

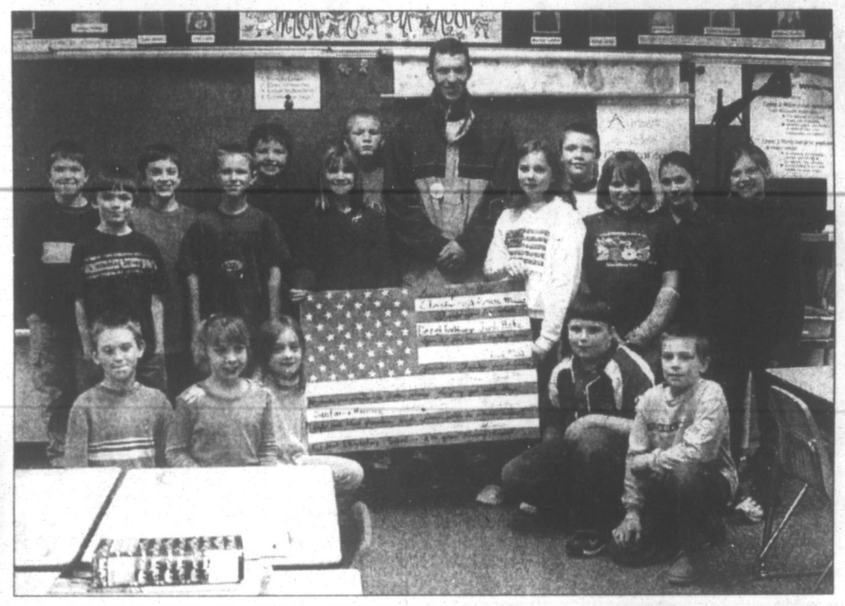
ANNIVERSARY

Dan and Hazel Klotz will celebrate their 58th wedding anniversary on March 30. Cards may be sent to 1103 National Pike, Grantsville, MD 21536.

SOCCER MEETINGS

Casselman Valley American Youth Soccer Organization (AYSO) team meetings have been scheduled for Saturday, April 2, from 9 until noon. Players will receive a postcard mailing in the next few days with the time for each team. Players are also reminded that the products from the fundraising activity will be arriving and will have to be picked up.

KINDERGARTNERS PARTICIPATE IN BACKPACK PROJECT – Mrs. Durst's kindergarten class at Dennett Road Elementary recently participated in the Haiti Backpack Project. The project is headed by the State of Maryland International Reading Association Council and the Garrett Reading Council to support the growth of literacy in small, under-developed countries. Staff and students filled two backpacks with school supplies, toiletries, toys, and books. Pictured above, in the front, from the left, are Nate Cassidy, Vicky Plain, Tanner Lewis, Brittney Johnson, and Kobe Shiflett. In the middle are Lori Armstrong, Andrea Kimble, Kacy Kisner, Matthew Stemple, Marrissa Finch, and Jimmy Schwab. In the back are Mrs. Durst, Stephanie Beeman, Taylor Bolyard, Duncan Smith, Zachary Winebrenner, Andrew Eichorn, and Mrs. Sharpless.



TAKING TIME TO VISIT ACCIDENT ELEMENTARY STUDENTS – During his two-week leave from duty in Iraq, Sgt. Aaron F. Miller took time to visit several classes at Accident Elementary School. Sgt. Miller visited his mother, Anna Miller's third grade class and the fourth grade class of Doris Cooper and Donna Hinebaugh. He spoke to the students about the importance of freedom and justice. He explained how thankful citizens should all be to be living in America. The fourth graders presented Sgt. Miller with a class-made poster flag with messages of gratitude and well wishes. Sgt. Miller is the son of Anna and Ralph Miller of Accident. He is married to Jacey Miller and is the father of Courtney and Heritage Hamp and Cevana, Skyler, and Jaron Miller, all from Garrett County. Sgt. Miller plans to return to visit family and friends in Accident this summer.

SCOUTS LEARN ABOUT ORIENTEERING AND MAP READING – Cub Scout Pack #31 participated in a basic orienteering and map-reading class instructed by Mike Logsdon last weekend. Scouts were broken into teams to use their new skills, with each team locating seven markers on a map of Herrington Manor State Park, and then finding these markers in the park. In the first row, from left, are Wesley Logsdon, Nathan Ketterman, Garrett Brake, and Travis Paugh. In the back, same order, are Bryson Meadows, Kyler Calhoun, Ethan Walkling, Junior Uphole, and Tony Orr. Pack #31 is based at Dennett Road Elementary School and chartered by the Oakland Elks. For more information about Cub Scouts, persons may call 301-334-5295.

ARC Blood Drives Scheduled Locally

An American Red Cross bloodmobile is set for Friday, April 1, from noon to 6 p.m. at the American Legion's Proctor Kildow Post #71 in Oakland. The post is located along Memorial Drive across from Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

A second local bloodmobile is slated for Monday, April 4, from 1 to 7 p.m. at Cherry Glade Mennonite Church, located along Accident-Bittinger Road.

Potential donors must be at least 17 years old and weigh a minimum of 105 pounds, be in generally good health, and not have donated blood within the past 56 days. Proper identification of a Red Cross donor card or other ID must be provided by all donors.

Donation appointments are encouraged, but not required, and persons may call 1-800-371-1986 to schedule a donation time. Refreshments will be served to all donors.

To the Editor:

This week is National Inhalants & Poisons Awareness Week (March 20-26).

Inhalants are the most commonly abused substances used by young children, some as young as elementary school age. According to the National Survey on Drug Use and Health and the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA), in 2003 1.4 % of 12-13 year olds had used inhalants. This is a major concern because of the availability of household products that are often accessible to children who may want to experiment with drug use.

Inhalant abuse has the potential to cause many serious and even deadly health problems among individuals who decide to "huff" these products. When a child tries an inhalant, "sudden sniffing death syndrome" can occur even for first-time users. This syndrome occurs when the chemicals cause the user's heart to beat too quickly and erratically, which may result in a heart attack. The huffer could also die from suffocation when the gases from the inhalants make it impossible for him or her to breathe, causing some to even die from choking on their own vomit.

What are some possible physical signs of someone huffing? Chemical smells on clothing or breath, and paint or similar chemicals on the face or fingers, which can also create sores around the mouth and nose. Slurred speech, nausea, and loss of coordination are some other signs that may point to inhalant or other substance abuse.

What can be done? If you or someone else needs help with this problem, or you want more information, call the Garrett County Health Department Substance Abuse Program at 301-334-7670 or 301-895-3111. If you notice any of the above symptoms occurring, call 911 before it is too late.

Remember also to keep all hazardous products locked up and out of reach of very young children, and call Poison Control (1-800-222-1222) right away if there is problem.

Sincerely,
Patty Sines
Acting Director
Garrett Co. Health Dept.
Substance Abuse Program

To the Editor:

A few years ago I walked through the Crabtree area of Savage River State Forest. This is the area proposed to be protected by HB 1244. It is one of the few well-preserved areas of old-growth forests in western Maryland.

The resolution of the Garrett County commissioners opposing its designation as a State Wildland (as reported in The Republican of March 10) was unfortunate and ill-informed. From reading the article, it appears that the commissioners' opposition was prompted by the testimony of Marshall Stacy, a county logger who makes his livelihood by planting and harvesting Christmas trees. Mr. Stacy's main concern appears to be that the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) would be unable to control fires and exotic invasive plants and pests in a Wildland area.

However, your reporter did her homework. Citing a DNR web site, she showed that the Wildland designation doesn't inhibit either fire suppression or pest control. In fact, further research would have indicated that a Wildland designation would help control fires and inhibit exotic pests.

Fires are likely to do more damage in a recently logged forest where young growth readily succumb to flames. Most exotic plants are carried into forests on the tires of vehicles. Most vehicles would be prohibited from Wildland area, thereby diminishing the very exotic growths that Stacy was concerned about.

Garrett County's economy depends upon tourism. People don't come to see denuded forests. (In Green River State Forest, hikers have been so alarmed by suddenly coming across acres of stumps that DNR had to erect signs informing people that they had hiked into "A Working Forest.") People come, as I did a few years ago, to see 200-year-old trees, rich undergrowth, snags, and abundant and varied wildlife that such forests generate and promote.

My hat's off to your reporter who did her research to point out the falsehoods that supported the commissioners' recent opposition to establishing the Crabtree Wildland. Hopefully additional reporting will convince the commissioners to endorse efforts to preserve our natural heritage and, by so doing, promote the local economy.

To the Editor:

EMS companies in Allegany and Garrett counties are experiencing serious difficulties maintaining enough volunteers to respond to call loads. Long delays and scratches are becoming common. It is time the public asked the right questions and time those who have accepted leadership in these failing squads question methods of recruiting and retention.

Webster says a volunteer is "a person who enters or offers to enter into any service of his own free will," meaning, of course, those who enter these organizations accept hundreds of hours of training and answer calls at all hours, but do not have to do so. They can stop any time, and apparently too many are doing so. They come in and suddenly they are gone. We continually ask for more classes at taxpayers' expense while dozens, already trained, are out there not doing the job. We need to ask and find answers to "Why?"

Many reasons are given for leaving your service, including "burn out," which does occur, but more often, infighting and lack of respect from leadership and for each other are what break the spirit and enthusiasm of many. Too often the organization has become the goal instead of service to those who are hurting from illness and accident. The reality is that we desperately need to re-focus and recognize our very reason for existence.

In doing so, we must recognize and never lose sight of you — the victim — and the fact that each volunteer is of immense value and should have the respect of others, including the public, and very importantly, the leadership of the organization. It is here that these

The Arts

FSU SPRING DANCE CONCERT SLATED – The Frostburg State University Dance Company, under the artistic direction of Dr. Barry Fischer, will present its Spring Dance Concert on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, April 7, 8, and 9, at 8 p.m., and Sunday, April 10, at 2 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center Drama Theatre. Guest choreographer will be FSU alumna Lori Cannon, pictured above, one of the first graduates of FSU's dance major. She will present two works. The first is a solo titled, "Charmer," performed by freshman dance major Sarah Lucas-Haji. The second work is a group piece featuring the women of the FSU Dance Company. Fischer, marking his 10th year as Dance Company artistic director, will present a new work set to Bette Midler's rendition of the lively Rosemary Clooney classic "Mambo Italiano." The concert will also feature a surprise guest performer from New York City, and dance majors from the Dance Composition I class will perform a variety of their own works in hip hop and modern styles. Tickets will be available beginning Monday, March 28, in the Division of Performing Arts office, PAC 302. They will also be available in the PAC box office one hour prior to the performances. For reservations or more information, persons may call 301-687-4145 Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Auditions Slated At Our Town For Next Production

Our Town Theatre in Oakland will hold auditions for its spring play on April 3, 2 to 5 p.m., and on April 5, 7 to 9 p.m.

"We were planning to produce both Moon Over Buffalo as well as The Cocktail Hour," said Director Jane Avery, "but because we had to reschedule Twilight of the Golds, we have had to cut one of the plays from our schedule. So, whichever play will make cast is the one we will produce during the third week of May.

"In Moon Over Buffalo," Avery explained, "an acting couple is on tour in Buffalo in 1953 with a repertory consisting of Cyrano de Bergerac and Noel Coward's Private Lives. Fate has given these thespians one more shot at starring roles in The Scarlet Pimpernel epic, and director Frank Capra himself is en route to Buffalo to catch their matinee performance. Will Charlotte Hay appear or run off with their agent? Will George Hay be sober enough to emote? Will Capra see Cyrano, Private Lives or a disturbing mixture of the two? Hilarious misunderstandings pile on madcap misadventures, all of which are magnified by Charlotte's deaf mother who manages the theatre."

The cast consists of eight characters: one female in her 70s, two females, 20 to 30; one female, 45 to 55; two males in their 50s; and two males, 20s to 30.

Avery said in The Cocktail Hour, a playwright named John returns to his family's house, bringing with him a new play which he has written about them. His purpose is to obtain their permission to proceed with production, but his wealthy, very proper parents are cautious from the outset, she explained.

"For them, the theatre is personified by the gracious, comforting era of the 40s and 50s, and they are disturbed by the bluntness of modern plays," Avery said. "And there is also John's sister Nina to contend with, although her reservations have to do with the fact that John has given her character such a minor role. Their confrontation takes place during the ritual of the cocktail hour, and as the martinis flow, so do the recriminations and revelations, both funny and poignant."

There are four characters in this play: one male and one female, ages 50-80, and one male and one female in their 30s to 40s.

Questions about auditions may be directed to Avery at 301-334-5640, option 3.

Senate Backs

fornia, New Jersey, and Hawaii.

"We heard stories in committee (hearing) where a partner was not allowed in a hospital room, but a neighbor was," Hollinger said.

The Senate Education Health and Environmental Affairs committee handled the bill. The bill has been supported by gay rights advocates, who charge they are discriminated against when it comes to life decisions for their loved ones.

Opponents raised a number of questions and objections.

"Why specify same sex and opposite sex — it seems unnecessary?" said Sen. Alex X. Mooney, R-Frederick.

Hollinger said clarity was essential.

"Does this include transgendered?" Mooney asked. Hollinger said she didn't know.

Mooney also asked if there were any specifications as to how long a couple had to be together to qualify as "life" partners — "a day? a year?" And he asked why could a new partnership be registered only 90 days after the previous one had dissolved — "isn't that rather quick?"

"I know of married couples where one walks out and gets married the next day. Don't you know people like that?" Hollinger said.

Why did an amendment remove a requirement that opposite-sex partners be at least age 62, asked Sen. Nancy Jacobs, R-Harford. Hollinger said it would be discriminatory to leave it in. There is no age restriction on same-sex partners.

Jacobs also questioned why relatives were excluded. There already is an order of listing for next of kin, Hollinger answered.

Jacobs asked whether someone would have to produce evidence of life partnership registration in order to ride with that person in an ambulance.

"Believe me, they're not going to stop doing resuscitation to check it out," Hollinger said. "Do you have health insurance? Do you carry your card with you?" she asked Jacobs.

"What if you're unconscious?" Jacobs answered.

"Somebody better produce it," Hollinger said.

Last year, the Maryland House passed a similar bill with 42 co-sponsors, but it was killed in same Senate committee that put this bill forward.

Review for Vanishing Acts by Jodi Picoult
by Terri Schlichenmeyer

Somewhere on the market, there exists a product that attaches to your key ring, and when you lose your keys, you clap or whistle and the product answers back so you know exactly where you last put everything.

Some entrepreneur was really using his head when he figured out that there's a need for something like that. So, what if you lost a sense of who you were? When her father is arrested, that's what happens to Delia in Vanishing Acts, the new novel by Jodi Picoult (c. 2005, Atria).

Delia Hopkins has the perfect life. She makes a living doing something she feels she was born to do. She has a smart and funny 5-year-old daughter, a fiancé who loves her very much, and a supportive father who helps her raise her child.

Delia doesn't remember her mother very much. Snatches of memory flit through her mind of a woman who smelled like vanilla and apples, and who danced in the kitchen. Her mother was killed in a car accident when Delia was 4 years old, and now Delia looks at her own daughter and wonders how things might have been.

For as long as she can remember, Eric and Fitz were Delia's best friends. The three of them did almost everything together. When they were adolescents, though, three became two plus one. Eric and Fitz competed for Scrabble wins and Delia's affection. Fitz won Scrabble. Eric won Delia.

Now, Fitz is a journalist, Eric is a lawyer, and Eric and Delia are going to be married.

And then the police arrive at the door.

Twenty-some years ago, when Delia was 4 years old, she was known as Bethany. That was before Delia's father, Andrew, decided not to return Delia to her mother after a weekend visitation. Instead, he drove cross-country from Arizona to New Hampshire, got fake IDs, bought a home, and raised his daughter alone.

As Andrew is extradited to Arizona to face a decades-old arrest warrant, Delia follows him and Eric as she wonders if her mother ever looked for her. She wonders why her father snatched her away. And she wonders: who is she, really?

I got this 418-page book at 3:30 one afternoon. Ten hours later, I shut the cover. It's rare that I'll finish a book all in one sitting — especially one this hefty — but author Jodi Picoult grabbed me yet again with a book that fed me little bits of information, piece by piece, until I was so wrapped up in the story that I couldn't tear myself away. While I liked Delia, the chapters written in her father's voice were my favorites. Andrew is an older, middle-class man flung into the violence of prison, and it's fascinating, yet difficult, to watch him morph from innocent to criminal in order to endure.

Rip out this article, take it to your local bookstore or library, and say "I want to read Vanishing Acts." Go now. Get your keys.

Screen Painting Course Set At Garrett College

A course in Screen Painting is slated from 6 to 8:30 p.m. over five consecutive Tuesdays, April 5 through May 3, at the McHenry campus of Garrett College. Ginni Neff, a former art teacher in the Baltimore City public school system and a commissioned artist, will be conducting the class.

"Screen painting is a unique folk art that began in Baltimore in 1913," Neff explained. "William Ocavec owned a grocery store in East Baltimore and was frustrated because the sun would shine in the window and spoil his vegetables, so he needed a solution. He decided to paint his window screen, thus preventing the sun from shining strongly on his produce. Once the screen is painted you can't see inside but you can see out the window.

"Bring your own window screen, and learn to paint decorative designs on it to create your own work of art," a spokesperson said.

For more information or to register, persons may contact Kista Wilt at 301-387-3069 or via e-mail at kwilt@garrettcollege.edu.

This class is an offering of the Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett College.

other randomly selected robots to win four out of eight qualification matches. Meshach's performance earned it a spot to compete with the seventh ranked team in the quarter final elimination rounds.

Matches which took place last Saturday were broadcast on NASA TV.

In attendance at the competition were Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent; Dr. Brenda McCartney, assistant superintendent; Lynn Bell, director of secondary education; and Kurt Lear, CTE supervisor.

"It was thrilling to watch," said Teets. "We are extremely proud of how our students did for their first competition. We just think it's a tremendous accomplishment for our students, teaching staff and community volunteers. They had great support from the business community and the school system. I was talking with some of the judges and officials, and several of them commented about how impressed they were with our students, not only in their preparation and how they approached the competition, but what fine young students they were. We couldn't ask for anything better. It speaks well for their family support and the type of students they are."

Teets noted that money has been put into the budget to support the team next year.

This is the 14th year that the FIRST organization, founded by inventor Dean Kamen, has conducted its annual Robotics Competition. According to Kamen, the impact of FIRST continues to expand as more people and organizations understand the importance of encouraging and inspiring young people's interest in science, technology, engineering and math. One of Dr. Kamen's best-known inventions is Segway, a self-propelled personal transportation device.

The robotics team noted that they would like to thank NASA and their other team partner, Beitzel Corporation, as well as their other sponsors: Mettiki Coal Corporation, First United Bank of Oakland and PrimeVest, the Southern High School Alumni Association, Financial Computer Services Inc., Rodeheaver and Associates, Hobby House Press, F&M Bank, Hallmark Engraving, Wisp Mountain Resort, Garrett Information Enterprise Center, the Garrett County Office of Economic Development, and the Board of Education of Garrett County. They noted that they are especially grateful to Garrett Container Systems Inc. for being a sponsor and for constructing the crate for shipping Meshach to and from the competition.

Student team members from Southern High School include Philip Adams, Stephanie Lee, Sarah Storck, James Mullenax, and Jed Crawford. Students from Northern High include Zak Brosnihan, Chris Wood, Mitch Hall, Zach Trautwein, Justin Beitzel and Erik Wood.

Pictures and more information about the competition can be found on the team's web site, www.ga.k12.md.us/GarrettFIRST.

Huskies Take To Diamond Today With Offensive Outlook On Year

An annual rite of spring unfolds today in Cumberland, where the Northern High School varsity baseball squad is slated to take to the field at 4 p.m. this afternoon for its season opener at Allegany High School (weather permitting). Coming off last year's excellent 13-6 campaign, during which the spotlight shone on NHS's superb pitching staff, the 2005 Husky squad will be looking to its offense to spark the team through the coming schedule.

After graduation resulted in the loss of last year's ace pitcher, Torrey Poholsky, who recorded a 6-2 mark that included a no-hitter, and fellow hurler Jason Rice, who tossed two no-hitters, and Chad Carr, Danny Ellis, and Derek Workman, Northern coach Phil Carr and his staff of assistants – John Helmick, Jamie Workman, Ed Carr, and Jeff Carr – are finding themselves back at the drawing board.

Armed with the experience of returning starters and 2004 All-WMIL First Team honorees Michael Wolf, Eric Johnson, and Preston Sisler, Carr said the squad has the tools to put together another fine run.

"We'd like to pick up right where we left off a year ago," stated Carr. "We really had a good year last season but had a tough draw in the playoffs that put us up against a great Smithsburg team. Although we have to replace some good seniors, we have seven lettermen returning who bring back a lot of experience."

The experience the Huskies hope to capitalize on should be evident at the plate, where team leaders in a number of last year's offensive categories will be back in the batter's box.

Senior second baseman Sisler, who has been moved over from shortstop because of recurring shoulder trouble, topped NHS with a .355 batting average last season, as well as in hits, with 22; runs scored, 21; doubles, 4; and stolen bases, 6. Sisler's double-play partner in the infield, senior shortstop Darrick Lowdermilk, showed a fine eye at the plate by drawing a team-high 13 walks and sacrificing his body to gain first base three times when opposing hurlers hit him with their pitches. Junior Greg Beachy is expected to also see some action at short.

Holding down third base will be senior Eric Johnson, who turned in a .315 average last year along with Husky highs of three home runs and 19 runs batted in. Senior Robert Fontaine and sophomore Brock Glotfelty are also expected to see action at the hot corner.

Senior Trevor Butler will be making his varsity starting debut at first base, with juniors Mark Logsdon and Jason Shapiro slated for a piece of the action as well. Rounding out the infield is catcher Corey Carr, just a sophomore, who will be spelled as needed by Johnson in a reserve backstop role.

Speedy senior Michael Wolf is slated to patrol left field again this year, and brings back a .321 batting average to the NHS lineup. Classmates Michael Bergstrom and Matt Bass will man center field and right field, respectively. Juniors Chris Thomas, David Vagnetti, and Logsdon and Shapiro will also be utilized in the outfield.

Although the depth of the pitching ranks "could be a concern," Carr added that he thinks his staff could be solid, especially from the right side of the mound. He noted with disappointment that Sisler's shoulder problems will keep what was projected to be his top ace off the mound until well into the season.

Last year Sisler notched a 3-0 record with one save, 28 strikeouts in 23 1/3 innings, giving up just one earned run along the way for a miniscule 0.30 earned run average. The righty also tossed a one-hitter against Salisbury.

In Sisler's absence, Carr is looking to others to step up and take the reins. Greg Beachy is being tapped as the number one starter, and brings a strong junior varsity pitching background to the task. "Greg is a power pitcher, and has a nice hard slider and a good curve. He showed good stuff in a scrimmage start earlier this year. He's going to strike out a number of batters."

Rounding out the NHS pitching staff are right-handers Lowdermilk, Johnson, Corey Carr, and Glotfelty, while junior lefty Mark Logsdon is rotation's sole southpaw. Lowdermilk is a finesse pitcher who relies on his defense to make most of the outs. Johnson is more of a power pitcher who has a good curve ball, while Logsdon is a lefty who also throws hard with a nice curve ball. Carr is a developing power pitcher as well.

What Carr has seen of his Huskies so far has given him cause for optimism. "The weather has caused us to miss some practice early in the season, but fortunately we have been able to scrimmage at Hampshire and Boonsboro. We did a lot of good things at both of the scrimmages."

The Huskies' skipper listed WMIL rivals Southern, Allegany, Fort Hill, Beall, and Westmar as some of the toughest teams on this year's slate, along with Bishop Walsh.

"We hope to be very competitive with our schedule. I feel the WMIL will be pretty even throughout the year, and that we'll improve as we usually do during the season. The kids have been working hard and are really ready to get things started against the Campers.

"We're banking on our experience, leadership, speed, and ability to manufacture runs to take us a long way this year," said Carr. "We have the talent to put ourselves into a position to compete for the WMIL crown and have a chance to win the region title."

Today's season opener at Allegany will be followed by a noon doubleheader at Mapletown on Saturday, and a 4 p.m. road game at Westmar on Tuesday.

Rams Return Five Of Nine Starters From 17-2 Squad

With five of nine starters back this year from a team that finished 17-2 and won both the Area and Western Maryland Interscholastic League championships, Coach Jim Bosley and the Southern High School boys' varsity baseball team have strong hopes for another winning season.

The Rams are slated to open their season this Saturday in the annual Easter Tournament, hosted by Petersburg High School.

In the 25 years that Bosley has been at the helm of the Rams, they have won 371 of 483 games for an incredible win percentage of just under 77%. They have captured 10 of 18 Area titles (including the last three), and have been the WMIL champs eight of the nine years that the Rams have been in the league (also including the last three). A state title is the only thing that has eluded Bosley and his teams over the years, although they have reached the title game several times.

Team leaders back for their senior season are All-Area first-team picks Scott Wildesen and Cory Bosley. The other three starters back are Aaron Louden, Brad Reese, and Tyler Graham, also seniors.

Wildesen and Louden, who amassed a combined record of 11-0 on the mound last season, will head up what should be a strong corps of pitchers.

Wildesen, who went 7-0 last year, finished with an ERA of 2.13, while Louden, at 4-0, recorded an ERA of 2.8.

Others expected to see time on the mound are Bosley and juniors Bret DeWitt, Anthony Schrock, and Nick Gregg.

"They will give us a nice mix for what I consider a strong staff," Bosley said.

Working behind the plate will be catchers Matt Davis, a junior, Reese, and Graham.

"Pitching and defense should be our greatest strengths this year," Bosley said. "In fact, our infield should be tops in the area, with Bosley at short stop, Wildesen at second, Graham at third, and Gregg at first."

He added that Schrock and Spenser Barnard will also see action at short stop and second, respectively, with Barnard also playing some at first base. Graham will be backed up at third by DeWitt.

Anchoring the outfield will be Reese and Louden, both WMIL picks last year, at center and right, respectively, with left being covered by either senior Chad Everd or DeWitt. Schrock will also likely play the position at times.

The Ram roster has only a dozen players, with junior outfielder Jason Wakefield already on the injured list.

"We hope to have Jason back by early April," Bosley said. "Obviously we can't afford to lose anyone."

Two key players who were lost to graduation last spring are Billy Reams, who was the Area Player of the Year, and ace Chris Smith, who won 17 games over the past two seasons. Both were first-team All-Area selections.

Others who graduated are Curt Taylor, who hit .419; Corey Burrell, who was a .343 hitter; and Travis Friend, whose average was .286.

The top hitters back this season are Graham, who batted .419 with seven doubles and 19 RBIs; Wildesen and Reese, who each finished with .388 marks; Bosley with a .342 average; and Louden at .340. Wildesen led the team in RBIs with 27, while Bosley recorded 24, and Louden and Reese had 20 and 17, respectively.

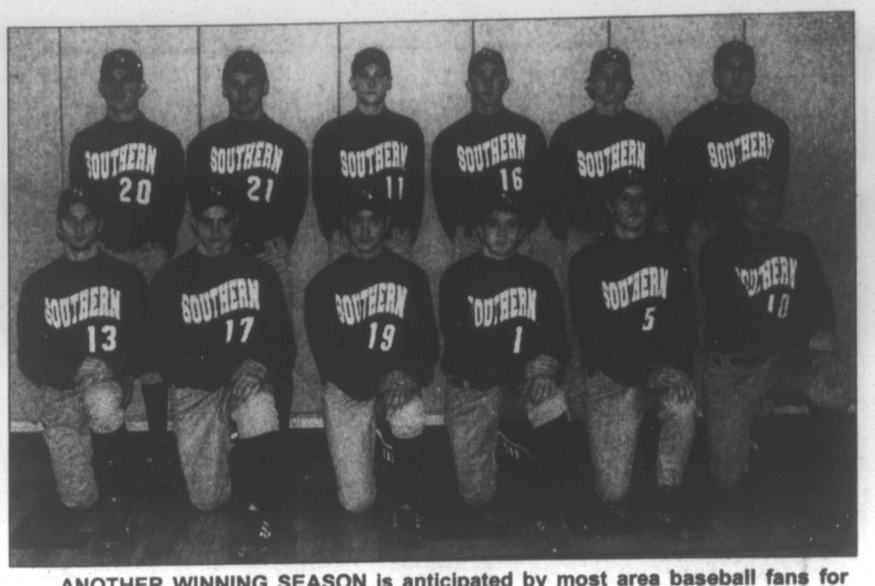
"American Legion baseball is a major key to our success every year," Bosley said. "Several of our players participated in last year's 32-game summer league schedule. I owe a lot of our success to Coach Ed Wildesen and Coach Neal Stoner for all that they do for this program.

"I'm not big on setting goals, but I would say that winning the WMIL and the Area championships are always at the top of the list," he concluded.

Assisting Bosley with coaching again this year are Dan Holler, Steve Weaver, and Doug Copeland.

Following Saturday's Easter tourney at Petersburg, the Rams will play at Allegany next Monday and travel to Hampshire next Thursday.

The Southern junior varsity team, coached by Tom Bosley and Greg Tressler will play an 18-game schedule, plus participate in the Keyser Tournament on May 7. The 14-player squad will not open its campaign until April 2.



ANOTHER WINNING SEASON is anticipated by most area baseball fans for the Southern High School varsity, coached by Jim Bosley. The Rams return five of nine starters from last year's squad, which finished with an overall record of 17-2. They will open their season, the 26th for Coach Bosley, this Saturday in the Petersburg Easter Tournament. RAMS READY TO RUMBLE – The 2005 Southern High School girls' varsity softball team is itching to get on the field after a cold and wet practice season, but today's weather may set a scheduled opening day game back a bit. Shown seated from the left are the Ram seniors: Sarah Bittinger, Anna Lucas, Julia Bosley, Emily Bowman, Kayla Nazelrod, and Stephanie Brenneman. Standing are head coach Chris Metcalfe, Katie Mark, Ashley Metcalfe, Tracy Rush, Corey Lewis, Natalie Rohrbaugh, Amber Plank, and assistant coaches Buck Lee and Heather Raybold. Not available for the picture was player Jaydn Swerbinsky. Photo by John McEwen.

RAM, HUSKY GRAPPLERS HONORED — Eight local high school wrestlers — five from Southern and three from Northern — recently represented the county in the Maryland State 1A/2A Championships, and several of them brought home trophies for placing in their respective weight classes. They were formally recognized this week by the Garrett County commissioners. Leading the group was Northern's 112-pound Casey Kamp, who won his second straight state championship. His teammates Brock Glotfelty (189) and Michael Wolf (152) finished second and third, respectively, in their weight divisions, while Southern's Scott Wildesen, a state champion last year, placed third in the 171-pound class. The other four from SHS all qualified for the state tournament by virtue of their strong finishes at the regional tourney, but did not place at the state event. Nathan Sines was unable to compete at the state tournament because of injury. Pictured above, from left, standing behind Commissioners Ernie Gregg, Dave Beard, and Fred Holliday, are: SHS coach Dave Taylor, Justin Fitzwater, Nathan Sines, Daniel Carr, Scott Wildesen, Justin Ratliff, Casey Kamp, Michael Wolf, Brock Glotfelty, and NHS coach Scott Stough.

Ram Softball Team Looks To Ramp Up For 2005 Campaign

It's out of the blocks and into the fire for the Southern High School girls' varsity softball team this afternoon, as the Rams are slated to open the 2005 campaign today at Fort Hill (weather permitting), one of the toughest opponents SHS will face all year. Kicking off against such a tough foe will be a big test for first-year coach Chris Metcalfe's squad, but the Southern skipper thinks his players have what it takes to turn the tide after an abbreviated 7-7 campaign last year.

"Our Garrett County winter has made it tough for us to get onto the practice field, and that's a concern," said Metcalfe. "However, with the help of eight returning players, a solid infield, and an experienced pitcher, the Rams are on their way to a successful season."

After last spring's graduation of standout players Becca Flanagan and Sharon Harvey, SHS is rallying around a quintent of excellent returning team members – Sarah Bittinger, Julia Bosley, Stephanie Brenneman, Kayla Nazelrod, and Ashley Metcalfe.

The Rams' starting lineup, going around the horn, has a senior-loaded infield of Brenneman at first base, Anna Lucas at second, Bosley at short, and Bittinger at third. Roaming the outfield will be senior Emily Bowman, and juniors Katie Mark and Tracey Rush. Southern's workhorse on the mound is expected to be Metcalfe, a junior, and her battery mate will be Nazelrod behind the plate in the catcher's position.

Rounding out the SHS roster, and expected to fill valuable roles in reserve status, are senior outfielder Jaydn Swerbinsky, junior outfielder Corey Lewis, sophomore outfielder Amber Plank, and sophomore infielder/outfielder Natalie Rohrbaugh.

Assisting Coach Metcalfe on the bench are fellow coaches Bill Bateson, Heather Raybold, and Buck Lee.

"Besides Fort Hill, we feel Beall, Allegany, and Bishop Walsh are the toughest teams out there," Metcalfe stated. "We're ready to give them all our best shot, and are confident we can be competitive in the WMIL."

After tomorrow's opener, Southern's next game is set for Wednesday at Westmar.

NHS Softball Squad Has Slow Start In No-Hitter Loss At Alco

The Northern High School girls' varsity softball team opened its season Monday in Cumberland, where the bad news was the Huskies were held hitless in an 11-1 loss to the Allegany Campers. The good news is there is still plenty of time to address the squad's lack of offensive output, which is exactly what NHS coach Daymond Schmuck said was his major concern as he previewed the coming campaign earlier in the week.

Northern scored an unearned run in the second inning to avoid the shutout, but the Huskies' lineup was dominated by Alco hurler Lindsey Twigg, who tossed a no-hitter, striking out five and walking three in the abbreviated contest, shortened by the 10-run mercy rule. Camper catcher Emily Mathews swatted a fifth-inning homer and drove in three runs. Allegany recorded eight base hits and drew 11 walks.

SEASON PREVIEW

Despite coming off a difficult 3-13 season last year, Schmuck doesn't think the Huskies' opening-game hitting woes present an insurmountable hurdle. To underscore his optimism, he pointed to a major cog in last year's machine that is returning for another season. "While two of our better batters – Lyndsi Butler and Trish Beitzel – both graduated last spring, we're fortunate to have our top hitter, Kayla Kipp, returning for what is only her junior year," he stated.

"Kayla led the team with a .427 batting average last year as a sophomore, so we expect big things from her for two more years. She's also one of the top catchers in the area, and I think she'll be widely recognized for her abilities behind the plate as time goes on."

Other top returners are the squad's three seniors and co-captains – shortstop and pitcher Jayme Miller, third baseman and pitcher Sarah Masters, and second baseman Danielle Glotfelty. Rounding out the starting line-up will likely be freshman Casey Fratz at first base, juniors Esther Schmuck and Tara Custer in left and right field, respectively, and speedy sophomore centerfielder Kerry Harding.

Also expected to see action are juniors Holly Wampler at first and in the outfield, Amy Shafer in the outfield, and Helaina LaMastus on the mound.

The Huskies' pitching rotation will feature at trio of right-handers – sophomore Emily Sisler, along with Miller and Masters. "Our pitching should improve from last year," Schmuck predicted. "That's very important, as softball is more of a pitcher's game than baseball. I'm confident in our defense, so if our pitching comes around we can do pretty well.

"Our infield is very strong, as our infielders have played together as a group for 3 to 4 years," said the NHS skipper, who is assisted by fellow coaches Lori Schmuck and Bryan Lenhart.

"Our most difficult opponents this year will likely be Fort Hill and Beall, but if we can get our offense going I think we'll be able to give anyone out there a run for their money."

The Huskies (0-1) are idle until Friday, April 1, when they visit Westmar.

Lakers Turn Things Around; Top Nationally Ranked Surry

This was a much better week on the baseball diamond than the previous one for the Garrett College Lakers, who, after opening their 2005 season with four straight defeats, won five of six games this week to even their record at 5-5.

Better yet for Laker fans, one of those victories was an 8-3 defeat of nationally ranked Surry Community College, Dobson, N.C.

Coach Eric Hallenbeck's squad swept a doubleheader from the Mars Hill (N.C.) College jayvee team last Friday, 9-7 and 7-6; handed King College's jayvees a 10-8 defeat in Bristol, Tenn., on Saturday; topped Surry CC on Monday; and split a twinbill with Finger Lakes (N.Y.) Tuesday afternoon at Frostburg State University, losing the first game, 6-3, and winning the nightcap, 8-7.

In the first game against Mars Hill, the first three innings were scoreless; however, the Lakers put five runs on the board in the top of the fourth. The host team came back with six runs in the bottom of the fifth to take a 6-5 edge, but Garrett took the lead for good with two runs in the top of the sixth, and iced the win with two more in the top of the seventh.

The Lakers out-hit Mars Hill by a 14-7 margin, with Jeff Romberger recording three hits and three RBIs for Garrett, and teammate Aaron Harper finishing with two hits and two RBIs.

The score of the second game was knotted at 1-1 after the first inning, and stayed that way until the top of the fifth, when the Lakers erupted for five runs, one of which was a solo shot by Brandon Benson.

Mars Hill chipped away at the Lakers' lead, but fell just short after scoring two runs in the bottom of the seventh.

Pacing Garrett's 11-hit effort were Burt Comerford, Chad Fisher, and Joel Chavez, each with two hits. Fisher and Chavez also had two RBIs apiece.

The Lakers trailed by an 8-7 margin going into the top of the eighth inning against the King College jayvees on Saturday, but tied the score with a run in that frame and went on to win the game with two runs in the ninth.

Chad Fisher reached on an error for the Lakers in the ninth and scored what would be the winning run on a single by Tyler Boshart and an error in the outfield. Romberger followed with an RBI single to send Boshart home from third for an insurance run.

Getting the win on the mound was Bryan McGee, who took over in the bottom of the sixth.

Getting four of the Lakers' 13 hits was Boshart, who finished with three singles and a double, and also scored four times. Romberger recorded three RBIs with two singles, Benson stroked a triple and a single, and Taylor Billingsley hit two singles for two RBIs.

The Lakers were a definite underdog going into Monday's single game against Surry, a team that was ranked 17th in the nation's NJCAA Division I poll, but proceeded to record 14 hits and put eight runs on the board, while David Rosario and reliever McGee limited the home team to just six hits and three runs.

Surry took a 2-0 lead with a pair of runs in the first inning, but the Lakers took the lead for good with three runs in the top of the second. They added three more in the fifth.

Danny Flores and Boshart each rapped three hits for the Lakers, while Romberger finished with a pair of hits, good for two RBIs.

The Lakers' win streak was halted at four games by Finger Lakes in the first game on Tuesday.

Each team scored two runs in the first inning, with the Lakers' pair being recorded on a two-run double by Boshart.

Finger Lakes put two more runs on the board in the top of the second to take the lead for good.

Pitching was solid for both squads, as each team recorded just six hits.

Bryan McGee, who came on in the seventh for the Lakers in the second game, picked up his third save of the season.

The Lakers had a 7-1 advantage after four innings, but Finger Lakes began to close the gap with three runs in the fifth and one in the sixth to make it 7-5. Garrett added one run in the bottom of the sixth, which would prove to be the game-winner, as the visitors rallied for two runs in the top of the seventh before McGee retired the side and ended the game.

The Lakers won the game with just four hits, with half of those by Flores (a double and a single).

The crucial run in the bottom of the Laker sixth was scored when Harper reached on an error, stole second, and came home on the single by Flores, which made the score 8-5 at that point.

The Lakers are slated to host Montgomery-Rockville in a single game at 2:30 this afternoon, and travel to Baltimore CC next Tuesday for a doubleheader.

LONG & FOSTER SUPPORTS ALL-STARS – The Deep Creek office of Long & Foster Real Estate Inc. has sponsored this year's 6th grade girls' Service Club League All-Star Team in its attempt to take on other area U12 teams at the Silver Hoops Classic at Fort Hill High School, Cumberland. The nine players, chosen by coaches of the service club after the end of the regular season tournament, are a mix representing each position on the basketball floor, a spokesperson said. In the front row, from left, are Naomi Keefer, Gina Stuck, Claire Wilkensen, and Ayla Fulmer. In the back row, same order, are Jordyn Livengood, Mariah Stem, Alyssa Cowgill, Megan Stolbom, and Katie Anderson. The tournament play is an attempt to expose the girls to a higher level of competition and give the players an opportunity to sharpen their skills. Long & Foster's donation of $175 covered the team's entry fee into the tournament, which will continue now through April 10. Coaches Stephanie Shaffer and Ladonna Stem said the opportunity to compete in this tournament will help the athletes "grow significantly in the sport." The team intends to continue fundraising in an effort to attend several other tournaments in and around the area, including the Mountaineer Classic in Morgantown, W.Va., May 6-8. For scores and schedules of the Silver Hoop Classic, persons may visit the tournament web site at www.silverhoopclassic.com. Persons may send contributions to the team to this address: 6th Grade All-Stars, c/o Stephanie Shaffer, PO Box 324, McHenry, MD 21541.

NORTHERN LETTERMEN DONATE TO HOUSE OF HOPE – The Northern High School Lettermen's Club donated $300 to the House of Hope recently. The funds were raised during a charity basketball game between the NHS staff and the Lettermen. Pictured at the check presentation are, from the left, NHS Lettermen's Club president Michael Wolf, House of Hope representative Don Sealing, and club advisor Phil Carr.

GIBSON BREAKS NHS RECORD – The bar has been raised at Northern High School, where senior Jeseca Gibson broke the Husky girls' basketball record for career three-pointers this year. The 5-4 guard racked up 94 treys during her varsity career, which included three years in the starting lineup. The old record was 71 three-pointers by 2000 NHS graduate Heather Nugent. Gibson, who also finished in sixth place on the Huskies' all-time scoring list, will take her shooting touch to Garrett College next season. She is the daughter of Kerry and Dennis Gibson of McHenry.

companies succeed or fail. When volunteers who have served faithfully begin to fade away, it is time to ask ourselves if we have done something to cause that person to go to the place called "I don't care." They may want to care and know that they should care, but the mind has rebelled and they turn inward.

An effort must be mounted to "rehabilitate" these people in a gentle and caring manner. Until all of us in EMS see this and change our approach, we will continue to lose people. Delays and scratches will continue. You, the public, will ultimately pay the price if this situation is not corrected. Let us hope it will not be in lives.

To the Editor:

The recent very sad events surrounding Terri Schiavo provide the best evidence yet as to how the Republican Party has dramatically changed over the past decade. The GOP still pretends to advocate states' rights and limited government intrusion into the private lives of Americans, but that claim is clearly dubious. Certainly that was true of the Republican Party of years ago but, thanks in large part to a take-over by the Christian Right, the GOP of today is far more intrusive and threatening to rights of citizens than the Democratic Party ever dreamed of being.

The GOP leadership has used the misfortune of Ms. Schiavo for their own political purposes. I don't think most of the GOP leaders really care about the fate of Ms. Schiavio, but are far more interested in exploiting the events to advance their agenda. They speak of limiting the power of the federal government and allowing many policies and decisions to be made at local levels, yet that is clearly only the case if state or local policies are in sync with their own political philosophy.

Let's not forget how former Attorney General Ashcroft repeatedly tried to override the voters of Oregon, who on at least two separate occasions approved doctor-assisted suicide in that state. He didn't like that and tried everything he could to invalidate the will of the people. Voters in several states have approved the use of marijuana for medical purposes, but the GOP leadership has interfered and worked hard to ban such practices. The Republican leaders often speak of the "sanctity of marriage," yet where is their concerns when a husband simply wants to follow the wishes of his wife in allowing her to die with dignity?

The vote by Congress to interfere in a very private and complex personal decision creates a very unsettling precedent that only increases my concerns about what direction our supposedly free society is headed. I can't help but bring to mind Margaret Atwood's chilling novel The Handmaid's Tale, about what can happen to a nation (clearly ours) when conservative religious zealots take control of the government. I just hope America wakes up before it is too late and stops this intrusion into private lives, a path clearly being lead by the modern Republican Party and its extremist Christian Right supporters.

To the Editor:

A letter to the editor by Bob DeGroot which ran in another newspaper contained a number of misstatements about the Maryland Forests Association (MFA) and MFA's opposition to legislation introduced this session. The MFA is indeed opposing HB 1240 Natural Resources – State Wildlands – Green Ridge State Forest and HB 1244 Natural Resources – State Wildlands – Crabtree Creek Wildland on the basis that designation of Wildlands by law is unnecessary to protect sensitive and unique areas within our state forests and parks.

MFA is a non-profit organization comprising of forest landowners, licensed professional foresters, outdoor recreational groups, and forest products businesses. Since 1976, MFA's diverse membership has worked together to promote the maintenance of a healthy and productive forest land base in Maryland.

The Maryland Wildlands System was created by state law in 1971. Once the General Assembly designates an area of state-owned land as a Wildland, only limited wilderness-type recreation is allowed and virtually all forms of forest management are prohibited. Forest management has been misrepresented as if it referred only to cutting timber. Seventy to a hundred years ago, much of the land in western Maryland was denuded of forest. Using a variety of silvicultural practices, our state forest managers have been reclaiming worn-out land, enhancing habitat for wildlife, protecting water supplies, preventing soil erosion, and offering recreational opportunities while still providing forest products needed by our society.

MFA believes the best way for the state to manage its public lands is to set goals for each property and to manage for those goals. The Department of Natural Resources has an effective planning process for developing 10-year management plans and annual work plans for the state forests. This process integrates science with public participation. It is rigid enough to protect sensitive and unique areas, but flexible enough to adapt management prescriptions to specific sites, to newly discovered scientific knowledge, and to the changing needs of society. Areas such as Crabtree Creek exist because they are already in one of these protective zones. MFA supports this process as fair and reasonable.

MFA opposes any additions to the Wildlands system because it effectively precludes forest management options and public access. We urge you to contact your delegate to vote no on HBs 1240 and 1244.

Support Group To Assist Persons With Disabilities

A new support group is forming in Garrett County to assist for persons with all types of disabilities. Sponsored by Cumberland-based Resources for Independence, the new support group's name will be decided upon by those who attend the first meeting slated for 6 to 8 p.m. on Thursday, March 31, and the last Thursday of each month thereafter, in the Community Services Center of Garrett County Memorial Hospital. The center is located in the building between the current entrance to the Emergency Room and the Garrett Medical Group building.

The new support group is being formed to help people with disabilities achieve their maximum level of independent functioning within their families and the community, and to advocate for people with disabilities at federal, state and local levels.

BUS DRIVER AND AIDE TRAINING GIVEN – The Overlook Judy Center Partnership recently organized a bus driver/aide training for Garrett County Community Action Committee programs including: Garrett Transit Service (GTS), Head Start, Early Head Start, and Wrap Around Child Care. John Hill, director of GTS, recruited trainers from the Garrett County Board of Education's (BOE) Transportation Department in an attempt to align GTS's child transportation services with those of the BOE. Teresa Durst is pictured as she practices cutting a seatbelt under John Hill's supervision, with Christine Thomas and Patricia Lucas (Head Start bus aides), James Burns (GTS Driver), and Louise Warnick (Head Start bus aide) looking on. Also on hand for the training was BOE assistant director of transportation Bill Ewing. Overlook Judy Center is a partnership between Community Action and the county's education board. One of Judy Center's focus areas is the coordination of training for providers of early care and education services in the county.

The March 31 introductory meeting will provide participants with a history of the Centers for Independent Living organization, and explain the CIL's "core services" of advocacy, information and referral, independent living skills training, peer counseling, and how these services can impact one's daily living. The session will also provide participants with the opportunity to socialize with others who may have similar interests.

Future meetings will be developed by those who attend the meeting, based on what interests they may enjoy most. For example, as a spokesperson explained, meetings may consist of a game night, music, crafts, budgeting, and/or guest speaker presentations.

Resources for Independent Living advocate Donna Knots Beachy and outreach advocate Mary Ellen Nasif will be at the meeting to further explain the group's mission and answer questions.

"Knox-Beachy works personally with each consumer and offers continued case management services," the spokesperson explained, "and Nasif can set up workshops and public speaking arrangements regarding our services, and keep you informed of state and federal regulations for people with disabilities. We can also assist consumers to connect with resources available to achieve a quality lifestyle."

Resources for Independence falls under the umbrella of the nationwide non-profit organization Centers for Independent Living. There are 600 local CILs across the country, and six in Maryland. The centers are consumer-controlled, community-based organizations that provide free services and advocacy by and for persons from infancy to death who have all types of disabilities.

Resources for Independence provides services to any individuals with disabilities in Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties, defining disability as "significant impairment of one or more major life functions, [such as] movement, speech, hearing, and thinking."

For further information on the new support group for persons with disabilities, or the upcoming meeting, persons may call Resources for Independence at 1-800-371-1986.

GRANTSVILLE RITE AID employees are planning a hot dog sale for next weekend, with all proceeds benefiting the Children's Miracle Network. Items for sale will include hot dogs, chili dogs, chili cheese dogs, baked goods, and soft drinks. The sale will be held at the Grantsville Plaza parking lot on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, April 1, 2, and 3, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information, persons may contact Colleen Welch at 301-895-5722. Pictured above, front, from left, are Tracy Shultz, Colleen Welch, and Cheryl Streets. In the back are Jeannette Lowery, Terri Pendergrass, Bill Resser, Jenny Durst, Paula Willison, and Norma Durst.

Health Department Emergency Response Team and emergency staff from Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

"While there is a high probability that these types of instances usually turn out to be a hoax, a threatening letter containing a powder must be taken seriously," said Rodney Glotfelty, health officer. "Whether or not the material is eventually positive or negative, sending such a letter is a serous criminal violation, and this incident is under investigation by local and state law enforcement agencies."

According to authorities, a similar letter was also sent to a District Court building in Worcester County on Monday.

JRL Boat Ramp Set To Open In West Virginia

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has announced the opening of Jennings Randolph Lake for the 2005 recreation season. The Corps boat launch on the West Virginia shore will open at 7:30 a.m. on Friday, April 1. The Corps boat launch is alongside Howell Run just off West Virginia State Rt. 46, three miles north of Elk Garden, W.Va.

An additional 90 acres of the lake has been opened to boaters and anglers, according to lake staff. The area immediately around the control tower will remain a restricted area, and is posted with buoys, as is the dam and dike area, which remains restricted. The Corps urges visitors to be diligent when it comes to security and report any violations to a ranger.

The Corps boat launch will charge a $3 fee for launching a boat. An annual pass that will allow an unlimited number of launches at all Corps parks is on sale for $30 at the Corps park office. Golden Age Passports for senior citizens cost $10. Golden Access Passports for the physically challenged are free and will provide for the purchase of the Corps's annual pass for half price, or a $1.50 fee per launch at the Corps boat launch only.

The boat launch on the Maryland shore, which is managed by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR), will open at 7:30 a.m. on Monday, May 2. The Maryland launch is located along Mt. Zion Road, off Maryland State Rt. 135 near the salt shed on Backbone Mountain.

The Maryland service charge will be $5 for launching a boat. The 2005 Maryland State Forest and Park Service All Season Pass can be purchased for $75 for Maryland residents or for $100 for out-of-state residents. The pass can be purchased at all Maryland state parks. The pass offers free day-use entry for everyone in the vehicle to Maryland's 47 state forests and parks, free boat launching at most facilities, and a 10 percent discount on state-operated concessions and boat rentals. For parks with honor box systems, the pass covers entry service charges.

The Corps Annual Pass and the Maryland All Season Pass is valid at either ramp on Jennings Randolph Lake.

For more information on Jennings Randolph Lake or the West Virginia boat launch, persons may call the Corps park office at 304-355-2346 or 301-359-3861 weekdays from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. For information on the Maryland DNR boat launch, persons may call the Herrington Manor/Swallow Falls state parks at 301-334-9180.

MLP Church Slates "Fellowship Rally"

The Apostolics of Oakland will host a "Fellowship Rally" on Friday, April 1, at 7:30 p.m. Rev. Curtis Eaby from Waldorf will be the guest speaker.

Pastor Phillips invites the public to the event. The church is located at 600 Spruce Street, Mtn. Lake Park. For more information, persons may call 301-334-5873.

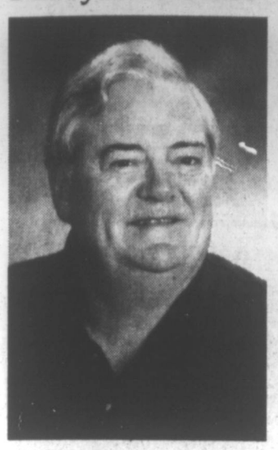
Ross Selected For Leadership Maryland Class



Charles M. Ross of Oakland was selected for the Leadership Maryland Class of 2005. He is one of 52 statewide leaders selected to participate in the eight-month program.

President and CEO of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, Ross returned to his native Garrett County in 2002. He was born in Friendsville and traces his ancestry back to the first white settler in the county.

Ross graduated from Northern Garrett County Jr.-Sr. High School, and received his bachelor of arts degree from the Johns Hopkins University and his juris doctor from the University of Maryland.

From 1975 to 1977, he was an attorney in private practice and was appointed assistant state's attorney for Garrett County. He also was chairman of the Community Action Agency and counsel to the Western Maryland Health Care Corporation.

For 25 years he worked as a government and public affairs consultant for a great variety of clients. He currently is vice chairman of the International Whitewater Hall of Fame board of governors, member of the board of directors of Adventure Sports International, co-chair of Western Maryland Economic Development Commission, vice chair of Garrett Performing Arts Center, and a member of the board of directors of Hospice of Garrett County, Master Plan Steering Committee for Garrett County Board of Education, Rural Development Coalition for Garrett County & Preston County, W.Va., and of the Rural Maryland Council.

Leadership Maryland is an independent, educational, non-profit organization designed to inform top-level executives from the public and private sectors about the critical issues, challenges and opportunities facing the state of Maryland and its regions.

After a two-day opening retreat in April, Ross will attend five 2-day and one 1-day intense sessions, focusing on such issues as economic development, education, health and human services, criminal and juvenile justice, environment, multi-culturalism, and diversity. More than 100 experts representing business, government, education, and the non-profit community will serve as panelists and guest speakers, according to a chamber spokesperson.

"The participants represent a broad spectrum of highly qualified executives from an extraordinary group of applicants statewide," said Nancy Minieri, president of Leadership Maryland. "After participating in a comprehensive range of experiences over the next year, these leaders will serve as important participants in the unified effort to shape Maryland's future."

Leadership Maryland is one of 34 state leadership programs nationwide. For more information about it, persons may contact Nancy Minieri at 410-841-2101.

Masons To Meet

Oakland Lodge #192, AF&AM will meet for a social lunch at noon on Wednesday, March 30, at the lodge, located at the corner of First and Oak streets in Oakland.

Lodge members and their guests and Eastern Star members and their guests are invited.

This is a social event with no business or speaker.

Bingo Fundraiser Set At St. Peter's Church In Oakland

A "Basket Bingo" fundraiser has been set for Sunday, April 17, in the parish hall of St. Peter's Catholic Church in Oakland by the Catholic Daughters of the America, Court Oakland. The doors will open at 1:30 p.m., with bingo play beginning at 2:30 p.m. The winner of the basket bingo wins a quality, brand-name basket.

The benefit event is sponsored by the Catholic Daughters of the Americas, who offer financial assistance for community and parish projects. "In the past year, the Catholic Daughters have spent over $23,000 supporting scholarships and many parish projects, in addition to community projects such as the Northern and Southern high school after-proms, Ruth Enlow Library, Relay for Life, House of Hope, Area Agency on Aging, and local fire departments and rescue squads, to name a few," a spokesperson said. "This financial support is made possible through many fundraising events like the Basket Bingo throughout the year."

Food, beverages, and raffle tickets will also be available for purchase at the event, and door prizes will be awarded.

Advance tickets are available for $20 each from any member of the Catholic Daughters, or at St. Peter's church office, Gregg's Pharmacy in Oakland, and the 2 B FIT sporting goods store, located along Alder Street in downtown Oakland.

Md. State Police Marks 35 Years Of Unique Aviation Command Unit

by Greg Shipley

Communications Division

Miracles in Maryland skies have become commonplace as an important component of the state's emergency medical services system marks another major milestone.

The Maryland State Police Aviation Command is marking its 35th anniversary of providing air medical transport services to the citizens of Maryland. Since the inception of the medevac program, State Police flight crews have flown more than 110,000 critically injured patients to lifesaving care.

It was March 19, 1970, when a Maryland State Police crew flew a Bell Jet Ranger to the Baltimore Beltway for a critically injured patient at the scene of a motor vehicle crash. The patient was transported by the crew to the Shock Trauma Center at University Hospital in Baltimore. With this first transport, the vision of Dr. R. Adams Cowley became a reality, and the "Golden Hour" would become a benchmark for trauma care around the world.

"The Maryland State Police is proud to be a part of our state's integrated emergency medical services system," said the secretary of the Department of State Police, Col. Thomas E. Hutchins. "The fire and rescue personnel, state police crews and trauma nurses and physicians form a dedicated and talented team that is unmatched anywhere. Lives are being saved daily in Maryland because of the effectiveness of this system and the commitment of the people who are a part of it."

The Maryland State Police Aviation Command is still the only law enforcement aviation unit in the world to fulfill a multi-mission profile of statewide air medical transport, law enforcement, search and rescue, and homeland security. The Command operates a fleet of 12 Dauphin twin jet engine helicopters and two fixed-wing aircraft. The helicopters are based at eight hangars strategically placed in locations that enable crews to reach victims anywhere in Maryland in less than 18 minutes.

State Police medevac services are provided free of charge. The Aviation Command is predominately funded by an $11 annual fee which is paid when Marylanders renew their vehicle registrations.

There have been six members of the Maryland State Police Aviation Command who have given their lives in the line of duty in the history of the medevac program. They are Tfc. Phillip L. Russ, Tfc. Thomas A. Noyle, Tfc. Donald E. Parkerson, Tfc. Charles S. Rathell, Cpl. Gregory A. May, and Tfc. Carey S. Poetzman.

The Aviation Command plans to celebrate this milestone with open houses at helicopter sections around the state this year. Other anniversary related events are also being planned.

AARP Drivers Safety Course Slated At GC

An AARP Drivers Safety Program is scheduled from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday, April 11-12, at Garrett College's McHenry campus. G.T. Reese, a volunteer instructor for AARP will be conducting the course.

The eight-hour course will include instruction in defensive driving techniques, new traffic laws, and rules of the road. Students will learn ways to adjust their driving to age-related changes in vision, hearing, and reaction time.

"Although most of the AARP participants are 50 or older, anyone who wishes to join the class may do so with the understanding that it is geared to older students who might be experiencing age related difficulties with their driving," a spokesperson said.

Participants who successfully complete the course may be eligible for a discount on their automobile insurance, as auto insurance companies in most states provide a multi-year discount to AARP graduates. Persons seeking such a discount should consult their insurance agent before registering for the class.

For more information or to register, persons may contact Kista Wilt at 301-387-3069 or via e-mail at kwilt@garrettcollege.edu.

This course is an offering of the Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett College.

GOLDEN CORRAL 500 REVIEW

Edwards shines at Atlanta

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Atlanta

Years from now, spring race weekend 2005 at Atlanta Motor Speedway may be remembered as the time Carl Edwards established himself auto racing's newest superstar.

Edwards, a rookie in Nextel Cup, already had become a fan favorite with his infectious effervescence, enthusiasm and the backflips after his victories in the Craftsman Truck Series.

But he earned his place among the sport's elite with a desperate, dramatic pass of Jimmie Johnson at the finish of Sunday's Golden Corral 500 to get his first Cup victory. The victory, coming in his 17th Cup start and just a day after he took his first Busch Series victory at AMS, thrilled an estimated 120,000 fans, the biggest spring crowd in years.

Driver scores first Cup, Busch wins in same weekend

It was the first time a driver has ever gotten his first Cup and Busch victories on the same weekend and put Edwards in a group of 11 who have won races in all three of NASCAR's top divisions.

For the first time in a brief NASCAR career, in which he has been among the best at expressing himself, Edwards, 25, suddenly was speechless as cameras rolled in Victory Lane.

"I don't know how to describe it," he said. "This means the world to me."

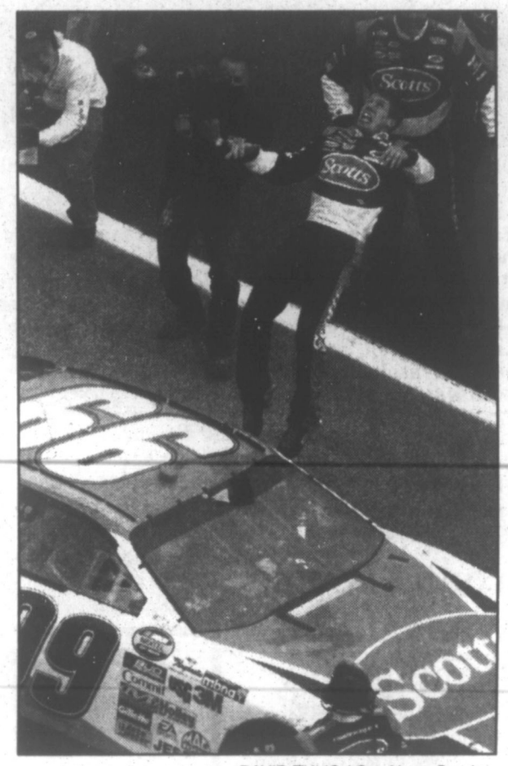
But in a style that has become typical of Edwards and helped make him popular in and out of the garage, he soon composed himself and began remembering those largely unknown people who helped him when he was a struggling dirt-track driver in Missouri. There he raced cars he prepared in his own garage, supplemented his income by being a substitute school teacher and working construction jobs and passing out business cards, advertising: "Race driver for hire."

He thanked Mike Mittler, a journeyman owner in the Craftsman Truck Series, who gave him his first chance in one of NASCAR's top three divisions. He thanked his current owner, Jack Roush.

"It's a long story, but the bottom line is a lot of folks have really been very good to me for some reason," he said. "I'm really grateful."

Roush also heaped praise on his young driver, who joined the team at the start of the 2003 season when Kyle Busch bolted to Hendrick Motorsports and left a Roush truck without a driver.

"We've yet to determine how good [Edwards] can be, but I certainly think he'll be able to go all the way," Roush said. "I've never been more excited at any race than I was today, including the first race we won in 1989 with Mark [Martin]."



DAVID TULIS / Cox News Service

Golden Corral 500 winner Carl Edwards performs a backflip in celebration of his Nextel Cup victory Sunday at Atlanta Motor Speedway.

Edwards also received praise from Johnson, who seemed to be in control of the 500 at the end.

"I was talking about Carl last year," Johnson said. "You could see his intensity and his car control. I said a couple of times that he would be the next superstar."

Johnson said his loss to Edwards was due, in part, to a strategic error he made on the final lap by trying a higher groove than he'd been running. That slowed his speed slightly, just enough to let Edwards, running even higher on the track, pull alongside in turns 3 and 4.

As Johnson and Edwards headed down the frontstretch door-to-door at more than 180 mph, Edwards, running on the outside of Johnson, eased ahead in a fender-rubbing run to the finish line. The official margin of victory was .028 seconds.

Edwards' crew chief Bob Osborne said his driver wasn't just trailing Johnson in the closing laps; he was using an old dirt-racing trick to lay the groundwork for victory.

"He ran a couple of laps really high on the race track and cleaned all the dirt out of the way," Osborne said. "I figured with one lap to go he was going to run that high line again and either win the race or finish last."

ATLANTA NOTEBOOK

Helton warns of harsher penalties

Cox News Service

Atlanta

Like a principal scolding naughty school kids, NASCAR president Mike Helton warned drivers and crew chiefs that he'll react more strongly in the future if cars continue to fail technical inspections.

"This is the warning that you should not depend on NASCAR's traditional reactions for things that occur after the race," Helton said during Sunday morning's drivers meeting. "Our responsibility is to make sure that the playing field is level, and everything is on the table at NASCAR's option to react when you don't fit [the rules]."

That likely means that series officials are considering taking steps such as stripping teams of victories or finishes and possibly suspending drivers for rules violations.

Last week, three crew chiefs were suspended and fined and their teams docked 25 points for violating rules at Las Vegas. Two, Chad Knaus and Alan Gustafson, have appealed their two-week suspensions and were at AMS for Sunday's race. Todd Berrier also is appealing his four-week suspension, but he sat out the Golden Corral 500.

Fifth for Kahne

Last year's hot newcomer Kasey Kahne, with four poles and five second-place finishes, was being hailed as the next great driver in Nextel Cup. But on the day that rookie Carl Edwards was making history, Kahne, who had suffered a disappointing start in '05, managed his best finish of the season, fifth. That's quite a change in fortune from finishes of 22nd, 40th and 38th in his first three starts. "This gives us something to build on," Kahne said.

KAHNE

DEI cars endure

Michael Waltrip salvaged some respect for the DEI teams, finishing seventh in the No. 15 Chevrolet. He moved up eight spots in points, to 27th. "It means a lot," Waltrip said.

"We're working really well together. [Getting] respect, it just makes me so happy. I've been on both sides of the fence. We lacked one little notch today to be exactly where we needed to be, and that little notch was right in the corner. Once I got there, I could run with everybody."

Dale Earnhardt Jr. blamed himself on his team's bad finish: "We had about a top-10 car," Earnhardt said. "I made a bunch of mistakes. I got caught speeding in the pits twice today, and that's all my fault."

COMMENTARY

It's time for a little 'NASCAR Madness'

By JEFF GLUCK
Cox News Service

The NASCAR Nextel Cup race at Las Vegas beat the NCAA basketball tournament selection show in the TV ratings. And on the biggest college basketball day before March Madness, the race was the highest-rated sports show of the weekend.

So NASCAR probably doesn't need any help figuring out how to draw attention during the NCAA tournament. But just in case, here's an idea that would be pretty fun to try.

We'll call it "NASCAR Madness." There's nothing better than filling out an office pool bracket and predicting upsets and championship contenders — why not try it for auto racing?

Beginning with the first race in March, the top 32 Nextel Cup drivers still active from the previous season get placed in a seeded bracket.

For example, you'd have first-round matchups of No. 1 Kurt Busch vs. No. 32 Kyle Petty and No. 2 Jimmie Johnson vs. No. 31 Ken Schrader, all the way down to No. 16 Rusty Wallace vs. No. 17 Greg Biffle.

Whichever driver finishes higher in the opening-round race (Las Vegas, in this case) would "advance" to the second-round. If Wallace placed 24th at Vegas and Biffle was 18th, Biffle would move on to the Sweet 16 because he had a better finish.

Eventually, the Sweet 16 would be whittled down to the Elite Eight, the Final Four and the championship.

Obviously, each race would still contain 43 drivers and have the usual bearing on the Nextel Cup points chase. NASCAR Madness would simply be a secondary event — a race within a race.

In the weeks following Daytona, it would be a good way for NASCAR to hold the casual fan's interest.

By the time "NASCAR Madness" ended in early April, the sport would have a natural transition into the summer season, all the way into the Chase for the Cup.

Some corporation could sponsor this secondary competition and put up $1 million for the winner.

And there would be plenty of drama — blown engines could mean huge upsets, early wrecks might ruin some brackets and it would create excitement (and TV exposure) for cars that don't always run in the front of the field.

The latter reason would be a huge lift for the sponsors. A meaningless April race could see the cameras focused on Sterling Marlin's Coors Light Dodge and Jeff Burton's Cingular Wireless Chevrolet battling in 21st place for a million bucks in the "championship" race.

March Madness is incredibly popular, and some sports have figured it out. An annual World Golf Championship event pits the top 64 golfers in the world against each other, playing one-on-one matches over four days.

Some mainstream sports fans have started filling out golf brackets to follow what would otherwise be a ho-hum event.

You'd think some marketing executive somewhere would get the bracket format and try to use it for as many sports as possible.

Fans pay attention, non-sports fans watch the games and everyone spends money. What's not to like?

For stock car racing, a sport that's always trying something new, "NASCAR Madness" might not be such a crazy idea.

First-lap crash cuts field

The perils of Atlanta Motor Speedway — reputedly the fastest track in Nextel Cup — were exposed early Sunday.

How early?

John Michael Montgomery's off-key anthem had barely hit "home of the brave," and the smoke from the Air Force flyover was still hanging in the air, when chaos reigned before the cars had completed one lap.

It was more smoke than impact that collected 10 cars, eliminating Jeff Gordon's No. 24 Chevrolet, Bobby Labonte's No. 18 Chevy and Matt Kenseth's No. 17 Ford from contention.

It appeared that Scott Riggs' No. 10 Chevrolet made Casey Mears' No. 41 Dodge unstable while passing it. That sent Mears on a spin toward the outside wall, and all heck broke loose.

"I saw the 41 [Mears] getting loose off Turn 2 and spinning in front of the field," said rookie Travis Kvapil, who was driving the No. 77 Dodge. "I turned left to avoid it. When I did, someone turned me into the inside wall. That was a hard hit."

Shane Hmiel's No. 08 Chevrolet also was damaged. "You always know to pay attention on the first lap, and that didn't happen today," Hmiel said. "Somebody got into [Mears]. I started checking up, and someone ran into me from behind. It's unfortunate."

The incident extended Labonte's miserable start to 2005: 43rd at Daytona with a blown engine, 41st after a wreck on Lap 12 last week at Las Vegas. He finished 37th Sunday, 60 laps down.

MLP Church Slates Deeper Life Conference

DR. RAMESH RICHARD

The annual Deeper Life Conference of Faith Evangelical Free Church in Mtn. Lake Park is slated for Friday through Sunday, April 1-3.

The three-day conference will begin with a lecture and discussion titled "Unmasked! Facing the Mystery of Evil," which will be presented by feature guest speaker Dr. Ramesh Richard at 7 p.m. Friday in Room 207 of Garrett College's Continuing Education Building. The program is open to the public.

Richard, a native of India, presently serves as a professor of pastoral ministries and intercultural studies at Dallas Theological Seminary in Texas. He is the founder and president of REACH International, a global proclamation ministry. He also founded and chairs the Trainers of Pastors International Coalition.

Richard has traveled throughout the world speaking in over 70 nations to such diverse audiences as prime ministers of nations, the affluent students and faculty of Harvard College, and poverty-stricken people in Haiti. He earned his doctorate of theology from Dallas Theological Seminary, and also holds a Ph.D. from the University of Delhi.

The remaining services of the conference will take place at Faith Evangelical Free Church. Saturday's service is set for 7 p.m., and Sunday services are slated for 10:45 a.m. and 7 p.m. A nursery will be provided for the Saturday and Sunday services. The general public is also invited to these services.

In conjunction with the conference, the church will also host a Ladies' Gathering at 1:30 p.m. Saturday afternoon in the sanctuary of the church. The featured guest speaker will be local resident Donna Callis, and special music will be provided by pianist Brenda Evans and soloist Carolyn Helbig. The event is open to all area women, and refreshments will be served.

For further details on the Deeper Life Conference, including the Ladies' Gathering, persons may call the church office at 301-334-4172. Faith Evangelical Free Church is located at 1009 Maryland Highway.

EVEN THE EASTER BUNNY IS KICKING BUTTS! Students in the Northern High School STEAM (Student Tobacco Elimination Among Minors) group recently designed a display for their school in honor of Kick Butts Day to be observed April 13. The display features the Easter Bunny kicking butts (cigarette butts, that is). "If you are thinking about quitting the tobacco habit, consider making Kick Butts Day your quit day," said a Garrett County Health Department spokesperson. For more information about quitting or about STEAM, persons may call the Health Department at 301-334-7730 or 301-895-3111. Pictured, left to right, in front of their display are STEAM members Lauren Powell, Stephanie Foutz, Amanda Anderson, Heather Deem, Jon Deem, Kara Bowser, Nicki Bender, Ashley Rounds, and Shaina Custer. Not present for the photo was Amber DeWitt.

Young People Wanted For "Living Flag"

Young people in Garrett County have a chance to be part of the "Flag on Mountain Maryland" during the celebration of the American flag on Flag Day, Tuesday, June 14.

A huge living flag on the side of the mountain at Wisp Resort will be made up of hundreds of children from around the county dressed in red, white, and blue. The program, sponsored by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, also will feature guest speakers, patriotic music, and recognition of area men and women serving overseas,

Youth at least 8 years old from area schools, civic groups, and church groups can be part of this event. The first 400 youth to respond will form the living flag. Youth will wear red, white, and blue hats and shirts when they form the banner.

Youth groups must be accompanied by a leader who will be available to assist in the line-up. Individual participants should be accompanied by a parent.

"The celebration on the evening of the 14th promises to be special fun for everyone involved," said Karen Reckner, the chamber's special events coordinator. "Activities will begin at 6:30 p.m. At 7 p.m., we will join the rest of the country in the pause for the Pledge of Allegiance."

For the last 25 years, the National Foundation has sponsored the "National Pause for the Pledge of Allegiance," with most of its activities taking place at Fort McHenry in Baltimore.

"Because our McHenry was named in honor of Dr. James McHenry, the same as Fort McHenry, the National Foundation thought it would be appropriate to coordinate an event with theirs," said Reckner. "They contacted Charlie Ross, president of the Chamber of Commerce. This will be the first time the organization has worked with another group to coordinate simultaneous activities."

Plans are to have part of the Garrett County celebration telecast to the crowd at Fort McHenry. To find out what plans are being made for celebrations at Ft. McHenry, persons may visit online at flagday.org

"We invite you to become involved," said Reckner. Groups wanting to be a part of the activities must e-mail a list of names, ages, and group leader contact information by April 15 to bmccartney@ga.k12.md.us or mail information to Karen Reckner, Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, 117 E. Liberty Street, Oakland, MD 21550.

To find out more information, one may also contact Reckner at 301-334-5093 or e-mail karen@garrettchamber.com.

Seats Still Available For Agency's Great Smoky Mtns. Trip

The Garrett County Area Agency on Aging still has seats available for its Great Smoky Mountains bus trip scheduled for June 6 to 10.

The five-day, four-night trip includes eight meals, deluxe motor coach transportation, and hotel accommodations for four nights. A tour of the mountains, gaming at Harrah's, and six shows are also included in the excursion.

The cost is $449 per person, and anyone interested may call Pat Steyer at 301-334-9431 or 1-888-877-8403, ext. 134.

Revival Slated At Fresh Fire Church Of God

The Fresh Fire Church of God, located at 2148 George Washington Highway, Red House, in the old Chimney Corner Restaurant building, will hold a revival March 27 through 30 at 7 p.m.

The guest speaker will be evangelist Bill Snyder, National Chi Alpha recruiter for the Assemblies of God churches. Pastors Tom and Sandra McGinnis invite the public to attend.

For more information, persons may call 304-693-7305.

State Park Programs

DEEP CREEK LAKE STATE PARK

*The minimum deposit required to open the M&T Market Advantage account with the promotional interest rate is $10,000. The promotional rate applies only to new accounts opened with $10,000 but not more than $1 million of money not already on deposit with M&T Bank. The promotional rate will apply during the first three months after the account is opened. This is a variable-rate account and the rate may change after the promotional period. Assuming the account is opened with at least $10,000 and no more than $1 million, and based upon three months of the same interest rate and balance information, the APY is 0.99% (non-promotional interest rate 0.30%) for balances between $1 and $24,999.99, and 1.70% (non-promotional interest rate 1.24%) for balances between $25,000 and $1 million. Fees could reduce earnings on the account. All interest rates and APYs stated are accurate as of February 11, 2005. The promotional rate will apply only to the first three types of transactions or transfers that can be made during any calendar month. Fees could reduce earnings on the account. This is a limited-time offer, subject to change without notice and not available for non-personal accounts. Please ask a branch representative for further information about applicable fees and terms.

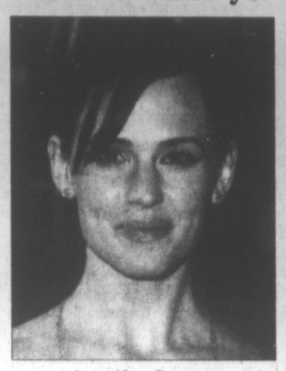
TV PIPELINE

It isn't DVD time for Garner's 'Time' yet

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it



Jennifer Garner

Q: Now that Jennifer Garner is an "A-list" star, will the series "Time of Your Life" – in which she starred in with Jennifer Love Hewitt – ever be released on DVD? –Robin, Indiana.

A: It's possible that "Party of Five" spinoff could get a video release eventually, but none is planned yet. In the meantime, you may want to check out the complete DVD set of "Significant Others," another short-lived Fox show Garner made for the same producers.

Q: When I was a young boy, there was a series called "Science Fiction Theatre." The host would run an experiment of some kind. What network was it on? Could it have been on the old DuMont network? –Rodney Voss, Sioux City, Iowa.

A: Wow ... DuMont! That gives a good idea of which television era we're talking about, although that network had just gone out of business when the science fact-based show began in 1955. It ran in syndication – not as a full network offering, but on local stations – until 1957, and it was one of the earliest series produced by Ivan Tors, later the man behind such shows as "Sea Hunt" and "Flipper."

Q: I seem to remember a TV series from the late '80s or early '90s that starred Gary Cole. It took place in a Southern town, and he may have played the sheriff; he was also kind of a bad guy. There also was a younger boy who starred in this show. Was he Lucas Black, who recently starred in "Friday Night Lights"? Also, what was the name of the series? –Tammy, Ohio.

A: To take the last part first, it was "American Gothic," the 1995-96 CBS series that also was notable for being created and produced by someone unexpected: Shaun Cassidy, the former teen idol and television "Hardy Boy." Currently running for president on NBC's "The West Wing," Cole did play sinister Sheriff Lucas Buck – not to be confused with Lucas Black (also of the movie "Sling Blade"), who did co-star in the show as Caleb, the youngster in question.

Q: In regard to "Rescue Me," I fell in love with this show last summer and was wondering if it would be returning for a second season. –Francine Mason, Chicago.

A: Expect an early-summer start for the FX firefighter drama's second year. The network also indicates that a "name" actor, unspecified at this writing, will be added to the regular cast. Since Glenn Close just joined FX's "The Shield," anything – and anyone – is possible.

Garrett College's "Write Away" Writer's Conference Set For May

"Write Away," the fifth annual writers' conference sponsored by the Center for Lifelong Learning at Garrett College, has been scheduled for Saturday, May 14, from 8:30 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. This year's conference will follow the same format as last year's but will include several new seminars, according to conference coordinator Joan Crawford.

The day's program will include four consecutive seminars, each 1 hour and 15 minutes in length, with a 45-minute break at noon for a brown bag lunch. Each seminar will be led by a professional writer or writers.

The first session of the day from 9 to 10:15 a.m. will be "Fiction Writing" by Dr. Greg Jenkins, associate professor of English at Garrett College. This seminar will show participants how a writer develops characters and converts ideas into stories. If anyone who has written a story would like to have it critiqued, it must be sent to Jenkins at the college one week before the conference. In addition to teaching English and speech, Jenkins writes short fiction and has published two books, Night Games and Stanley Kubrick and the Art of Adaption.

One of the new seminars, "Writing for Profit," is scheduled in the second time period, from 10:30 to 11:45 a.m. This session will be led by Peggy Santamaria, who had been a newspaper reporter, feature writer, and author of educational books. The seminar will give participants information about markets for their writing, including newsletters, magazines, web pages, and other print and electronic media, as well as the accepted ways to submit articles and turn their words into money. Santamaria, who has previously written for The Republican newspaper and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, is now teaching and writing free-lance articles.

Another new seminar, "Publishing Your Book," is scheduled from 12:30 to 1:45 p.m. A panel of individuals with publishing expertise will conduct this session. Participants at this seminar will have opportunities to ask questions of the panelists. Two of panelists will be Tom Pessini and Carolyn White, while a third panel member is yet to be named.

Pessini, a local writer who has self-published his first novel, Traitor in the White House with First Books/Author House, will discuss the process of subsidy publishing. In this process, the author pays someone to edit the manuscript, do illustrations, and then pays a professional printer to create the book. The author is then responsible for marketing, promotion, and distribution of the book.

White, proprietor of Book Makers Ink, will explain the processes of traditional publishing, publishing through a POD (print on demand) printer, and self-publishing with the help of a company such as hers. Book Makers Ink will design and technically make up the book, then show the author how to get online with book stores such as Barnes and Noble or Amazon.com, but marketing is done by the author.

The fourth seminar, "Writing Poetry," set from 2 to 3:15 p.m., will be led by Ginny Grove, local poet and adjunct instructor at Garrett College. Grove has written poetry most of her life, primarily in unrhymed free verse form, but also in structured forms of haiku and limericks. She will show participants how to capture a moment, an image, or an emotion in poetic form, and how the writing of poetry can be both enjoyable and therapeutic.

It is not necessary that persons be experienced writers in order to attend this conference, according to Crawford, but only that they enjoy the craft of writing. All high school and Garrett College students are admitted free of charge. College students will receive co-curricular credits.

Persons may register by calling the office of the Continuing Education and Training Division of the college at 301-387-3069.

WRITE AWAY CONFERENCE COMING TO COLLEGE – The fifth "Write Away" Writers' Conference at Garrett College is slated for Saturday, May 14, at Garrett College. The seminars will begin at 8:30 a.m. and run consecutively throughout the day, with a noon break for a brown bag lunch. High school and college students are admitted free. Pictured, seated from the left, is conference coordinator Joan Crawford and Fiction Writing instructor Dr. Greg Jenkins. Standing are Continuing Education Division program coordinator Patty Kelley and Writing for Profit instructor Peggy Santamaria. Persons interested in registering may call the Garrett College Continuing Education and Training Division at 301-387-3069. See story.

Garrett College Sets April Classes At Grantsville Ctr.

Garrett College has scheduled a variety of courses at the Grantsville Outreach Center in April: Walk Your Way to a Healthier You, Senior Surfers: The Internet and Web Literacy, Cook it Quick and Easy, Integrating Microsoft Office Software, Enhanced Portrait Painting, and a Babysitter's Training Program.

Walk Your Way to A Healthier You, a four-part series of free exercise classes, will meet on four Friday afternoons from 1 to 3 p.m. on April 15, May 20, June 17, and July 15.

This course focuses on walking and healthy eating to promote a healthier lifestyle. Strategies will be taught to create a balance between energy expenditure and food consumption. Participants will be given a pedometer to count the number of steps they walk each day, and they will learn practical ways to increase their steps so it becomes part of their daily routine. The class is sponsored by the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension.

Senior Surfers: The Internet and Web Literacy is set from 9 to 11 a.m. over four consecutive Fridays, beginning April 1 and concluding April 22.

This course is an in-depth look at the Internet – how it works, its capabilities, and how to run various programs to utilize it most effectively. Topics include e-mail and sending attachments, hypertext documents, how to use search engines and the social impact of the Internet, including privacy, censorship and fraud. Information on joining discussion groups and the use of related online services will also be covered.

Cook it Quick and Easy will be offered from 9:30 to 11 a.m. over three consecutive Saturdays, April 9, 16, and 23.

"With today's busy lifestyles, creating healthy meals is not always easy," a spokesperson said. "Quick food doesn't have to mean fast food. Learn how to create delicious, healthy meals with a minimum of time and effort but a maximum of good taste and nutrition." Time management tips and healthy recipes will be shared, along with the demonstrations and tastings.

Integrating Microsoft Office Software is scheduled for 6 to 9:15 p.m. over four consecutive Mondays, beginning April 4 and ending April 25.

Students will learn advanced techniques in integrating MS-Office software packages such as Word, Excel, PowerPoint, and Access, and a basic understanding of computers and each of those programs is required. Participants will learn to move from one task to another smoothly and quickly; place spreadsheet numbers and charts into word processing documents; use an outline in a word processing document to create a presentation; how to copy, link, and embed data; and share changing data between documents.

Enhanced Portrait Painting is slated from 10 a.m. to noon for five Thursdays, beginning April 14 and concluding May 19. (No class on May 5.)

This course is designed to enhance portrait painting techniques and colors used in producing portraits in oil. Students will be developing paintings using photos of friends or relatives as research.

A one-session Babysitter's Training Program is set from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Saturday, April 2. This course is open to those 11-17 who want to become responsible babysitters.

The class focuses on five primary thematic areas: leadership, safety and prevention, first aid, basic care, and professional skills. During this class, the student will learn first aid and safety guidelines, basic infant and childcare, decision-making skills and techniques for job hunting and interviewing. Students successfully completing the course will receive an American Red Cross Babysitter's Certificate, a babysitter's backpack with emergency supplies, and a reference handbook.

In addition to the above mentioned classes, coming in May to the center are courses titled Medical Transcription, Photographing Nature, SOS for Women, Computer Skills I, and Landscape Painting.

For additional information or to register for these courses, persons may contact Terry Beachy, Grantsville Center coordinator, by calling 301-895-3368, or via e-mail at tbeachy@garrett-college.edu.

BYRNE WINS SMS GEOGRAPHY BEE – Ben Byrne, an eighth grader at Southern Middle School, recently won the school's annual geography bee, and is pictured above with Gary Thompson, social studies teacher. Ben was awarded a $25 check, a medal, and a trophy. He is the son of William and Ann Byrne, Oakland.

This week we celebrate the resurrection of Jesus Christ, the Son of God, from the tomb, following His crucifixion on the Cross of Calvary. Why did God sacrifice His only begotten Son? The Bible tells us He sacrificed Jesus that we might experience a more joyful and abundant life. Jesus said in John 7:37-38, "If a man is thirsty, let him come to me and drink. Whoever believes in me, as the Scripture has said, streams of living water will flow from within him."

By the words "living water", Jesus Christ referred to the comfort of the Holy Spirit flowing through our hearts. When we believe in Jesus' death and resurrection, the weight of our sins is lifted and our spiritual strength is renewed. Though we may struggle with earthly events, we still must trust that God knows what is best for our spiritual growth. Based on this, there is every reason to expect abundance in our lives.

As you worship, why not welcome the return of joy to your attitude? This Easter, won't you thank God for the miracle of the resurrection of His Son by expecting a miracle in your life? Happy Easter.

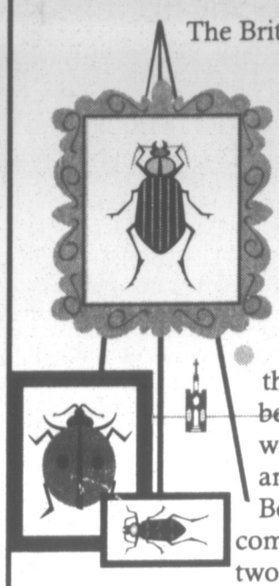
An Inordinate Fondness for Beetles



The British naturalist J.B.S Haldane, when asked what his study of nature led him to infer about God, reputedly remarked that the Creator must have an inordinate fondness for beetles. Indeed, one-fifth of all known species are beetles, and many of them are really very beautiful, or are equipped with features that are truly amazing. For instance, the Bombardier beetle combines chemicals from two separate chambers, the combination of which produces a blast of hot gas that is very effective at warding off predators. Creationists and Evolutionists sometimes quarrel about such seemingly well_designed defenses, because it isn't readily apparent how such a complicated system could evolve in small incremental steps. Perhaps the opposition between creationism and evolution is unnecessary. Could not God have created a universe in which evolution works to continually create new species? Many biologists have thought so, and thus they see their work as unraveling the incredible and ongoing mystery of creation. When we learn something new about nature, in the process we get a glimpse into the mind of God.

O Lord, how manifold are thy works! In wisdom hast thou made them all; the earth is full of thy creatures.
R.S.V. Psalm 104:24

Supplement Promoted For Colds And Flu

A supplement containing vitamins, minerals, herbs and amino acids is being marketed for the prevention and treatment of colds and flu. The product, called Airborne, contains vitamins A, C, and E. While there is some evidence that vitamin C may reduce the duration of a cold by several hours, there is no reliable evidence to support using vitamin A for this purpose. The recommended dose of Airborne delivers vitamin doses that are above the RDA (recommended daily allowance).

There is no evidence that supports the use of oral amino acids or minerals to prevent or treat colds and flu. Echinacea is the only herb contained in Airborne that has been shown to reduce the severity and duration of cold symptoms. Frequent hand washing is recommended to slow cold virus spreading. Contact with persons who have a cold should be limited.

Service Dogs

Q. One of my employees has informed me that she will be getting a service dog that will accompany her to the office. I don't have a problem with this, as we have a fairly casual environment, but I thought Seeing Eye dogs are the only service animals allowed in public buildings. What if the building management has a problem with it? — Chester C., Denver

A. Actually, service dogs help people with a wide range of disabilities, both physical and neurological. They make life easier for those with impaired mobility, hearing or sight; they can even warn epileptics when a seizure is about to occur. The role of these remarkable animals has expanded far beyond that of the Seeing Eye dog.

If the building management, or tenants, express concerns about your employee's service dog, let them know that federal laws protect the right of disabled people to be accompanied by a service animal in public places. The Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 defines the role of service animals.

It might be a good idea to talk to other employees about how to behave around a service dog. Unlike pets making a temporary, casual visit to a public area, service dogs are working and should not be distracted by people petting, talking to, or trying to feed them. Always ask the dog's owner for permission before touching or talking to the dog.

Much more information about service animals is available through the nonprofit Delta Society at www.deltasociety.org. Through this organization, you can obtain an informational video and brochures for your employees and building management.

Collecting

Q. I have an old Bible that was published in 1830 in New York. Is it valuable? — Timothy, Apopka, Fla.

A. Verily I say unto you that not all old Bibles are collectible. In fact, only a small fraction of them are of interest to serious collectors.

William J. Chamberlin is an officer of the International Society of Bible Collectors and might give you an accurate idea of what your Bible is worth. Contact him at 6413 Snow Apple Drive, Clarkston, MI 48346; research87@yahoo.com; and www.abebooks.com.

Q. I have a large meat platter that has been in my family for years. It is hallmarked as being made by the Edwin M. Knowles China Company, but I know nothing more about it. — Mary Lou, Salem, Mo.

A. When I receive a question about china, I break-out one of my favorite reference books, Lehner's Encyclopedia of U.S. Marks on Pottery, Porcelain & Clay, by Lois Lehner (Collector Books, $24.95). This hefty 600-plus page book is a must for collectors.

According to the author, the Edwin M. Knowles company was started in West Virginia in about 1900. It specialized in dinnerware and continued production until 1963. The mark on your platter suggests it was probably made during the 1920s.

Q. I have a number of old books, including some Zane Grey first editions. Where can I sell them? — Rodney, Topeka, Kan.

A. You might want to contact the Zane Grey's West Society, 708 Warwick Ave., Fort Wayne, IN 46825. The club publishes an excellent newsletter for enthusiasts, the Zane Grey Review.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It's been reported that Joseph Stalin was an accomplished singer. Evidently, he sang so well that he could have performed professionally — that is, if he hadn't felt the tug of politics.

• Ambrose Bierce, noted wit and author of The Devil's Dictionary, observed: "Woman would be more charming if one could fall into her arms without falling into her hands."

• In Japan, zoni soup is a dish traditionally eaten to start out the new year. The soup contains mochi rice cakes, which are extremely rubbery and difficult to chew — and sometimes fatal. It seems that the mochi rice cakes are so rubbery that some (mostly elderly) people end up choking on them. Every year, newspapers publish the death toll.

• It's fairly likely that you've never heard of author David Markson. He's still publishing today, but you're not likely to find him on any best-seller list. It is his first novel, published in 1966, that gave him his primary claim to fame: It has one of the longest subtitles in the history of modern publishing. I won't burden you with the entire title here, but here's a portion of it: "The Ballad of Dingus Magee: being the immortal true saga of the most notori[illegible]s and desperate bad man of the olden days, his blood-shedding, [and] his ruination of poor helpless females ... interspersed with trustworthy and shamelessly interesting sketches of 'Big Blouse' Belle Nops, Anna Hot Water, 'Horseface' Agnes, and others, hardly any remaining upright at the end."

• Dolly Parton's wig collection is reportedly worth approximately $500,000. The same inimitable Parton, of course, said, "I was the first woman to burn my bra — it took the fire department four days to put it out!"

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On March 30, 1820, Anna Sewell, author of "Black Beauty," is born in Norfolk, England. "Black Beauty" was the first significant children's story in the English language to focus on animal characters, establishing the precedent for countless other works.

• On April 1, 1877, ignoring the taunts of fellow miners who said he would only find his own tombstone, Edward Schieffelin begins prospecting for silver in present-day southern Arizona. Later that year, Schieffelin would find one of the richest silver veins in the West, which he named the Tombstone Lode.

• On April 2, 1917, Jeannette Rankin, the first woman ever elected to Congress, takes her seat in the U.S. Capitol as a representative from Montana. Her entrance was delayed for a month while congressmen discussed whether a woman should be admitted to the House of Representatives.

• On March 31, 1930, the Motion Picture industry formally adopts the Production Code to avoid government censorship. For the next three decades, the "Hays Code" imposed strict guidelines on the cinematic treatment of sex, crime, religion, violence and other controversial subjects.

• On March 28, 1947, the final episode of the long-running sci-fi series "Buck Rogers in the 25th Century" airs on CBS radio. Trapped in a collapsed mine in 1919, Buck Rogers mysteriously slept for 500 years, then woke to a strange new world.

• On March 29, 1973, two months after the signing of the Vietnam peace agreement, the last U.S. combat troops leave South Vietnam as Hanoi frees the remaining American POWs held in North Vietnam. The Vietnam War was the longest and most unpopular foreign war in U.S. history and cost 58,000 American lives.

• On April 3, 1996, at his isolated cabin near Lincoln, Mont., Theodore Kaczynski is arrested by FBI agents and accused of being the Unabomber, the elusive terrorist blamed for 16 mail bombs that killed three people and injured 23 during an 18-year period.

Hoalcraft Hired To Oversee Fitness Center

Garrett County resident Christy Hoalcraft has been selected to direct the Flowery Vale Health & Fitness Center for the Mature Adult, a program operated by Garrett County Community Action Area Agency on Aging.

A graduate of Southern Garrett High School, Hoalcraft attended Garrett College before earning a bachelor of science degree in exercise science at Frostburg State University and a master's degree in exercise physiology at West Virginia University.

Hoalcraft's previous work experience includes cardiac rehabilitation, aquatic instruction, and personal fitness training.

"We are very pleased to have Christy stepping in to direct our senior fitness center. She has both a strong educational background and work experience," said Adina Brode, director of the Area Agency on Aging.

"I'm really looking forward to this new challenge of directing the program at the Flowery Vale Health and Fitness Center. I enjoy working with older adults and this is such a beneficial and successful program. I'm pleased to be a part of it," Hoalcraft said.

The center opened in 2001 under the direction of Elaine Kackley, who developed the program for the Area Agency on Aging. The fitness center serves Garrett County residents age 55 and older. For more information on the Flowery Vale Health & Fitness Center, persons may call 301-746-8050.

College To Host Bereavement Teleconference

"Living With Grief: Ethical Dilemmas at the End of Life," the Hospice Foundation of America's 12th annual Bereavement Teleconference, will be presented live via satellite from 1:30 to 4 p.m. on Wednesday, April 20, in Room 207 of Garrett College's Continuing Education building. Moderated by Cokie Roberts, ABC News political commentator and NPR senior news analyst, the discussion is being provided locally by Hospice of Garrett County and Garrett College.

"The subject of ethics at the end of life generates an array of opinions and responses on methods to improve or enhance the quality of life for the terminally ill," a Hospice spokesperson said.

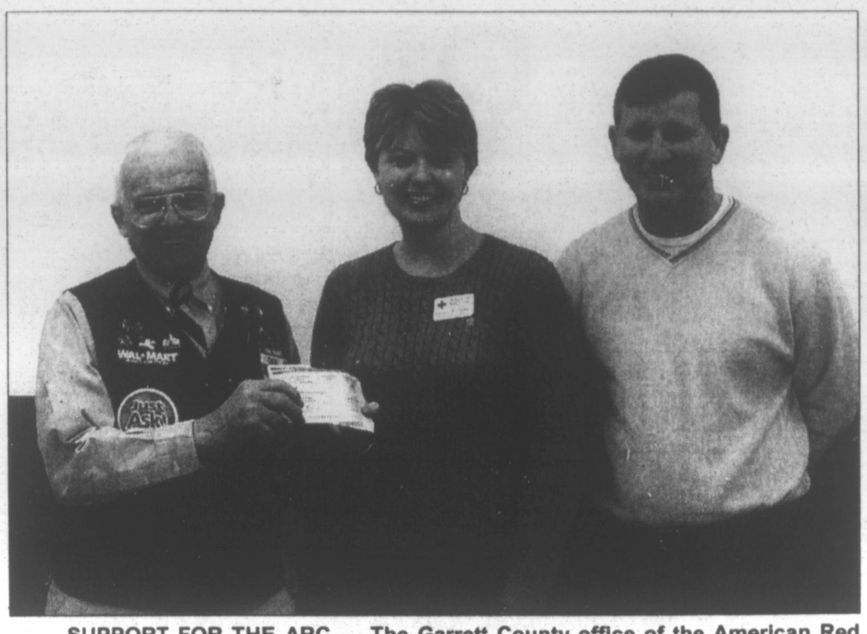
The teleconference is produced by Hospice Foundation of America (HFA), a non-profit organization which acts as an advocate for the hospice concept of care through ongoing programs of professional education, public information, and research on issues relating to illness, loss, grief, and bereavement. Each year the Hospice Foundation of America presents a nationally recognized distance learning program, live via satellite, to more than 125,000 people in 2,000 communities.

For more than a decade, this annual educational program has been instrumental in educating health care professionals and families on issues affecting end-of-life care. It also provides an opportunity for a wide variety of professionals – including doctors, nurses, ethicists, educators, social workers and bereavement counselors – to share and exchange ideas and obtain continuing education credits.

Roberts will lead a panel of experts that includes Kenneth J. Dóka, Ph.D., College of New Rochelle; Bruce Jennings, M.A., senior research scholar at the Hastings Center; Charles Corr, Ph.D., professor emeritus at Southern Illinois University, Edwardsville; Bernice Harper, Ph.D., board chair and president of Foundation for Hospices in Sub-Saharan Africa; Richard Fife, Ph.D., vice president of Bioethics and Pastoral Care at VITAS Healthcare Corporation; Jack Gordon, chairman and CEO of the Hospice Foundation of America; William Lamers, M.D., medical consultant for the Hospice Foundation of America; Richard Payne, M.D., director of the Duke Institute on Care at the End of Life; and Joanne Reifsnyder, R.N., Ph.D., University of Pennsylvania School of Nursing.

This year the program is produced in cooperation with the Hastings Center, an independent, nonpartisan, and nonprofit bioethics research institute founded in 1969 to explore fundamental and emerging questions in health care, biotechnology, and the environment.

For more information and to register, persons may call Hospice of Garrett County at 301-334-5151, or 800-521-5252 from the Grantsville area. There is no charge to register.



SUPPORT FOR THE ARC — The Garrett County office of the American Red Cross was the recipient of a $500 donation this past week via Wal-Mart's "Volunteerism Always Pays" program, which contributes money to local non-profit organizations in exchange for volunteer hours worked by Wal-Mart employees. Carl Rebele, a local Wal-Mart associate, designated the ARC as his beneficiary and, through his volunteer hours to the organization, generated the $500 contribution from the Wal-Mart Foundation. Pictured from left are Rebele; Kasey Pelphrey, regional programs coordinator for the Garrett County ARC office; and Obie Adkins, co-manager of the Oakland Wal-Mart.

Natural Egg Dyeing Activity Set at DCL SP

The Discovery Center at Deep Creek Lake State Park will host a natural egg dyeing program from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. this Saturday, March 26.

The craft activity will feature natural dyes from material found in the home and nature. Western Garrett County State Park volunteers will assist children and teach them about the natural dye products. Participants are asked to bring no more than six hard-boiled eggs that have been wiped off with a mild vinegar solution so the eggs will take the dye.

For additional information, persons may call the Discovery Center at 301-387-7067.

Rocky Drean To Feature Passion Of The Christ

There will be a free showing of The Passion of the Christ directed by Mel Gibson at the Rocky Drean Assembly of God on Friday, March 25, at 7 p.m.

The church is located near Swallow Falls along Bray School Road, accessible from both Mayhew Inn and Oakland Sang Run roads. For further information, persons may contact Pastor William C. Skipper at 301-387-8292.

Commissioners, Children Proclaim Young Child Week

Children at a local child care center met with the Garrett County commissioners last Thursday to designate April 3 9 as the Week of the Young Child. The kids represented all Garrett County children in an effort to encourage families, early childhood professionals, and communities to work together to support every Garrett County child's healthy development and early learning.

In a proclamation signed by the commissioners and the children, all Garrett County residents are urged to focus attention on the importance of children's early years (birth to age 8). The public will be able to view the proclamation in the window of the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland during the month of April.

The commissioners and kids are also promoting a Family Fun Festival, celebrating the Day of the Young Child, scheduled for Saturday, April 2, at Broad Ford Elementary School from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. The festival is free and will kick off the Week of the Young Child.

At the festival, early childhood agencies and organizations will provide a day of fun, food, and hands-on activities for young children (birth to age 8) and their families. Older siblings are also welcome. There will be special guest appearances by Dr. Paul Getty, juggling clown unicyclist; the West Virginia University Juggling Club; and the STEAM Puppeteers (a local youth tobacco prevention group).

"We are sponsoring the festival for the third year and promise that the day will be full of surprises, games, and giveaways," said Barbara Hornyak, co-chair of the Kids First Family Fun Festival Committee. "The event promotes healthy, family-oriented activities that should enable parents/caregivers to walk away encouraged to help their children learn and succeed in school."

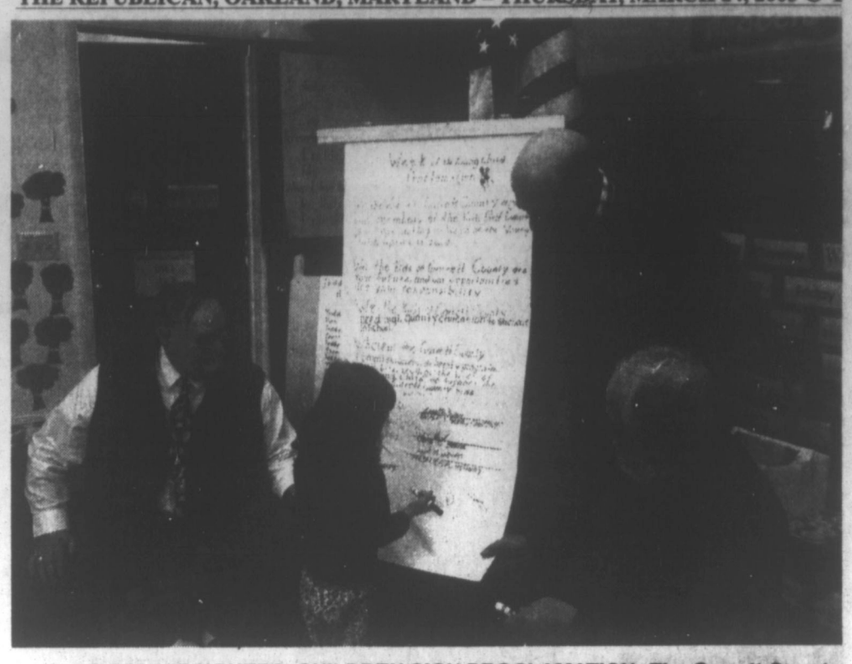
"Many of the county's early childhood agencies/organizations have collaborated to make this first Family Fun Festival just that fun for the family," continued Hornyak.

Organizations and the activities/giveaways they will provide at the festival are as follows:

- Children's ~~fin~~ger-printing – Garrett County Sheriff's Office
- Face painting, book giveaway, and ice cream – Garrett County Community Action's Overlook Judy Center
- Ribbon streamers – Garrett County Child Care Administration office
- Sidewalk chalk – Garrett County Partnership for Children & Families Inc. and Garrett County Infants and Toddlers Program
- Tattoos and bunny craft – Garrett County Health Department Healthy Families Garrett County
- Bug craft and door prizes – the Dove Center
- Bike safety education – Garrett County Health Department Outreach
- Pop-up toy for toddlers – GCCAC Early Head Start
- "Pick a Lucky Duck" – Garrett County Health Department Assets Building
- Magnetic fish game – GCCAC Housing Services
- "Make Your Own Cool Hat" – GCCAC Wrap-Around Child Care
- Kite making – Ruth Enlow Library
- Safety seats – Garrett County Health Department Community Outreach KISS Program
- "Let's go Fishing" – GCCAC Head Start Fatherhood Initiative
- Face painting and craft – Garrett County Early Childhood Professional Association
- Hands-on children's activity – APPLES for Children Inc.
- Bean bag toss/prize – GCCAC Community and Emergency Services
- GCCAC Head Start
- Garrett County Health Department Dental Care Center

Companies donating to the Festival are Sysco, Pepper's Inc., and Subway.

The event is free and no reservations are required. For more information, persons may call the Overlook Judy Center at 301-334-4211.



GC COMMISSIONERS, CHILDREN SIGN PROCLAMATION The Garrett County commissioners and children at a local child care center recently signed a proclamation designating April 3 to 9 as the Week of the Young Child. The document asked residents, early childhood professionals, and the community to work together to support every child's healthy development and early learning. See story for details. A youngster at the child care center is pictured signing the proclamation while the commissioners look on. Seated, left to right, are Dave Beard and Fred Holliday. Standing is Ernie Gregg.

Thank You

Betty & Warren Thomas would like to thank all of their neighbors, friends, & family who participated in the card shower for their 56th wedding anniversary. It was wonder receiving these cards and notes and truly made our anniversary a very special one.

Champion Liar Set To Perform In Petersburg

Summit Community Bank and the Grant County Arts Council will present Bil Lepp, five-time champion of the West Virginia Liar's Contest in a "picnic" dinner theater on Thursday, April 21, at the Petersburg Presbyterian Church fellowship hall in Petersburg.

Dinner will be served at 6 p.m., followed by Lepp's stories, tall tales, and "whoppers."

Tickets are available only at the Moomau Library in Petersburg from April 1 through 15. No tickets will be sold at the door.

Persons needing accessibility may contact emv1@hardynet.com prior to the event.

The Summit Community Bank is a community sponsor of the Grant Count Arts Council.

4-H Club News

Aurora Pioneers
by Michael O'Connor

Josh Mullenax called to order the March meeting of the Aurora Pioneers. Wyatt Snyder led the Pledge of Allegiance. Daniel O'Connor led the 4-H pledge, and Amber Grimm led the group in a song. Then Daniel O'Connor led the group in a game called Clover Relay.

Under old business, the club talked about the headband design contest for 4-H camp this year.

Under new business: The next livestock meeting will be held on Thursday, March 6, at Preston High School. The 4-H Round Up will be held on Saturday, April 30, at East Preston. All members are encouraged to participate.

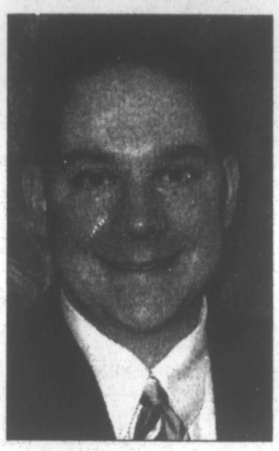
Members are to have ideas for a visual presentation or a topic for public speaking for the next meeting. Parents and other volunteers are needed to help with the Round Up.

Devotions were read by Michael and Daniel O'Connor.

Josh Mullenax gave a talk about sheep predators and how to get rid of them.

Linda Fike gave a talk about Relay of Life. She explained what the Relay is about and what the money raised is used for. All members are asked to consider forming a team for the Preston Relay in June.

Aurora Resident Receives W.Va. Real Estate Lic.



Mark Utterback, a native and resident of Aurora and a sales associate at Long & Foster Real Estate's Deep Creek office in McHenry, Md., recently earned his license to practice real estate in West Virginia.

He has held his Maryland salesperson's license for several months and, after completing a 90-hour course, successfully passed the West Virginia Real Estate Commission's licensing exam. Utterback will continue to practice real estate in the western Maryland and Deep Creek Lake areas and intends to put his new designation to work in the surrounding West Virginia markets.

Utterback is a member of the Garrett County Board of Realtors and has also successfully completed Long & Foster's Fast Start® course, an extensive training program which includes nearly 80 hours of instruction in real estate law, ethics, sales, and contracts, as well as negotiating, finance, and marketing.

Utterback is a graduate of East Preston Senior High School in Terra Alta and holds a bachelor of arts degree from Bucknell University in Lewisburg, Pa.

He, his wife Jill, and son Quintin have lived near his family's Brookside Farm in Aurora for almost five years.

Previously, Utterwork worked for Matthews International (formerly Sheidow Bronze) in Kingwood and Pioneer Conveyor in Mtn. Lake Park, Md.

He has been actively involved with the Preston County and West Virginia 4-H programs for more than 20 years and is a member of St. Peter's Catholic Church in Oakland, Md.

AURORA/EGLON

HOLY WEEK SERVICES SET

On March 25, Good Friday, there will be a Cross walk from the Aurora Post Office to St. Paul's Lutheran Church for which walkers are asked to be present and ready to leave at noon. A service at the church will follow at 12:30 p.m.

That evening at 7:30 p.m., all are invited again to St. Paul's for a Tenebrae service on "The Last Words of Christ." Using candles, visual symbols, Mary's reflections, hymns, and scriptures, this service sets the mood for acknowledging the crucifixion of Jesus.

On Saturday, March 26, there will be an Easter Vigil at St. John's Lutheran Church, Red House, to which all are invited.

On Sunday morning at 6:30 a.m., persons may greet the Easter morn by joining in the sunrise service at St. Paul's Lutheran Church. The Rev. Glenn Nissly will speak on "The Resurrection of Our Lord," and breakfast will be served following that morning service.

Each of the churches in the district then invite the public to attend their regular Sunday worship services.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

A memorial service is being held at 2 p.m. on Saturday afternoon, March 26, to remember the life of Leota Lantz Elsey, who died Feb. 15. The family invites all relatives and friends to join them for this occasion.

SOUP AND SALAD DINNER APRIL 2

An all-you-can-eat soup and salad dinner is being served at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren at Eglon on April 2 from 4 until 8 p.m. There will be chili, potato, and bean soups, and the dinner includes bread and dessert. Donations are $6 for adults, $3 for children 12 and under.

AURORA CEOS

The Aurora CEOS met March 15 at the Aurora Community Building, with 11 members present. Mary Jane Hanline used a reading and prayer for her devotionals. She followed this with a comparison of presidents and identical dates. Janice Tackett's lesson was titled "Valuing Diversity."

The Family Committee reported that it would encourage participation in the Heart Walk Program, walking 100 miles in 100 days. Also, it will continue to construct "Boo-Boo" bears and Linus blankets.

Continuing Education Committee announced it will continue to recycle medication bottles, used postage stamps, pop tabs, and material for the Energy Express program in Kingwood. It will also work with the 4-H program in the community or at camp, as needed. Several members have participated in the AARP-sponsored "55 Alive" driving program, which teaches defensive driving.

Marketing and Membership Committee said it would be promoting the CEOS organization by use of book markers and a bulletin board display at the post office, and will continue the special showcasing of a member in the newspaper.

The club will once again walk in the Relay for Life, to be held at Rowlesburg, June 24-25. In order to raise funds for this project, a garage sale is planned for June 3 and 4 at the Union Ambulance squad hall. Anyone who wishes to help may do so by contributing useful items to the sale.

As a community project, the club will be working with the new History House (the old Stemple's Store), with the community library, and will clean the community building kitchen.

Ressie Conrad gave the club a new word for those who can't eat peanut butter for fear of it sticking to the roof of the mouth – arachibutyrophobia.

Virginia Martin displayed a picture of the Aurora United Methodist Church from the Edwin Fike files. She also had a postcard written by her father in 1913 and given her by James Helton. Fern Jamison was winner of the pig-in-the-poke.

The next meeting will be April 15, at 7 p.m., in the Aurora Community Building, with Dee Douglas leading the lesson and Martha Bolyard in charge of devotions.

RECKART BIRTH

Jason and Carrie Reckart of Terra Alta announce the birth of their first child on Feb. 17, at Cumberland Memorial Hospital. Named Austin Nathanial, the little boy weighed 7 pounds, 3.8 ounces.

Maternal grandparents are Randall and Bonnie Friend of Oakland. Paternal grandparents are Patrick Reckart of Terra Alta, and Kenneth and Crystal Johnston of Aurora. Paternal great-grandparents are Lyle Weimer of Aurora, Delores Becker of Rawlings, and Jim and Emma Reckart of Terra Alta. Paul and Alma Weimer of Gorman are the great-great-grandparents.

PERSONAL MENTION

Bill Hauser was released from Monongalia General Hospital Wednesday and he and his wife Sandra (who had out-patient surgery that day), both returned to their home on Stemple Ridge.

Junior Myers of Aurora underwent knee replacement surgery at Garrett County Memorial Hospital and is now in the sub-acute unit for rehabilitation and exercise.

Doris Arnold of Aurora had Friday out-patient surgery at Garrett Memorial and is recuperating at home.

Junior "Stubby" Stemple of Aurora was admitted Friday to Garrett County Memorial following an apparent heart attack, but was released Saturday to return home.

Jim and Alice Bolyard returned Sunday to their home at Amboy from a three-month winter vacation at Water's Edge RV Resort in Zephyr Hills, Fla. While there, they visited with Mrs. Bolyard's aunt, Freda Knapp, and family. Mrs. Knapp is recovering from recent chemotherapy and reportedly remains quite weak.

Retirement Event To Be Held For Burlington's CEO

Friends and colleagues of Gary Wilson, CEO of Burlington United Methodist Family Services Inc., will hold a retirement dinner for him on Friday, April 22, beginning at 6:30 p.m. at the Keyser Fire Department, 1550 Cornell Street, in Keyser. A program honoring Wilson will begin a 7:30 p.m.

The cost of the dinner is $12.50 per person or $3 for those attending only the program. Reservations and checks for the event are to be mailed to BUMFS, 145 Southern Drive, Keyser, WV 26726 by April 14.

Health Toppers' 100-mile, 100-day walk started Monday. It is still not too late to sign up at the office, located at Fit and Fabulous.

Terra Alta East Preston School is selling memorial auditorium seats for $95 each. Each seat will have a brass plaque with the name of the donor's choice. All donors' names will be placed on a large plaque that will be on display in the auditorium. Checks should be made out to the school.

Terra Alta Health Toppers' "Healthy Families' Night Out" is set for 5:30 p.m. Saturday, April 16, at T.A.E.P. School. It will feature a square dance, healthy food, and music. All ages are welcome, and admission is free.

Applications for memorial bricks to be used at the Terra Alta Park entrance at the end of Caldwell street are at the city hall.

Note cards featuring Terra Alta scenes will be on sale at Gregg's Pharmacy and the city hall. These are designed and printed by Jim Feather as fundraisers for Terra Alta Betterment Inc.

A sports banquet for the Youth League will be held at the school April 3. Persons may contact Helena and Todd Slaubaugh at 301-789-6089.

Free tax preparation assistance is available at the city hall every Thursday, 10 a.m. to noon.

LIBRARY NEWS

Terra Alta Public Library has received the following audio tapes in memory of Ruth Sines from Diane Golliday: The Mistress by Susan Wiggs, Fatal Voyage by Kathy Reichs, The Kill Clause by Gregg Hurwitz, The Bride of Black Douglas by Elaine Coffman, Jupiter's Bones by Faye Kellerman, The Distant Echo by Val McDermid, and Murder Room by P.D. James.

Several Southern Living cookbooks have been donated by Albert Ossman. These range from holiday cooking to everyday meals and desserts. Matthew Noland has donated numerous juvenile puzzles to the library for circulation.

Lemony Snicket's 11 volumes of A Series of Unfortunate Events are now on the shelves for circulation. Adults, juveniles, and young adults have been sharing these volumes.

Others donating recently have been Pearl Gordon, Mary McLaughlin, Lorrie MacArgle, Pat Wolfe, Tasha Knotts, and JoAnn Nissly. These donations have been periodicals, videos, fiction and non-fiction books, pamphlets, and journals.

Mt. Storm VFD To Host Benefit For Robbie Kuhn

The Mt. Storm Volunteer Fire Department and Ladies Auxiliary will sponsor a benefit dinner for Robbie Kuhn, who is a fellow firefighter.

The dinner will be held on April 3, beginning at 11 a.m. at the fire hall. The menu will be baked steak, mashed potatoes and gravy, green beans or corn, cole slaw, rolls, drinks, and desserts. Carry-outs will be available.

All donations will be accepted. For more information, persons may contact Anna Mae Kitzmiller at 304-693-7217.

Clipper
WINDPOWER, INC.

March 24, 2005

An Open Letter to the Citizens of Garrett County

As you may know, Clipper has a license to build a 100 megawatt windpower project on Backbone Mountain in southern Garrett County, producing emissions-free electricity equivalent to the usage of approximately 35,000 homes. A great deal has been written and said about our project and others like it, over recent months. Most of what has been written regarding our project has not been based on any direct inquiries to us, so we would like to give the people of Garrett County a clear understanding of who we are and what this project is about. More details about the project and additional answers to concerns are available on our website at www.marylandwind.com.

Clipper was founded by James G. P. Dehlsen, a pioneer and industry leader in wind power, who is joined by a team of top wind industry professionals. The Clipper team has developed over $1 billion of wind projects and is one of the most experienced groups in the business. Clipper's Eastern Regional Office is based in Bethesda, Maryland, and a local office has been opened in Oakland, Maryland. Contact information is provided below.

Clipper Windpower believes our proposed wind power project on Backbone Mountain will be a substantial boost to the local economy and a long-term contributor to economic development in the area. We are also reaching out to local business for partners in helping to build tourism among those potential visitors to whom clean energy and a clean environment are important values. We believe this tourism opportunity fits well with the county's existing tourism base. We look forward to helping attract these consumers and the additional jobs and income they bring.

The following are brief responses to some of the concerns that have been raised about our project:

- Economic benefits: At well over $100 million, the project will be one of the largest projects ever constructed in this part of the state and will be one of the largest property taxpayers at over $1 million per year for the full 100 MW, helping to diversify the county's tax base. We will utilize up to 175 workers during the construction phase, and we will purchase millions of dollars of materials and services from area companies. In fact, before we have even begun construction, we have already hired Garrett County residents and utilized area firms for hundreds of thousands of dollars of work.
- Land clearing: Approximately 1 (one) acre will be cleared for each turbine in a forested area, not the 4 acres that has been put into some anti-wind ads recently. Those ads refer to wind projects on timber company land, and none of these were projects our company has been involved in.
- Property values: There is no evidence that wind projects affect property values over time (see http://www.repp.org/articles/static/1/binaries/wind_online_final.pdf). A regional case that has been cited as being evidence of property value decline is actually a case where a developer purchased land at market or above market prices and then resold it at a lower price as a subsidy to a landowner instead of making a direct payment. That is not evidence of property value decline in any sense, just as it would not be for someone who sold land to a sibling or other family member for a minimal price.
- Decommissioning: Clipper's state license for the project requires us to set aside funds in a trust in addition to the $2000 per turbine bond in our landowner agreements to help ensure that the towers and foundations are removed down to plow depth at the end of the project's life. The Maryland Public Service Commission has ruled that this fund is appropriate and sufficient to cover the net cost of decommissioning. Additionally, the substantial value of materials in today's modern turbines provides a great incentive for the turbines to be taken down after their useful life. The simple turbines of 10 or 20 years ago did not have sufficient material salvage value and at times were left in place. Today's turbines are a different story because of the tons of high quality steel and refurbishable high-value components.
- Visual impacts: Wind turbines are large machines that can be seen from miles away, but our impact is fundamentally different from land uses that permanently change the landscape such as mountaintop mining or clearing for housing. Beauty is always in the eye of the beholder, but many appreciate the sleek look of the turbines, as well as the slow, majestic sweep of the blades. We believe wind turbines are very much in keeping with the rural character of the area and help to maintain that rural character by limiting other kinds of development such as dense housing.

Please see our website for additional information or contact me at 301-263-0028 or krackstraw@clipperwind.com. We look forward to being a part of the western Maryland community.

MANY LIFE LESSONS can be learned while growing up on a farm, and those lessons can take a person in a number of directions throughout one's adult life. Cristine Kepple of Oakland is a good example of one who has always capitalized on her experiences as a "farm girl" to excel in her educational, professional, and personal life. Criss is pictured above left with her brother Mike while reigning as Garrett County's farm queen "a number of years ago." She is pictured at right perched upon her horse Magic Dragon during her days as a competitor in horsemanship, in jumping and other events. The photo directly above was taken just after her becoming a partner in the local law firm of Eiswert, Janes, and Kepple, P.A. R. Thomas Janes is pictured at the left, and to the right is Leonard Eiswert. The feature on Ms. Kepple is presented as part of the observance of National Agriculture Week (March 20-26).

Farming On The Mountaintop

Growing Up On A Farm Proves Highly Valuable To Criss Kepple

by Brenda Ruggiero

Growing up on a farm results in many life lessons, some of which may be a little unexpected. An example of one person who experienced this is Cristine A. Kepple of the Oakland law firm Eiswert, Janes, and Kepple P.A.

Kepple grew up on the farm of her parents, Howard and Bernice Kepple, outside Oakland, where they both owned and rented acreage. They had beef cattle, sheep, goats, and horses, and also raised crops and hay. For a time, they had dairy cattle as well.

As a child, Kepple was involved in 4-H. "I was in 4-H as many years as they'd let me," she noted. "I started at 9, and I was in it until they kicked me out because I got too old." Her 4-H projects involved mainly dairy goats and horses.

Kepple's interest in agriculture continued through her high school years at Southern, when she joined FFA. However, she also wanted to take college preparatory classes.

"At that time, it wasn't typical to allow someone in college preparatory classes to also be involved with FFA," Kepple explained. "You had to make a special case for it. The principal at the time was Art Refosco. I sat down and talked to him and told him how important it was to be able to do both, and he was able to help me to accommodate that in my schedule."

In her senior year, Kepple was both the Oakland FFA chapter president and the student council president. "It was kind of an unusual combination of interests," she noted. "But I thought it was very important. I aspired to go to college, but I also wanted to be in the FFA."

According to Kepple, her involvement with 4-H and FFA was a critical element in helping her to continue her education. She participated in public speaking contests in both organizations.

"With 4-H, I did the prepared public speaking contests, and in FFA I did the extemporaneous public speaking, which I really liked," she explained. "That was where you got a topic that you pulled out of a hat, you had 20 minutes to write a 5-minute speech, and then you had to hurry up and give it, just off the top of your head."

Kepple won the eastern regional extemporaneous public speaking contest for FFA in high school. This opened the door for her to enter the Maryland State Farm Bureau Young Farmers Discussion Meet, which was a panel debate-style contest. Each year topics that related to agriculture or the future of agriculture were selected.

"I learned about the contest because I was the Garrett County Farm Queen in 1984," Kepple explained. "I decided to enter because I was just old enough to do it. You had to be 18, and I was just old enough by a few days to enter the contest when I was a senior in high school."

When Kepple won the contest, which included people who were between 18 and 35 years old, one of the judges was the dean of the College of Agriculture at the University of Maryland.

"He came up afterward and congratulated me and asked me where I was going to college," she said. "I told him I was looking at the University of Maryland and I was also looking at Penn State, and he began to recruit me and offered scholarships. I had limited financial means, and was not going to be able to afford to go to the University of Maryland, but that's where I wanted to go. He helped me get sufficient scholarships so that I could afford to go to Maryland and get my education there."

Kepple earned a bachelor of science degree in agriculture and resource economics, then accepted a job working for the dairy division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Washington, D.C. She eventually decided that, although she loved the job and thought there was a good future in it, she didn't want to live in that area. She began to look for ways that she could move back home and work there, and finally settled on law school. She earned her doctorate of jurisprudence at West Virginia University.

Her practice today concentrates mainly on business organizations, business transactions, real estate, and estate planning.

"One of the things that I really enjoy being able to do is help farm families with business entities, and to help farm families with estate planning, because I uniquely understand their issues, which are often different than those of other business owners," Kepple noted. "When I was going through law school, I really tried to pay attention to those things that would help me devise solutions for the unique issues that face family farms as they try to come up with a succession plan for the business, and it's been a very enjoyable part of my practice."

Another aspect of Kepple's 4-H and FFA experience that helps her in her profession is horse and cattle judging. As part of the judging process, she was required to give oral reasons for her judging placement.

"In other words," she noted, "you had to stand up and tell an adult judge why you placed the class the way that you did. That helped me with analytical thinking and also public speaking, which is not entirely unlike arguing a case in front of a judge today. You have to think about why you're doing what you're doing, and then be able to communicate that effectively to someone."

In addition, Kepple is grateful for her background of growing up on a farm. "It allowed the whole family to spend quality time together," she said. "It allowed my parents to teach me lessons

Guest Editorial...

Future of Farming In Jeopardy

by Terri Rodeheaver

March 20 – 26, 2005, is designated as National Agriculture Week. Most likely this week will pass unnoticed in most American households, perhaps even those associated with a farming enterprise. And sadly, for those involved in some facet of farming, the waning level of awareness, interest, or appreciation of farming as a life's vocation is often times discouraging.

Farming can be discouraging for many reasons. The hours are long. The work is physically demanding. The list of things to do never seems to get any shorter. The number of regulations governing farming operations continues to expand. Expenses grow and revenues fail to keep pace. And if you have to ask why anyone would choose to keep farming, I would suspect you have never farmed.

The answer lies in the generations of history and tradition frequently associated with the traditional family farm – generations of the same family being raised in the same house. Fathers and mothers teaching sons and daughters, generations working side by side, and sacrificing for the common good of the farm and the family; savoring the smell of freshly plowed ground or newly mown hay; and the excitement of the spring's first new calf. These are but a few of the reasons why farmers continue to farm despite the mounting odds.

You don't need to go beyond the borders of our own Garrett County to see what is happening to much of the beautiful farmland. As you read the letters to the editor in this newspaper, you see people voicing their concern about the seemingly unchecked development of the countryside. As our own family travels about, we regularly see new parcels of farmland being swallowed up by development. On more than one occasion I have heard my husband, a fourth generation farmer, comment, "When people are hungry, they shouldn't have to ask why – all they need to do is look around."

Sadly, farming as a vocation is not highly regarded. The average age of the American farmer continues to increase, telling us that young people are not entering or staying in the field. And why is that? My personal thought is that too often some of our "brightest and best" are being discouraged from following their natural interest in farming and related occupations. Young people are sometimes led to believe that "being successful" and "being in agriculture" are mutually exclusive concepts.

Farmers who continue to find success in agriculture do so by being good business people. They look for ways to improve their efficiency, increase their margin, and diversify the product or service that they produce and market. Yet, increasingly, young people interested in agriculturally related careers are often encouraged to "redirect" their interests toward more promising options.

There is success to be found in farming and related enterprises. I have had the privilege to talk with a number of people who have developed agricultural products and services in response to new market demands. They are experiencing success in terms of financial return and personal fulfillment. The success of these individuals is not a result of luck. Their success is a result of planning, research, hard work, and commitment.

My contention, and hope, is that success and farming are by no means mutually exclusive concepts. However, in the absence of support and encouragement by family, educators, and guidance counselors, our "brightest and best" will continue to be diverted away from agriculturally related careers, and the current thinking that there is no future in agriculture will become a self-fulfilling prophecy.

The definition of agriculture is significantly different today than the definition of several years ago. Collectively we need to work toward generating a new sense of enthusiasm for the possibilities that agriculturally related careers have to offer our young people. We need to look openly and honestly at our ag-related curriculum and ask ourselves if it is designed to provide interested youth with what they need to find success. We need to support, encourage, and nourish their interest and challenge their minds. We need to avoid being content with the status quo, and think creatively about creating opportunities that capitalize on the talents, interests, and skills of our "future farmers."

Living amongst us in our own community are numerous individuals who by most anyone's standards would be considered successful. Some are working in agriculturally related careers. Others pursued professions that have little or no direct connection to agriculture today. However, what they all have in common is an early involvement with agriculture that they credit with contributing to their current success. In the next several issues, we hope to introduce you to these individuals, holding them up as examples of the value of nurturing an interest in agricultural ventures.

like responsibility and problem-solving and decision-making and those kinds of things in the context of farm work. They were life lessons that I needed to learn, and that was an excellent way to learn them. It wasn't just my parents lecturing me. It was within the context of taking care of the animals or seeing that the entire family was able to economically survive on the farm by everyone's hard work."

Kepple noted that she still keeps horses as a hobby, and is currently looking for additional farmland in the county. She thinks it's important for people to remember that the field of agriculture is a diverse one.

"There are many ways to get involved in agriculture or use your love of agriculture in your profession," she said. "You don't have to look strictly to traditional forms of agriculture. There are many related professions that allow you to remain involved. I feel that, in part, my law degree has allowed me to continue to help family businesses and family farmers, and it's also given me the financial means to pursue the things that I love from my farming childhood today as a hobby."

4-H Club News

COUNTRY EXPLORERS

by Katelyn Gnegy

The Country Explorers 4-H Club meeting was held on March 12 at Swan Meadow School. We had a program by Zach Fowler on seeing objects under a microscope and washing your hands.

Reports were given on the Livestock Association snow tubing event at the Wisp on March 13. Members who attended were Eric and Greg Tichnell, Nathan and Faith Tichnell, and J.B. and Katelyn Gnegy.

We discussed our trip regarding the Stockman's Contest that was held on March 4 in Hagerstown. Our club had the majority of the children who attended. They were Catlin Carrico, J.B. and Katelyn Gnegy, Aaron and Levi Lantz, Eric and Greg Tichnell, and Nathan and Faith Tichnell.

Katelyn Gnegy placed second for her age group, which was the junior group. Our junior team placed third. The members were Catlin Carrico, Katelyn Gnegy, Ashley Rodeheaver, and Kim Cogley.

Members gave demonstrations on their projects.

Eric Tichnell told the club about his teen leadership project. He showed us how to complete the project on a computer.

Levi Lantz recited his radio spot to us that he had worked on for the county public speaking contest, which was held on March 17 at Garrett College. The radio spot needed to be exactly 30 seconds.

Katelyn Gnegy also recited her public speaking story to the club. She was practicing a prepared speech which could be from four to six minutes for the contest.

The regional public speaking contest will be held on Saturday, April 2, in Hagerstown. Also on that day, our County Achievement Program will be held at Northern High School starting at 6:30 p.m. Each family is to bring a finger food.

J.B. Gnegy told the club how to get their 4-H summary forms off the Internet and how to fill them in.

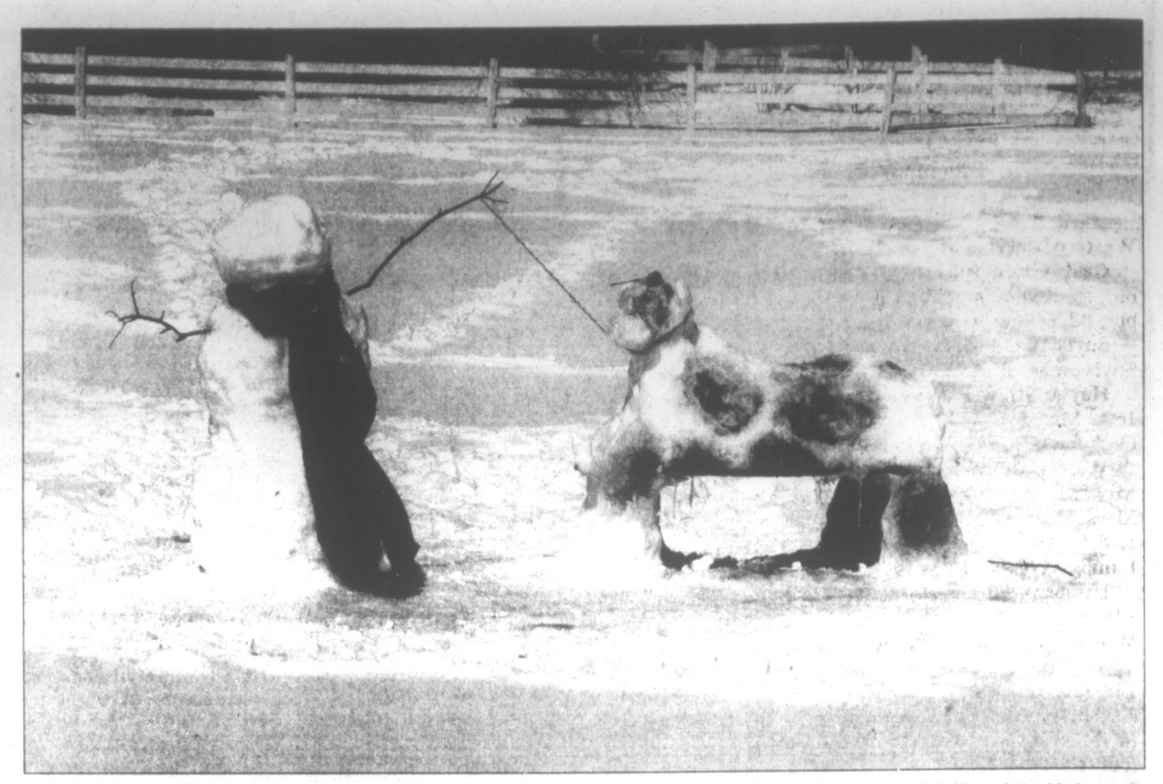
Katelyn Gnegy also showed the club how to get record sheets off the Internet. She told the club how to complete them so members don't have as much to write.

March 18 was the last day you could turn in forms for broiler chicks.

The Ag Conference was held on March 19 at Camp Dawson, Kingwood, W.Va. Youth could take items to sell.

The meat goat conference is March 26 at Garrett College. The time is 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. The cost is $10.

Our next club meeting will be held on April 1 at 6:30 p.m. at Swan Meadow School.



DOWN ON THE SNOWY FARM – Nichole and Charlie Harvey, 16 and 10, Pleasant Valley, had some fun with the March snow recently. They went next door to the home of their grandmother, Winnie Harvey, and built these two snow creatures — a farmer (note the overalls) and his cow (obviously a Holstein). The two "agri-sculptures" have surely melted into lumps in the warmer weather of late. But for several days they stood, overseeing the farm and entertaining passers-by.

Oakland Southern States Co-op Sets Annual Meeting

The annual membership meeting of the Southern States Oakland Cooperative is slated for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, April 7, at the Pleasant Valley Community Center, located south of Oakland at 975 Joni Miller Road. Local board members will be elected, and retiring board members will be recognized. Board nominees include William Grose and Michael Steyer.

With the theme "Route 2005 – Make It Happen," the cooperative's leadership will use the meeting to report on both local and company-wide operations, as well as projected budget results for the fiscal year.

"The 2004 fiscal year no doubt will be viewed as one of the most pivotal in Southern States' history," said CEO Thomas R. Scribner. "This was the year the cooperative returned to profitability. That good news, as well as an outline of where we're going in the months to follow, are topics our members need to hear."

"The annual meeting is the best single opportunity to outline our plans for the future to our membership and discuss our progress in meeting our financial goals," said Tom Hart, manager of Southern States Oakland Cooperative.

Meat Goat Conference

The MPWV Meat Goat Producers Association will sponsor its annual spring meat goat conference on March 26 at the Continuing Education building (Room 205) at Garrett College. We have a good set of speakers lined up for this year's meeting. We will have topics on pasture parasite management, parasite detection and management, livestock guardian animals, goat enterprise management and web site development. Bring photos (digital or paper) that can be used to make your own web site. Pam Adams will be working to help members get info onto the web site. Susan Schoenian, area agent, sheep & goats, Western Maryland Research & Education Center, University of Maryland Cooperative Extension, and Kenneth E. Turner, Ph.D., research animal scientist and lead scientist USDA, ARS Appalachian Farming Systems Research Center, will be the featured speakers. Registration will begin at 9:15 a.m., and the cost for the program is $10, which includes lunch. The MPWV Meat Goat Producers will hold their annual spring meeting starting at 2:30 p.m.

Organic Vegetable Production – How and Where?

Caragh is the Extension educator in ag and natural Resources for Howard County, Maryland, and will present a workshop on Organic Vegetable Production. Caragh will discuss the regulations for becoming a certified organic producer. She will also cover the marketing or organic products and take us step by step through the organic production of a common vegetable crop. Caragh is participating in the 2005 Organic Production Training for Agriculture Professionals, which is sponsored through a Northeast Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education (SARE) Grant.

The workshop will be held March 30 at the Pleasant Valley Community Center starting at 6:30 p.m. There is no cost for the above workshops; however, we ask that you contact the Garrett County Extension Office to register for the workshops. For more information or to register, call 301-334-6960.

USDA ANNOUNCES SIGN-UP FOR CROP ASSISTANCE PROGRAM

The executive director of USDA's Farm Service Agency in Garrett and Allegany counties announced that eligible producers may sign-up for the Crop Disaster Program (CDP), which began March 14, at their local USDA Service Center. The CDP authorizes crop loss assistance for producers who suffered 2003 or 2004 and certain 2005 crop losses from damaging weather.

"We are pleased to be able to provide the benefits to producers as quickly as possible," said Michael Kozier, county ASCS director. "Drought, floods, and hurricanes are unpredictable weather events that put farmers and ranchers at risk in producing a dependable and affordable national food supply."

Eligibility for CDP is similar to that of the 2001-2002 crop disaster program. Producers suffering a greater than 35 percent production loss and/or more than a 20 percent quality loss are eligible. The payment rate for CDP has been increased to 65 percent of the established commodity price for insured crops and noninsured crops, and 60 percent of the price for uninsured commodities. Previous disaster assistance provided payments of 50 percent of the established commodity price for insured and non-insurable crops and 45 percent for uninsured crops.

Producers may apply for CDP for any crops that are eligible for coverage under the Federal Crop Insurance or the Noninsured Assistance Program. This program results from Congressional passage last October of the Military Construction Appropriations and Emergency Hurricane Supplemental Appropriations Act 2005 (the Act).

The payment limit is $80,000 per person for all 2003/2004/2005 CDP payments. The closing date for this sign-up will be announced later.

As part of the CDP implementation process, FSA has prepared a fact sheet that contains information about the disaster assistance programs. For more information on these issues, persons may visit FSA's web site at www.fsa.usda.gov.

USDA HAS MONEY TO LOAN TO ELIGIBLE BORROWERS, APPLY NOW

J. Alan Young IV, farm loan manager for USDA's Farm Service Agency in Allegany and Garrett counties, reminds farmers to apply for their operating or ownership loans today. According to Young, loan funds are available now — applying early is important so that a loan can be processed and funded in a timely manner.

"FSA is committed to providing family farmers with loans to meet their farm credit needs," said Young. "If you are having trouble getting the credit you need for your farm, or regularly borrow from FSA, direct and guaranteed loans are available now."

Young suggested that prospective borrowers ask their lender about an FSA loan guarantee if they have had a setback and their lender is reluctant to extend or renew their loan. He added that most of FSA's loan programs have special funding available for minority, female, and beginning farmers.

"FSA employees will help you complete the necessary application and other forms, and help you understand what information is required, where to find it or whom to contact to get it," said Young.

Effective Oct. 1, 2004, FSA's guaranteed loan limits have increased. Limits include new guaranteed loans plus any outstanding direct or guaranteed principle balances, as indicated, owed by anyone who will sign the promissory note.

The total outstanding:

- combined guaranteed Farm Ownership (FO) and Farm Operating (OL) principle balance cannot exceed $813,000;
- direct and guaranteed FO principle balance cannot exceed $813,000;
- direct and guaranteed OL principle balance cannot exceed $813,000;
- combined outstanding direct and guaranteed FO and OL balance cannot exceed $1,013,000; and
- combined outstanding direct and guaranteed FO, OL and Emergency Loans (EM) balance cannot exceed $1,513,000.

To find out more about FSA loan programs, persons may contact their local FSA Office.

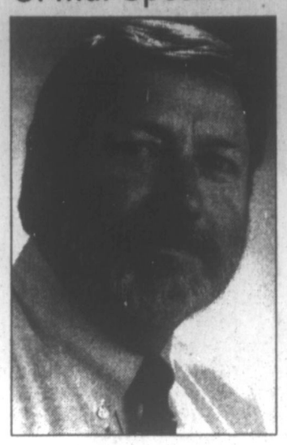
Soil Conservation Dinner To Feature U. Md. Speaker



Dr. Richard A. Weismiller is scheduled to speak at the Garrett Soil Conservation District dinner, set for Wednesday, April 13, at the Bittinger fire hall.

Weismiller is a professor at the University of Maryland at College Park and is chair of the Department of Natural Resources Sciences & Landscape Architecture. He is responsible for the development and presentation of information and educational materials in the area of agricultural soil management, soil and water conservation, ground water, soil survey interpretation, waste disposal, and nonpoint source pollution control and abatement. He conducts research in the area of nonpoint source pollution from agricultural systems as related to surface and ground water resources and in the area of remote sensing relating to soil resources. He also teaches courses in the areas of soil and water pollution and land use.

Prior to coming to Maryland, Weismiller was the program leader for Earth Sciences Research at the Laboratory for Applications of Remote Sensing, Purdue University, West Lafayette, Ind. He is a member of the Soil Science Society of America, American Society of Agronomy, Soil and Water Conservation Society, and the International Soil Science Society.

Weismiller will be speaking on the importance of protecting our soil resources and the use of best management practices to achieve that purpose.

The cost of the dinner is $5 per person, and reservations are required. For reservation forms, persons may call the Garrett Soil Conservation District at 301-334-6951 or 301-895-3822.

New Brochures Being Designed By GC Chamber

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce is preparing several new brochures to be released this spring.

A new pet-friendly brochure is being designed. "This is the first time we are producing this brochure," said Deb Clatterbuck, director of Tourism and Marketing. "We are planning a 12-page, 4x9-inch brochure.

"More than 27 million Americans will travel with their pets this year. It's a high niche market. We are very excited since we are a very pet friendly area."

The Specialty Shopping brochure is being designed for chamber members who offer a variety of items. Amish baked goods, Native American jewelry and pottery, custom made florals and handcrafted pine furnishings, and sporting goods and fishing gear were only a few of the specialty items offered by the 27 businesses who participated in last year's brochure.

Forms are available at the chamber. The cost of participation in the brochure will vary depending on how many businesses are interested. Any chamber member interested should contact Clatterbuck or Connie Margison at the Visitors Center.

The popularity of Deep Creek Lake stems, not only from the surrounding beauty of the county and available activities, but from the entertainment opportunities offered by the lake itself, said Clatterbuck. The "Travel by Boat" brochure is for those people who want to spend as much time as possible on Maryland's largest freshwater lake.

The "Travel by Boat" brochure is for commercial businesses that have docks on the lake and are interested in having people come to their business by boat, said Clatterbuck.

The previous brochure proved very popular with visitors. This brochure will be distributed at more places where visitors have access to boating.

"There are plenty of places to visit by boat," said chamber president Charlie Ross. The brochure lists 35 of them. Restaurants, retail shops, and arcades are among the businesses that can be reached by traveling the lake. Marinas offer a variety of watercraft for visitors to rent.

The new fly-fishing brochure will again include information on fly hatches, a map, and information on the special management areas. This brochure is for businesses that are active in the fly-fishing community.

The Rural Development Coalition that includes farms in both Garrett County and Preston County, W.Va., works with the Chamber of Commerce to produce the "Visit Our Working Farms" brochure.

The farm brochure is at the printers and should be ready shortly. The brochure highlights many area farms that welcome visitors. "Agri-tourism is one way to help farmers stay on the farm," said Clatterbuck.

These brochures will be ready for distribution before the summer season. Persons interested in being included in these types of brochures should contact the chamber at 301-387-4386.

There are always plenty of questions to ask before selling your home, but if you're planning to try to sell on your own, here are the most important questions to start with.

How will you price your home? It takes detailed research and knowledge of market trends to arrive at a fair price. You don't want to cheat yourself out of receiving the full value of your home, but you don't want to overprice and drive away serious buyers who will compare your home's value against similar ones on the market. A Comparative Market Analysis conducted by a professional agent is your best bet for formulating the perfect asking price.

Once you've priced your home, how will you attract those buyers? It takes more than ads, "For Sale By Owner" signs, and open houses to promote your home to the right prospects. The best exposure will come from the Multiple Listing Service, where all realty professionals will find it, and alert their ready-and-waiting throng of buyers. But without representation, you won't have access to it.

Once you've got an offer, will you be able to handle all the paperwork to insure legally binding contracts and a smooth closing? Consider legal documentation, inspection reports, appraisals, bank financing and so much more.

One last question: Doesn't it make sense to let a professional handle your real estate transaction?

If you'd like to sell your home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call today!

Susan Hershman, Charles Strawser Marry In Double-Ring Ceremony

Susan Deborah Hershman and Charles "Pete" Strawser III were united in marriage on Saturday, June 19, 2004. The double-ring ceremony was celebrated at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland, with Rev. Mark Hickman and Rev. Patrick Kerr officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Sue Hershman, Oakland, and Eddie Hershman, Cumberland, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Strawser Jr., Ridgeley, W.Va.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a white strapless A-line satin designer gown. The fitted bodice was adorned with crystal and pearl sequins. The chapel train had a tulle overlay with beaded lace appliqué. The bride wore a pearl and crystal tiara with a three-tier veil accented with crystal teardrops. She wore her maternal grandmother's ring as well as a diamond necklace, a wedding gift from the groom. She carried a cascading bouquet of pale pink and white roses with white bouvardia.

The matron of honor was Josey Redinger, best friend of the bride. The maid of honor was Shannon Hershman, sister of the bride. The bridesmaids were Melissa Clark, Amy Brake, Heather O'Brien, cousins of the bride, and Cathy Tasker, sister-in-law of the bride. Julia Hershman, niece of the bride, was the flower girl.

The bride's' attendants wore French blue halter A-line satin gowns accented with crystal necklaces and earrings given to them by the bride. The attendants all carried pale pink rose bouquets. The flower girl wore a white halter dress accented with crystal and pearl beading with a chapel train.

The best men were David Hammersla and Dan Nelson, friends of the groom. Groomsmen were Shawn Strawser, brother of the groom, and Jason Kubiak, Matt Ernest, and Jerry Twig, friends of the groom. The ushers were Scott and Sean Hershman, brothers of the bride. Alex Hammersla, godson of the groom, was the ring bearer. The groom and groomsmen were attired in Jean Yves black tuxedos featuring black diamond lapels.

Memorial candles in memory of the bride's and groom's grandparents were lighted by Andrea Upole and Jason Hershman, cousins of the bride, and Becky Tyler and Judy Steyer, cousins of the groom, as soloist Mark Franc sang Josh Groban's "To Where You Are." A special reading was given by Betsy Colaw, friend of the bride. The soloist also sang the Lord's Prayer, accompanied by organist Muriel Franc. The trumpeter was Royce Warnick.

The guest book was attended by Kerri Hansen, friend of the bride, and programs were distributed by Amy Rishell, friend of the bride, and Ashley Hershman, cousin of the bride.

The bridal party was escorted to the reception at Wisp at Deep Creek Lake Mountain Resort by Platinum Coach Limousine Services.

The four-tiered wedding cake was baked by Glenda Maust of Bittinger. The cake was adorned with various shades of fresh pink roses. All the flowers for the wedding and reception were provided by Jan Florist, Oakland.

Photographs were taken by Youngblood Studios, Hagerstown, and the videographer was from After 5 Productions, Williamsport. Music was provided by Music Express, Cumberland.

The bride and groom danced their first song to "Forever Love" by Kenny G, performed by the bride's father on saxophone. The bride danced with her father and the groom with his mother to "What a Wonderful World" by Louis Armstrong.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at the Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake, and the bride was the guest of honor at a shower hosted by the bridal party and her aunts at Josey Redinger's house. The bride's co-workers also hosted a shower in Rockville.

The bride and groom honeymooned at Aventura Spa Palace on the Mayan Riviera in Mexico. They now reside with their son Chase in Germantown.

The bride is a graduate of Frostburg State university and is currently employed as an operations coordinator for Enterprise Rent-A-Car. The groom is a graduate of Pittsburgh Technical Institute and is currently employed as an IT manager with A. Morton Thomas and Associates.

Murphys To Observe 25th Anniversary

The family of Robert and Dinah Murphy announce the celebration of the couple's 25th wedding anniversary. Robert "Bob" Dale Murphy Sr. and Dinah "Dee" Jean Bowman were married on March 29, 1980, at the Rosedale Apostolic Church near Oakland by Rev. Ralph Teets.

The couple have two children: Robert Dale Murphy Jr. and spouse Stephanie N. (Wolf) Murphy, and Darina Jean (Murphy) Roy and spouse Terry J. Roy, all of Oakland.

Robert is employed in the family business, Murphy Builders. Dinah is currently employed by THLC Inc. They reside near Oakland.

Robert is the son of Harley A. and Norma J. Murphy of Oakland. Dinah is the daughter of Wilma Armstrong, Eglon, W.Va., and Howard F. Dillsworth, Baltimore.

A celebration for the couple is being planned for this summer.

Marriage Permits Recently Issued

Three couples recently applied for their marriage licenses, according to David Martin, clerk of the Garrett County Circuit Court. One couple requested that their names not be published.

Aaron Douglas Fisher, 25, Grantsville, and Kristi Ann Michael, 22, Meyersdale, Pa.

Darrell Stephen Riffle, 52, Wana, W.Va., and M. Bernardine Sobeck, 47, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Pre-kindergarten Registration Information

Beginning March 1, 2005, and ending May 1, 2005, the Garrett County Board of Education will be accepting applications for its Pre-kindergarten Program. To be eligible for this program a child must have been born between October 1, 2000, and September 1, 2001.

There is a two-step application process:

1. Interested parents must complete and submit the Pre-kindergaten Notification of Interest form. These forms can be obtained from the nearest elementary school or from the Office of Pupil Services at the Board of Education office in Oakland.

2. Upon receipt of the Notification of Interest form, a packet letter, eligibility criteria, and a Pre-kindergarten Program Questionnaire will be sent. This questionnaire will need to be completed and returned as soon as possible to the Office of Pupil Services.

Any questions about this enrollment process should be directed to :

With Sincere Appreciation
From the family of Lucretia A. Stanton
March 24, 1909 - March 7, 2005

We want to express our heartfelt thanks to all of the friends, family and neighbors who so generously helped make our mother's life more enjoyable in her last years.

We also would like to thank all of the wonderful people who sent condolences, cards, flowers, food and those who made memorial contributions in her name. A special thank-you to Garrett County Hospice, Home Health Services, Northern Rescue Squad, Cumberland Memorial Hospital and all those who so kindly volunteered their time. We would like to acknowledge the fine care provided by her primary physicians, Dr. Beitzel, Dr. Bell and Dr. Nawab. Thank you, Pastor Patricia Pittsnogle, for your home ministry which helped keep Mom's faith strong.

We are grateful to all those who share in our sorrow.

1 Credit - 1 Week classes at Garrett College

April 4-7

Linux System Administration (CS 290C): Learn the basic tasks of being a Linux system administrator such as understanding security issues, how to keep the system operational, setup users and file permissions. Participants will learn how to install a network interface, assign IP addresses, how to mount CDs and floppies, and how to monitor system performance and do process management. Students will learn how to install the Apache web server and aspects of internet security. File backup methods will be discussed. There is no text to purchase. The instructor will provide handouts.

Navigating the Information Highway (LS 290A): Learn where to look for the information you need, find the information you need without wasting time looking for it, and effectively evaluate the information you find. These skills will help make you a better student, increase your value to employers, and make you better prepared for lifelong learning.

Personal Finance: Retirement
This course concerns practical guidance in analyzing and making personal financial decisions pertaining to retirement. Students will study budgeting, savings, credit, investment, and other areas directly linked to planning for retirement. The course will provide a strong overview and review of financial matters connected with retirement planning.

Emerging Technology: Digital Camera
This course will familiarize the student in the basic functions of the digital camera with ample time to take pictures of individuals, groups, landscapes and close-ups. It will deal with motion, light, composition, and in-focus pictures, and how to download pictures to the computer. There is no text to purchase. The instructor will provide handouts.

April 18-21

Introduction to AutoCAD
This course offers a brief introductory overview to Computer Aided Drafting (CAD). Basic CAD operations will be discussed, along with terminology and applications. AutoCAD software will be used. This course is designed for those who have little to no knowledge of AutoCAD.

How to Close the Deal Using eBay
In this course, the student will learn how to sell on eBay. With instructor led research we will follow the bidding process to help you determine what products might be worth selling and where to find suppliers. We will learn methods of shipping and that some methods are better than others. The importance of professional quality photographs will be covered as well as how to write a strong eBay listing. The student will learn about payment options that can be offered to your buyers, how to develop a consistent record of positive feedback, provide superior customer service, and how to write an effective thank you note.

It's a great new way for busy people to attend college. Classes run Monday-Thursday from 5:30- 9:00 p.m. for one week. Each General Studies class is worth 1 credit which may be used for general elective credit in most Garrett programs. Visit our website for a complete list and description of all the classes.

3/27/1954 - 3/29/2000

Life without you seems so different there's a void that's as big as the sky.
God sent his angels to take you and still we keep wondering why.

Your life here on earth had such meaning
From the love and kindness you shared,
And everyone who knew you had not a doubt that you cared.

Those of us left behind still remember
How you touched us in your special way.
We miss your sweet smile and your laughter
And we wish you were with us each day.

The pain in our hearts can't be measured.
We sometimes don't know what to do.
That's when we ask God to help us
Make it through life without you.

Sadly missed and loved!!!

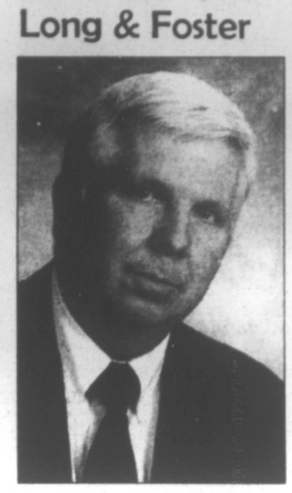
Bob Stuck Joins Long & Foster



Bob Stuck, Swanton, has joined Long & Foster Realtors as a sales associate with the firm's Deep Creek Lake office in McHenry.

Stuck will be specializing in the Garrett County market area, a spokesperson said. In addition to Stuck's membership with the Garrett County Board of Realtors, he has successfully completed an extensive training program including instruction on real estate law, ethics, sales, and contracts, as well as negotiating, finance, and marketing.

Stuck earned a bachelor of science degree in accounting from West Virginia University. He is one of the former owners of Oakview Motors Inc. and has been an active member of the community throughout his career, the spokesperson said. Stuck currently holds a position on the board of directors of First United Bank & Trust and served on the board of directors of Maryland New Car Dealers' Association in Annapolis for five years. He is a member of the Oakland Elks Club and the Grantsville American Legion.

Stuck and his wife Debbie have two children, Chelsea and Lt. J.G. Thomas, who is currently serving in the U.S. Navy Jag in San Diego, Calif.

SWANTON

Audrey and Brenda Friend hosted a belated birthday dinner on Monday March 14, at their home for their aunt Ildra Frantz to celebrate her 90th birthday (March 2). Those attending besides the host and guest of honor were Luella Baker, Amy Sweitzer, Mary June Harvey, Harland and Betty Friend, Helen Friend, Gerald and Phyllis Friend, Sandy Friend, Mike Friend, Mary Rodeheaver, and Melvin and Dotty Beckman.

David and Connie Coleman treated Bob Winters to a pizza party Friday at Dennett Manor Nursing Home where Bob is a resident. Others attending were Mary Keefer, Mary Lewis, Barbara Sweitzer and Helen Winters. Visiting Bob on Saturday were Wayne Weimer and Dave Funkhouser from Keyser, W.Va.

The United Methodist Women, Potomac Highlands District, held their spring meeting Saturday at the First United Methodist Church in Keyser. Those attending from Swanton were Louise Beckman, Helen Friend, Sandy Schofield, and Mary June Harvey.

This Friday (Good Friday) there will be an Easter egg hunt at the Swanton Community Center at noon for all children. It is sponsored by the church.

An Easter sunrise service will be held at Otterbein U.M. Church at 6 a.m. this Sunday, and will be followed by breakfast. The 11 a.m. worship service will feature a cantata. All are welcome.

Linda Fleming and Ross Glotfelty will be united in marriage on Good Friday, March 25, at the home of Linda's parents, Orval and Mareva Teets, in a private family service. Later that same evening they will have an open reception at the Pleasant Valley Community Center from 7 to 9 p.m.

Financing Prog. Workshop Slated

The Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD) Catalyst program will hold a free workshop on available financing programs at the Grantsville Outreach Center on Tuesday, March 29, from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Workshops will also be held in Cumberland on March 30 and in Hagerstown on March 31. Billed as a "Western Maryland Marketing Tour," the three sessions will present information about DHCD programs, including business loans and local government infrastructure financing.

The Grantsville workshop agenda is as follows: breakfast from 8 until 8:30 a.m., presentations from 8:30 until 10 a.m., individual conferences from 10 until noon, and site visits from noon until 2 p.m.

Catalyst is a leadership and training academy. It provides flexible and supportive resources to help community development partners expand "sustainable and dynamic neighborhoods."

The Outreach Center is located along Hershberger Lane. For more information and to register, persons may call Crystal Davenport or Edna Gross at 410-514-7236.

For more information about Catalyst, persons may call 410-209-5800 or visit mdhousing.org/catalyst.

STUDENTS LEARN DOG SKILLS – Husky Power Dogsledding hosted students and teachers from a local after-school program for a complimentary dogsledding experience at Mountain Maryland Kennels LLC recently. Linda and Mike Herdering instructed students from three different area schools on the thrill and history of dogsledding. They demonstrated mushing methods and equipment used in the sport and regaled them with dogsledding poems, stories, and lore. "Everyone enjoyed spending time inside the kennel where they got to pet and hug each sleddog while the dogs eagerly sat on their own wooden house at Husky Power Dogsledding," said Linda. This week, students from other area after-school programs will also receive a similar demonstration.

Lifestyles Expo For The Mature Adult Canceled

Garrett County Community Action's Area Agency on Aging announced yesterday that its Lifestyles Expo for the Mature Adult has been canceled because of the low response from vendors. The event had been scheduled for May 13 at the Wisp in McHenry.

"We will be holding another event on May 25 to celebrate National Senior Health and Fitness Day," said an agency spokesperson. It will be held at the Flowery Vale Health and Fitness Center in Accident.

The event will include health screenings, entertainment, exercise demonstrations, and speakers. More information about the Senior Health and Fitness Day will be announced in the next few weeks.

Youth Rally Set At Loch Lynn Church Of God

The Loch Lynn Church of God will host a Youth Rally on Friday, April 1, at 7 p.m., with Rev. Bill Snyder of Springfield, Mo.

Rev. Snyder has ministered in several capacities with the Assemblies of God over the past 20 years, a spokesperson said. He has helped to establish churches in Kansas and Florida, and has served as the campus minister at Oklahoma State University and as the regional Chi Alpha director.

Currently, the reverend serves on the national level for the Chi Alpha Ministries as a campus pastor recruiter. He and his wife Wendy reside in Springfield with their two children, Clinton and Elizabeth.

The public is invited to attend. For more information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-3221.

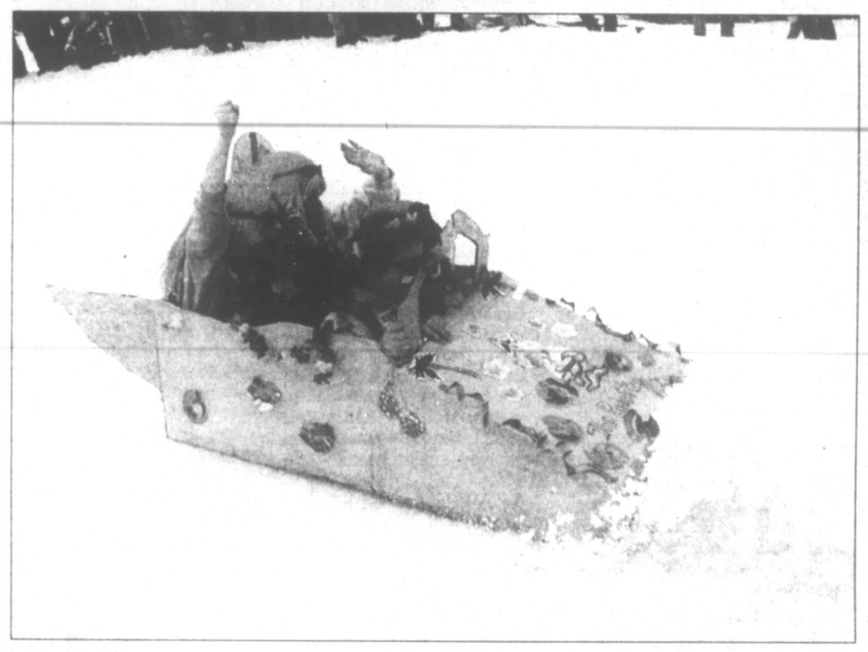
Winners Named In Cardboard Box Derby Race

Thirty-six entries carried more than 90 riders down the slopes of Wisp's Bear Claw Tubing Park this past weekend for the third annual Cardboard Box Derby. More than 400 spectators turned out for the race where derby entries were created using only cardboard, string, and tape.

Creations were judged for design creativity, speed, and the ability to stay intact for the race down the tubing park. This year's theme was Beachin' Weekend at Wisp.

The race is sponsored by the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club, coordinated by Ed King. Jonny Rock provided the music and entertainment. Proceeds benefit the Lions Club charitable activities primarily associated with vision and in particular the club's Blind Skiers Program, which is held each winter at Wisp.

THIS SHOE WAS MADE FOR SLEDDING – Pictured above is the winning sled in the company design category – The Old Woman in the Shoe by Deep Creek Lake Design Studio – at the annual Deep Creek Lake Lions Club's Cardboard Box Derby at the Wisp this past weekend. Members of this team were Brian Boyd, Cheryl Lough, Andrew Weimer, Nina Bounds (dressed as the old woman), Jean Remmy, Doug Storck, and Joby Tasker. Below are the Pinkettes dressed in full Hawaiian attire including bright pink wigs. In the sled are Emily Kotroco, Alexandra Holt, and Abigail and Gracie Digate. The Pinkettes traveled from Finksburg to participate in this highly attended race. Photos courtesy of www.iplayoutside.com. See story.



Entries of all sizes and shapes included "the Old Lady Who Lived in a Shoe," a black bear, a tank, a penguin, and the "HMS Shipwreck."

For individual design the winners were Mark Arnold, Cat Man Do, first place; Zak Brosnihan, truck, second place; and Kevin Benner, tractor, third place. In the company design category, the winners were Deep Creek Design Studio, The Old Lady Who Lived in a Shoe, first place; Long & Foster, Garrett County black bear, second place; and Lohr Distributors/ ProAuto, jet airplane, third place.

Placing first for individual speed was Trevor Green in his Yellow Bullet. Placing second was Zak Brosnihan and third was Tom Smith's sled. For company speed, Wisp Ski and Ride took first place with its Big Box. Placing second was Long and Foster, and third was Mountaineer Log and Siding's log home.

The traveling corporate trophy was awarded for the second straight year to Wisp Ski and Ride.

"The Lions Club wishes to thank Wisp for providing the facilities for the derby event, and also to thank each and every participate and spectator for sharing in the fun," said King.

LL Church Of God Choir To Give Cantata

The Loch Lynn Church of God choir will present an Easter cantata titled "The Victor" on Friday, March 25, at 7 p.m., and on Sunday, March 27, at 6 p.m.

The public is invited to attend. The church is located along First Avenue in Loch Lynn. For more information, persons may contact the church office at 301-334-3221.

Town Hall

LOCH LYNN HEIGHTS

•Voter registration will be held on Monday, A[illegible]4, at the town hall from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Persons who are registered in the county and have voted in the last five years do not need to register in the town. Those registered in the town only and who have voted in the past five year do not need to register.

•Dave Cotton, regional planner with the Maryland Department of Planning, met with the planning commission, zoning board of appeals, and the council on March 14 to being revisions of the Town Comprehensive Plan. The next meeting of this group will be April 18 at 7 p.m. at the town hall.

The next regularly scheduled council meeting is April 5.

Rabies: Vaccines Lower Risk in Humans

Rabies in the United States hides in darkness, literally. Mandatory vaccination of domestic dogs and cats has pushed rabies into other animals. Bats, raccoons, foxes, and skunks are considered predominately the main carriers from coast to coast. Danger still exists from dogs and cats especially if they live outside the home or they have never seen a veterinarian. Bats are easily the most forgotten when it comes to the public recognizing a potential rabies exposure. A bat in the home is more likely to be rabid as bats tend to lose the ability to fly. Bat bites are small and relatively painless, usually appearing as two pin pricks near one another.

Rabies vaccine for use in humans is available before exposure and after exposure. Veterinary workers, animal control, and others need to be vaccinated due to their frequent risk. Anyone traveling outside the US might require a series of 3 vaccine injections and should consult the CDC's Yellow Book for information. Without proper vaccination, exposure to rabies involves at least 5 injections over 28 days plus a human blood product called HRIG. Getting vaccinated prior to getting bitten by a rabid animal simplifies therapy tremendously. Instead of 5 injections and HRIG, the treatment is a simple 2 doses of vaccine 3 days apart.

- BORN AGAIN -

If you were to ask your friends how to get to Heaven, you would probably receive as many answers as the number of friends you have. Someone would probably suggest that you should keep the Golden Rule; someone else might say that you need to live up to the Ten Commandments; others might advise that you should pray, or give to the church and the poor, or that you should "just do the best you can."

But when you are dealing with something as important as eternal life and Heaven, you need more than just the opinions of friends. You need the truth!

When we look into the Bible we read, "Jesus said, Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God... Ye must be born again" (John 3:3,7). "Born again?" That may sound strange to you. What does it mean? To explain this, let's look at what the Bible has to say.

God's Word, in the first place, is very realistic. It teaches that no one can gain entrance into Heaven by good works or even a religious practices. The Bible reveals our true condition: "There are none righteous, no, not one... For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God" (Romans 3:10,23). Our personal experience also teaches us that we all have broken God's laws and have not even "done the best we can do."

The biblical diagnosis of our condition is clear. We, by nature, are described as being "dead in trespasses and sins;" "alienated from the life of God;" as "having not life" (Ephesians 2:1; 4:18). Just as a body without physical life is dead, so any person separated from the life of God is described in the Bible as spiritually dead.

Separated from God, dead in our trespasses and sins, we cannot hope to enter Heaven. We need new lives, cleansed from sin and its penalty. We need to be restored to fellowship with God. We must be born into a new life - we must be born again.

Jesus Christ came to bring us this new life. He said, "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly" (John 10:10). Receiving the life that Jesus can give us is what being born again is all about.

When we think about God's love for us, it is really more than we can comprehend. God sent His Son Jesus Christ from the glories of Heaven to enter the human race and pay the penalty for our sins. This is the extent of God's love for us! "God commendeth His love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." (Romans 5:8).

On the cross of Calvary, Jesus willingly bore all our sins and suffered the full force of God's righteous judgment. By His death Jesus provided for our salvation. By His resurrection from the dead, Jesus broke the power of death.

Today the risen Lord Jesus offers new life to all who will receive Him as Savior. He promises, "He that heareth My word and believeth on Him that sent Me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation, but is passed from death unto life" (John 5:24).

If you will respond to the Son of God by receiving Him as your Savior, you can have everlasting life right now. On the basis of God's Word you can have assurance that Jesus Christ has totally suffered the penalty of sin for you. And you can be born again into the family of God, knowing that one day you will live forever with your Lord in Heaven.

"And this is the record, that God has given to us eternal life, and this life is in His Son. He that hath the Son hath life; and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life" (1 John 5:11-12).

HAVE YOU BEEN BORN AGAIN?

You can experience God's "new birth" - no matter who you are or how much you have sinned. You can begin your own life-changing relationship with Jesus Christ. You might pray something like this:

"Dear Lord Jesus, I realize that I am lost in my sins. I truely believe that You sent Your Son to die on the cross and rise again for me - to pay the penalty for my sin. Please forgive me. Come into my life and save me from sin and Hell by your grace. In Jesus' name, Amen.

If you sincerely prayed this prayer, please contact us so we can send you some helpful literature.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

One thing that is different about artists or writers from the rest of the people is that they wear their hearts on their sleeve. This Palm Sunday made that truth very clear to me because my emotions were at the full boiling point. Just leaving the house before my girls were up caused pain, but all parents of teenagers don't want to get up before they must. In Bittinger on Sunday morning they had just enough time before 10 o'clock to get ready to go to church at Emmanuel. However, I felt it my duty to join our sister congregation at St. John's, Meadow Mountain to celebrate both Palm Sunday and the 100th birthday of my neighbor and teacher, Ida Reckner.

She always seemed to be another grandmother since she lived so close to my home, and so often I saw her busily tending her garden while I was riding. Plus she was really grandma to a couple girls whom I grew up with, those being Charee Reckner and Linda Glotfelty. How many times I visited her house to look at the collection of rare animals in a room truly filled with hard work and love. There is a bobcat, a fawn touching its nose to a beautiful bear cub's nose, a terrific, huge, stuffed rattlesnake, and a lamb with five legs. It is like a real museum right in our own neighborhood. No visit to it would be complete without a snack of Ida's delicious homemade cookies and milk. I guess she was a cousin of my grandmother, possibly as they shared the same maiden name of Brenneman.

At the church service the congregation was great, and classical music was provided by some very talented descendents of Ida. The loose offering was given to World Hunger in honor of Ida. The quartet also performed "Amazing Grace," which was just beautiful.

It was perfect weather in Bittinger on the first day of spring. We had some snow mixed with a little rain. It is remarkable that I was awakened the next day by bird songs. But I shouldn't be surprised because when I was outside at the fire hall during the afternoon celebration of Ida's birthday I heard a big flock of swallows on the Beitzel farm next door. We still have plenty of snow on the ground, so we have to wait a while for our crocus and daffodils to poke their heads out of our frozen ground.

It is sad to say that our college kids go back to their schools from spring break. It is probably a good thing that West Virginia University was on break last weekend, as they were victorious in their first round of NCAA tournament, and the students weren't there to burn the town down. It seems a strange way to celebrate, but it is an old tradition at WVU. Personally, I would advise throwing rolls of toilet paper in trees.

But it is a great way to come back to school excited from their first meeting in tournament play. I imagine the first of classes will be filled with excitement. But, alas, their road to the final four is filled with heavyweight teams.

It must be hard on Sally and Lenny Poholsky that Torrey couldn't come home on break, as he had to stay on campus fulfilling his duty to the baseball team. However, Lenny and Sally did travel down to Greensboro College in North Carolina to see Torrey's team play against Shenandoah College from Winchester, Va. Greensboro won one of two games over Shenandoah, but Greensboro is still #1 in the Southern Conference.

Cindy and Sam Stanton were treated by a visit over the weekend by Lea and Michael Pochet, who were on the way back to Ohio from a wedding in Baltimore.

I misidentified the tall, dark, handsome man who escorted Ferne Beachy into the fire hall Sunday afternoon. He was her son, Dave Beachy, who is my newest neighbor. There were so many friends and family attending that my novice driver, Caitlin, had to back between dozens of cars with only a narrow gap between them, but she did a wonderful job.

The big hit for my girls at the reception was a display of school pictures of many of the hundreds of kids that Ida taught over the years. A lot of them I couldn't recognize. But I rapidly found my own picture, and Rodney's and Cindy's pictures. Even my own class seemed to me a collection of goofy faces with crewcuts for boys and pixie cuts for the girls. I didn't remember Doris Opel's hair in long braids, but I believe I recognized her picture beside Vicki Teets.

I am full of regret that I did not mention the afternoon reception in this column last week so more of her former students could attend it. They could send a card to her if they missed it. I am sure she would get it if they address the card to 208 Peat Moss Road, Accident, MD 21520. Among the out-of-town family members were Gary Reckner and family from Florida and Tom Glotfelty from Michigan. The family dinner on Saturday evening at the fire hall had 68 guests and family. I could not get a list of all attending, but I got the information that Ida has seven grandchildren, 20 great-grandchildren, and four great-great-granddaughters.

Winter has not quite called it a day yet, as this Monday had light snow showers mixed with a little rain.

Last week I completed a snowscape titled "The Ides of March" when we still had full snow cover on the ground. If I had done the painting today of the scene in the Bittinger area it would have been called "Mud Town."

I drove myself half mad trying to remember the author of Far From the Madding Crowd. It is one Victorian novel first presenting a feminist point of view. I can remember the appearance and name of the professor of the class in which I studied it. I recently saw a film version at 4 a.m., and for three hours I tried to remember that one detail on the body of knowledge that I spent half of my life accumulating. It is a very strange thing, memory. I can remember many unimportant dates from my life, but people disappeared from my life long ago. Think how many bits of information Ida's mind has in it. Even high tech computers could not produce so much detail, at least not the emotions connected to information. I have a feeling Ida would know the name of that Victorian author.

Two local fine male residents passed away last week – Roger Yommer of Jennings and Jimmy Frantz, father of my old friends Sherry and Pam. Anyone my age with a parent still living is lucky. How lucky Charee Reckner and Linda Oester are to have a living grandmother.

Sheila Southerly spotted an article in the Dominion Post of Morgantown about a young boy in West Virginia who proposed a law that would make it a crime to kill an albino deer. Why not have a law against more harmful action! It hurts everyone to destroy something so rare and beautiful as a white stag. Still no one has spotted Bittinger's white stag. I always scan the area he used to hang out in, but no luck as yet.

Carol, Kevin, Scott, and Emma Bass, Ruth DiPaolo, and Sheila and Bill Southerly attended the Husky Hoops Awards Banquet at Red Run Inn on Sunday evening. Matthew Bass was a member of the varsity team and Tyler Southerly was a member of the JV roster. Our two boys were winners on each of their teams of the Coaches' Award. This is the third year that Matthew has won the award. Landon Southerly was the winner of this award two years ago. Many members of the teams were Minds in Motion winners, which means that they had an 87.5% GPA or higher during their sports season. This year's Husky team was ranked sixth in the area and was the champion free-throw team.

MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT
WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION
NOTICE OF TENTATIVE DETERMINATION

Garrett County

Application for State Discharge Permit 03-DP-0493, NPDES Permit MD0000027:

Clayburn Inc., 16306 Bittinger Road, Grantsville, MD 21536 submitted an application for renewal of a permit to discharge an average of 15,000 gallons per day of noncontact cooling water (2 days per year) and 400 gallons per day of strainer flushing water (weekly) and variable volumes of storm water from New Savage Works, a clay refractory, located at 16306 Bittinger Road, Grantsville, MD, to the South Branch Casselman River, Use-III waters.

The Department proposes to reissue the permit with the following discharge limitations: total suspended solids (30 mg/l monthly average and 45 mg/l daily maximum), temperature (68°F, maximum), dissolved oxygen (5.0 mg/l minimum), and a pH range of 6.0 to 9.0.

A public hearing on the tentative determination will be scheduled if a written request is received by April 6, 2005. The request should be sent to the Maryland Department of the Environment, Water Management Administration, 1800 Washington Blvd., Baltimore, Maryland 21230-1708 Attn.: Edwal Stone, and must include the name, address and telephone number (home and work) of the person making the request, the name of any other party whom the person making the request may represent, and the name of the facility and permit number. Failure to request a hearing by April 6, 2005 will constitute a waiver of the right to a public hearing on the tentative determination. Written comments concerning the tentative determination will be considered in the preparation of a final determination if submitted to the Department, to the attention of Mr. Stone at the above address, on or before April 18, 2005. Any hearing-impaired person who requests a hearing may also request an interpreter at the hearing by contacting Mr. Stone at 410-537-3323 or 1-800-633-6101 by written request to the above address at least ten working days prior to the scheduled hearing date.

Information supporting the tentative determination, including the draft permit and fact sheet, may be reviewed by contacting Mr. Stone at the above telephone number to make an appointment or by written request to Mr. Stone at the above address. Subject to all covenants, restrictions and easements of record, if any. (NOTE WELL: For administrative convenience, several sales have been scheduled for this specific time and date. Prior to commencement of the sales, an announcement will be made as to the order of sale. Additional information is available at www.first-legal.com).

TERMS OF SALE: A cash or cash equivalent deposit of $6,000.00 will be required at the time of sale, the balance to be payable in cash within ten (10) business days after ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, with interest on said balance from the date of sale to date of receipt of funds by the Substitute Trustees at the rate of 10.00% per annum. Failure of the purchaser to settle may result in resale of the property at purchaser's risk and cost, and forfeiture of deposit, at the election of the Substitute Trustees, who specifically preserve all legal and equitable remedies available to them. There shall be no abatement of interest allowed for any reason. In the event of a resale, the defaulting purchaser shall not receive any benefit, profit or proceeds therefrom. The Substitute Trustees reserve the right to waive the deposit requirements if the noteholder is the purchaser. Sale us "AS-IS" and Substitute Trustees make no warranty of any kind whatsoever regarding the physical condition, physical description, or title to the property. All due and/or unpaid water and sewer facilities charges and front foot benefit payments are payable by the purchaser without adjustment. Taxes, rents, and any other annually payable public charges and assessments, including any condominium fees and/or homeowner's association dues, if applicable, will be adjusted to the day of sale and thereafter assumed by the Purchaser. All costs of conveyancing, including transfer taxes and recordation taxes, will be paid by the Purchaser. The Purchaser will pay a review fee of $250 at settlement to counsel for the Substitute Trustees. The Purchaser shall have the responsibility of obtaining possession of the property. The Purchaser's sole remedy in the event the Substitute Trustees are unable to convey marketable title is the return of the deposit. Upon return of the deposit, the sale shall be null and void. In the event the borrower entered into a repayment plan, reinstated or paid the loan off prior to the sale, or if for any other reason, the Substitute Trustees did not have the right to sell, the sale is null and void and the Purchaser is not entitled to any legal or equitable remedy other than return of the deposit without interest. Other terms and conditions may be announced at the sale.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Mtn. Lake Park Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing on March 30, 2005, at 6:00 p.m. in the Mtn. Lake Park Town Hall. The Board will review an application made a Mr. David Stull on behalf of Mighty Auto Parts (Docket 2005-VR-1) for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the rear yard setback requirements for the expansion of the warehouse on the Mighty Auto Parts property located at 515 D Street in a C-Commercial zone. Specifically, Mr. Stull proposes to build an addition to the existing warehouse that would extend to within 11 feet of the rear property line instead of the required 20 feet. Interested citizens are welcome to attend.

By Order of the Board of Zoning Appeals

MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION NOTICE OF TENTATIVE DETERMINATION

Garrett County

Application for State Discharge Permit 04-DP-3490, NPDES Permit MD0069418:

Garrett County Department of Public Utilities, 2008 Maryland Highway, Mtn. Lake Park, Maryland 21550, applied for a new permit to discharge an average of 50,000 gallons per day of treated domestic wastewater from the Keyser's Ridge Wastewater Treatment Plant (WWTP). The proposed WWTP will be located in the vicinity of National Pike (Alternate US Route 40) and US Route 219 intersection, Grantsville, Garrett County, Maryland 21536, and it will discharge to Puzzley Run downstream of Lake Louise just north of the National Pike (Alternate US Route 40) which is designated Use I waters protected for water contact recreation and aquatic life.

The Department proposes to issue a new discharge permit with the following effluent limitations for future Outfall 001: BOD_5, 10 mg/l maximum monthly arithmetic mean, 15 mg/l maximum weekly arithmetic mean; total suspended solids, 10 mg/l maximum monthly arithmetic mean, 15 mg/l maximum weekly arithmetic mean; ammonia nitrogen - N, 1.5 mg/l maximum monthly arithmetic mean; E. coli, 126/100 ml maximum monthly geometric mean value; total residual chlorine, 0.013 mg/l maximum when chlorine or chlorine compounds are used in any treatment process. Regular effluent monitoring and reporting are required including whole effluent toxicity testing and priority pollutant scans. The effluent limits reflect water quality based requirements necessary for compliance with both the Maryland and Pennsylvania water quality standards.

A public hearing on the tentative determination will be scheduled if a written request is received by April 6, 2005. The request should be sent to the Maryland Department of the Environment, Water Management Administration, 1800 Washington Blvd., Baltimore, Maryland 21230-1708, Attn.: Stephen Luckman, and must include the name, address, and telephone number (home and work) of the person making the request, the name of any other party whom the person making the request may represent, and the name of the facility and permit number. Failure to request a hearing by April 18, 2005 will constitute a waiver of the right to a public hearing on the tentative determination. Written comments concerning the tentative determination will be considered in the preparation of a final determination if submitted to the Department, to the attention of Mr. Luckman at the above address, on or before April 18, 2005. Any hearing-impaired person who requests a hearing may also request an interpreter at the hearing by contacting Mr. Luckman at 410-537-3671 or 1-800-633-6101 by written request to the above address at least ten working days prior to the scheduled hearing date.

Information supporting the tentative determination, including the draft permit and fact sheet, may be reviewed by contacting Mr. Luckman at the above telephone number to make an appointment or by written request to Mr. Luckman at the above address. Copies of documents may be obtained at a cost of $0.32 per page.

INVITATION TO BID
INTERIM UPGRADES TO THE BFS WASTEWATER TREATMENT PLANT

The Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland, will accept sealed bids for furnishing all labor, equipment, and materials to construct an interim upgrade to the existing Bruceton Farm Service Wastewater Treatment Plant, which is located at Keyser's Ridge, Maryland. Plans and specifications were prepared by Thrasher Engineering. The project basically will modify the existing flow equalization tank, new flow meter, new composite sampler, new PolyAluminum Chloride (PAC) feed system, and new ultraviolet disinfection unit and other incidentals to allow the 14,000 gallon per day plant to function until a new plant can be constructed at the Keyser's Ridge Industrial Park. The contractor will be required to complete the construction of the project within ninety (90) calendar days after issuance of the Notice to Proceed. A bid bond or certified check in the amount of 5% of the total bid amount shall be submitted with each bid. A performance/payment bond in the full bid amount will be required of the successful contractor.

A Pre-Bid Meeting will be held at 10:00 a.m. on Wednesday, March 30, 2005, in the Commissioners' Public Meeting Room located at 203 South Fourth Street, Room 209, in Oakland, Maryland.

Bid documents and specifications may be obtained in person from the Procurement Office of the Garrett County Department of Financial Services, 313 East Alder Street, Room 105, Oakland, Maryland 21550. The cost of the bid specifications and drawings is $50.00 per set and is nonrefundable. All out of town contractors must pre-pay for shipping and the cost of the plans. Inquiries may be made by calling 301-334-5003.

Sealed bids must be submitted to the Procurement Office of the Garrett County Department of Financial Services, Courthouse Room 105, 313 East Alder Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550, on or before Thursday, April 14 2005, at 1:30 p.m. (local time). Sealed bids will be publicly opened and read aloud in the Commissioners' Meeting Room at 2:00 p.m. on April 14, 2005. All bidders are required to submit three (3) copies of their bid documents at the time of submission. All bids submitted should be enclosed in a sealed envelope and should be clearly marked "Bruceton Farm Service Wastewater Treatment Plant Interim Upgrades Bid" on the outside of the envelope. Any bids received after the time due will not be considered for award and shall be retained as documentation for the bid file.

The Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland, reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids, to cancel this invitation to bid and to waive technicalities in any part deemed to be in the best interest of Garrett County.

POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT

JOB TITLE: Marketing Specialist
Garrett Co. Department of Economic Development

DEFINITION
Marketing Specialist duties entail developing, organizing, and implementing marketing programs to encourage business and industry relocation, retention and/or expansion.

EXAMPLES OF WORK
Identify, develop, and implement short- and long-range marketing plans for recruitment and retention of companies to the County. Develop advertising and promotional programs, including associated marketing collaterals, trade shows, and special events. Assist in business prospect generation and client contact. Develop and publish the Department's annual/quarterly reports. Interview and participate in the Department's business retention program through company visits, interviews, and appropriate follow-ups to address identified business needs.

QUALIFICATIONS
Knowledge of principles, procedures, and strategies of economic and community development and analysis in government environment, planning and zoning, demographics, economic trends, forecasts and impacts, and related principles and practices. Knowledge of marketing and research methods, principles, and procedures. The ability to work with the public in person and by telephone. Excellent communication, interpersonal, and grammar skills. Develop and implement short- and long-term target economic development and marketing strategies and plans. Work independently with, and establish and maintain effective working relationships with a wide variety of business, industry, elected officials, and the general public. Prepare oral, written, and graphic reports, brochures and pamphlets, maps, speeches, correspondence, and other marketing and economic development documentation. Define problems, collect data, establish facts, and draw valid conclusions.

EDUCATION
Bachelor's degree in Business Administration, Public Administration, Economics, Marketing, or related field. Five years of marketing experience, preferably in an economic development or service-related environment.

SALARY AND BENEFITS INCLUDED
A competitive salary and traditional County employee benefit package is included.

APPLICATION PROCESS
A Garrett County Government application, along with a letter of interest, resumé, and salary history is required. Qualified individuals may apply by forwarding all required documentation to: Garrett County Government, Office of Human Resources, 203 South Fourth Street, Room 206, Oakland, MD 21550. WATER, WATER EVERYWHERE — Heavy rains arrived in Garrett County Sunday and continued through Monday night, dropping upwards of two inches in the northern part of the county. The southern half of the county received something less than one inch, but creeks and rivers were swollen there as well. This artistic photo was taken in the Grantsville area on Tuesday by Lisa Broadwater, manager of The Republican newspaper office in Grantsville. Water levels are approaching normal as of today, but more rain has been forecast for today through Saturday.

Staff Reports Heard By GC Commissioners

The Garrett County commissioners held a staff meeting this week, hearing reports from 13 county department heads and agencies. The main topics discussed were proposed legislation in the Maryland General Assembly and state funding.

Western Md. Consortium

Director Jon Wynn, Western Maryland Consortium, reported that the state of Maryland would probably cut job program funding. He anticipates that his youth program budget will be reduced by a little less than 3 percent, the adult program by 5 percent, and the one for dislocated workers by 3 percent.

He also told the commissioners that seven adults recently earned their GEDs, the highest number at one time at his office since 1999, when the Workforce Investment Act was enacted. He noted that the increase may be because of more interest in upgrading skills and getting better jobs.

Garrett College

Dr. Steve Herman, president of Garrett College, thanked the commissioners for testifying with him on behalf of HB 1487/SB 925 in Annapolis last week. The proposed legislation would create a state debt in the amount of $845,000 for the design of the Garrett College Athletic and Community Recreation Center, to be located on Marsh Mountain in McHenry.

The House Appropriations and Senate Budget and Taxation committees heard the testimony last Monday morning and will now decide whether or not to allow the legislation to proceed further in the General Assembly.

"We'll see what happens in the next couple weeks," Herman said

Health Department

Two local high school students also testified in Annapolis last week, health officer Rodney Glotfelty told the commissioners. Northern High School senior Shaina Custer, Southern High School freshman Stephanie Lee, and Garrett County Health Department staff members Kendra Todd and Mike Wilburn asked the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee to approve SB 791.

FAST ASLEEP (but not for long), this female black bear and her cubs were counted by wildlife specialists with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources after they were located in their den during a special mission flown by the Maryland Wing of the Civil Air Patrol. Appeal Denied In Electrocution Death On DCL

The Maryland Public Service Commission has denied an appeal of a ruling that cleared Allegheny Energy in the electrocution death of a sail boater on Deep Creek Lake nearly five years ago.

The commission found that because a low-hanging power line near a floating dock was installed in 1939, long before a standard was adopted that more than doubled the minimum height requirement in effect when the line was constructed. The line was "in compliance with the grandfathering provisions" of the safety code, according to the commission's ruling.

Allegany Energy has increased the height of its lines to meet the standard since the July 2001 accident that resulted in the death of 47-year-old Brian Hatfield of Jamestown, N.Y., who was electrocuted when the mast of a boat he was sailing in made contact with a live wire hanging above a docking area. When the sailboat's aluminum mast touched the line, the craft caught fire and the surrounding water was electrified. Hatfield was killed when he jumped into the water, while two other passengers on the boat sustained injuries.

The top of the mast was about 28 feet, 2 inches above the water, and the line 26 feet, 3 inches above the dock, investigators found. The National Electrical Safety Code requires at

CAP Takes To Air To Help DNR Find Sleeping Bears

by 1st Lt. Steven Solomon
Md. CAP Public Affairs

The Maryland Wing of the Civil Air Patrol (CAP) recently flew a mission to locate two bears that were hibernating in the forests of Garrett County. Fitted with radio transmitters, the bears are just two of several that the Maryland Department of Natural Resources monitors as part of its black bear management program.

On assignment for the DNR, Lt. Col. Robert L. Ayres of Frederick searched an area near Oakland located approximately 17 miles southeast of Garrett County Airport, as well as an area approximately 8 miles northwest of the airport.

Ayres and Terry DeWitt, a land management technician with the DNR, flew various search patterns using radio detection equipment specially mounted for the mission on the CAP Cessna 182 aircraft. The male bear was located relatively quickly by the aircrew, but locating the female bear was more of a challenge due to the weak signal being emitted by the radio collar the sow was wearing.

"The sow has since been located on the ground and had a den-check performed," DeWitt said. "CAP's involvement in this mission was invaluable."

"We had good visibilities and ceilings in the search area, but due to relatively high winds there was light to occasionally moderate turbulence with up and down drafts," Ayres added.

The black bear is the only bear in Maryland and is the largest land mammal in the state, according to the DNR. Adult female bears reach sizes of 150 to 300 pounds and adult males attain weights in excess of 400 pounds. While Maryland has a resident bear population in Garrett, Allegany, Washington, and Frederick counties, Maryland's best bear habitat is in Garrett County.

"I'm delighted that we were able to be of assistance to DNR and that the mission was a resounding success," said Col. Kay Joslin Walling of Easton, the Maryland Wing commander. "In addition to assisting the DNR with this important project, our volunteers also perform natural disaster, missing persons, and missing aircraft missions at the request of federal, state and local agencies," she added.

CAP, the official U.S. Air Force Auxiliary, is a nonprofit organization with more than 60,000 members nationwide. Its volunteers perform 95 percent of continental U.S. inland search and rescue missions as well as homeland security, disaster relief and counter-drug missions. The members take a leading role in aerospace education and serve as mentors to the almost 25,000 young people currently participating in CAP cadet programs. Cadets in CAP participate in a structured program through group and individual activities that include aerospace education, physical training, leadership, and moral and ethical values. The program encompasses 16 achievement levels that include study in these four areas.

There are approximately 1,280 members of CAP in Maryland. During the last fiscal year, wing members flew 31 search and rescue missions as assigned by the Air Force Rescue Coordination Center at Langley Air Force Base in Virginia, and was credited with 19 finds.

For further information on the Maryland Wing of the Civil Air Patrol, persons may visit the organization's web site at www.md-cap.org.

Sliver Of Vietnam Odyssey Visible In Photographs Of Bittinger Marine

"Corpsman: Usually a young, long-haired, bearded marine-hatin' sailor with certain medical skills, who will go through the very gates of hell to get to a wounded Marine."
–USMC Maj. Gene Duncan

by David Foster

"Corpsman up! Corpsman up!" Those words, yelled by Marines over the din of battle, in the heat of combat, have brought forth instant responses of courage and caring from U.S. Navy-trained emergency combat medics across the years. While feuding between Marines and sailors ("jarheads and squids) is stuff of legend, the loving side of the love-hate relationship is nowhere better seen than in the way a corpsman tends to a wounded "grunt."

Marine Corps veteran and local resident Bill Schrider, who resides in the Bittinger area with his wife Jean, witnessed countless examples of the bravery of Vietnam-era corpsmen, heli-

Oakland Man Killed By CSX Train Saturday

An Oakland man was struck and killed by a CSX train after he failed to get off the tracks near the intersection of South Third and Water streets in Oakland early Saturday morning, according to Garrett Bureau of Investigation. See complete obituary on page A-8.

Paul Edward Schmitt, 53, Oakland, was observed approximately 40 to 50 yards from the train, walking toward it between the east and westbound train tracks. The conductor sounded the horn, but Schmitt was struck and killed, police said. According to a family member of Schmitt's, he had been depressed in recent months.

The CSX train, with 125 empty coal cars and four engines, was traveling westbound at a speed of approximately 27 to 30 mph. The train was traveling from Cumberland en route to Grafton, W.Va.

The Garrett County medical examiner, Oakland City Police, Southern Rescue Squad, and Oakland Volunteer Fire Department assisted in the investigation.

Crellin Woman Charged With Domestic Assault

A Crellin woman was charged by police following a reported domestic assault at a residence on Snowy Creek Road in Crellin Monday night, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Elizabeth Lynn Stem, 18, allegedly assaulted her boyfriend, Bradley Eugene Collins, during an argument at their residence. Collins then fled to a nearby residence, and Stem followed, police said. Stem was denied entry by the house tenant, but managed to gain access and continued to assault Collins while he was calling 911, according to the report.

Stem was charged with second-degree assault and trespassing. After an initial appearance before a District Court Commissioner, she was released on her own recognizance pending trial.

VIETNAM PIETA – This photograph by Bittinger resident Bill Schrider, a U.S. Marine Corps photographer assigned to the northernmost reaches of South Vietnam, juxtaposes the chaos and terror of combat with the caring touch of a Navy corpsman for a wounded Marine buddy as the two huddle inside a helicopter taking enemy fire. "This photo was taken in the Quang Tri province, where the chopper had flown from Marble Mountain to drop into a 'hot' landing zone in a little valley to pick up wounded Marines," Schrider recalled. "There were mountains surrounding the valley, and the North Vietnamese had guns up high shooting down on our guys. The door gunner was firing away as wounded were being loaded, and I looked out the door and saw numerous incoming rounds hitting the ground around the wheels of the chopper – it was total chaos, all the noise, yelling, and shooting – but everyone had a job to do, so I did mine. Later that night, when I developed the film, I thought, 'Hey, that's not bad.'" More photos taken by Schrider of Navy corpsmen treating wounded Marines on the ground and in the air, appear on Page A-19.

ONE OF THE MOST RECOGNIZABLE FACES on the planet, none other than Albert Einstein, is shown at the left enjoying a 1946 sailing outing on Deep Creek Lake with then Turkey Neck Yacht Club chairman Harry Muma and an unidentified woman. Sailing was one of the brilliant professor's favorite pastimes, as it "was the sport that demanded the least energy," and he was even observed piloting a little sailboat solo on the Turkey Neck inlet. This year has been proclaimed "World Year of Physics" in order to mark the centennial of Einstein's introduction of the Theory of Relativity in 1905. A guest feature story on Page A-5 by longtime Frostburg State University physics professor Francis Tam provides a unique insight into Einstein's Garrett County visit.

THE AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY'S "I CAN COPE SERIES" will include an educational session by Shannon Haley. She was diagnosed with adenoid cystic carcinoma, but has been cancer free for one year since surgery was performed to remove a malignant tumor from a salivary gland in her neck. See story for details. Pictured with Shannon is her husband Brian and their dog Roxy.

Cancer Survivor Among Those Hosting "I Can Cope" Sessions

by Peggy Santamaria for the American Cancer Society

The American Cancer Society's "I Can Cope" series for Garrett County cancer patients and families will begin April 14. Among those hosting the weekly educational sessions will be Shannon Haley, who recently marked one year of being cancer-free.

Before she even celebrated her 27th birthday, Shannon Haley's physician diagnosed her with adenoid cystic carcinoma (ACC), a rare form of cancer in the salivary glands. Hers inhabited the submandibular gland, just below her chin, and she could feel the malignant tumor protruding from her neck.

Shannon said she clearly remembers the moment that changed her life forever. "It was 3:30 p.m. – winter. Snow was on the ground and my husband miles away on a business trip in Las Vegas. I remember the doctor asking if I had brought anyone with me to hear the news – and it was a diagnosis of what felt like death," she recalled. She drove home alone sobbing to her dog, who tried to "kiss" her tears away.

Shortly after arriving home, Shannon got a call from her mother, who asked about the visit to the doctor. Was her daughter ill? she wondered. Shannon's news brought both parents to her side. A call to her husband Brian was met with stunned silence.

"All of the sudden, life was in slow motion," she said.

In the days and weeks following her diagnosis, Shannon experienced emotional and mental turmoil. "One of the hardest parts was burdening the ones I love with such devastating news, especially in light of the fact that this cancer was so unfamiliar to everyone. No sense could be made of it. I was healthy. I was 26," she said.

Becoming proactive to learn as much as possible about this cancer that had invaded her body, Shannon turned on her computer. "The Internet became my first confidant, and the response wasn't hopeful. Words like perineural invasion and metastasis triggered further panic.

Not good news. Where were the stories of the people who lived forever after being treated? she asked.

Within one month of her diagnosis, Shannon underwent a five-hour surgery to remove both the tumor and the gland in which it lived. This time her husband and parents were by her side. She said she remembers thinking, "Why can't they be cutting my leg? Why does it have to be my neck?" Her next memory is of Brian standing over her – smiling from ear to ear." Surgery must have gone well," she thought as she looked at her husband's grin.

"I wish I could say that's my happy ending. I believe it will be, but 'ending' might not be the appropriate word. Johns Hopkins [Hospital] is still a big part of my life. No one seems to know a lot about why or how the cancer comes back. I just know in the back of my mind that it might. I'm quite good at keeping the thought repressed, but every once in a while, my fears release themselves in big tears. Thank God my husband understands. I continue to drink green tea, eat lots of vegetables, exercise, and pray," she said. Her hope is that her annual X-rays prove to be consistently "unremarkable."

The mirror reminds Shannon each day of her mortality. A four-inch scar testifies daily that life can be very short. "That thin red line represents the most terrifying roller coaster ride of my 27 years," she said.

Shannon's brother once asked if she liked the scar right there in such a visible spot. A dermatologist told her that a laser could help to erase it.

"The truth is, I do like my scar, and I never want it to disappear. I feel fortunate to have such a meaningful souvenir, and I'm proud to share my story with anyone who asks," she said.

Since that first terrifying moment of diagnosis, Shannon said she has been overwhelmed by the amount of love and support she has encountered along the way. "Looking back, I can say that this experience has somehow been a positive one in the grand scheme of things. I've been cancer-free for one year. Here's to at least 60 more of the same," she said.

The I Can Cope educational/support series will begin with a session on fatigue led by Bethany Browning, RN, slated for Thursday, April 14, 11:30 a.m. – 1:30 p.m. in the Community Services Center near Garrett Memorial Hospital. Additional sessions will following on four consecutive Thursdays, 4–6 p.m., in the Garrett Memorial Hospital board room. Speakers will include Dr. Ihor Zakaluzny, Donna McClintock Fost, LCSW-C, and Nancy-Elizabeth Nimmich, LCSW-C.

Federal Grant Workshop Set In Cumberland

Congressman Roscoe Bartlett invites local government officials, representatives of organizations and businesses, and individuals interested in learning about federal grant programs to attend a grants workshop on Monday, April 11, from 10 a.m. to noon at the Ali Ghan Shrine in Cumberland. The Ali Ghan Shrine is located at 13100 Ali Ghan Road.

Bartlett is coordinating the workshop with the Tri-County Council of Western Maryland. Federal agencies invited to participate in the workshop are the Departments of Justice, Education, Agriculture, Health and Human Services, and Homeland Security, plus the Fish and Wildlife Service and the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC).

The workshop will begin with a panel presentation of grant coordinators from each agency providing an overview of their agency's grants programs and application procedures. After the panel discussion, representatives for each agency will be available at individual tables to distribute literature and answer questions one-on-one with future applicants.

Those planning to attend are asked to telephone Congressman Bartlett's grants outreach coordinator Myra Kidd at 301-797-6043.

STEAM MEMBERS TESTIFY IN ANNAPOLIS – Stephanie Lee and Shaina Custer, members of the local STEAM (Student Tobacco Elimination Among Minors) groups testified last Tuesday (March 22) in Annapolis before the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee on a local bill. The proposed legislation would restrict the placement of tobacco products to behind the counter in all tobacco retail locations in Garrett and Carroll counties. Lee is a freshman at Southern High School, and Custer is a senior at Northern High School. The bill, SB 791, received a favorable report from the committee and is now waiting to be voted on by the full Senate. Pictured, left to right, are Lee, Sen. John Hafer who also testified in favor of the bill, and Custer. For more information about the proposed legislation or STEAM, persons may call the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-7730 or 301-895-3111.

W.Va. Men Face Drug Charges After Traffic Stop

Two 20-year-old Mineral County men were jailed last Thursday afternoon, March 24, when suspected drugs were found in their car during a traffic stop near the Wal-Mart store. Oakland police officers made the arrests.

At approximately 3:21 p.m. Edward Allen Slaubaugh, of Gormania, was stopped for speeding on North Fourth Street as he turned into the Wal-Mart parking lot. As Slaubaugh and his passenger, Dusty Robert Whitacre, of Elk Garden, were searching for the registration card in the glove compartment, the officer reportedly observed a smoking device in plain view inside the glovebox.

The device was determined to contain suspected burnt marijuana residue, and both men were placed under arrest. Slaubaugh was later released when he posted a $5,000 bond set by a District Court commissioner, and Whitacre was released on a $1,000 bond.

Garrett County sheriff's deputies assisted at the scene of the traffic stop.

NOT SO LITTLE early this week was the Little Youghiogheny River as heavy rains pounded the Mountaintop much of Sunday and all day Monday, causing the waters in local creeks and rivers to crest over their banks in many places. Two days of dryness have allowed water levels to return to near normal; however, more rain is in the forecast for the next three days, with a rain and snow mix expected for Saturday. Oakland Man Pleads Guilty To Assault Charge

An Oakland man pleaded guilty to a second-degree assault charge during a recent Garrett County District Court hearing, and was handed a one-year jail sentence.

Todd William Riley Sr., 30, had been arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies in November after a domestic altercation at his Decatur Street residence. The charging statement accused Riley of throwing his girlfriend to the ground and choking her in the presence of a juvenile. Judge Ralph M. Burnett presided at the hearing.

In other District Court news, Michael Steven Pingley, 27, Terra Alta, W.Va., pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a 14-day jail sentence and fined $300. Pingley's December arrest by sheriff's deputies stemmed from a traffic stop on Garrett Highway in northern Oakland.

The possession charge was filed after Pingley was arrested for driving while under the influence (DUI), when an apple that had been cored to make a smoking device was discovered in the car with burnt marijuana residue on it. The DUI charge was not prosecuted by the state attorney's office.

William Gene Manley, 19, Carlisle, Pa., pleaded guilty to possession of oxycodone and was handed a 30-day sentence, all but 14 days of which was suspended, fined $250, and was placed on one year of unsupervised probation. Maryland State Police troopers filed the charge in October during a traffic stop on Interstate 68 near Keyser's Ridge. A search uncovered a tube of powdered oxycodone in Manley's pocket. The discovery of a smoking pipe bearing suspected burnt marijuana residue, and a quantity of rolling papers, led to charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia that were not prosecuted.

Betty Arleen Jenkins, 44, Friendsville, pleaded guilty to resisting arrest and DUI, and was handed a 90-day sentence, all but four days of which was suspended, and was fined $600, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 30 hours of community service. State troopers stopped Jenkins's vehicle on Myers Road near Friendsville in October, and as they placed her under arrest for DUI she swung her elbow at one of them and struggled as she was being handcuffed. Additional charges of second-degree assault, possession of marijuana, along with various traffic offenses, were not prosecuted.

Arthur James Mongold, 20, Keyser, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a 30-day sentence, all but two days of which was suspended, and was fined $340, placed on one year of unsupervised probation, and ordered to complete 30 hours of community service. His September arrest by state troopers stemmed from a traffic stop on I-68 near Friendsville, when a bag of marijuana and a smoking pipe was located in his car. An additional charge of drug paraphernalia possession was not prosecuted.

Paul Douglas Pezold, 49, Elkton, was handed stet rulings of two charges of illegal possession of prescription medication. Pezold also received a 30-day suspended sentence, a $455 fine, one year of supervised probation, and 30 hours of community service. The charges were filed in August by sheriff's deputies who stopped to check on a truck that had gotten stuck in a ditch alongside Totten Street. Pezold, the driver, was charged with DUI and a search subsequent to that arrest uncovered a percocet pill and a clonazepam pill together in an unlabeled bottle in his pocket. The DUI charge was not prosecuted.

William Russell Bever, 48, Swanton, was handed stet rulings on charges of possession of cocaine, marijuana, and drug paraphernalia. His October arrest came after a search of his Maryland Highway residence by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force. Located during the search was a small mirror, straws, and a "hitter" pipe, each bearing suspected cocaine residue, a bag and a jar of suspected marijuana, a smoking device bearing suspected burnt marijuana residue, and rolling papers.

Timothy Scott Warnick, 31, Grantsville, was deemed not guilty of second-degree assault, violation of an ex parte order, and failure to comply with a peace order when the alleged victim refused to testify against him. The charge stemmed from her arrest after a domestic altercation at the victim's Bittinger Road home.

Debbie Jean Wilt, 37, Grantsville, was deemed not guilty of second-degree assault when the alleged victim refused to testify against her. The charge stemmed from her arrest after a domestic altercation at her South Main Street residence.

DUI/DWI HEARINGS

Several DUI and driving while impaired (DWI) cases were heard in traffic court recently.

Ronald John Marc, 60, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a six-month sentence, all but one month of which was suspended, and was fined $300 and placed on one year of supervised probation.

James Edward Regan Jr., 26, Md., was found to be in violation of his DUI probation, which was revoked as a 56-day jail term was reimposed.

Carl Benny Scarlett, 23, Pa., was found to be in violation of his DUI probation, and a 30-day jail term was reimposed.

Donna Lee Knauff, 44, Md., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a six-month sentence, four days of which was reimposed. She was also fined $400 and placed on one year of supervised probation.

Melissa Ann Anderson, 24, Md., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a 30-day sentence, all but two days of which was suspended, fined $400, and placed on one year of supervised probation.

Lawrence Edward Schlaline, 43, Pa., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a 30-day sentence, all but two days of which was suspended, fined $400, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation.

Hope Amber Ess, 18, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $400, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 30 hours of community service. Ess also pleaded guilty to passing a stopped school bus operating its flashing red lights, and was fined $150 in that case.

Michael Gerald Null, 24, Md., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a probation before judgment, a 30-day suspended sentence, a $300 fine, one year of supervised probation, and 30 hours of community service.

Fourth Annual Rural Enterprises Conference Held

Over 100 people made the trek to Camp Dawson near Kingwood, W.Va., on March 19 to attend the fourth annual Rural Enterprises Conference presented by the Garrett Preston Rural Development Coalition. In addition, 10 vendors set up for the day, offering samples, distributing literature, and/or offering assistance to farm businesses.

The youth program was reportedly successful, with youth conducting market research, pricing their products, and then selling items to conference attendees for fake "big bucks."

"I was impressed with the energy and enthusiasm of the youth this year," said Ann Sherrard, Extension educator for 4-H and youth programs. "Each child averaged $14 in sales of various items, including crafts, candy, bottled water, cookies, and plants."

The theme for the conference was "Putting the 'Culture' Back into Agriculture: Preserving Farm Heritage by Improving Profitability." Topics for the sessions reinforced the theme, covering farmland preservation, local food system development, and transferring the family farm. Other sessions dealt with alternative agriculture production, including vegetable, beef, berry, and poultry production.

Additional conference binders, which contain the hand-outs from each session, are available from the Extension Office for $2 each.

"We were very pleased with the turnout," said Willie Lantz, Extension agent for agriculture. "We outgrew the facilities at Garrett College and moved to Camp Dawson this year, and we were worried fewer people would attend. We did see an increase in folks from West Virginia."

Joyce Bishoff, Rural Development Coalition chair, added, "The conference center at Camp Dawson was the perfect location. We had a nice auditorium, several break-out rooms, a great lunch room, and a fantastic lobby and registration area. Plus, we were treated wonderfully by the staff."

WORKING WITH YOUTH — Ann Sherrard, Garrett County extension educator for 4-H and youth development, is pictured above working with the youth portion of the Rural Enterprises Conference.

Conference attendees completed surveys about their current farming situation and their farm business needs. Thirty-five percent were attending the conference for the first time, and 26% are operating an established farm. Fifteen percent of the conference attendees are not farming at all, and 63% indicated an interest in receiving business planning or marketing assistance. Thirty-two percent of the survey respondents farm 50 acres or more.

A basket of local products donated from the vendors was the door prize, and it was won by Glenn Hardesty. The basket included goat's milk soap from Pug Ridge Place; spaghetti sauce from Figaretti; a basket, salsa, and hot pepper jelly from DeBerry Farm; maple syrup from Steyer Brothers; honey from Honey Grace Farm; and flower seeds from Heifer International.

For more information about the Garrett Preston Rural Development Coalition or the Rural Enterprises Conference, persons may telephone the Extension Office at 301-334-6960.

Amazing, But Scary...

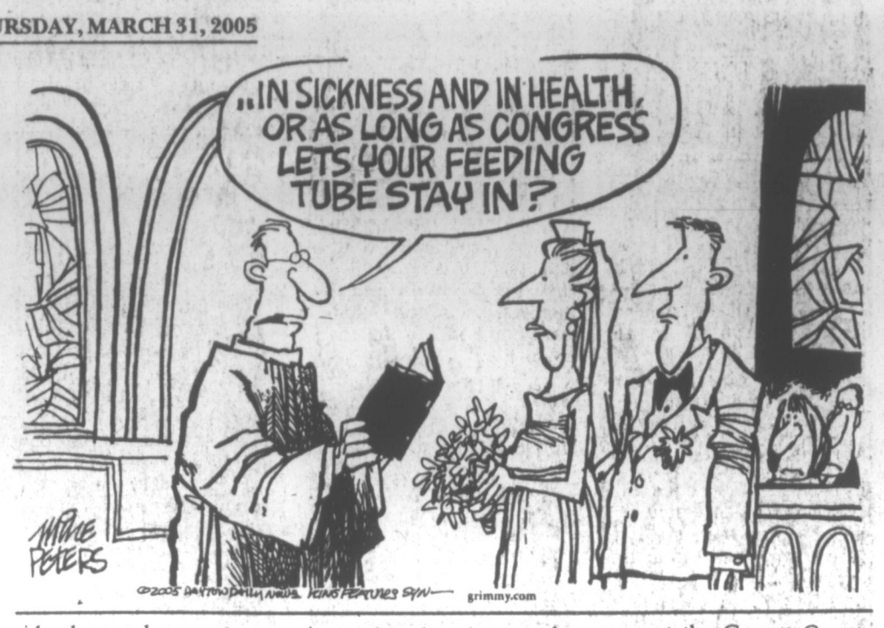
The Internet — amazing technology that virtually opens the entire world to a person sitting in front of a computer. Never before have we had such access — incredibly easy and almost instant access — to so much information. Probably not since the discovery of electricity has there been anything that has had such a positive impact on business, as persons can market their products literally worldwide, and for so little cost. College degrees can be earned practically without ever having to leave the house. The realm of medical technology and health care has been unbelievably enhanced. Personal research on just about any subject is a breeze.

But, of course, anytime such wonderful technology is created there are those who immediately begin conceiving ways to use it for evil purposes. God knows this is the case with the Internet. The list is already extensive, and it's anyone's guess as to just what they will come up with next.

Identity theft is a popular usage, along with spreading and selling pornography, scamming people in untold numbers of ways, arranging abductions of children, and even convincing some people to kill themselves. It is used by terrorist groups and extremists to spread their bigotry and hatred, and share recipes for bomb-making. It is used to expose people to some of the most graphic violence, such as the beheadings of human beings. It is used to infect and destroy the valuable, sometimes irreplaceable, computer records of businesses and individuals.

Thus, just as when the first automobile took to the highway, great care must be used by the operator to make sure people don't get hurt. As for the Internet, parents in particular must be vigilant when it comes to knowing what their children are doing "online."

This is a clear case of technology advancing much faster than the safeguards that, unfortunately, are needed. In fact, we still don't even know everything for which we will need safeguards. And that, frankly, is scary.



Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

As I was sadly reading another Blasting Notice for a coal company mining permit (March 17, 2005, Republican, page c-8), I reflected on an excellent article describing the death of a mountain ("Lost Mountain in West Virginia") in the latest issue of Harper's magazine.

I strongly urge all Republican readers to locate a copy of "Death of a Mountain: Radical strip mining and the leveling of Appalachia," in the April 2005 issue of Harper's (on newsstands now) to learn more about what these Blasting Notices so routinely published in The Republican really portend.

Sincerely yours,

To the Editor:

We're not looking for helpers – we want partners.

At the Mountain Top Crisis Pregnancy Center it would be a mistake to say that our volunteers "help" this ministry move forward. No, not here.

Our volunteers aren't helpers. Instead, they are vital components – partners, if you will – in an effective outreach that is changing lives every day.

So whether your gift is in administration, organization, listening, talking on the phone (that's important here!) – you name it – there might just be a place for you here.

Are you interested? Do you have a heart for reaching women who are hurting? If so, you need to connect with us. Give us a call at 301-334-1058 or 1-800-866-2400, and ask for Nellie Ashby or Jill Holler. Together, let's partner to touch hearts and change our world.

Sincerely,
Nellie Ashby

To the Editor:

Here is a response to the MFA letter of March 30.

The amended Crabtree Slopes Wildlands bill was approved by the Environmental Matters Committee, but the bill now protects only 250 acres rather than the 3,000 acres we had originally requested. This likely will protect only a portion of the old-growth forest, and provides no buffers around the old growth for its protection. They will be able to log right up to the old growth.

We do not know the boundaries that DNR will provide for the 250-acre wildland, so cannot tell if they intend closing the road running through the old-growth forest or the ridge top above it. The smallest wildland ever adopted prior to this was 500 acres. The road has been an avenue for exotic plant species invading the old-growth forest. The ridge top above the forest could sprout wind turbines if the wind power industry gets its way. This is a great story for your reporters to expand on.

To the Editor:

With the snow melt one now notices the large amount of litter – bottles, cans, and other debris along the roadside. Frankly, I cannot understand the ignorance of people who throw trash out their car windows. Unlike major roads such as U.S. Route 219, which benefit from being eligible for the Adopt-a-Highway program, county roads generally do not qualify. A few years back, my sons and I collected 32 large garbage bags of trash along less than one mile of Route 42 between Country Pride Meats and the Welcome to Friendsville sign. Today, you can't tell we did this at all.

Besides cleanup by volunteers, there are other measures our county commissioners could consider to help reduce the roadside litter. Deposits on bottles and cans would be the most effective. Another alternative is to pass a county surcharge on bottles and cans sold. The money raised could be used to fund roadside cleanup by county employees.

I wonder sometimes if the unsightly trash along our roads bothers other people. I also wonder whether our county commissioners see the problem as one worthy of taking some action, or if they are content on just letting the grass grow to cover it up.

To the Editor:

I got some great positive remarks from the last letter I wrote about the windmills. So, I will continue this week. I still think the windmills are a great idea!

The people who are complaining; do they live near any of them? Do they see them daily out their windows, on the drive to work or town? Have they ever been up close to one to see how "noisy" they really are?

Interstate 68 is much louder; I would know, I live right beside it. I get more annoyed by people driving very fast by my house than the noise that is made by these "horrible" windmills.

Maybe these people who are throwing such a fit would rather see a nuclear power plant spewing chemicals in the air and making the community sick. Wouldn't that be a lovely sight on top of a mountain? Let's see...windmills or nuclear power plant? Hmm...

About property values, no one I know can afford to buy property in the rich lake area. It would be good if the value would go down. Maybe some local people could buy property and enjoy the very lake that gives them jobs. My great-grandfather helped build the lake, and there are very many times I wish no one would have built the lake.

Bring the windmills here. I really don't care if I ever use any of the electricity. I don't care if someone in Georgia uses it. At least it saves trees and coal. Strip mines are ugly and so are mountains covered with expensive houses that no one in Garrett County can afford anyhow.

Does anyone hear the people out West crying about really big windmill farms? Let's quit crying here, shall we?

To the Editor:

I am the banquet and catering sales manager of Wisp at Deep Creek Mountain Resort and wanted to share the reasons why I am working so hard for Garrett County Habitat for Humanity and why it is important that Showers of Sweets is a great success.

Before starting work for Recreational Industries, I worked at Will O' the Wisp. While there, I met Lucy, and we became friends. It broke my heart to see her struggle. She had two young kids and had just moved to the area. She also worked at a radio station for her church. I knew by talking to her that she was doing her best to provide for her family, but sometimes even trying to buy food was a struggle.

Having young kids is hard; they don't understand that vegetables and fruits are good to eat, they want chocolate and fun cereals, which are so expensive, and it was hard for Lucy to tell her kids "No." I was happy to hear that she had met someone through her church and they were getting married. Next I heard she was expecting a child. The home she lived in was so small, I did not know how they were all going to fit.

Lucy got a job at Perkins when it opened, and I started to see her more frequently. As time passed, I knew that she had the baby and things had looked up for her and her family. I read in the paper that she and her family had been approved for a Habitat for Humanity house. I was really excited for her, because I knew nobody deserved it more.

This new home, not just a house, would be what this family had hoped for and dreamed of. The family has strong beliefs and lots of love; what more does anyone need?

If your organization, company or church would like to know more about how to help Garrett County Habitat for Humanity, please contact Doug Riley at 301-533-0600 or driley@garrettcac.org.

BEGGING IN PARIS

Extending from his caftan were two puny legs with twisted feet and nails that looked like an animal's. He was situated in the middle of a pedestrian street on market day, his begging bowl in front of him.

That pathetic scene must wrench enough compassion from people's hearts to give the man some kind of living. The only problem with the scene, like one in a theatre, was from the rear. One could see clearly that the man was kneeling on a pad with his very normal legs and feet, shod in sneakers, extending behind him.

One then wonders about other situations. Is the man apparently with some kind of palsy and the bloody bandage around his leg also a fraud or, more charitably, merely an actor?

There is a range of beggars on the streets of Paris. At the top end are the musicians who find their niches in Metro stations or who meander through the actual cars. There are also the wandering minstrels, usually playing a version of Dixieland jazz, who parade up and down the streets like the barrel grinders of yore.

I had a rare experience on the Metro the other week when a gypsy accordion player finished his medley, and passed through the car with his open purse. I had enjoyed his music, and also had a few coppers in my pocket which I contributed to the kitty. Just before we arrived at the next Metro station, he came back to me and returned my money. Now I know: even the beggars in Paris have their standards.

Some beggars at the base end of the range actually intimidate people for money. They speak loudly, gesticulate broadly, invade personal space, linger at the end of the car where isolated women are sitting. Other beggars, if they glean insufficient funds through begging, simply resort to stealing. I suspect that there are not a small number of beggars on the boundary between asking and taking.

There are also those who beg because they have given up on life, and now endure a numbed mindlessness with a begging bowl rather than trying to do something productive. I wonder about the stories of some of those. There are the alcoholics, of course. In Paris, there are only much, much more rarely drug addicts.

Others do not drink, at least in public sight, and show no signs of inebriation. Often they are young or early middle aged. They appear physically healthy and relatively attractive – at least nothing visibly wrong that a smile wouldn't fix. They probably suffer from mental illness, but which came first, the mental illness or the begging?

Most neighborhoods seem to have at least one beggar who is just part of the community. As long as the person is peaceable, he or she is left to rifle the trash cans. Sometimes these folks do not actually beg. They may receive gifts from their more affluent neighbors, but strictly speaking they are not beggars. In fact, they may work rather hard. After all, sorting through other people's trash is a kind of work (which in certain contexts is paid employment).

One such woman is often engaged in sewing. If her distaff labors are to no end, it is still probably little less productive than someone who works in the police records office filing the dates and places of birth of all the foreigners who live in Paris.

I feel a certain solidarity with the beggars. My own existence hangs somewhere between the Beatles and Blanche DeBois, getting by with a little help from my friends and depending upon the kindness of strangers.

My begging is more sophisticated. It entails grants, scholarships, and accountability agents. When I said to a friend that in mid-life I seemed to do better begging than earning, he told me that I wasn't actually begging, I was merely representing my qualifications to the right people.

He explained the content of a lecture he had heard. Some people are good at earning. Others achieve certain goals which then qualify them for reward or support. He suggested that I am of the latter type. When I recounted that story to yet another friend, he replied that it all sounded European to him which fit with his general analysis of me.

Well, perhaps. The same criteria can be applied to the beggars of Paris (or should I say the other beggars of Paris?). The musicians are not so much begging as offering their achievements to people in a more democratic way than the musicians in a concert hall. There the hearer might pay a lot of money, and then be disappointed. The street musician receives nothing when he disappoints his hearers.

The man with the stuffed crippled limbs is trying to establish his qualifications, as an actor if not as an invalid. He does add color to the street, after all. The man who sits by the boulangerie where I buy my daily bread tries to establish a relationship with me (and every other passerby) by giving a hybrid smile of sweetness and agony. Surely, a smile on the street is worth something in Paris.

I can distinguish myself at least from one beggar, however. I have never received a grant, scholarship or contribution too small to keep, and that is something which shall never change.

Like Many Others, Albert Einstein Unwound At Deep Creek Lake

Physics experts from around the globe are celebrating "World Year of Physics 2005" to mark the 100-year anniversary of Albert Einstein's introduction of the Theory of Relativity, which was first unveiled in March 1905. By publishing three papers on his groundbreaking theories of light quanta, Brownian motion, and special relativity in that same year, Einstein brought about the birth of modern physics.

While the commemoration is a global affair, very few people know that Albert Einstein actually walked the mountains of western Maryland. In 1946, the scientist spent vacationed for two weeks at Deep Creek Lake. Longtime Frostburg State University professor Francis Tam detailed the visit in this article, which first appeared in 2004 in the Journal of the Alleghenies, and then earlier this month in FSU's Profile magazine. Article and photos courtesy of the author.

by Francis M. Tam

Albert Einstein lived here! Was it fact or fiction?

The place was Deep Creek Lake in western Maryland. The year was 1946. It was a year Einstein would rather forget. It was a time right after World War II. The atomic bomb was dropped in Hiroshima, Japan, Aug. 6, 1945. In his words on Dec. 10, 1954, Einstein remarked: "The war was won, but peace was not." He was the man next to a mushroom cloud on the front cover of Time magazine July 1, 1946, despite many times he had made it clear that he had nothing to do with the manufacture of the bomb.

Einstein was a pacifist. He was against any kind of war or violence. Alarmed by the Nazi threat, he did sign a letter to President Franklin D. Roosevelt on Aug. 3, 1939, urging him to initiate a nuclear research program. He was, however, not actively involved in the development and production of the bomb, known as the Manhattan Project.

His famous $E=mc^2$ equation was first proposed in the formulation of a special theory of relativity in 1905. The idea of transforming mass into energy was basic to the understanding of how fission bomb worked. Einstein could not really be held morally responsible for a technology or application he did not foresee some forty years later. Yet he expressed deep regrets for having sent the letter to Roosevelt.

In 1945, Einstein had just retired from the hustle and bustle of the Institute for Advanced Study and Princeton University. Tired of unwanted publicity and mass media, he was longing for a place of solitude and peace. The late John Steiding of Midland invited Einstein to visit Deep Creek Lake. Steiding worked for the Celanese Fiber Co. as a chemist. His co-worker Mark Plungain of Princeton, N.J., knew Einstein. His wife was an artist sculpting a bust of Einstein. Einstein, being diminutive in physique, had a hard time posing for the artwork, since his feet would not touch the floor. John Steiding, being a handy man, made a footstool for Einstein.

Einstein's visit to Deep Creek was a best-kept secret. As a matter of fact, his visit in September was not revealed in the Cumberland newspaper for more than 30 years, until 1979. Einstein was guaranteed complete privacy. He was protected from reporters and media.

"WHAT'S UNDER THAT MUSTACHE?" – The venerable physicist coos with baby John Rod Steiding II, the son of Midland resident and Celenese Fiber Company chemist John Steiding. Note the tenderness evident in the brilliant man's touch, demonstrating the charitable and empathetic nature for which he was famous.

Einstein was to seek the advice of Dr. Frank Wilson, a prominent local surgeon, on an undisclosed ailment, which we now know was the aneurysm of the aorta of the abdomen.

Einstein stayed for two weeks at Wilson's summer cottage, Mar-Jo-Lodge, in the Long Neck section of Deep Creek Lake.

He led a simple life. His daily routine was reading and meditation in front of the fireplace. He loved the tranquility and solitude of western Maryland. He took daily walks along the lake, and frequently stopped to chat with strangers who had no idea who he was. He was seen fishing, and bird-watching with binoculars. He never forgot to eat a meal. He was a small eater. He drank a lot of water and lemonade. For breakfast he had a poached egg, cereal, and fruit. His luncheon was light. For dinner he had a small portion of meat or fish and some vegetables. His favorite was fresh corn-on-the-cob from Garrett County. Einstein's favorite sport was sailing.

He loved sailing because it was "the sport which demands the least energy." Despite the fact that he could not swim, he refused to wear a life jacket. Sailing gave Einstein a sense of peace and freedom. There were times the "people would realize that he wasn't around, go searching for him, and find him in Harry Muma's little sailboat, 'single-handing,' on the Turkey Neck inlet."

Einstein loved children. He took time to write letters back to children all over the world. In his words, his secret was "to be like a child." During his visit he was [photographed] enjoying a moment with John Steiding's baby boy, John Rod Steiding II.

There were many interesting stories of Einstein during his stay with us in western Maryland. These stories not only captured Einstein's simplicity but also his unique sense of humor. His unique quirky sense of humor was reflection of his child-like innocence and his "tongue in cheek" expression. It was witty, shocking, and ecstatic all at the same time.

During his visit, Fred Steiding, brother of John Steiding, asked him to explain relativity in layman's terms. "Put it this way," said Einstein, "If you sit on a park bench with your sweetheart, an hour seems like a minute. If you sit on a hot stove by mistake, a minute seems like an hour."

Another incredible story was the invititation by Mr. Isaac Hirsch, president of B'er Chayim Congregation in Cumberland. Hirsch wrote in 1946, "Knowing he was one of my faith, and our high holidays would soon be here, I invited him to attend our services and be my guest." Einstein's response in a letter, he wrote dated Sept. 24, 1946. "Despite being something like a Jewish saint, I have been absent from a synagogue so long that I am afraid God would not recognize me and if He would it would be worse."

At the end of his visit, Einstein gave a $50 gratuity in a autographed envelope to Blair Thompson, also known as "Man Friday," who was employed by Wilson to serve Einstein as personal attendant. Fifty dollars in 1946 was quite generous indeed, considering that it would amount to an estimate of $1,400 in 2004 after inflation adjustment. Thompson admitted in 1998 he had spent the $50, and, regrettably, lost the autographed envelope.

Was it all play and no work for Einstein at Deep Creek? Not at all. He must have been thinking about his Unified Field Theory, which he published in 1950 and 1953. But more likely, he was concerned deeply about world peace. In May 1946, he became the chairman of the Emergency Committee for Atomic Scientists. In October 1946, he wrote a letter to the United Nations urging them to form a world government. He declared it was the only way to maintain world peace under the threat of atomic and nuclear wars.

On Nov. 17, 1952, Einstein, widely considered a "Jewish saint," was offered the presidency of the State of Israel by Prime Minister David Ben Gurion, for which a deeply moved Einstein promptly and graciously declined on Nov. 18, 1952, with sincere regret.

Einstein loved and lived a simple life in western Maryland. He was immersed in the beauty and solitude of our mountain scenery. "...liking for moderation and beauty was for him relaxation after the exaggerated glorifications and animosities he had experienced."

He was one of us, friendly and unassuming. He was humble and yet so famous. He was simple and yet so complex. In a letter Einstein wrote to fellow Nobelist Max Born on April 12, 1949, "...you ask me what my attitude is toward the simple life. I simply enjoy giving more than receiving in every respect, do not take myself nor the doings of the masses seriously...."

In Einstein's words, the visit was "one of the most restful and zestful vacations." It was in fact and not fiction that Albert Einstein lived here. Einstein did live here, and his memories will continue to live in Western Maryland.

Route 219 Group To Meet Friday

The Route 219 Citizens' Impact Group will meet this Friday, April 1, at 7 p.m. at the Grantsville fire hall. The group includes Maryland and Pennsylvania residents of the area who will be impacted by the proposed highway connecting Interstate 68 to the existing U.S. Route 219 bypass.

Invited guests include several officials from the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation and representatives from the offices of Representative Roscoe Bartlett and Senator Paul Sarbanes.

The public is invited to attend. For more information, persons may call Dick Feigley at 301-895-5788 (home) or 301-746-4292 (work).

Current information about the Rt. 219 project is available at www.us219.com.

Response To Clipper Windpower's Kevin Rackstraw

Kevin Rackstraw, in a recent advertisement for his company, Clipper Windpower, Inc LLC, claims that building his company's industrial windplant atop Backbone Mountain will not ruin natural views or devalue property. He offers as proof a study conducted by wind boosters, in which the authors even admit, has serious flaws. Rackstraw further claims that two sales in nearby Berlin, PA were similar to a normal real estate purchase; however, those sales were the result of litigation brought against the wind company by the property owners because of turbine-caused nuisances, and the public deeds show resales of 60 and 80 percent below market value, with nuisance clauses inserted holding the wind company harmless from further litigation. He also claims to be considering constructing fewer of his approved 67-400-foot turbines, only because he may now want to put a number of 500-foot tall turbines in Garrett County. His assertion Clipper will not clear-cut four acres around each turbine is suspiciously at odds with the practice of other windplants on prominent forested ridges.

Rackstraw further claims his company will bring hundreds of jobs and millions of dollars into the local economy. As he knows, perhaps ten percent of temporary construction crews will be local (his turbines will likely be of Danish manufacture and serviced by Danish labor, as was the case with two other local windplants). He has promised only a handful of ongoing maintenance jobs at a salary that is barely a living wage, although his physical plant will be valued at $100 million. The nature of Clipper's spending will not involve much "value added" dollars, given the specialized nature of this windplant. His claim about local taxes would have to be audited for verification, since a good corporate accountant can find a number of legal ways to avoid tax obligations. By all accounts reported thus far, neither windplant in nearby Thomas, WV or Meyersdale, PA has paid any significant local taxes. Moreover, the maximum $2,000 "decommissioning costs" for his turbines, which the MDPSC did approve without any local involvement, wouldn't pay for the cost of a crane. If the salvage value of his turbines is so great, why do the lease contracts insist upon abandoning the machinery to the property owner?

Rackstraw's talk is cheap. But his company stands to make tens of millions of dollars in a very short time at our expense. For those who want to know more about what windplants will really do to Garrett County, visit www.stopillwind.org and click on the realistic Backbone Mountain simulation with your sound on. And look for the DVD documentary, "Life Under a Windplant," about the circumstances of people in Meyersdale, which will soon be freely distributed in the area.

WAFFLES

Friday Night Waffle Night will be held on Tuesday. Just don't ask. Admission is $5, which covers the waffles, syrup, one sausage link, and a cupcake (icing is another buck). Coffee was to be served, too, but Elma Yertle's pot is busted. Sorry.

TEEN BREAK-OUT

The Raging Hormone Association will host a Teen Break-Out next weekend. The evening is expected to involve lots of door-slamming, tsking, pouting, uncontrolled laughter at nothing, eye-rolling, and the intense redundant and inappropriate use of the phrase "That's so gay." All teens are asked not to come, so that way the place will be packed. Free acne cream to the first 50 guests. Deodorant required. No shoe removal!

Native Gets Lost At Deep Creek Lake

Neddy Squinch, 55, a native of the county and lifelong resident, was lost for several hours at Deep Creek Lake recently, having gone there to fish for awhile.

"I was headed for my old spot there near the cove when I looked around, and all I could see were buildings. Huge, monstrous houses. Biggest dang places I've ever seen in my life. I tried to get my bearings by finding the big ole' oak I used to sit in, but darn it if it hasn't turned into a souvenir shop," Neddy said, still breathing hard several days after his ordeal.

"Aw, no, I always breathe hard," he said, panting.

"Anyhow, I tried to find the footpath I used ter use to get back to my car, but dang it if I didn't run smack into a pizza joint, bounced offa that and hit a realtor office, then spun around and went headlong into a drive-through bank. Dang."

Finally Squinch spotted a dumpster he was familiar with, and sat there for a bit. A black bear wandered up to him and the two communed.

"And that bear and I talked a spell. He was packing it in, moving on to find a little more space to breathe. Said it was too noisy near his den now, and only the tourists were leaving him any good trash. And anyhow, he was already asked by some delegate by the name of George if he would please move to another part of Maryland. He showed me back to my car, and we went our separate ways."

Neddy is resting quietly at home now, still panting, and with no plans to ever step foot out of his house again. He will fish in his aquarium from here on out.

"At least I know where that is," Squinch bleated.

OTT Celebrates Opening of New Backstage Facility

The Board of Directors of Our Town Theatre is proud to announce that after years of fundraising, the "Backstage" is finally open. The new building will house the numerous costumes, props, bric-a-brac, notions, gee-gaws, tid-bits, snips, snails, and puppy dog tails that are essential to creating drama.

Said Jane Avery, artistic director, "the collection of stuff was getting out of hand. We were storing things in every nook and cranny we could find. My attic, basement, kitchen, and living room were full. We were stuffing things in passing cars if they happened to have their windows down. This new building will bring a little relief."

In addition to storage, the Backstage will house a new scene shop for Technical Director Ben Sincell to create his scene magic.

"I could not be more thrilled. The new shop includes a new stationary saw, new hammers and screw drivers, as well as tools for creating in the forth dimension and a real working time machine."

There has been some discussion around what is left of Oakland as to why such a small theatre needs such a large building. Avery responded, "I'll let you in on a secret. What you see of the Backstage is a false front that Ben made. We could never afford a real building like that. If you enter you will find that it is only an average-sized storage shed. We had to comply with new town zoning restrictions."

DOGS ON THE CATWALK – The Garrette County Garanimal Shelter has a trio of canines available for adoption this week, starting with the black lab pictured above who has been working on his modeling runway form. The short-hair below to the left has a detachable head (note the convenient zipper around the neck), giving loving owners who may get tired of his looks the option of swapping heads with another dog. The wiry fellow below to the right looks like a likely candidate, and his face registers a look of shock as he's been informed his head could be heading off in another direction from his torso. Next week: Dogs' heads on cats' bodies, making for a pet that loves to show its boundless affection by licking you – from the top of the refrigerator.

Moon—This month look for the full moon passing by the constellation Wiseassicus, the ancient god of school bus windows.

Mercury—Traditionally very hard to see, but with the lowering of emissions standards by the EPA, expect to see a lot more Mercury in the near future.

Venus—An insanely hot planet full of poisonous gasses that, I am told, women come from. They wisely resettled on this planet to be closer to Target.

Earth—For our out-of-town readers: Look down. There it is! (And the speed limit is 40, not 10).

Mars—The best way to see Mars is on the Internet, where you can see it through the eyes of NASA's comical roving robots "Corvair" and "Edsel." You can download the images to make attractive Christmas cards.

Jupiter—Our largest planet, best viewed by looking up (see Earth).

Saturn—Not the largest, but certainly the most wacky planet. A favorite for school children. Add a few ovals to a circle and voilà: instant, way-cool space art. NASA sent some hardware there but didn't find it very interesting, so they decided to smash a few more things into Mars. ("Yeeeeee-haw.")

Uranus—Congress met in emergency session and decided that jokes about the name of this planet are no longer funny.

Neptune—Too far away to bother with or notice.

Pluto—Which came first: this bothersome chunk of ice or the annoying cartoon pup? Scientists may never find the answer.

MLP, Oakland Begin Battle For Annexation

Promising to be the Mother of all Local Battles, the fight for annexation of Southern High School has begun between the town of Oakland and the town of Mountain Lake Park.

These two communities have been traditional enemies for hundreds of years, but there was hope that a peaceful solution could be reached. Hope ran out when the UN hastily recalled its delegation.

Tensions began when the Oakland began massing its eastern town line. Large SUVs, snow plows, several graders, and a pole digger were all on hand for a massive display of power, all designed to send a message to Mtn. Lake Park.

"Southern High belongs to the people of Oakland," said the Oakland Propaganda Minister. "We only want what is ours and have no other territorial designs."

Mtn. Lake Park has responded in kind with its own buildup.

"Let them come," quipped the MLP Territorial Field Marshal. "They will be no match for our superior backend loaders, 4-wheel drive pickups, and nasty dogs and cats. The Little Yough will run brown with spilled coffee thermoses."

Little Loch Lynn has been called upon as a last attempt to calm feelings between the two supertowns. Said a spokesman, "I hope we can stop this bitter feud before someone gets a bruise or breaks their glasses."

HUNKERING DOWN – The battle for annexation of Southern High School may well be under way. An unnamed soldier from the town of Mountain Lake Park watches silently across the frontier for the firedrizzle he hopes can be avoided. See enthralling story.

Commissioners Still Planning To Move County Seat To Avilton

Plans are continuing to move the county seat from Oakland to Avilton, according to information released this week by the office of the Garrett County Board of Commissioners.

County administrator Lament Pagenhearty said that the commissioners have been conducting lengthy sessions to decide how best to proceed with the move, and are currently not in agreement in many areas.

Board chair Earning L. (Lotsamoney) Grayg said during Tuesday's public session, attended only by Oakland's courier/grass mower/snow shoveler/window washer Bobby Ezlund, that the commissioners were planning to begin holding their weekly meetings in the Avilton fire hall next week, but then it was pointed out by Commissioner Fried W. (Wishitwerea) Holiday that there is no fire hall in Avilton.

"Well, we're just going to have to build one — and quick," Grayg explicated with conviction. "In the meantime maybe we can meet in Effie Fosselmeyer's dining room there just off Main Street.

"Effie makes the best cinnamon rolls," he added.

Commissioner Davee W. (Wishihada) Beer, who has been opposed to the move from the beginning, maintained his position that the county seat should stay in Oakland; however, he admitted that Ethel did, indeed, make the best cinnamon rolls in the county.

"This puts a little different spin on things for me," Beer said with a chuckle. "Lordy, I practically grew up on Effie's rolls," he drooled.

This was followed by considerable discussion about what should be done with the courthouse in Oakland once Avilton is officially declared the new county seat.

"Frankly, I believe we can move the darn thing," quipped Commissioner Holiday. "We could talk to Sheriff Slammers about getting help from the prisoners, and I'm pretty sure the Women's Civic Club of Oakland would be willing to take it on as one of their projects. You should'a seen a couple of those gals at last year's Autumn Glory hay bale throwin' contest. Man 'o whammy."

But Commissioner Beer said that it would be far easier to just leave the courthouse where it is and use it for something else.

"We've been a lookin' for years for a place to put a teen center," he said. "Why, we could have the most unique teen center in the whole stinkin' state, with the rotunda and all.

"Or how about a bed and breakfast?" he queried.

Commissioner Grayg, on the other hand, said he believes it would be far better to simply demolish the entire structure and use the property as a location for a skeet-shooting park.

"Moving the building is going to cost a pretty penny, and if we leave it there, trying to decide what and whom to allow in there will be a no-win situation," he elucidated. "No matter whom we let in there, other groups of voters... er, citizens... are just going to get all upset and claim it's unfair.

"No, I believe rippin' the whole thing down and putting in a skeet-shooting park would be the cat's meow."

Grayg acknowledged that there might be a few minor Oakland town zoning issues to address before proceeding with the construction of the park.

"But, hey, Mayor McPain and I go way back. Shucks, we play Canasta every Tuesday evening. I think we'll be able to work something out," he retorted.

Pagenhearty said he expects that the commissioners will resume their discussions next Tuesday, most likely at Ms. Fosselmeyer's Avilton residence.

LOOKIT OUR NEW PLACE! Our Town Theatre member Melodee Hill and Artistic Director Jane Avery are pictured standing proudly in front of the new Backstage facility, which will house the various costumes and props for the theatre, as well as a scene-building shop. "In celebration of this event," said Avery, "the first 50 reservation holders will receive a free bottle of water, just like this one." Our Town Theatre (the small building at right) can be seen on what was formerly Center Street, and is now Our Town Plaza One.

New Energy Facility Now On Backbone

A compromise between energy groups, local officials, environmental and animal rights groups, residential coalitions, the media, and four or five groups who just came in to see why all the cars were parked outside has resulted in an energy solution that everyone is happy about.

The new facility, called the Backbone Mountain Green-Alternative-Energy-Bird-Friendly Power Station, will begin pumping out kilowatts as soon as it goes on line, which is expected to be as soon as this afternoon.

"The new plant takes up only a few thousand acres and will not take up the whole mountain," remarked a local resident. "Plus, there will be no distracting lights, as the whole facility is supposed to be secret. All the testing will be done underground."

Bird groups are especially pleased. Said a local bird watcher, "Now we have no big fan blades to decapitate birds and this makes birding more fun, especially at night. Birds have become easy to spot and I know they are happy. They seem to have a glow about them."

Martha Jane Shaffer
12/1/24 - 3/27/00

I was there when you crossed over to the dying part of living
I held your hand and slowly watched you go
I know you're someplace better than what I can imagine
But I can't help the way I miss you so

I would never be so selfish as to pray you back from Heaven
So I could have you longer here with me
So I'll cherish every memory 'cause it helps me to remember
That where you are is where I'm gonna be

If I have to knock on every mansion door
Walk miles of golden streets
Search among a million saints that rest at Jesus' feet
I will run along the jasper walls... call your name upon the wind
I will find you again.

Loved, missed and remembered by your family

PEACOCK'S PAINTINGS TO BE ON DISPLAY – A new one-person exhibit titled "Riverscapes" will open on April 1 at the Gallery in Oakland. The exhibit will feature 17 original oil paintings by local artist Fred Peacock, one of which is pictured above. The exhibit will be on display through April 30. A reception for the artist will be hosted by the Garrett County Arts Council on Thursday, April 7, from 7 to 9 p.m. The public is invited.

Gallery Presents "Riverscapes" By Fred Peacock

A new one-person exhibit opening April 1 at the Gallery in Oakland will feature original oil paintings by local artist Fred Peacock.

"Riverscapes," consisting of 17 paintings depicting the Youghiogheny River and surrounding woodlands in a variety of seasons and moods, will be open through April 30.

The Garrett County Arts Council will host a gallery reception for the artist on Thursday, April 7, from 7 to 9 p.m. The public is invited.

A former research economist for the Montgomery County Department of Parks and Planning, Peacock has been painting seriously for the past five years. He describes himself as "basically self-taught" with the help of exercises and insights from numerous art instruction books and support from fellow artists at Monday morning sessions with a local painting group. He most recently exhibited at a gallery in Columbia.

"Although I have wanted to be a painter since my teen years," the artist said, "a turning point came during a visit to the south of France in 2000. Experiencing the light in Provence was a profound experience. My goal became learning to paint so that I can capture that light when I go back to France."

For the present, the artist paints from his home in the woods near the Youghiogheny River.

"The paintings in this exhibit portray my feelings for the beauty of our river and woods," he said.

Peacock describes the process of oil painting as a "conversation" in which he said he "asks the painting what it needs."

"Then, when I see the answer, I step up and respond in paint," he said. "This is the part I love. I never know when I start how the painting will unfold. I enjoy putting down the strokes that show form defined by light; this seems miraculous to me."

Additional information about the Riverscapes exhibit and the April 7 reception for Fred Peacock is available by calling the Garrett County Arts Council at 301-334-6580 or by visiting the council's web site at www.garrettarts.com.

Punk-Pop Bands Slated To Perform At Frostburg State

The Frostburg State University Programming Council's Concert Commission will present the punk-pop band The Starting Line at its annual spring concert on Saturday, April 23, at 7 p.m. in the Cordts Physical Education Center's Main Arena. The concert's opening act will be electronic rockers Head Automatica. Doors open at 6 p.m.

The Starting Line, comprising Ken Vasoil, Tom Gryskiewicz, Matt Watts, and Mike Golla, is a Pennsylvania-based punk-pop quartet that started out unlike most young groups, with a fully realized sound all its own. Their debut, "Say It Like You Mean It," sold in excess of 300,000 copies in just a year after being released. Because of the remarkable success of their first single, the band responded to the requests of fans by releasing a six-song acoustic EP titled The Make Yourself at Home EP.

The Starting Line has toured with New Found Glory and Finch and has played shows with Sum 41, Taking Back Sunday and Good Charlotte. A new album, Based on a True Story, is due out in the coming months.

Head Automatica is a collaboration between Glassjaw vocalist Daryl Palumbo and Dan "The Automator" Nakamura, producer and beatmaker for Handsome Boys Modeling School and Gorillaz, as well as drummer Larry Gorman, keyboardist Jim Greer, Josh Holden on bass, and Craig Bonich and Brandon Arnovick on guitar. The band's debut album, Decadence, hit stores last summer.

Tickets are $20, or $15 for FSU students with a valid ID, one ticket per student.

Tickets can be purchased at the Lane University Center box office Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., online at ces.frostburg.edu or by telephone at 301-687-3137 or toll free at 1-866-TIXX-CES.

For more information, persons may call the Lane University Center Information Desk at 301-687-4411.

GLAF To Present Duquesne Univ. Tamburitzans

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) will present the Duquesne University Tamburitzans on Saturday, April 9, at the Garrett College gymnasium at 8 p.m. Tickets are $20 for adults and $5 for youth 12 years and younger.

Paul Stafura, director of the Tamburitzans, will present a "program notes" talk one hour prior to the performance. This lecture demonstration, beginning at 7 p.m., also in the gym, is included in the price of the tickets. The dance program will then begin at 8 p.m. (Ticket-holders may go to either or both.)

The Duquesne University Tamburitzans present a new production each year, with cultural influences from the countries and ethnographic regions of Eastern and Southeastern Europe, including Armenia, Bosnia, Bulgaria, Croatia, Czech Republic, Georgia, Greece, Hungary, Macedonia, Poland, Romania, Russia, Serbia, Slovakia, Slovenia, Ukraine, and others.

"Wherever the Tamburitzans perform, their stage becomes a kaleidoscope of sight and sound," a GLAF spokesperson said. "Songs are sung in many languages and dialects, footwork is articulated in hundreds of styles, and folk instruments such as the bandura, tambura, gadulka, and cimbalom are played."

During the course of a single performance, over 400 original and authentically reproduced costumes are worn by the performers. Each costume design is researched for authenticity, then created for the stage.

"The result is a carousel of style and color from the first note to the final stomp," the GLAF spokesperson said.

Seating on the bleachers and gym floor is not reserved. Persons may call the GLAF office at 301-387-3082 for tickets and information.

The sponsor partners for the show are Judy and Jan Finkel and Dr. Charles A. Walch. The event sponsor for the Tamburitzans is MeadWestvāco.

Season sponsors for Garrett Lakes Arts Festival are Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, Wisp at Deep Creek Mountain Resort, and the Sprenger-Lang Foundation. Funding also comes from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

This project is partially supported by a grant from the Pennsylvania Performing Arts on Tour, a program developed and funded by the Vira I. Heinz Endowment, the William Penn Foundation, the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts, and the Pew Charitable Trusts, and administered by the Mid-Atlantic Arts Foundation.

TAMBURITZANS COMING TO GC – The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) will present the Duquesne University Tamburitzans on Saturday, April 9, at the Garrett College gymnasium at 8 p.m. The colorful, energized program will be entertaining to the entire family, a GLAF spokesperson said. Tickets are $20 for adults and $5 for youth 12 years and younger. A lecture by director Paul Stafura will precede the program at 7 p.m. Ticket-holders are invited to attend this presentation of program notes. See story.

Local Artist Honored By "Needlearts"

The National Academy of Needlearts (NAN) has presented Garrett County and Baltimore artist and designer Dolores Andrew with a lifetime achievement award. The Academy made the presentation on March 21 at the awards dinner of its 2005 Assembly for Embroiderers in Kansas City, Mo.

As part of the honor, the Academy included an exhibit of needlework representative of the lifetime body of work by Andrew during the four days of the assembly. The exhibit was a part of The Exemplary, which is the NAN exhibit of needlework from artists throughout the United States and Canada.

The National Academy of Needlearts established the award in 1995. The Lifetime Achievement Award is the highest honor bestowed by the Academy. Since the inception of the award, there have been just 14 other recipients.

This award is presented to the needle artist who, in the opinion of the Academy officials, upholds the highest ideals of the Academy. The recipient is also determined to fulfill the following: exemplifies outstanding achievement in more than one aspect of life in the needle arts, with special emphasis on the art of teaching; demonstrates the highest caliber of technical excellence in embroidery and in design; provides innovative and ongoing service to the needlework community; mentors fellow embroiders, either by example or direct teaching; compiles a body of embroidered works which show virtuosity of technique and design; and continues to grow throughout his/her career.

NAN has certified Andrew as a teacher at the honors level and a master judge of needlework. She has taught and judged needlework throughout the United States. She has written and illustrated three books on textile and needlework subjects. All published by Stemmer House Publishers, they are as follows: Italian Renaissance Textile Designs, 1986; Medieval Tapestry Designs, 1992; and American Sampler Designs, 1996.

Andrew earned a bachelor of fine arts degree from Syracuse University and a master of fine arts degree from the Maryland Institute College of Art. She is a member of the Garrett County Arts Council. Her artwork is exhibited at The Gallery in Oakland and at Penn Alps in Grantsville.

Andrew was a member of the art faculty at Essex Community College in Baltimore County until her retirement. She continues to serve on the summer faculty of the Rehoboth Art League in Rehoboth Beach, Del.

Established in 1985, NAN is an organization devoted to the advancement of embroidery as an art form. Its goal is to uphold the highest standards in the needle arts by providing excellence in education.

Biblical Dramatist Will Perform

Norm Arrington, biblical dramatist from Princeton, W.Va., will present original monologues in the area from April 3 to April 10.

A former pastor, Arrington has been involved in presenting monologues for the last 30 years. He has researched over 80 characters in the Old and New Testaments, and his dramas include authentic costumes.

Arrington has also toured professionally with Balfor Company.

The local schedule is as follows:

Meyersdale Pentecostal Apostolic Church, Sunday, April 3, at 10 a.m.;

The Abundant Life Christian Center, Berlin, Pa., Sunday, April 3, at 6 p.m.;

St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Grantsville, Tuesday, April 5, at 7 p.m.;

Cornerstone Assembly of God, Boynton, Pa., Wednesday, April 6, at 7 p.m.;

Full Gospel Bible Church, Meyersdale, Pa., Thursday, April 7, at 7 p.m.;

Oak Dale Mennonite Church, near Salisbury, Pa., Friday, April 8, at 7 p.m.;

Summit Mills Grace Brethren Church, Sunday, April 10, at 10:30 a.m.; and Meyersdale Grace Brethren Church, Sunday, April 10, at 7 p.m.

Arrington will also perform a monologue at the Pennsylvania Maple Festival Stage in Meyersdale on Wednesday, April 6, at noon and Sunday, April 10, at 1 p.m.

THE PLEASANT VIEW BAPTIST KIDZ CHOIR will perform Go, Go Jonah this Sunday, April 3, at 7 p.m. at Pleasant View Baptist Church. The choir is under the direction of Cassie Murphy, Vivian Thayer, and Teresa Weeks. The musical was written by director/songwriter Kathie Hill of Nashville, Tenn. Hill has written numerous children's musicals and serves as a consultant for the Genovox Music Group. "Go, Go Jonah is full of upbeat songs, humorous dialogue, and lots of fun-filled drama," said a church spokesperson. The 26-voice choir consists of children ages 5 years through sixth grade. In addition, the musical includes teens who will be portraying Jonah and other characters. "Creative staging, props, and special lighting will make this presentation a wonderful experience for the whole family," added the spokesperson. Pleasant View Baptist Church is located two miles south of Oakland along Rt. 219. For more information, persons may call 301-334-8515.

Amanda Garlitz, Jeremiah Guard Marry At Cherry Grove Church

Amanda Lynn Garlitz became the bride of Jeremiah Ray Guard on March 6, 2004. The double-ring ceremony took place at Cherry Grove Church of the Brethren, Grantsville, with Pastor Daymond Schmuck officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Robert and Renee Garlitz, Grantsville. The groom is the son of Dorsey and Wanda Guard, Friendsville.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a white chiffon gown with a sleeveless princess silhouette and a sheer organza overlay. The square neckline and shoulders were edged with pearls, and the waistline was accented with lace appliqués and adorned with sequins and pearls. The skirt was edged with lace that continued around to a chapel-length train that was also accented with appliqués, iridescent sequins, and pearls. The bride's headpiece featured a fingertip veil edged with satin, and was accented with pearls and rhinestones.

The bride carried a cascading bouquet of stargazers, roses, and miniature roses, accented with baby's breath and ivy.

Sarah Garlitz, cousin of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Trisha Broadwater, cousin of the bride; and Lacey Garlitz and Ashley Garlitz, sisters of the bride. Serving as the miniature bride was Shannon Miller, friend of the bride. Destiny Ritchie, cousin of the bride, was the flower girl.

The best man was Mike Diehl, friend of the groom. The groomsmen were Ed House, cousin of the groom; and Michael and Mitchell Guard, brothers of the groom. Serving as the miniature groom was Josh Mason, cousin of the bride. Garrett Wiehler, cousin of the groom, served as ring bearer. Matt Mason, cousin of the bride, escorted the grandmothers of the bride.

Homer and Debbie Hardinger, friends of the bride, attended the guestbook, and Tammy House, cousin of the groom, distributed the programs. Bethany Garlitz, cousin of the bride, distributed the bubbles.

The organist was Michelle Harman, friend of the bride. During the lighting of the unity candle and presentation of the mothers' roses, the songs "The Rose" and "From This Moment On" were sung by Alison Sines and Esther Schmuck.

The bridal party's flowers were designed and made by the Flowerloft, Grantsville. The flowers on the piano were in memory of Albert F. Garlitz, grandfather of the bride; and Leslie G. Guard and Walter W. Richter, grandfathers of the groom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Salisbury fire hall. The bride and groom were transported to the reception in a white stretch limousine provided by Platinum Coach, Cumberland. The limousine rental was a gift from the bride's grandmother, Pat Garlitz, and the bride's aunt, Sharon Mabry. Family and friends assisted with the decorations.

A two-layer elevated cake was made by Lois Dolan. It was accented with pearl beading and flowers, and featured a fountain and steps.

Food at the reception was provided by Hilltop Inn Restaurant, Grantsville. Triple-T DJ, Grantsville, provided the music. Lasting Memories, Cumberland, photographed the wedding and reception. Zach Keifer, friend of the bride, videoed both the wedding and the reception.

A bridal shower was hosted by the bride's mother and the wedding party at Hilltop Inn.

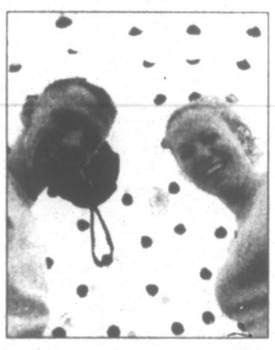
The groom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner at Hilltop Inn.

The bride is a graduate of Northern High School, Accident, and is the manager at the Pedi-CURE in LaVale.

The groom is also a graduate of Northern High School, and is the owner and operator of Guard's Farm in Friendsville.

Following a vacation to Disney World in Florida, the couple established residence in Friendsville.

Ms. Gardner, SSgt. Kitzmiller To Marry



Libby and Randy Kitzmiller announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their son Randy to Danielle Leigh Gardner of Swindon, England.

The prospective groom is a 1997 graduate of Southern High School and a staff sergeant in the U.S. Air Force. The bride-elect is a graduate of Bath University with a degree in environmental biology.

The wedding will be held Dec. 4, 2005, in Naples, Fla. The couple will reside in England.

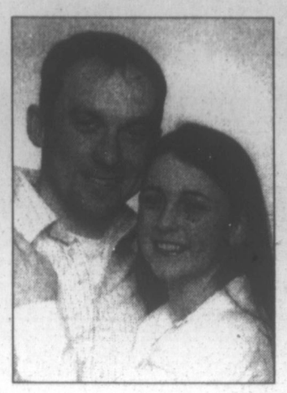
Wolfes To Celebrate 69th Anniversary

Florence Wolfe, 87, and Wayne Wolfe, 91, will celebrate their 69th wedding anniversary on Monday, April 4.

The couple are lifelong residents of Garrett County and reside along Cranesville Road.

They have two sons, John and Robert of Oakland, and one daughter, Carol of Danville, Va. They also have seven living grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Ms. Cover To Wed Mr. Zimmerman



Allen Cover of Bedford, Pa., and Pam Cover of Cumberland announce the engagement and forthcoming wedding of their daughter Jessica Rae to Matthew Lee Zimmerman, son of George (Butch) and Debbie Zimmerman of Oakland.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Cover and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Watson.

Jessica is a 2001 graduate of Fort Hill High School and plans to graduate from Frostburg State University on May 21 with a bachelor of science degree in early childhood/elementary education.

The prospective groom is the grandson of Mrs. Ellen Zimmerman and the late George (Bud) Zimmerman and Mrs. Opal Roy and the late Reland Roy.

Matthew is a 1997 graduate of Southern High School and a 2004 graduate of Garrett College, where he earned an associate's degree in elementary education. He is currently employed at Shirer's Tin Shop, Oakland, as an HV ARC technician.

The wedding will take place at Central Assembly of God, Cumberland, on July 23, with a reception to follow at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club. Invitations will be sent.

Marriage Permits Recently Issued

Four couples recently applied for their marriage licenses, according to David Martin, clerk of the Garrett County Circuit Court. One couple requested that their names not be published.

Dallas Kent Risser, 19, Maysville, W.Va., and Carmen Joy Yoder, 22, Bittinger.

Andrew Jerome Barrett, 36, and Kathryn Eileen Chichester, 30, both of Germantown.

NHS Opens With One-Hit Pitchers' Showcase Win

Although the pre-season prospectus for the Northern High School varsity baseball team singled out a lack of pitching depth as its Achilles' heel, the Huskies got off on the right foot in their season opener yesterday with a one-hit, 5-2 win over host Westmar. The victory tasted all the sweeter for the Northern squad, as three underclassmen teamed up on the mound to all but shut down the Wildcats, who had two unearned runs.

Starting junior pitcher Greg Beachy picked up the win, as the righty held Westmar hitless through the first five innings, garnering three strikeouts and walking four batters along the way. Classmate Mark Logsdon came to the mound for the sixth inning, and although the southpaw did not give up a hit or an earned run, he issued three walks, and the Huskies committed two fielding errors. Westmar's two unearned runs came in that inning. Sophomore catcher Corey Carr was moved from behind the plate to the mound for mop-up duty in the seventh, and tossed a stanza of shutout ball; however, a two-out Wildcat single foiled Northern's shot at a no-hit triumph.

NHS cranked out eight hits from the batter's box, including a solo home run blast by senior third baseman Eric Johnson. Preston Sisler smacked a double and a single, Michael Wolf ripped an RBI triple, and Trevor Butler drove home a run on a single.

The weather has wreaked havoc on the Huskies' schedule already, and at this point the current slate for the coming week is as follows: tomorrow, NHS at Beall; Saturday, Turkeyfoot and Mapletown visit NHS as each will play the Huskies once, with the Turkeyfoot game starting the proceedings at noon; Monday Northern visits Allegany; and on Wednesday Beall is scheduled to pay a visit to NHS for a 4:30 p.m. contest.

Rams Rip 'Cats In 13-1, Two-Hit Debut Triumph

The Southern High school varsity softball squad tore into its Westmar hosts yesterday for a 13-1 season-opener victory. The Rams stroked a total of 12 hits off two Wildcat pitchers, while SHS hurler Ashley Metcalfe held Westmar to a pair of singles in picking up a complete-game win.

Metcalfe's control was outstanding through her six innings of work in the abbreviated 10-run mercy rule victory, as the junior whiffed 11 batters while walking only two.

Southern mounted a balanced attack at the plate, paced by Metcalfe's two doubles and a single, and a pair of singles by senior Anna Lucas.

Southern scored two runs in the first and second innings, one in the third, and four each in the fourth and sixth innings. Westmar's lone run came in the sixth before the game was called on the 10-run rule.

Southern won the junior varsity game, 27-0.

The Rams are slated to visit Hampshire on Saturday and Allegany on Monday.

Rams To Open Track And Field Season This Afternoon At Keyser

The girls' and boys' track and field teams of Southern High School are scheduled to open their 2005 season this afternoon at Keyser.

The Southern girls are coached by Steve Cosner, while the boys' team is under the leadership of new head coach Tom Tusing.

The Southern girls will be working to improve on last season's team record of 22-14, and will have some rather large shoes to fill as a result of last spring's graduation. Top performers gone include Stephanie DiSimone, Natalie Domenick, Robbin Gregg, and Roxanne Hoalcraft.

Leaders back this season and promising new prospects include: senior Meghan Swartzentruber in discus, juniors Sarah Cosner and Kendra McLaughlin in sprints, Chelsea Wassell in hurdles, Melissa Ray and Kelly Taylor in pole vault, and sophomores Sarah Stephens in high jump and Melinda Smith in distance running.

"We have a pretty young team," Cosner said, "but we do have several athletes back who should make an impact in the area. I feel that our sprinting will be among the best in the area, and our hurdling should be greatly improved.

"Meghan Swartzentruber should be one of the area's best discus throwers, and should put points on the board at every meet."

Cosner said that weaknesses appear to be in distance events. "Our distance runners are our most inexperienced group on the team, but under the leadership of Melinda Smith, I think they will improve as the season progresses," he said.

"Our typical, terrible spring weather has made it impossible to work on our field events much at all, so we will probably be somewhat weak in our first few meets," he added.

Cosner expects Fort Hill to pose the strongest competition in the area, with Frankfort strong in distance events and Keyser generally good all around.

"Our season will come down to the regional meet in May," he said. "This year it has gone from 14 to 10 teams, which should give us a better opportunity to qualify girls for the state meet, our ultimate goal. Major goals would be winning the Western Maryland Interscholastic League team title and getting as many girls as possible to the state meet."

Tusing said that the SHS boys' team consists almost entirely of underclassmen who are competing in their first year.

"Our goal for the season is to build a good foundation for the years that follow," he said. "I am sure by the work ethic that I have seen so far this year many of these student athletes will improve greatly throughout the season, and some will find themselves competing at states."

After today's meet at Keyser, the Rams will be off until next Thursday when they will vie at Frankfort.

Husky Netters Downed By Host Sentinels

The Northern High School varsity tennis program stumbled in its season opener yesterday at Fort Hill, where the Huskies' girls' and boys' squads both met with defeat.

The NHS girls dropped a 5-2 match, despite a hard-fought 8-6 top-seed win by Amy Brenneman and an 8-0 sweep turned in by Amy Lander at fifth seed.

Northern's boys were downed in all five singles' matches and both doubles' outings. The Huskies' Gonzalo Velaquez turned in a fine effort at the Number One seed, narrowly being edged in a 9-8 (7-5) defeat.

NHS is slated to host Allegany Tuesday afternoon. The girls' squad is coached by Linda Wengerd, and the boys' unit is coached by George Lander.

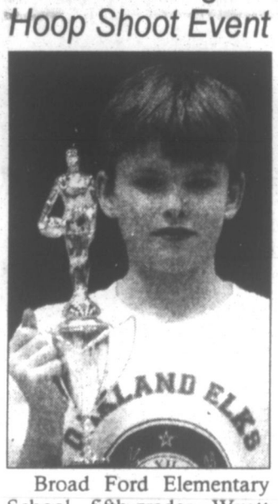
McBee Finishes Second In Region Hoop Shoot Event



Broad Ford Elementary School fifth-grader Wyatt McBee took second place in the boys' 10- and 11-year-old Region Semifinals of the Elks National Hoop Shoot Contest. McBee hit 19 of 25 shots in the regional competition, which took place earlier this month in Charleston, W.Va.

The 11-year-old, who had won earlier hoop shoots at the county, district and state levels, was sponsored by Oakland Elks Lodge #2481. He is the son of Chris Moran of Oakland and Rob McBee of Swanton.

SOUTHERN BOYS' CAGERS EARN AWARDS – The Ram boys' varsity basketball squad hustled its way through a superb 19-6 season, making it into the 1A West Region quarterfinals. Shown in the front row are Cory Bosley, Most Valuable Player; Corey Tressler, Most Outstanding Player and Best Free Throw Percentage Award; Evan Lantz, Best Post Defender Award; and Brad Reese, Best Perimeter Defender Award. Below are JV honorees Ryan DeWitt, Most Valuable Player; Tim Reams, Best Offensive Player; Michael Edwards, Best Defensive Player; and Eric Cussins, Coaches' Award. At the bottom are freshman standouts Jordan Pacella, Most Outstanding Player; Tommie Reams, Coaches' Award; and Drew Proudfoot, Most Improved Player.

GRAPPLER WILDESEN SALUTED – Southern High School varsity wrestling standout Scott Wildesen is shown with his wrestling uniform, which was retired after the four-year starter concluded his stellar high school wrestling career this season. Wildesen, the 2004 state champion at 160 pounds, placed third in the recent Maryland 1A/2A tournament at 171 pounds. His 112 career wins also included four Bi-County crowns, two Region titles, and three trips to the state tourney.

Morgan, Largent Named To All-Region XX Team

Sophomores Adam Morgan and Tristan Largent were named to the All-Region XX Division I NJCAA team for their outstanding work on the court for the Garrett College men's basketball team this past season.

The two were key figures in the Lakers' finishing the 2004-05 campaign with a 22-9 record and just missing winning the District III championships, which they lost to Allegany College of Maryland by a 66-64 margin.

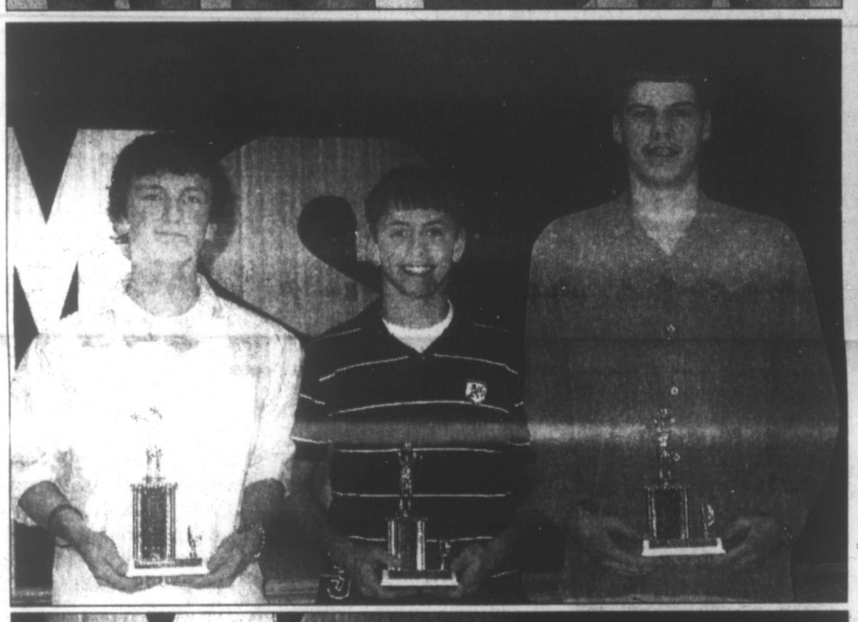
Morgan, a Cumberland native, averaged 17 points and five rebounds per outing for Coach Dennis Gibson and the Lakers, and made good on 55 of 122 attempts from three-point range for an impressive 43.5 percent effectiveness. The 6-9 center also led the team in foul shooting with an 85 percent finish (39 of 46).

"Adam has really improved his game and became a much more consistent player," Coach Gibson said. "He is able to spread defenses with his strong outside shooting, and he also improved in taking the ball to the basket. Some of his big shots resulted in some big wins for us."

Largent, a 5-10 point guard from Martinsburg, W.Va., averaged 11 points and just over five assists per game for the Lakers. He, too, shot well from long range, converting 45 of 119 attempts.

"Tristan was the true leader of our team," Gibson said. "He is a great ball handler and does a good job of distributing the ball."

Also named to the All-Region squad were Allegany's Jeremy Eck and James Hairston.



Lakers Fall To Rockville, 5-1; Fall Below .500

Weather conditions limited the Garrett College baseball team to just one game this past week, which ended in a 5-1 loss to Montgomery-Rockville last Thursday. The game was considered a home contest for the Lakers, but was played at Frostburg State College.

The Lakers matched Rockville in hits with five apiece, but committed six fielding errors that resulted in runs for the visitors.

Rockville's Daniel Hardwick knocked in three runs, while Luke Hardwick recorded a pair of singles for the Lakers.

Earning the win on the mound over GC's Craig Canfield was Nick Slameta, who tossed a complete-game five-hitter and struck out seven.

The loss dropped the Lakers to 5-6 overall and 0-3 in Maryland JUCO games. They were slated to play a doubleheader at Baltimore City on Tuesday, but that encounter had to be postponed because of weather conditions.

Garrett is scheduled to host Dundalk in a doubleheader this Saturday, with the first game beginning at 3 p.m. They will play a pair of games at Germantown on Sunday and then host Allegany College of Maryland in a single contest next Tuesday.

NHS GIRLS' JV HOOPS MIM AWARDS – The Northern High School girls' junior varsity basketball squad is a team that takes "thinking on its feet" to new heights. With one exception, the entire squad earned Minds In Motion awards for academic performances of attaining 87.5 percent grade averages or better in the classroom. Pictured kneeling in the front row, from the left, are Meggan Humberson, Amy Lander, Lindsay Wolf, and Amber Savage. Standing are Danielle Brenneman, Trish Wiley, Mariel Hady, Brittney Stein, Sarah Voelkel, Kasie Fratz, and Baylee Martin-Selders. The one team member who did not receive an MIM Award barely missed doing so, as she earned an 87.1 percent average.

NHS NETTERS, TEACHERS RAISE CHARITY FUNDS – The Northern High School varsity volleyball squad took on some of their present and former teachers in a charity volleyball match recently to benefit The Dove Center. Although the photos poke fun at the "losers," everyone was truly a winner as the benefit helped raise $300 that was presented to Dove Center representative Cpt. Larry Gnegy of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. The Husky netters are pictured above; from the left in the first row are Nicole Kovach and Dani Glotfelty. In the second row are Jackie Rodeheaver, Carly Chase, Jessica Fratz, Tara Devine, Jayme Miller, Esther Schmuck, and Amanda Anderson. In the third row are Angie Umbel, Lakin Weimer, and Keri Bachtel. Shown below is the teachers' team, and in the front row are Gayle Grimm, Jill Rodeheaver, Christine Ashby, Becky Fike, Sheila Miller, and Angie Rush. In the back row are NHS volleyball head coach Linda Wengerd, Mary VanSickle, Connie Kamp, Janet Herring, Ida Maust, Kathy Shoemaker, and NHS assistant coach Gale Keller (Not pictured are teacher Sarah Pletcher, and referees Warren Glotfelty and Damon Schmuck).

would restrict the placement of tobacco products to behind the counter in all retail locations, thus limiting minors access to them.

The committee gave the bill a favorable report. It now must be approved by the Senate, House, and governor.

Glotfelty said the committee's Sen. Jennie Forehand called him and complimented the students on their presentation.

The health officer also reported that several proposed bills allocating funding for the Medbank of Maryland program had been submitted in the General Assembly this year. The program helps underinsured and uninsured Marylanders purchase their medical prescriptions.

Social Services

The Garrett County Department of Social Services has been able to "backfill" all child welfare vacancies, reported Director Rick DeWitt. He noted, however, that he still has not been able to fill other vacancies, such as those in clerical areas. The positions cannot be filled yet because of state funding cutbacks and a hiring freeze.

The director also reported that he received positive comments from the 60 staff members who participated in the county's first Community Emergency Response Training (CERT) session. The purpose of the course is to train citizens to be better prepared to respond to emergency situations in their communities, thus helping to support the work of professional and volunteer first responders.

"We came away with a renewed appreciation for responders," DeWitt said about the three classes that were held at Garrett College earlier this month.

The Garrett County Office of Emergency Management conducted the course, which were paid for by a Homeland Security grant. Brad Frantz, Emergency Management director, said the first CERT session was a great success. "It was training funds well spent," he said.

Planning and Land Development

Director John Nelson, Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Development, said the county would probably receive about $85,000 from the state for Program Open Space projects this year. That amount is roughly the same as last year, but smaller than in previous years, Nelson noted.

Local towns and organizations that have expressed interest in the funding will receive letters from Nelson's department outlining application procedures.

The director also reported that the state's Board of Public Works still needs to approve the allocation of $300,000 for a local Rural Legacy area.

The money, which was allocated by the governor in February, will be used to purchase a conservation easement on a 165-acre farm in the Bear Creek drainage area to help preserve farm land in Garrett County.

Ruth Enlow Library

Director Cathy Ashby, Ruth Enlow Library, reported that the Senate recently approved a funding bill for public libraries. "Things are looking very good," she said about the prospects of it passing in the General Assembly.

The director also reported that the local library branches were again eligible for a Gates . Foundation grant. The funds would be used to purchase new computers and new software for computers that were purchased with a previous Gates grant.

Economic Development

The Garrett County Department of Economic Development continues to work with American Woodmark, reported Director Jim Hinebaugh. The cabinet company plans to construct and operate a dimensions mill at the new Keyser's Ridge Industrial Park.

Hinebaugh said a ground-breaking ceremony had been tentatively planned at the site for April 19. Gov. Bob Ehrlich and Lt. Gov. Michael Steele will be invited.

Roads Department

Garrett County Roads Department crews are working on drainage projects and cleaning up anti-skid, reported Fred Polce, general superintendent. When weather permits, paving crews will start on Blue Ribbon, Mt. Zion, and Dry Run roads.

Woman Charged

Carolyn Miller, 38, Aurora, W.Va., was charged with drunk driving following a motor vehicle accident on Weber Road near Short Stop convenience store Monday evening.

Miller failed field sobriety tests at the scene. She was charged with driving under the influence, driving while impaired by alcohol, and speed greater than reasonable. Miller was released pending a future court date.

Garrett County SKIES

By Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

THE SUN – The sun spends the first 17 days of April in the star group Pisces. On April 18 the sun enters Aries, where it stays till May 13. The amount of daily sunlight slowly grows by more than two minutes a day in April; from about 12 hours and 40 minutes to 13 hours and 52 minutes by month's end. In early April, the sun rises about 6:55 a.m. Eastern Daylight Time (EDT), and sets around 7:45 p.m. In late April sunrises are about 6:20 a.m. (EDT) while sunsets are about 8:10 p.m. The sun's midday height during April grows from 55 to 65 degrees (45 degrees is halfway from the horizon to the top of the sky). In April, the length of twilight is an hour. This means that the fainter stars fade from view about an hour before sunrise and the fainter stars reappear an hour after sunset. In mid-April, we have about 8.8 hours each night for star gazing.

THE MOON – As April begins, the moon shines in the early morning sky. The crescent moon appears near the planet Mars on April 3-4, low in the southeastern dawn. From April 7-9, the moon hides in the sun's glare. On April 11 the moon may be seen as a very sharp cresent very low in the dusk near the Pleiades (Seven Sisters) star cluster. By April 15, the moon has grown to half full, appearing as a letter "D," the best moon shape to view the craters with binoculars. On this same evening, the moon appears near the planet Saturn. On April 21-22, the nearly full moon appears near the very bright planet Jupiter. The moon grows to full on the evening of April 23, then shining near the star Spica, Virgo's brightest star. Four days later, the moon will have shifted to the morning sky, rising after midnight.

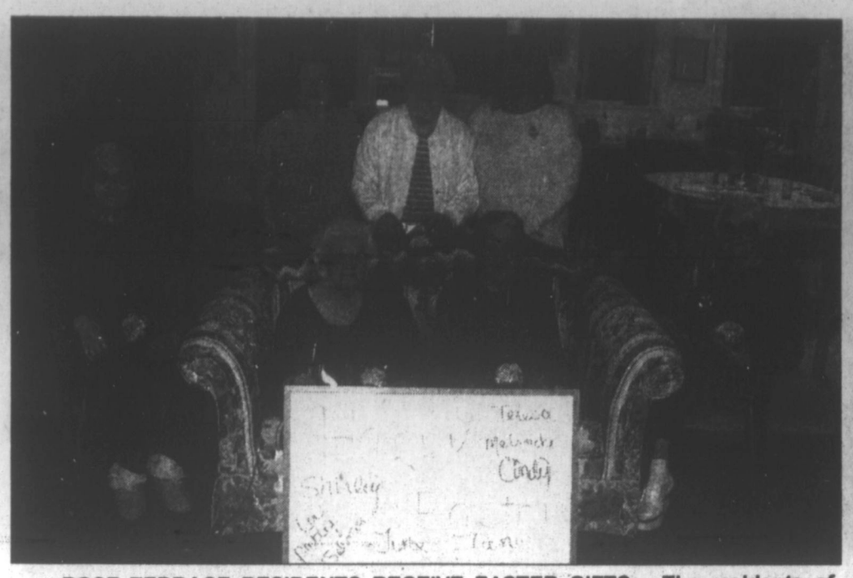
THE SOLAR SYSTEM – Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine steady, unlike the bright night stars that twinkle. The brilliant planet Venus and the innermost planet Mercury are too close to the sun to be seen in April. Low in the southeastern dawn is the planet Mars. The bright planet Saturn shines in the southwestern evening sky, appearing near the bright head stars of Gemini. The very bright planet Jupiter is brightest and closest to the Earth in early April. As it gets dark, Jupiter can be seen low in the East, outshining all the stars in the night sky.

THE STARS – The Big Dipper is highest in the North; its two leftmost stars point down to the North Star, a modest star about halfway up in the North. Follow the Big Dipper's handle to the right and you'll see bright golden Arcturus, the first bright spring evening star to appear. April is the last month to see the star group Orion and the bright star Sirius, moving closer to the western horizon each night. Orion's belt of three stars in a row points left to Sirius, the night's brightest star. By May, Orion and Sirius will be setting as the sky turns dark.

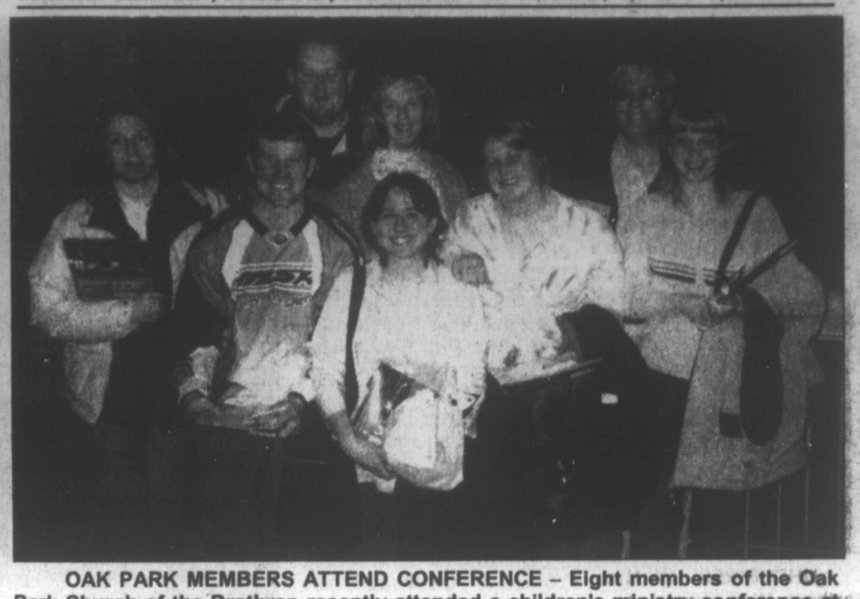
APRIL ASTRONOMY ACTIVITIES – The Frostburg State Planetarium program for April is "The Lives and Deaths of the Stars" at 4 and 7 p.m. each Sunday in Tawes Hall, Room 302. The public programs last about 50 minutes, and begin with a brief tour of the current evening sky. Persons may call 301-687-4270 for directions and further information.

The Frostburg State Planetarium will mark National Astronomy Day with an open house beginning at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, April 16. Weather permitting, there will be outside telescope observing of the moon and planets, as well as a planetarium presentation. Free sky materials will be available.

Dr. Doyle writes this column for beginners who would like to identify the brightest stars, planets and sights in their backyards. To ask questions or request a 2005 Sky Calendar, winter/spring sky charts, or a brochure, persons may call the FSU Planetarium at 301-687-4270 and press 4. Doyle hosts "SkyWatch," a brief program on days of the week and sky sights, that airs weekday evenings just before 9 p.m. on WFWM at 91.9 FM in western Garrett County and 96.3 FM in the Oakland area. Doyle's e-mail address is rdoyle@frostburg.edu.



ROSE TERRACE RESIDENTS RECEIVE EASTER GIFTS – The residents of Rose Terrace Assisted Living in Oakland recently received Easter presents courtesy of Green Acres and Wal-Mart. The ladies were presented with corsages, and a Wal-Mart card was given to the facility to benefit the residents. These surprises were orchestrated by Cindy Ahern, medical technician. Seated, from the left, are Betty DeWitt, Vonda McIntire, Dorothy Jackman, and Doug Malone. Standing are Selma Cummings (medical technician), Janice Ross, and Ahern. Absent were Phyllis Winkelvoss and medial technicians Teresa Lipscomb, Louella Nazelrod, Jane Otto, Patty Friend, and Shirley Guinn (manager).



OAK PARK MEMBERS ATTEND CONFERENCE – Eight members of the Oak Park Church of the Brethren recently attended a children's ministry conference at Willow Creek Community Church, which is the largest church in the country and is located in Barrington, Ill. The Oak Park team was among 4,650 people from 34 countries who attended the three-day conference. Oak Park started using Willow Creek's Sunday school curriculum this past September, which is geared toward children of all ages. Their curriculum titled Promiseland uses "relevant and application-oriented teaching, creative programming, engaging worship and fun for kids of all ages," according to a church spokesperson. "Oak Park Church strives for Promiseland to be the best hour of very kid's week," the spokesperson added. The church is currently undergoing an expansion project, which should be complete in May. For more information, persons may call 301-334-2243. Pictured above, in the front from the left, are Karen Keefer, Ricky Hamilton, and Ruth Hamilton. In the back are Jason Buckley, Kelly Buckley, Christie Hamilton, Pastor Mel Menker, and Melissa Snyder.

Couple Faces Charges After Alleged Assault

A couple was arrested Wednesday at their North Glade Road residence after police responded to a reported domestic assault, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Upon arrival, Robert Thomas, 34, and Jodie Thomas, 32, were both arrested and charged with second-degree assault. They were transported to the Garrett County Detention Center awaiting a bond hearing.

More Women

creased by 31 percent in the last decade and now makes up 59.5 percent of all degrees. Women exceed men in all degrees and certificates except doctorates.

The number of degrees and certificates earned by minority women nearly doubled in the last 10 years. Minority women are responsible for nearly half of the increase, and African-American women alone represent one-third of the increase.

The results of follow-up surveys conducted by the commission show that while the vast majority of Maryland bachelor's degree recipients were employed one year after graduation, a higher percentage of men were working full-time while more of the women were working part-time. And, among just those Maryland bachelor's degree recipients employed full-time one year after graduation, women reported earning less than men. Likewise, there is a salary gender gap among Maryland community college graduates employed full-time after graduation.

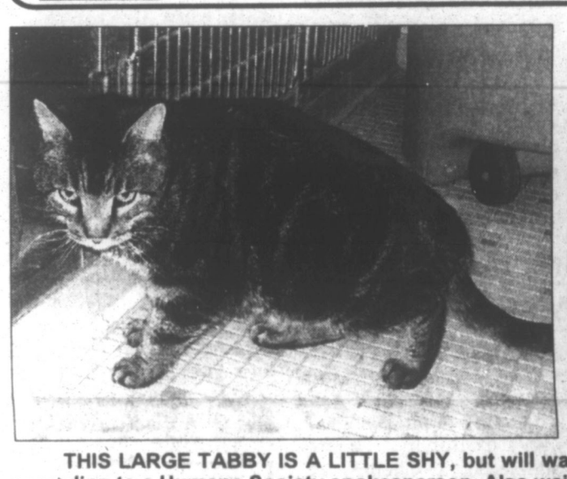
Adorable Adoptables



THIS LARGE TABBY IS A LITTLE SHY, but will warm up to you if you love it, according to a Humane Society spokesperson. Also waiting to be adopted from the Garrett County Animal Shelter is a large Lab/Pyrenees mix named Bear. He is said to be big, but obedient and friendly. His former owners said he is good with kids and other dogs and is used to being inside. "He may like to go outside some," said the spokesperson, "but you will need to have a fenced-in yard and not tie him." Last week's featured collie/shepherd mix is still looking for a home. "She is nice, but will need some love and attention in order to gain some manners," said the spokesperson. Other pets may also be available for adoption at the animal shelter. For more information, persons may call 301-334-3553.

JRL Opening Delayed Until Further Notice

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers at Jennings Randolph Lake has announced that due to high water conditions from recent heavy rainfall, the opening of the Howell Run Boat Launch originally scheduled for Friday, April 1, will not occur. The Corps boat ramp will remain closed until further notice.

The boat launch on the Maryland shore, which is managed by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, will also not open as scheduled. The Maryland launch is on Mt. Zion Road off Maryland State Route 135, near the salt shed on Backbone Mountain.

For further information concerning the lake closure, persons may call 304-355-2346 or 301-359-3861 on weekdays from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. For information on the Maryland DNR boat launch persons may contact the Herrington Manor/Swallow Falls State Forest office at 301-334-9180 during the same hours.

Lawmakers Face Deadline To Hash Out Property Tax Cut, School Money

by Mike Torralba
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Defying the House of Delegates, the Senate on Tuesday passed an amended budget that dashes a proposed cut in property tax. The approval sets the stage for negotiations — called a conference committee — between the upper chamber and the House late this week.

The Legislature is required to agree on the $26 billion budget by Monday.

While the Senate was voting on the operating budget, the House was introducing its capital budget proposal, which includes more than $250 million for public-school construction.

Senators had deemed unaffordable the House plan to roll back the property tax rate by a nickel to 8 cents for every $100 of assessed value. That means the owner of a house worth $100,000 would save $48 in taxes.

Gov. Robert Ehrlich, who in 2003 raised the rate to its current level to balance the budget, opposes the House proposal.

House Speaker Michael Busch, D-Anne Arundel, hinted that he might relent on pushing for the property-tax cut.

"You come down here, and you have give and take," Busch said. "I hope the conferees will have a common ground."

Delegates who supported the cut said rising property assessments and an improving economy would cushion the blow to state coffers. Three Republican senators voted against the part of the budget related to revenue, which left out the property tax cut but raised criminal- and traffic-court fees and imposed a $45 monthly fee on participants in a program to assist convicted drunken drivers.

"Taking the combination of taxes and fees, it just was not something I could support," said Sen. E.J. Pipkin, R-Queen Anne's.

Sen. Alex Mooney, R-Frederick, agreed. The other senator voting "nay," Minority Whip Andrew P. Harris, R-Baltimore County, could not be reached for comment.

The vote on the spending portion of the budget was unanimous. Meanwhile, the House got the ball rolling on a $670 million capital budget, the spending plan for construction and other long-term projects.

It redirects or cuts $79 million from a myriad of capital items to increase spending on public school construction beyond the $157 million Ehrlich had set aside. Another $15 million will come from come from dedicated school funds in the capital budget, for a total $250 million for school construction, the amount recommended by a state task force last year.

"In almost every instance where a reduction was made in other program areas, the funds were redirected to meet the dire need of our K-through-12 public school system," said capital budget subcommittee chairwoman Adrienne Jones, D-Baltimore County, in a news release.

Aside from school construction, the House capital budget shunts $25 million toward various local projects and $5 million spread among seven hospitals around the state.

HONORED AS "MOST BEAUTIFUL" – David C. Moon was recognized as Garrett County's Most Beautiful Person for 2004 by the Maryland You Are Beautiful program during an Annapolis ceremony early this past winter. The current president of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, Moon has volunteered with the organization for a total of 16 years and has been instrumental in raising funds for the squad's new building. He has served as pastor of the Fairview Church for over 35 years, and volunteers his time as a congregational moderator at various churches. He also visits and preaches regularly at Underwood South. Moon thanked his family, friends, and fellow congregants for their encouragement and support throughout his life. "I was taught from childhood to serve God and my fellow men to the best of my ability," he said as he accepted the award. "I owe this to my late mother, father, and brother. I will continue to serve where I can and who I can, as long as I am spiritually and physically able." Pictured from the left are Garrett County commissioner David Beard, Maryland assistant secretary of tourism Dennis Castleberry, Annapolis mayor Ellen Moyer, Miss Maryland Tiffany Jenkins, Moon, Maryland You Are Beautiful Program director Floraine Applefeld, Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development Secretary Aris Melissaratos, and GC commissioner Fred Holliday.

Census Report: Maryland Continues To Be Among Best-Educated States

by Megan McIlroy
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — Maryland continued to be one of the best-educated states in the country in 2004, when 35.2 percent of adults held at least a bachelor's degree, according to a Census Bureau report to be released Monday.

That rate — for people age 25 or older — was fifth-best in the country, according to the Census. But the report also showed that Hispanics in Maryland, as in the rest of the nation, lag far behind most other racial and ethnic groups when it comes to higher education. Just 15.5 percent of Maryland Hispanics had a bachelor's degree or better in 2004, while the national rate was 12.1 percent.

State education officials said that, while still relatively low, the number of Hispanics with college degrees has grown faster than any other ethnic group in the last 10 years.

They said the report, overall, is good news for Maryland and its economy. The Census said that, nationwide, people with a bachelor's degree earn almost twice as much as those with just a high school diploma.

"The baccalaureate has increasingly become the union card to the professions," said Michael Keller, director of the Office of Policy Analysis and Research at the Maryland Higher Education Commission.

Keller said that because Maryland is a relatively wealthy state, it tends to attract a higher percentage of degree holders. That, in turn, attracts the companies that help keep the economy here vital, he said.

"What you have is a highly educated workforce," he said. The Census report said Asians were the most highly educated ethnic group in Maryland in 2004, with 50.7 percent of Asians over age 25 holding bachelor's degrees or better.

Non-Hispanic whites were next, with college degrees held by 39 percent of them. The report said 27.3 percent of blacks in the state had degrees in 2004.

But Keller said that all ethnic groups in Maryland — except whites — have had an increase in the percentage of people who hold degrees in the past 10 years.

"All the growth was due to racial and ethnic minorities," he said.

Despite their overall lower numbers, the most explosive growth was among Hispanics. A Maryland Higher Education Commission report released this month said that Hispanics have experienced a 76 percent increase in the number of students with bachelor's degrees since 1994 — the highest increase of any of the other ethnic groups measured in the state.

But Natali Fani, an advocacy specialist for Casa de Maryland, says there are still many obstacles for Hispanics in Maryland who seek a higher education.

"Many people really want to go to college," she said, "but unfortunately not everyone has the opportunity."

She said that many Hispanics who live in Maryland may be undocumented citizens, so they do not have Social Security numbers — which most colleges require for entry. And Hispanics who are not in Maryland permanently, but are here on temporary provisional status, are not eligible for in-state tuition, even if they live in state and have been here for years, Fani said.

She said that many Hispanics who are on temporary provisional status are also not eligible for scholarships. That forces many to get an associate's degree at a community instead because it is cheaper.

But Keller said that the increasing availability of community college education for all groups — along with increases in financial aid and scholarships for many — should help the state continue to remain among the best-educated in the country.

He said access to higher education in the country is becoming increasingly "egalitarian" (equal and fair) and he is confident no group, including Hispanics, will be left behind.

Bar, Restaurant Smoking Ban Dies Again; Sponsors Eying Next Year

by Ryan Basen
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS - After a plan to ban smoking in Maryland bars and restaurants failed for the third year, the measure's cosponsors vowed again to keep bringing it up until it passes.

Sen. Ida Ruben, D-Montgomery, and Delegate Barbara Frush, D-Prince George's, said they thought their proposed ban would pass this year — their third attempt, after smoking bans were enacted in New York City, Italy and Ireland. But two committees voted against their identical bills earlier this month, killing the proposal for the year.

Yet Frush and Ruben are unfazed, promising to introduce the bill again next year — when lawmakers are clamoring for re-election.

"We can pull it off next year," Frush said. "We figure people look differently at things sometimes in election years versus off-years — especially if you hear from voters."

The Senate Finance Committee defeated the proposal 5-5 on March 7, with Chairman Thomas Middleton, D-Charles, abstaining. The House Health and Government Operations Committee followed suit Tuesday, by a 12-11 vote, with one member citing the Senate panel's rejection as a prominent reason for its failure.

At hearings, opponents such as the Restaurant Association of Maryland said banning smoking would harm restaurant and bar businesses, especially in border towns and seasonal places.

But the habit of just 15 percent of Marylanders who smoke, Ruben and Hubbard countered, damages the health of other patrons and employees. Ruben and Frush said the issue is black and white: "Either you are pro-business or pro-health." They expect pro-health advocates to eventually prevail, but not until voters get behind them.

"I don't know if it will be an election issue," Ruben said, "unless people who feel strongly about it make it an election issue."

The family of Richard G. Yommer would like to express our deepest gratitude to our friends and neighbors for all the lovely cards, food, monetary gifts and encouraging phone calls to help us through our difficult time. We would especially like to thank Dr. Bissell, the Goodwill Mennonite Nursing Home, Hospice of Garrett County and Elonda Wright, RN, for all their support.

Pastor Pat Pittsnogle provided a touching service, and we would like to thank her for all of her visits with Richard at home, as well as at the hospital and nursing home.

Thank you to the Newman Funeral Home for all of their help and the American Legion Post 214 of Grantsville for their gravesite service.

God bless you all, Shirley Yommer and family

Antibiotics Really Are Different Than Other Drugs

Correcting misconceptions about antibiotics and how they should be used is a difficult task. Commonly, we think of them like other drugs. They are not. For instance, pain medication can be considered "mild" or "strong" depending on the type or the dose. Antibiotics are VERY different. An antibiotic is the key that fits into a specific lock designed to kill a specific bacteria. Some antibiotics are thought of as being "strong," meaning that their keys fit many more locks and kill many more types of bacteria. However, antibiotics considered "strong" have infections they will not treat.

When it comes to treating infections, the most important decision is not to pick the strongest antibiotic. The goal is to pick the antibiotic most likely to kill and clear the bacteria causing your infection. A sinus infection is typically caused by different organisms than a skin infection, and so on. Keep in mind that the common cold and many other infections are viral. Antibiotics will not treat a viral infection. The next time you are prescribed an antibiotic, remember the "strongest" is not necessarily the best. Talk to your doctor and pharmacist if you have additional questions.

SAVAGE CYCLES INC.

Savage Cycles Inc. is located at 16705 Old National Pike, Frostburg. Jointly owned by Sean Snyder, Mike Dixon, and Jeremy Gordon, the shop has been at this location for 10 months, but has been in business for 2½ years.

Savage Cycles builds custom motorcycles from the ground up, including all fabrication and custom painting. They also offer full service and detailing for motorcycles.

In addition, the shop includes a showroom with parts, accessories, and a full line of apparel.

"We build all of our motorcycles in-house from the frame to the paint – not many bike builders do that," Snyder said.

Snyder's previous experience includes 10 years of working as a custom painter/airbrusher and 15 years as a mason. Dixon worked as a carpenter for 8 years, and Gordon worked as a fabricator/welder for 15 years.

The three owners built the showroom themselves, and commented, "It has a very dungeon-like, almost club atmosphere. We have lots of skulls, a metal walkway to our apparel lounge, and so much more. We started working on the showroom hard in August so we could open for Halloween."

Additional employees include John Shumake, who is a certified mechanic; Bobby Werner, painter; and Becky Harris and Lorrie Snyder, who help out in the office.

For more information, persons may call Savage Cycles Inc. at 301-689-1861.

Md.'s Per Capita Personal Income Remains Among Highest in Nation

by I-Wei J. Chang
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — Maryland's per capita personal income grew 4.8 percent to $39,247 in 2004, the fourth-highest level in the nation, according to new figures from the Commerce Department.

The report Monday by the Bureau of Economic Analysis said Maryland's per capita income was well above the national average of $32,937, and the growth rate from 2003 was slightly above the national 4.7 percent rate.

While the relatively high income can make Maryland an expensive place to do business — the state also had the fourth-highest income level in 2003 — most business officials welcomed the news Tuesday.

"It's a positive effect on the overall business climate," said Richard Parsons, president of the Montgomery County Chamber of Commerce. "The retail sector, in particular the auto industry, tends to do well when personal income is increasing. It's also good for home builders."

The Maryland Retailers Association said that higher income levels translated into good retail sales in 2004.

"That's good for Maryland retailers, especially because the trend has been for 15 months (that) the strongest sales have been chalked up by the stores that sell high-end merchandise," said Tom Saquella, president of the retailers association.

Higher personal income may also boost some lower-end businesses and mid-level department stores, Saquella said.

Another official said there is no question that Maryland's high disposable incomes are attracting higher-quality retail establishments, such as Nordstrom.

Greater spending power has encouraged the "proliferation of fine restaurants" and high-end recreational activities, said Richard Story, chief executive officer of the Howard County Economic Development Authority.

Story said high personal incomes may be a "mixed blessing" for some businesses. Higher labor costs make doing business in the state more expensive, he said. But many employers, such as those in homeland security and defense, need highly trained, specialized workforces that usually earn more than $100,000 annually, he said.

A state government official said that Maryland may be seen as a more expensive state to do business, but that's OK — it is also seen as a state with a better-quality workforce.

"We don't sell Maryland as low-value labor costs," said Chris Foster, deputy secretary of the state Department of Business and Economic Development. "We prefer to compete in the high-end workforce that is highly educated."

Higher labor costs are tied to the overall cost of living, but Foster said the average increases in income outstripped increases in the state's cost of living last year. That was supported by Towson University economist John Hopkins, who said the consumer price index rose 2.8 percent in the Baltimore-Washington region last year.

Foster said every high-paying job creates a multiplier effect on the economy, trickling down from the top earners to lower income levels.

But Tom Hucker, executive director of Progressive Maryland, challenged the benefits of trickle-down economics. High-wage earners may shop at a local mall, but some invest their money in the stock market or buy real estate in other states, Hucker said.

"That doesn't help Maryland's economy at all," he said.

Hucker suggested giving money directly to low-income workers by raising the minimum wage.

"For low-wage workers, there's no question that they'll spend it right away in the local economy," which is important for the store owner who immediately receives that dollar, he said.

More Women In College Than Men, MD Report States

In the last 25 years, the number of women enrolling at Maryland colleges and universities increased at more than double the rate of men, according to a new report released by the Maryland Higher Education Commission. Many of the " Women Students in Maryland Higher Education: Enrollment, Completion and Employment Trends," reflect national trends.

The highlights of the report include:

•Women now make up 59 percent of the state's college student population.

•In the past 10 years alone, women have represented almost three-fourths of the total enrollment growth in Maryland higher education.

•Minority women are responsible for almost two-thirds of the total enrollment growth. African American women alone are responsible for almost half of the total growth, increasing by 55 percent.

•The enrollemnt of Hispanic women has grown at the fastest rate, almost doubling their enrollment.

•Asian women have increased their enrollment by 39 percent.

•In contrast, enrollment of white women in Maryland has fallen by 5 percent.

Women have consistently led men in six-year graduation rates at public four-year institutions, according to the report. In the most recent year, the figures were 66 percent for women compared to 55 percent for men. As a result of increased enrollment and sustained academic success, the number of total degrees awarded to women in-

Elizabeth Randol Celebrates 100th

A celebration was held Saturday at the Goodwill Retirement Community, as Mtn. Lake Park native Elizabeth ("Betty") Randol reached her 100th birthday. Several family members and friends were present for the party. Mrs. Randol was born on March 26, 1905.

The centenarian was schooled first at Loch Lynn Elementary, and then graduated from Oakland High School. She earned both a bachelor of science degree and a master of science degree at the University of Maryland.

Many local persons know Mrs. Randol as a teacher, since she served in that capacity at Southern High School for 20 years. She also served a stint as a cafeteria supervisor for Garrett County.

However, her most important job, she said, was as a wife, mother, and now grandmother. She has two children, Barbara and Edward, and grandchildren. Her nephew is Dr. Herbert Leighton of Oakland.

In her days of schooling, the retired teacher said the process of learning was quite different from today.

"We did not have computers or any of the help available today. We studied reading, writing, and arithmetic. Our teacher taught all subjects to all students in all grades.

"In high school, we did have more individual attention," she said, "with a different teacher for each subject. Typewriters were available for commercial students, too."

Since her father had been a school teacher, she said she had invaluable teaching within her home, too.

In looking back over her life, Mrs. Randol said her most special memories are those involving travel. Many years ago, she and her husband flew to Montreal and then went by train across Canada, and then boarded a ship and traveled to Alaska. She also took two trips to Hawaii, and went by ship on the North Sea to Russia. She flew to Europe and visited several countries there, and also went on a Caribbean cruise, stopping at Cuba, Haiti, Puerto Rico, and Montego Bay. She spent a number of winters in Florida as well, and took many trips to California.

In an interview with her great-nephew, she told him she thinks her best physical feature are her teeth — she has all of them, and they are strong and healthy.

In answer to another of her great-nephew's questions, she said one of the most important things in life is having many good friends who remain so for years. Many were on hand to celebrate her milestone, and to wish her continued good health.

OAKLAND COOPERATIVE

WADE HARSH
EMPLOYEE OF THE MONTH

Wade Harsh has been employed as a Field Sales Associate for Southern States Oakland Cooperative since November 2003. A former full-time dairy farmer, Wade and his wife Mary continue to raise dairy heifers, corn, pumpkins, and beef cattle on their farm near Eglon, West Virginia.

Whether you are feeding one animal or one hundred, or fertilizing the backyard or the back forty, Wade can recommend the right products from Southern States to maximize the results you are looking for.

Southern States...Brands You Trust, People Who Know.

Wade's Recommendation of the Week:

Now is the perfect time to take soil samples — before you apply fertilizer. If you are applying fertilizer without a soil test you are probably wasting money!

Drop off your samples and tell us what crop you are growing. We'll have your sample tested and recommend what fertilizer and lime to apply for only $8.95 per sample.

We do samples for lawns, too!

Seniors Informed On How To Live Longer, Stronger

National Public Health Week will be celebrated across the U.S. from April 4 through 10. The theme this year is Empowering Americans to Live Stronger, Longer! As a part of this year's celebration, the Garrett County Health Department will share information with people over age 65 to help them overcome barriers to health care and to actively improve the quality of their lives. The goal is to prevent, protect, and plan – the 3 P's.

Older adults can prevent many of the common health problems that can slow them down in their later years. The health department offers these preventive measures:

•Keep immunizations up-to-date. In 2002, 7 in 10 Americans over age 65 did not have a recent flu shot and 6 in 10 had never received a pneumonia vaccine. Persons are urged to call Personal Health at the Garrett County Health Department (301-334-7770 or 301-895-3111) or speak with one's own health care provider.

•Take prescribed medicines. Nearly 1 in 4 older adults skip doses of medicine or do not fill prescriptions because of the cost. To inquire about getting help with the cost of medications, persons may call MedBank at the Garrett County Health Department (301-334-7742 or 301-895-3113). For any questions about prescriptions, talk with a pharmacist or a health care provider.

•Make homes safe. Falls are the most common cause of injuries to older adults. More than one-third of adults over age 65 fall each year. Simple measures like removing tripping hazards in the home and installing grab bars can go a long way in preventing falls.

•Adopt a healthy lifestyle. People who are physically active, eat a healthy diet, avoid tobacco products, and practice other healthy behaviors reduce their risk of diseases and have half the rate of disability of those who do not.

Older adults can protect their health by making sure that they get all health screenings on the schedule recommended by their health care provider. Some of these health screenings include:

•Cancer screening – colonoscopy, mammogram, PSA test (prostate-specific antigen), and digital rectal exam. Early detection of colorectal cancer, breast cancer, and prostate cancer greatly improves the chances of survival. Talk with a health care provider for questions about cancer screening.

•High blood pressure screening – High blood pressure is the most common chronic condition among older adults. Because high blood pressure doesn't have any warning symptoms, having one's blood pressure checked at least every one to two years is important.

•Glaucoma screening – Glaucoma is a serious vision condition that can lead to blindness. It is treatable if detected. An annual vision screening is recommended for older adults.

•Diabetes – More than 20 million Americans between the ages of 40 and 74 have higher than normal blood glucose levels, a condition called "pre-diabetes." If it is detected early, through an annual blood glucose test, lifestyle changes can prevent the onset of diabetes.

Older adults can plan to stay healthy by working with their family members and health care providers to manage their conditions and to live a long, healthy life. They are also urged to complete a living will with the help of one's family members. Forms to do this are available at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital volunteer desk or the Social Services Department.

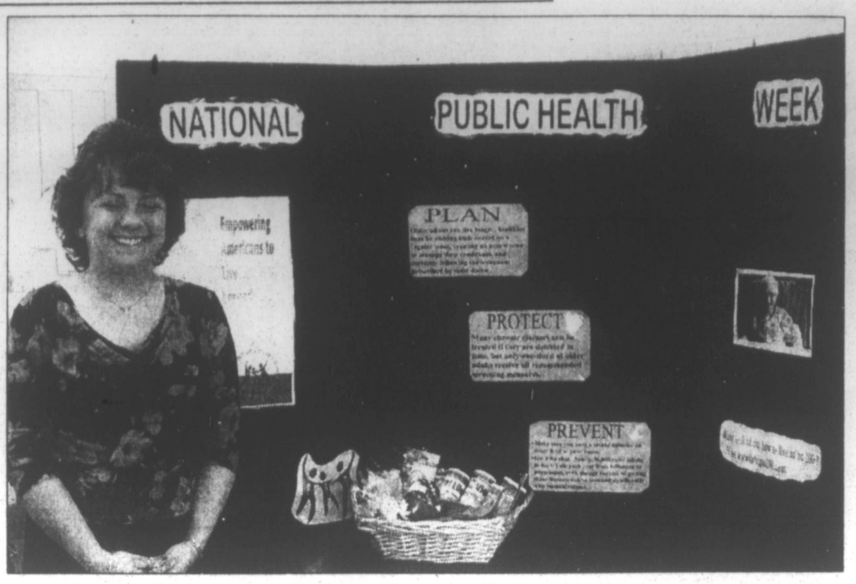
"Living to be 100 can be a reality with a healthy lifestyle and some good genes," added the spokesperson.

According to Alliance for Aging Research, the average person is born with a set of genes that would allow him or her to live to 85 years of age and maybe longer. People who take appropriate preventive steps may add as many as 10 quality years to that. The flip side to that is taking years away by making unhealthy lifestyle choices such as using tobacco, poor dietary habits, and sedentary lifestyle.

In the United States, the average life expectancy is now 74 years for men and 78 years for women.

Persons interested in estimating one's own life expectancy may complete an online survey at www.livingto100.com. As a part of National Public Health Week, Community Outreach workers from the Garrett County Health Department will staff a booth at Wal-Mart in Oakland on April 5 from 9 a.m. to noon and April 6 and 7 from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

The Outreach workers will have mini health assessments similar to the longer online version referenced above. For more information about Public Health Week activities or the Garrett County Health Department, persons may call 334-7730 or 895-3111.



PREVENT, PROTECT, AND PLAN TO LIVE TO 100 – Community Outreach workers from the Garrett County Health Department will staff at display at Wal-Mart next week during National Public Health Week. The display encourages Garrett County residents to follow the three "P" approach – Prevent, Protect, and Plan – in order to make it to the century mark. Pictured above is Sadie Liller, Outreach worker, with the display honoring National Public Health Week and a sampling of the giveaways that she and her coworkers will have available for older adults. See story.

Swanton Center To Serve Dinner

The Swanton Community Center will serve a baked-steak dinner on Saturday, April 9, with serving beginning at 4 p.m. The cost is $7 for adults and $3.50 for children. All proceeds will support the various projects of the center.

Loch Lynn Church Sets Revival Svcs.

The Loch Lynn Church of God has slated special revival services for Sunday through Wednesday, April 10-13, with guest speaker Rev. Rick J. Lairsey of Easton. The "Fresh Fire 2005" services will get under way at 6 p.m. Sunday, and 7 p.m. each evening thereafter.

Lairsey has ministered in 15 states and over 150 churches throughout the eastern and southern United States over the past three years, and recently ministered in the nations of Cambodia, Thailand, and Myanmar.

Prior to becoming an evangelist, Lairsey served as a pastor in Damascus for eight years. He also served as an evangelist for the Church of God (Cleveland, Tenn.), and as a pastor in Mississippi and Georgia. He has ministered in camp meetings and regional meetings and has served on numerous boards and committees with the Church of God. He has 30 years of ministerial experience.

Nursery care will be provided for 1- to 5-year-olds each night. The Loch Lynn Church of God is located on First Avenue in Loch Lynn. The public is invited to attend. For further information persons may contact the church office at 301-334-3221.

"HEY, WHERE'S MY PIZZA?" Anna Mae Major appears to be wondering. She and several other children and their parents recently participated in a Pizza & Play activity at the Garrett County Health Department, Oakland. They made paper-plate ducks and discussed the importance of family celebrations and traditions for children. The next Pizza & Play will be held at the Grantsville office of the Garrett County Health Department on April 20 from noon until 1 p.m. The event is open to all families who participate in Healthy Families, Infants & Toddlers, Early Head Start, Head Starts, and the Judy Center who are expecting a child or who have children 5 years old and younger.

FM Barnard Says "Change Clock, Check Battery"

In anticipation of Daylight Saving Time early Sunday morning, Maryland State Fire Marshal William E. Barnard is urging Marylanders to "change your clock, check your battery" in smoke alarms in their homes.

Recognizing that working smoke alarms double a family's chance of surviving a home fire, Barnard says that Daylight Saving Time is a "great opportunity" for families to check the battery in their smoke alarms.

Along with working smoke alarms, home escape plans are another way residents can avoid injury from fire. By identifying at least two different escape routes, families can practice the plan together before a fire emergency strikes. Practicing the plan helps educate younger children to the danger of fire and the importance of recognizing that the sound of a smoke alarm signals a home fire.

"Checking the battery in smoke alarms and developing and practicing a home escape plan are the two best ways to protect loved ones and ourselves from fire," said Barnard.

The Office of the State Fire Marshal is an agency of the state of Maryland dedicated to helping protect citizens from fire and explosion through a comprehensive program of education, inspection, investigation, and fire protection engineering. For more information on fire and life safety, persons may call 1-800-525-3124 or log on to the office's web site at www.firemarshal.state.md.us.

Burlington Family Services Set To Honor Volunteers

"Volunteers Plant the Seeds of Kindness" will be the theme as Burlington United Methodist Family Services honors its volunteers with an appreciation reception and luncheon on Sunday, April 17, at the Burlington Volunteer Fire Department on U.S. Route 50 in Burlington, W.Va., The reception will begin at 1:30 p.m., with lunch served at 2 p.m.

Persons who have volunteered their services on behalf of Burlington's ministry to children and families are invited to attend. Members of the Burlington Family Services auxiliary, the board of trustees, and all other volunteers will be honored for the time and talents they generously contribute.

There will be a short welcome, followed by a buffet luncheon and fellowship time filled with gifts and door prizes. Persons should contact the foundation office at 304-788-1953 by April 13 to confirm attendance.

GRANTSVILLE NEWS

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my son "Dink" who died on Good Friday, April 1, 1983

It is lonely here without you, so sad along life's way. Life does not seem the same to me, since you were called away. It broke my heart to lose you, but you did not go alone, for part of me went with you that day God called you home. They say time heals all sorrow and helps us to forget, but time so far has only proved how much I miss you yet.

Dearly loved, fondly remembered, and sadly missed.

IMAGES OF THE VIETNAM WAR were captured in these and thousands of other photographs taken by Bittinger resident Bill Schrider while he was serving "in-country" with the U.S. Marines in 1967 and '68. The above photo, titled "Gunner's View," was taken Nov. 20, 1967, as a Marine helicopter of Squadron 364 circled a hamlet northwest of Phu Bai supporting a mission by Army of the Republic of Vietnam (ARVN) soldiers on the ground. "Leathernecks on the Move," below, shows Marines of the 1st Marine Division debarking from a UH-34D helicopter of Squadron 163 during an early-morning, joint U.S.-ARVN mission south of Quang Tri. "Air-Ground Teamwork," at the bottom, shows a Marine helicopter team guiding an Army UH-1D Huey into a landing zone 12 miles south of Quang Tri. Assigning U.S. military photographers to document the war "was worth doing," veteran photographer Chuck Cook wrote. "They felt that what the soldiers were going through was worth saving."

SCHRIDER IN VIETNAM

JEAN AND BILL SCHRIDER

Vietnam War

copter pilots, and the Marines they rescued, often under enemy fire. Schrider served one year of his full Marine Corps career in Vietnam, from February 1967 to March 1968, shooting upwards of 5,000 photographs as one of a small cadre of Marine, Army, Air Force, and Navy photographers who took literally millions of photographs of the conflict from 1962 to 1975.

"I had already been in the service for over 10 years, the first three in infantry before I re-enlisted into the photography option. I went through schools and courses run by the Navy and Air Force, and had been promoted to warrant officer when I was sent to Vietnam," Schrider said. "There were only 25 or so photographers in the entire Corps at any one time, and with my experience the Marines wanted me to run a photo lab over there.

"I thought otherwise; I wanted to get out into the field."

Schrider's wish was easily granted, as he was assigned to the First Marine Aircraft Wing, which was providing air support for Marines fighting in the northernmost portion of South Vietnam. The 1st MAW operated within spitting distance of the enemy border, where names like Hue City, Khe Sahn, Quang Tri, the Rockpile, Marble Mountain, and China Beach became as familiar to Marines as Washington, Baltimore, and Pittsburgh.

"No matter where you were 'in country' you were subjected to enemy fire, were never out of range of mortars or rockets," said Schrider. "Even on my first night there we came under a rocket attack at Da Nang, and I wondered, 'What the hell is going on here?'"

However, the soft-spoken veteran said he had a job to do, a job inspired by the selflessness of the men around him. "The Corps had our own photographers over there because it wanted to put out our version of the war on the ground – the truth, in my opinion – without an anti-war slant," he stated. "I began flying with Navy corpsmen helicopter flights, and my belief evolved from there to see my mission as getting all the credit possible for the corpsman for what the work they were doing."

That work of Navy corpsmen (the Army used the term "medic" for its own combat EMTs) in Vietnam was simple: If assigned to a ground platoon, he was to live as a Marine, walking, eating, sleeping, sweating, smelling, getting soaked by rain and mud, and getting shot by enemy bullets.

Other corpsmen were assigned to helicopters, and would deliver food, ammunition, and supplies to Marines in the "bush." Their aircraft's primary function, however, was to serve as medevac choppers, ready to drop into any landing zone – "hot" or "cold" – at the first call for aid. The corpsmen would help treat the wounded on the field of fire, and continued treatment as they flew to a hospital unit with lives hanging in the balance of minutes and seconds.

"When a Marine in Vietnam is wounded, surrounded, hungry, low on ammunition or water, he looks to the sky. He knows the choppers are coming...."
–Gen. Leonard F. Chapman, former Commandant of the USMC

"In the morning I'd get assigned to a copter crew, and that crew would fly all day long," Schrider recalled. "You never know what you'd be getting into on any flight. Sometimes in the squadron radio room, before taking off, the crews would listen to the action in the field. You could hear guys calling for medevacs, and we'd be off.

"A typical helicopter crew consisted of a pilot, co-pilot, two door gunners, and one corpsman. While the copter depended on your mission – a CH-34 carried up to six wounded Marines; a CH-46 carried up to 15 wounded; a CH-53 carried up to 40 – most days one aircraft would handle everything.

"A corpsman's job in the field was to patch people up and get them ready to move by stripping off their helmet, guns, and other equipment, because you don't want that stuff rattling around inside a helicopter. A corpsman on a chopper was to get them to a hospital unit, typically 10 to 15 minutes away.

"I saw a lot of guys flying on choppers who wouldn't have made it without the care of Navy corpsmen, on the ground and in the air."

Armed with nothing but a USMC-issue Nikon-F camera and a pistol, Schrider would shoot photo after photo of Marines and their corpsmen buddies "doing their job." The photographer often came under fire as he documented the war, and was himself shot in the jaw at Con Tien. "The corpsmen were great to me, they bandaged me up and were a wonderful bunch of people," is all the soft-spoken veteran said of the wound that earned him the Purple Heart.

"While they couldn't keep me from getting wounded, they did keep me from getting killed. A great many of us made it home because of a corpsman. We will never forget them."
–An American Marine

At night, after returning from a day of flying, Schrider would either develop his rolls of film to see what he had captured in the heat of those moments, or ship it to a Corps photo lab to the south. "I was in a remote area of Phu Bai for several months, and would work up the film in my own rudimentary lab in a little wooden-sided building with a metal roof. One day a rocket destroyed the building next to it," he said, dryly.

"I was incredibly lucky in Vietnam because if I didn't like something that was going on, or things weren't really newsworthy, I could hop the next helicopter and go somewhere else; the guys on the ground and in the choppers were stuck with what they were doing, but they were doing a great job anyway.

"I was older than most guys over there, I was in my late 20s, but I really admired those 18-, 19-, and 20-year-olds who were really running things. They were fantastic. The same is said of 18- to 20-year olds, and the rest of our soldiers, in Iraq and Afghanistan today.

"War is not something you should have to do, there is nothing romantic about it; but sometimes it is necessary. There are a lot of strong feelings about the Vietnam War, and a lot of misinformation in my opinion. We did not 'lose' the war, and we did do good things while we were there. I saw lots and lots of wounded South Vietnamese soldiers and civilians evacuated out by our guys for treatment at our facilities, sometimes at great danger to the Americans. You never hear about that these days," Schrider observed.

"That's why I feel photography is so valuable, especially in a charged situation like war. You can write books filled with words, draw a graphic description of what you saw – Hemmingway, Ernie Pyle were great at it – but one photo can say it all; words can complement that photo.

"As military photographers we didn't want to interject ourselves into things, we just wanted to put out what the guys were doing – things that I thought were great things."

A number of Navy corpsmen, some probably photographed by Schrider, are named on black granite of the Vietnam Memorial Wall. With them is the name of Marine Cpl. William Perkins Jr., killed at the age of 20 while serving as a combat photographer during an assault by a large North Vietnamese force near Quang Tri. In the course of the attack, an enemy grenade landed near Perkins and three other Marines. They later reported that Perkins immediately shouted, "Incoming grenade!" and without hesitation threw himself on the weapon, absorbed the explosion with his own body, saving the lives of his comrades at the cost of his own.

Our countrymen, our nation's comrades, our enemies, and civilians, all stare back at us across the years in the photos taken by Perkins, Schrider, and others, framed but never completely captured. From Antietam to Cold Harbor, the muddy trenches to Belleau Wood, the Bulge to Iwo Jima, Pusan to the Chosin Reservoir, from the Ia Drang Valley to Hamburger Hill, from Fallujah to Mosul, what they are saying with their eyes, what they have asked through their sacrifices, is known only to them.

How we respond to honor their legacy – those brave young soldiers, dead and alive, and continue their work – is up to us.

"WHY ME?" This photo was taken by Schrider in the fall of 1967 during Operation Swift, south of Phu Bai. The equipment had been discarded by Marines prior to their being flown out of the area by medevac choppers. Images taken during combat, according to author C. Douglas Elliott, "did not show winners and losers. They showed soldiers – often teenagers – coping as best they could with unrelenting heat and humidity, heavy packs, heavy guns, and in invisible enemy whose mines, booby traps, and snipers could cut life short without a moment's warning." Corpsmen and medics who treated the wounded, and photographers who documented the war, were subject to many of those hardships and dangers.

Taste of Garrett Co. To Feature Local Foods

Taste of Garrett County, a fundraising event for the Garrett County Recreational Trails, will be held Monday, May 23, at the Wisp at Deep Creek Mountain Resort from 6 to 9 p.m. For the third year, a table will feature local foods from Garrett County farms.

In addition to the local foods, attendees will be treated to samples from local restaurants, food retailers, banquet businesses, and catering businesses. Live entertainment and door prizes will be featured.

In previous years, items featured on the local foods table included maple syrup, jams, jellies, cucumbers, fresh-baked bread, lettuce, green onions, honey, and hydroponic tomatoes.

"No products may be sold at the event, but this is a great way for farmers to advertise their farms and their farm products, both to consumers and to chefs of local restaurants," said Cheryl DeBerry, coordinator of the local foods table. "We place a card by each food item with the name, farm name, and contact information. We want people to know and appreciate when their food is grown locally."

DeBerry said that donations or loans of the following items for the local foods table would be appreciated: table cloth, skirting, paper napkins, plastic serving-ware, table decorations, door prizes, and sampling support foods such as crackers, chips, dip, and salad dressing. "We are also looking for a few volunteers to help set up and 'man' the table during the event," she said.

Any Garrett County farmer who would like to donate shelf-stable or fresh farm food items for the Taste of Garrett County is asked to contact DeBerry at 301-334-6960. Space on the table is limited, and will be allocated on a first-come, first-served basis.

A SAMPLING of local foods will be available at the Taste of Garrett County on May 23 at the Wisp at Deep Creek Mountain Resort. Pictured above are hydroponic cucumbers from Garrett College Alternative Agriculture Center, which were first featured in 2003. See story.

TAKING PART IN A CELTIC HERITAGE WEEK PROCLAMATION Tuesday morning were, left to right, Fred Thayer, Garrett County commissioner Fred Holliday, Garrett County Chamber of Commerce director of tourism and marketing Deb Clatterbuck, Commissioners Ernie Gregg and Dave Beard, McHenry Highland Festival coordinator Jerry McGee, and festival board member John MacGowan. The commissioners proclaimed "the first week surrounding the first weekend in June to be Garrett County Celtic Heritage Week in perpetuity." The date was chosen to coincide with the McHenry Highland Festival of Mountain Maryland. Now in its 18th year, the event takes place the first Saturday in June at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry. McGee noted that the festival's mission is to preserve and support the region's Celtic heritage and to educate visitors and residents of all ages about the contributions of Celts to the mid-Appalachians. Featured again this year will be bagpipe bands, sheep dog demonstrations, Irish jaunting cart rides, children's activities, and more. Other events such as a golf tournament, concert, and ceilidh are also being planned around the festival to make it a spring "bookend" to the county's Autumn Glory Festival. For a complete list of Highland Festival activities and tickets, persons may visit online at highlandfest.info. Photo courtesy of the Chamber of Commerce.

Garrett College To Host Annual Summer Center

Garrett College was recently awarded a Maryland State Talented and Gifted grant for summer 2005, which will help fund another session of the Garrett College Center for the Integration of Mathematics and Science. The college will sponsor at least 80 Maryland students from sixth through tenth grades to attend the center, which is slated from Sunday, June 26, to Saturday, July 2.

"We have a pretty good track record," Garrett College center director Dr. Nancy Priselac said of the program, which has been funded at Garrett College since 1993.

At the math/science technology summer center, students will experience space simulations and simulate roles of mission control and astronauts preparing to deal with natural catastrophes such as volcanic eruptions or hurricanes.

Astronaut trainer Adam Korona will be the featured presenter during the opening session of the Garrett College center. The astronaut trainer for the International Space Station, Korona will present the latest information concerning probable encounters.

Summer Center students will use computer image processing to evaluate data in new and unusual ways as they solve problems using science, mathematics, and technology. The center classrooms are equipped with Internet, fiber optic compressed video connectivity, video conferencing, multimedia, color graphic calculators, and Windows 2000/Pentium processor computers.

Local teachers also will present sessions during the week-long center. They include Southern High science teacher Diana Marks and math teacher Wade Grove; Southern Middle science teacher Jolene Schofield; Broad Ford Elementary math teacher Jessica Fratz; and Garrett College math instructors Michael Nedrow and Mary Stanton. Also teaching at the center will be Kurt Woolslayer, who is employed as a physics and chemistry instructor in West Virginia.

Summer Center students will stay in the Garrett College residence hall. Dr. Jeff Reitz, of the math department will be in charge of residency.

"The cost to attend the center is $300, but numerous scholarships are available," said Priselac.

Applications for the Garrett College Center for the Integration of Mathematics and Science can be obtained through the Maryland State Department of Education (MSDE) website at www.marylandpublicschools.org, or by calling Priselac at 301-387-3045.

Maryland Summer Centers covering different subject matter and topics will operate throughout the state this summer as one- or two-week programs. Information on each of the various programs offered through the centers is available online at the MSDE web site listed above.

Garden Club Sponsors Owl Box Placement

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club has placed a screech-owl box near the Glades walking track along Liberty Street in Oakland. Members of the club's Birds and Butterfly Committee of the committee walked the track last fall, and voted to install a box in hopes of attracting an Eastern screech-owl.

"The Eastern screech-owl is a small, mottled owl with prominent ear tufts," a spokesperson explained. "They have yellow eyes and display both rufous and gray phases of color as well as brownish intermediates. They can be found in open deciduous woods, suburban areas, lakeshores, and old orchards from Canada's southern prairie provinces east to Maine and south to the Gulf of Mexico and Florida. The females lay three to eight white eggs placed without a nest lining in the cavity of a tree or nesting box."

Pleasant Valley resident Michael Yoder constructed the box, and Mary and Russell Rhoads attached the box to a tree near the walking track. Birds and Butterfly Committee members will be monitoring activity at the box. The committee includes chairperson Carol Speranzella, and Beth Calvert, Marjorie Carlino, Jerry Crabtree, Carol Craver, Nancy Kight, Jean McConnell, Mary Rhoads, Kay Small, and Helga Williamson.

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club is a member of the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland and the National Garden Clubs Inc.

GOING TO HEIGHTS in hopes of attracting an owl tenant, the Mountain Laurel Garden Club placed a screech-owl box in Oakland recently. Pictured installing the box high on a tree standing near the Glades walking track is Russell Rhodes. See story.

April 22, 1915 - March 3, 2005

We wish to express our appreciation to each of you who so unselfishly gave of yourself in our time of sorrow. The cards, flowers, food, and words of condolence meant more than we can express with words.

We particularly want to thank the staff of Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home and Dr. Walter Naumann for the excellent care Aunt Letta received. Also, thanks to Pastor Dana Umbel for the loving remembrances and the assurance of her faith in Jesus, to the Ladies of the Mt. Dale Church of the Brethren for the delicious meal, and to the pallbearers, Spencer Reckart, Larry Reckart, Dale Umbel, Don Wampler, Jim Wampler, and Vernon Wampler.

Arthritis Group Sets Meeting

A "Welcome Back/Meet and Greet meeting" has been slated by the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Arthritis/Fibromyalgia Support Group for 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, April 5. The session will take place at Garrett Rehab Services, located at 6500 Thayer Center, Oakland, where surprise "grab bags" and refreshments available.

There is no charge to attend this or any meeting of the group, and all ages are welcome to attend. For more information about the group, persons may call Vicki Insley at 301-334-9767.

Coldwell Banker Sales Associates Receive International Designations

Six sales associates with Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty recently received Coldwell Banker international designations, announced Ruth Seib, broker/co-owner.

Frederick Washburn qualified to join the company's International President's Circle. Membership is limited to only the top 9 percent of the more than 120,000 sales associates worldwide in the Coldwell Banker® system who meet sales goals, said Seib.

As a member, Washburn will be invited to attend the "Elite Retreat," a three-day conference for the company's top sales associates.

Washburn has been licensed in Maryland and West Virginia since 2000. In 2002 he received the Garrett County Board of Realtors' Rookie of the Year Award. Washburn is a 2002 graduate of the Maryland Association of Realtors' Leadership Academy.

Lana Roby, Delano Martin, and Scott Johnson earned membership in the company's International Diamond Society, a level achieved by only the top 16 percent of sales associates with Coldwell Banker, said Seib. The award is presented annually to those who meet productivity goals.

Earl George and Brenda Cutler were honored as members of the company's International Sterling Society. Membership is limited to the top 21 percent of all associates in the company's system, according to Seib.

The six sales associates were recognized at the company's International Business Conference held last month at the Gaylord Palms Resort in Orlando, Fla. The annual event brought more than 8,000 Coldwell Banker sales associates, brokers, managers, and employees together for an intensive professional development program and awards ceremony.

"I am honored to present membership in these societies to these agents. They are invaluable assets to the Coldwell Banker system and have proven their ability on a consistent basis," said Jim Gillespie, president and chief executive officer of Coldwell Banker Real Estate Corporation. "Coldwell Banker holds itself to a high standard of quality and professionalism. After several years of unprecedented growth in the housing market, it is people like Fred, Lana, Delano, Scott, Earl, and Brenda who are ensuring that the Coldwell banker reputation as a leader in the real estate industry remains strong."

Annual Arbor Day Observance Noted By Forest Service

The 122nd annual statewide observance of Arbor Day will be marked on Wednesday, April 6. "Arbor Day is a good time to start thinking about spring and tree planting," said Ernie Metz, forester for the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Forest Service Project.

"The many trees and seedlings that are planted on Arbor Day focus attention on the value of our trees and forests," Metz said. "It's important to plant trees every year so that future generations can enjoy their beauty, appreciate their ability to reduce soil erosion, moderate temperature and wind, and provide wood fiber, wildlife habitat, and recreation opportunities."

To help commemorate Arbor Day each year, DNR's Forest Service gives pine seedlings to public school third graders. Working with the cooperation of each county's school system, the seedlings are distributed to the children with the hope that the young pine trees will be planted, nurtured and recognized as important renewable resources.

"Trees planted on Arbor Day help bring attention to a resource essential to our quality of life," commented Metz. "For adult or child, Arbor Day is a good time to reflect on the importance of planting trees for the future."

Forest landowners are encouraged to write or visit the Mt. Nebo DNR Forest Service office, located at 1728 Kings Run Road, Oakland, MD 21550, or call 301-334-3296, for free information about how managing forest land can benefit them and the environment.

PEPSI 300 REVIEW

Rookie gets first victory at Nashville

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Gladeville, Tenn.

Reed Sorenson did just what everyone in NASCAR and at Nashville Superspeedway expected him to do when he won the Pepsi 300 Busch Series race in just his 11th Busch start.

What wasn't expected was the way he won — thoroughly dominating the field, starting from the pole, leading 197 of 225 laps, and finishing 14.41 seconds (about a half-lap) ahead of runner-up Kenny Wallace.

"I was just stung by how fast [Sorenson's] car was," Wallace said. "It was merciless. I can't remember when a field got beat that bad."

While Wallace was praising Sorenson's car, third-finishing Shane Hmiel was giving credit to its driver.

"If I was 19 years old, I'd run over somebody," Hmiel said.

It was the most dominant performance by a Nashville winner since Scott Riggs led 160 laps in June 2003, and the best in the Busch Series since Jeff Burton beat Michael Waltrip by 19.49 seconds at Charlotte in October 2002.

It was Sorenson's weekend from the time the gates opened at Nashville. He topped the practice charts on Friday, won the pole Saturday morning — his first in the series — then ran away with the race.

The heralded rookie led the first 128 laps, surrendering the top spot to Kenny Wallace a lap later when Wallace, running second at the time, stayed on the track while Sorenson and others made pit stops.

For Sorenson, the 300 represented a remarkable reversal of his racing fortunes from the previous week, when he struggled at his home track, Atlanta Motor Speedway. The transmission in his No. 41 Dodge broke before qualifying, and he drove Sterling Marlin's car to a 19th-place finish.

This time, the No. 41 never missed a beat.

"I could've pushed it a little harder at the end, but my crew was trying to calm me down," Sorenson said. "We were able to redeem ourselves from last week ... and hopefully this is not the last one."

The race's only real drama — other than Sorenson's thorough thrashing of the field — came on Lap 128 when Fitz-Bradshaw Racing teammates David Stremme and Tim Fedewa wrecked on the backstretch.

Stremme appeared to lose control and clipped Fedewa's car, sending both sliding into the backstretch wall.

Points leader Carl Edwards finished fourth ahead of Clint Bowyer.

Georgia race fans rev up for new tags

Cox News Service

Georgia's interstates have long resembled the Daytona 500.

State lawmakers are trying to make it official, giving the green light to NASCAR-themed license plates for Georgia motorists.

State Sen. Chip Rogers said a constituent driving through Mississippi noticed a Dale Earnhardt tag there and asked him to bring them to Georgia. Senate Bill 168 would allow Georgians to choose from about 40 plates featuring drivers, including the late champion Earnhardt and racing legend Richard Petty. If the bill is approved, the plates would cost $25 and be available beginning in January.

"I believe it will be the best-selling tag in Georgia," Rogers said. "I've seen more enthusiasm for this bill than any bill I've introduced this session."

During discussion of the bill, some senators jokingly concocted an amendment to exclude a certain No. 24 from the selection. That would be the highly successful, love-him-or-hate-him driver Jeff Gordon.

When asked why he'd singled out Gordon, Sen. Preston Smith kidded: "I'd like to say no comment. I may quickly foreclose any political future I have. I sort of like my state Senate tag."

So what did Rogers think of the playful move to exclude Gordon?

"I want to give every NASCAR fan the opportunity to choose the license plate of their favorite driver," said Rogers, a NASCAR fan. "Although Jeff Gordon would not be my first choice."

Spoken like true politicians.

Female impresses

In addition to this weekend's Busch race at Nashville Superspeedway, Chad Blount held off Joey Miller and Mario Gosselin through two late-race restarts to win Saturday's PFG Lester 150 in the ARCA RE/MAX Series.

Rookie Erin Crocker impressed trackside observers with her gutsy performance in Ray Evernham's No. 98 Dodge.

Crocker, who had never raced in a stock car or on a superspeedway, started on the pole and led the first 28 laps.

She ran in the top five for most of the race, and on Lap 80 went three-wide on the track in an attempt to go from third to first, but lost control of her car and spun off the track. She restarted in the rear and drove her way to 12th at the finish.

Evernham was waiting in the garage after the race and told his newest hire he was proud of her.

"Did you have fun?" he asked.

"At times," Crocker replied. "It was definitely a learning experience."

Competition heats up for NASCAR museum

By WALTER WOODS
Cox News Service

Atlanta

The race between Atlanta and rival cities to win a Cooperstown for NASCAR geared up this month as racing's fans, drivers and decision makers visited the city for the spring race weekend at Atlanta Motor Speedway.

Georgia Gov. Sonny Perdue stood with Bill Elliott, NASCAR executives and inflatable stock cars at the state Capitol March 16, a day after Atlanta Mayor Shirley Franklin sported a racing jacket at a NASCAR diversity rally held downtown.

Both events were staged to welcome more than 250,000 fans for the Nextel Cup Golden Corral 500 on March 20.

City officials pressed the flesh at both racing events, and announced they've assembled a team of designers and consultants to put together a bid by the May 31 deadline.

Such a NASCAR attraction is expected to cost about $70 million, money local organizers said could come from corporate and private donations.

The competition is honking their horns, too. Charlotte held a press conference earlier this month to say it has hired Rick Hendrick, owner of racing superstar Jeff Gordon's car, to head up its effort.

Meanwhile, another racing center, Talladega, Ala., has hooked up with Birmingham, Ala., and joined the race for the museum.

NASCAR in January asked four cities — Atlanta, Kansas City, Charlotte and Daytona Beach, Fla. — to bid for a national attraction for stock car racing. Birmingham, Richmond, Va., and the state of Michigan also have expressed interest.

NASCAR expects to make a decision by the end of the year.

Dale Earnhardt Jr. is 26th in the Cup standings.

It's early in the season, but not too early to panic

By JEFF GLUCK
Cox News Service

Other sports have an "Executive of the Year" award. NASCAR should give someone in Dale Earnhardt Inc. the "Dumb Executive of the Year" award.

Head-scratching, puzzling, mind-boggling: those are terms that describe the decision-making that has plagued DEI this season.

You had the sport's biggest star, Dale Earnhardt Jr., who was building a championship team the last few years. You took his team, gave it to the spectacularly mediocre Michael Waltrip and gave Waltrip's ho-hum team to the superstar.

Instead of having one great team and building up the average one, DEI decided to settle for two so-so teams.

And that's exactly what the Nextel Cup standings show. Earnhardt is 26th; Waltrip 27th.

Junior will still make the top 10 — barely — because he's a talented driver who can make more out of less. Waltrip won't last the season before getting released around August or September.

If DEI (read: Teresa Earnhardt, Dale Jr.'s stepmother) was looking for a reason to ax Waltrip, they could have just left him with his old team. There was no reason to pretend to give him a chance if they thought it wouldn't work.

Apparently, they wanted to test Junior, too. Hope they're satisfied with the answers.

By the way, none of this is Dale Jr.'s fault. He's trying his best to be the team player, go along with the decisions and play nice with his new crew chief. Earnhardt can only do so much with the equipment he has to work with.

If you're looking for blame as to why the No. 8 team is struggling this year, blame Teresa.

Here's a short list of other teams and drivers that haven't gotten off to good starts this year:

• In the "Chase for the Cup" era, it's never too early to panic. Yes, the "regular" season still has 22 races to go, but former champion Bobby Labonte is in 37th place, already 430 points behind the leader. Even if Labonte runs in the top 15 for the rest of the season, making the top 10 will still be a struggle.

Labonte blew an engine and finished last in the Daytona 500, placed 13th the following week at California and wrecked early the next two races. And rookie teammate Jason Leffler (34th) hasn't run very well either.

Think there's panic at Joe Gibbs Racing? Probably not, but there's definitely some serious concern.

• Ricky Rudd and the Wood Brothers probably aren't feeling too hot, either. Rudd is 39th in the point standings, and since the No. 21 team doesn't run up front anyway, Rudd's chances of making the top 10 have become even slimmer.

• Matt Kenseth's four Roush Racing teammates have taken spots No. 2 through No. 5 in the Nextel Cup standings, but Kenseth's team is 31st. With much of the same resources and equipment, Kenseth will have plenty of chances to get back into the top 10 before the nagging questions and pressure begin.

• How about Kasey Kahne, who was predicted to become the 2005 Nextel Cup champion in this space several weeks ago? He posted two Did-Not-Finishes after placing 22nd at Daytona, but earned a top-five finish at Atlanta.

That top-five finish might be a sign that the Ray Evernham teams are turning things around. Evernham's driver Jeremy Mayfield got his first top-15 finish of the year at Atlanta.

• Joe Nemechek and his MB2 Motorsports team pay a lot of money to get quality engines from the Hendrick shop.

So you wouldn't think two Hendrick engines would bust in the first four races. Nemechek (29th place) is listed as a disappointment here because of his engines; otherwise, the expectations for a team that seemed to be running well at the end of 2004 would be close to being fulfilled.

GORMAN FIREFIGHTERS VISIT 4-H CLUB – The March meeting of the Ryan's Glade 4-H Club included a fire safety demonstration presented by several members of the Gorman Volunteer Fire Department. Pictured from the left are Firefighter I trainees Charise Tasker, Jennifer Steyer, Randy Chapman, Greg Hartner, and Sue Steyer. Following the presentation, the firefighters asked the 4-H'ers questions about what they learned during the demonstration, and distributed fire safety rulers, pencils, and coloring books, and fire hats.

COUNTRY EXPLORERS PARTICIPATE IN PUBLIC SPEAKING CONTEST – The Garrett County 4-H Public Speaking Contest was recently held at Garrett College. Members participated in 30-second radio spots, recited prepared speeches that were three to six minutes in length, and gave extemporaneous speeches. Pictured are members of the Country Explorers 4-H Club who participated in the event. In the front row, left to right, are Aaron Lantz, junior division extemporaneous speech champion; Katelyn Gnegy, intermediate division radio spot champion and intermediate division prepared speech reserve champion; and Levi Lantz, junior division radio spot champion. In the second row are Catlin Carrico, intermediate division extemporaneous speech champion and intermediate division prepared speech champion; J.B. Gnegy, time keeper for the radio spots and extemporaneous speeches; and Eric Tichnell, senior division third-place winner in the radio spot competition. 4-H Club News

RYAN'S GLADE
by Gary Pritts, reporter

The March meeting of the Ryan's Glade 4-H club was held at the Ryan's Glade Community Center, where the meeting was called to order by Andrea Steyer.

Tara Marple gave a presentation and demonstration about her goat, which had babies. Cody Steyer delivered a report about the club's annual sledriding party. President's Service award forms for 2005 were distributed.

A fire safety demonstration was presented by several members of the Gorman Volunteer Fire Department (see photo).

Club members colored Easter eggs after the meeting, and then put together Easter baskets with fruit, candy and the eggs. The members delivered them to older residents in the community.

The next meeting of the Ryan's Glade 4-H Club is set for 6:30 .m. on Tuesday, April 19. The agenda will include a clean-up work activity on the grounds of the Ryan's Glade Community Center and nearby roadway.

RED HOUSE
by Sarah Brenneman, reporter

The March meeting was held at the St. John Lutheran Church, with pledges led by Lucas Stahl. Ryan Miller, Lucas and Jacob Stahl, Jenny Jones, Catlin Jones, Annie Graham, Cain Sturm, Anthony and Brittany Green, Cassy Cousins, Randy Cousins, Levi Green, and Stephanie and Sarah Brenneman all went snow-tubing, sponsored by the Livestock Association, in February.

Fundraiser money for the hoagies that the club sold was due on the day of the meeting. Brittany and Anthony Green, Jacob and Lucas Stahl, Levi Green, Travis Sanders, Cain Sturm, Annie Graham, and 14 adults attended the sled riding party at the Evans farm.

Michele Holler, Cain Sturm, Ian Smith, Daniel Skipper, and Devin Callis all gave demonstrations. The club voted to do make mouse trap cars as a club project and have a race upon completion. We also voted to donate $500 to sponsor the rodeo that will be sponsored by the Garrett County Livestock Association, and challenge the other clubs in the county to match or beat our donation.

The annual Garrett County 4-H Achievement Night is April 2 at Northern High School. Our club is responsible for organizing the food tables.

The 2004 club awards were presented by Tina Green, leader.

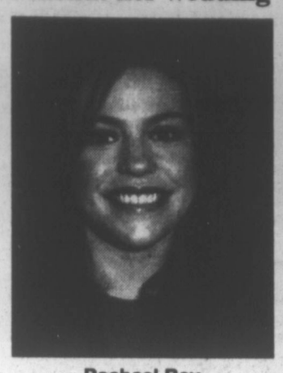
Soon to be on Rachael's menu: her wedding

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it



Rachael Ray

Q: Is Rachael Ray of Food Network's "30-Minute Meals" engaged? I just noticed her wearing a diamond ring on a show. –Lisa, Chicago.

A: Yes, the vivacious chef who also hosts the network's "Inside Dish" and "$40-a-Day" is planning her September wedding. The groom-to-be is an entertainment lawyer she met at a party a couple of years ago.

Q: Several years ago, there was an NBC show titled "Ed," starring Tom Cavanagh and Julie Bowen. The title character was a lawyer whose office was at the Stuckeyville bowling alley. Will it ever run again? –John Bozell, Omaha, Neb.

A: Actually, it already is running again. Since mid-January, the series has been shown in weekday repeats on cable station TBS. Incidentally, Cavanagh may return to weekly television soon, since he is making a comedy-drama pilot with Jason Priestley for a potential slot in CBS' fall lineup.

Q: Am I the only one who remembers a television program several years ago with Tony Franciosa playing a sleuth? –Rita Bailey, Brunswick, Maine.

A: No, you aren't ... but depending on how literally you mean "sleuth," this could have several answers. Franciosa played a high-tech investigator in the 1972-73 series "Search" (in which he rotated with Hugh O'Brian and Doug McClure as the given week's star), and he assumed Dean Martin's movie role as a private detective in the 1975-76 show "Matt Helm," inspired by novelist Donald Hamilton's character. Taking "sleuth" a little more loosely, Franciosa also played an investigative reporter in "The Name of the Game" (1968-71) and a finder of lost loves in ... well, "Finder of Lost Loves" (1984-85).

Q: My sister and I seem to be the only people who remember a series that had a short run in the '60s. It was called "The Prisoner." Can you offer information on the program? –Elaine Fuller, Havana, Fla.

A: In fact, the series has had a long cult following. Made in England, it was thought by some to be a follow-up to star-producer-creator Patrick McGoohan's earlier show, "Secret Agent" (aka "Danger Man"). In "The Prisoner," McGoohan played an ex-government agent trapped in an isolated village – where he was known simply as "No. 6" – and targeted for brainwashing. The unusual program, which aired in the United States on CBS in 1968 and 1969, is available on DVD from A&E Home Video.

Message from the Dean's Desk

Garrett College

by Dr. Virginia Broaddus
Dean of Academic Affairs

Thanks to daylight savings' time, this is a weekend for setting our clocks ahead, known to some as "losing an hour." I've always preferred, though, to think of this time as "springing forward," something that we at Garrett College are eagerly geared up to do.

This spring, in fact, holds lots of promise for those of us at Garrett. We're busily preparing for the summer and fall, welcoming returning students as well as gathering and greeting those new to GC. Part of the spring in our collective step will belong to Richard Nowak, who's joined our student development team, led by Dr. Nancy Priselac. Richard, whose background includes years of recruiting as well as an assortment of professional ventures, brings great energy to us as well as a super ability to help lead new students to our doorsteps and ensure that returning students feel comfortable at and proud of their college.

Speaking of pride, I speak for many at Garrett when I acknowledge Wendy Mopsik's recent recognition by Franklin University in connection with her role as Connie Meyers's mentor/coach during Connie's pursuit of an MBA at Franklin. Wendy, who's played an important role on our advising staff for years, has been instrumental in offering Connie guidance and support during her coursework for Franklin – coursework taken almost entirely online, just like the courses taken by those pursuing the Garrett/Franklin bachelor's degree. Connie recently nominated her mentor for a prestigious award by Franklin, and the pair traveled to Columbus, Ohio, in early March, when Wendy was the recipient of the Coach of the Year award. Both women participated in the ceremony, winning not only recognition but also Garrett's pride in their hard work.

March held other kinds of recognition at GC, too. The Second Chances for Women program sponsored by the AAUW and the BPW, along with GC, helped women from throughout Garrett County learn about educational opportunities in our area. Guests heard from current and former students who have taken second chances and thus seen the benefits that continuing their education can bring. Our hope is that many of the program's participants will spring forward and register for classes at Garrett.

Whether students take our one-credit courses, such as "Emerging Technologies: Digital Camera," "Navigating the Information Highway," or "Introduction to AutoCAD," or whether they pursue our semester-length options, they'll be surrounded by dedicated faculty. Those same faculty work diligently outside of the classroom in moving our programs forward so that our students can spring to success not only intellectually but also as well-rounded citizens with multiple learning opportunities. To that end, we're grateful to professor Ben Sincell for his ongoing work with Our Town Theatre. Thanks to Ben and his students, productions such as Twilight of the Golds have great technical support and also offer GC's theatre students the chance to apply the skills they've learned in Ben's classes.

Other opportunities for learning outside of the classroom are also abounding this spring. We'll welcome Ando Kivburg to the county next week, and we're anticipating that students from Garrett College as well as our public schools will have a great opportunity to learn about Estonia's musical heritage while he's with us. Recognized for his talent in playing the torupilli (Estonia's traditional bagpipe), Ando will give presentations at our local schools as well as at GC next Wednesday evening. All of us are excited about the chance to learn more not only about music, but also about Estonia, with which GC shares a special relationship.

An additional learning opportunity will occur this week at Garrett as Professor Terry Kasecamp's students sponsor a series of monologues in honor of Women's History Month. The event, being held at Garrett this week, features students from Terry's psychology of women class, each bringing to life a figure who's helped to spring women's rights forward. We're proud of the students for their initiative and their eagerness to help others understand women's history, and we're grateful to the American Association of University Women for providing refreshments after the monologues so that all of us can celebrate women's history together.

Clearly, GC stands ready not only to celebrate much this spring, but also to move forward with gusto. Whether we're helping our current students register for their classes or welcoming those new to Garrett, whether we're sponsoring productions or advocating life-long learning, we're glad to spring forward and advance learning on all levels in Garrett County.

Mountain Fresh Producers Set To Hold Meeting

The Mountain Fresh Producers, beginning its 17th season, will meet on Wednesday April 6, at 7 p.m. at the Garrett County Extension Office, 1916 Maryland Highway, in Mtn. Lake Park. The meeting will be a general membership meeting to discuss plans for the 2005 season. Those residing in Garrett, Allegany, Preston, or Tucker counties who may be interested in joining the 2005 season or learning more about membership are invited to attend.

An application and a copy of the Mountain Fresh Producers rules and regulations may be obtained at the meeting. Membership dues for the 2005 season are $25 until June 1 and $30 thereafter. Membership allows producers to set up at the Mtn. Fresh Pavilion in the Oakland town parking lot and the McHenry Market located at the Garrett County Fairgrounds during the market season from July through October on Wednesday, Thursdays, and Saturdays.

The daily set-up fee for both the Oakland and McHenry markets is $10 for members. The Oakland Pavilion has tables for vendors to use to sell their own produce, baked goods, crafts, and cut and potted flowers and herbs. Members are also invited to set up on special days such as the association's Christmas in July, Ice Cream Social, Customer Appreciation Corn Roast, and Autumn Glory markets.

Those unable to attend the meeting but would like an application for membership may contact Cathy Sanders, Mountain Fresh Producers Association market coordinator, at 301-334-4580; or Cathi Harsh, association secretary, at 304-735-5291; or visit online at www.MountainFresh.org.

Some days we feel like life has us jumping through hoops...first one challenge, then another. Other days, the feeling is like being stuck in a foot of mud. You just can't seem to get anywhere, no matter how hard you try. Worst of all, however, are the more tragic times when you feel hopeless and alone...when it's no joking matter and the world looks very dark indeed.

We have often heard it said "it is darkest right before the dawn". Yet we have faith that the light of day will dawn. Why? - Because it never fails. There is always a new dawn. God never fails to recreate the dawn.

You will see a new dawn as well, no matter how hopeless life seems, when you have faith in the power of your Heavenly Father. Psalm 139:12 proclaims, "...even the darkness is not dark to Thee, the night is bright as the day; for darkness is as light with Thee."

Learn of God's limitless power over the darkness. Visit God's house this week. Pray and talk with Him, for then you will never be alone. He will go with you through the darkness and bring you into the light of His love.

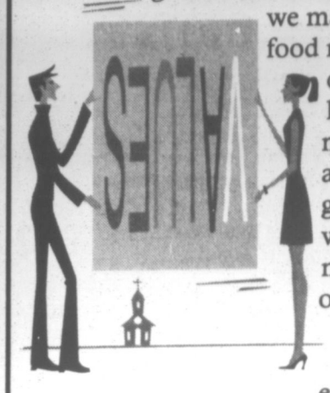
Turning Values Upside Down



We live in a culture which preaches instant gratification for whatever it is that we may want. Most fast food restaurants will have our food in our hands within a few minutes of ordering, and some even guarantee delivery within thirty minutes. The gospel of consumerism tells us to buy whatever we want on credit: enjoy now, pay later. Do you want this car? Then drive it home. Do you want to be happy? Then take this pill. But truly, the virtues of popular culture are the vices of Christianity. Consider the seven deadly sins, and ask yourself in what ways our culture exalts each of them. Lust, envy, greed, pride, sloth, vanity and gluttony; all of these sins are turned into virtues by our lazy consumer culture which puts a dollar value on everything, and sells everything with the false promise that we will be happy if we just have a little bit more or in some cases, a lot more. Unfortunately, today there appears to be no end to desire, or to the multiplication of our endless desires.

Is it not your passions that are at war in your members? You desire and do not have... And you covet and cannot obtain... Do you know that friendship with the world is enmity with God?
R.S.V. James 4: 1-4

Vitamin E May Lower Risk Of Death From ALS

For several years, medical researchers have suggested that certain neurological diseases such as Parkinson's disease, Alzheimer's disease, and Lou Gehrig's disease might be associated with oxidative stress in the body and other factors. Therefore, it has been thought that taking one or more antioxidant vitamins might be protective against these conditions.

According to a study recently published in the medical journal Annals of Neurology, those who regularly take vitamin E (one of the antioxidant vitamins) may have a lower risk of dying from Lou Gehrig's disease (medical term is amyotropic lateral sclerosis of ALS). Researchers from Harvard School of Public Health evaluated the medical records of over 900,000 individuals enrolled in a study sponsored by the American Cancer Society. Researchers found that those who took vitamin E daily for 15 or more days each month for at least 10 years experienced a 62 percent risk reduction compared to nonusers for ALS-related death. However, taking vitamin C (also an antioxidant) on a regular basis or taking vitamin E for less that 15 days per month did not protect against ALS.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• In Texas last year, a world-record blue catfish was caught in Lake Texoma — it weighed in at 121 pounds. If you think that's impressive, though, you should go fishing in Cambodia sometime. There's a variety of catfish there that can reach up to 10 feet long and weigh more than 650 pounds. Just try reeling that in!

• Johann Sebastian Bach was once jailed for a month, but the confinement didn't interfere with his creativity; during that time, he wrote 46 songs.

• For reasons not fully understood, in 1592, Pope Clement VIII declared coffee to be a "Christian drink."

• British novelist, biographer and literary critic Anthony Powell made this observation on the career he'd chosen: "As far as I can see, writing is a combination of intangible creative fantasy and appallingly hard work."

• Ever wonder why bubble gum is pink? It's because at the time, red was the only food coloring the inventor had on hand.

• Do you know what firecrackers, iodine, decaffeinated coffee, the plastic contact lens and the barometer have in common? They were all reportedly discovered by accident.

• Actor Richard Gere's middle name is "Tiffany."

• In 1955, one cleaning company predicted that within 10 years nuclear-powered vacuums would be available to the general public.

• At one time, many pubs in Australia hosted dwarf-tossing contests. In fact, at least one diminutive man made his living by serving as the missile in such competitions. It's a pretty dangerous line of work, though; his friends say that after a while he became "sullen and aggressive," and he eventually died of brain damage.

Ease Way for Cats With Kidney Failure

Q. My 10-year-old cat "Sally" has been diagnosed with chronic renal failure. The veterinarian says there is no cure. Is she right? How can I help my cat get well? — Tracy M., Homestead, Fla.

A. Unfortunately, your veterinarian is correct. No cure exists for kidney disease, or chronic renal failure, in pets. However, this does not mean that Sally is going to drop dead tomorrow. You may not be able to help her get well, but you can keep her as healthy as possible and perhaps slow the progression of this disease.

In chronic renal failure, the kidneys' healthy cells are lost and replaced by scar tissue. As the kidneys deteriorate, so does their ability to rid the blood of toxins. The cat gradually becomes weaker, and many signs of illness appear, including anemia, lethargy, vomiting, loss of appetite and weight loss. Some cats succumb to this illness rapidly, while others live for months or years with few problems.

Feeding Sally a good diet that includes lots of fresh food and plenty of water (to keep her well-hydrated, as the kidneys now use a lot of water to eliminate toxins) can help her live longer and more comfortably. Medicines are also available to minimize anemia and to prevent some damage to the kidneys. Your veterinarian can also give the cat intravenous fluids on a regular basis, to replace water lost through the impaired kidneys.

In addition, ask about nutritional supplements made especially for cats with kidney disease, and look into holistic therapies, such as homeopathic treatment or acupuncture, that could reduce your pet's discomfort. There's still a lot you can do to help Sally.

Q. I have a third edition of "Theodore Roosevelt's Letters to His Children," which was edited by Joseph Bucklin Bishop in 1919. I also have a copy of one of these letters dated June 22, 1904, on White House stationery. Any value? — Janet, Palm Coast, Fla.

A. According to the 13th edition of Huxford's Old Book Value Guide, a first edition is worth approximately $15. I am unclear about the letter. Is it autographed by Theodore Roosevelt or merely a copy of one of the letters? If it was signed by Roosevelt, I suggest you contact a competent expert. Two I highly recommend are Kenneth Rendell, 989 Madison Ave., New York, NY 10021; and Keya Gallery, P.O. Box 7412, New York, NY 10116.

Q. I have an unusual string instrument that is a combination ukelele/violin. It is called a ukelin and was distributed by the International Musical Society of Hoboken, N.J. How can I find out its value? — Esther, Menomonie, Wisc.

A. Paul Blementritt is the owner of The Folk Shop in Tucson, Ariz., and is an expert in the field of acoustical instruments. He assured me he can help you both date and establish a value for your ukelin. Contact him at 2525 North Campbell Ave., Tucson, AZ 85719; and 1-520-881-7147.

Bark 'n Bites Of Your Garrett County Forest Conservancy Board

by Paul Shogren, Reporter

The March meeting of your Garrett County Forest Conservancy Board featured discussion of the topics listed below.

NATURAL RESOURCES CAREER CONFERENCE

The board has sent the information packet for the annual Natural Resources Career Conference (NRCC) career week program at Hickory to the principals and biology, guidance, and vo-ag departments at both high schools.

ENVIROTHON

The Envirothon is scheduled for 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Wednesday, May 4, at the 4 H Center in Bittinger. The Allegany County Forest Conservancy Board has sent information to each student involved in the Envirothon, and the Garrett Board submitted the information to the Garrett County Board of Education, which is mailing them to local high school students involved with the Envirothon.

TREE TAGS

Garrett Board chairman Chuck Hoffeditz has been working on the tree tag project for Hickory, and has 25 tree tags for 25 different species ready. He has set up a notebook with a master copy of each tree tag. The committee discussed the cost of printing, laminating, and ways of fastening the tags to the trees/shrubs. Board member Karin Miller volunteered to put together a tree ID quiz on the board's web page.

ARBOR DAY

Maryland's Arbor Day will be observed on Wednesday, April 6, as board members plant a tree at the Hickory Environmental Education Center in memory of Josh Fike, who attended the 2002 Natural Resources Careers Week, and who later died in automobile accident on Rt. 42. Hickory will be contacted to see what tree species they would like to have.

SCHOOL REFORESTATION PROJECT

Seven schools – Southern Middle School, Accident, Kitzmiller, Dennett Road, Route 40, Crellin, Yough Glades, and Grantsville elementary – and Hickory have confirmed their interest in continuing with the school reforestation project, and Bloomington Elementary has expressed interest in joining part in the program. The Garrett Board has applied for a $1,000 grant through the Arbor Day Foundation for the tree plantings.

"TREE-MENDOUS" PLANTINGS

The Tree-mendous Maryland tree list has been distributed, and 25 free trees are available to the board. These trees can be used with the school reforestation project. Board members selected the 25 trees for the school reforestation project.

MFA LOGGERS/FORESTRY FIELD DAY

The MFA Loggers/Forestry Field Day is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, June 10 and 11, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. Organizers have asked that the board participate as an information and education exhibitor.

WILDLANDS BILL

The hearing on the wildlands bills took place on Friday, March 11, and board member Karin Miller reported that MFA was the only group that had representatives appear in person to oppose the legislation. The Garrett County Board of Commissioners and Marshall Stacy had written letters in opposition. The board discussed the legislation, and agreed to send a letter opposing the creation of more wildlands. Chuck Hoffeditz will draft the board's letter and submit it for approval.

TOP 10 BENEFITS OF FORESTRY

The Society of American Foresters has compiled its "Top 10" list of the environmental benefits of forestry. The first four items on the list – "Forestry is Bringing Back Forests," "Forestry Helps Water Quality," "Forestry Offsets Air Pollution," and Forestry Helps Wildlife" – have been noted in previous Barks 'n Bites columns.

A fifth benefit is "Forestry Helps Reduce Catastrophic Wildfires." At the turn of the century, wildfires burned from 20 to 50 million acres of the country each year. Through education, prevention and control, the amount of wildfires has been reduced to approximately 2 to 5 million acres a year – a reduction of 90 percent. By marking and removing excess fuels, such as underbrush and some trees, foresters can modify forests in order to make them more resilient to fire.

Fire season is approaching. If you plan to burn brush piles make sure you have fire control equipment on hand and water, clear a 10 foot firebreak around the pile and burn between 4 p.m. and midnight, Eastern Standard Time.

As Smokey Bear says, "Only you can prevent forest fires!"

APRIL MEETING SLATED

The April meeting of the Garrett County Forest Conservancy Board is scheduled for 9 a.m. Monday, April 11, at the Mt. Nebo Department of Natural Resources office. The public is invited, and persons interested in attending are asked to contact board chairman Chuck Hoffeditz at 301-387-5144 or project manager Ernie Metz at 301-334-3296.

THE EASTER BUNNY HAD A LITTLE HELP delivering goodies to the Mary Browning Senior Center in Oakland this year. Alma Hebdon recently baked and decorated two Easter cakes, which then she donated to the center for seniors to enjoy. Hebdon, who has many years of experience baking and preparing beautifully decorated cakes, is pictured with her creations. The cake at right features many Easter baskets sculpted from cake icing and "filled" with simulated Easter treats.

"Father-Daughter" Gala Set By Crisis Pregnancy Center

The Mountain Top Crisis Pregnancy Center will host its first "Father-Daughter" Gala from 6 to 9 p.m. on Saturday, April 16, at the Will O' the Wisp. The semi-formal "purity ball" dinner is open to girls 11 years old and older, and a significant male role model in their lives, including but not limited to fathers, grandfathers, uncles, and step-fathers.

Janna Kerns-Jenkins, Miss West Virginia 2002, will speak about sexual and spiritual purity. Her father, Bill Kerns, will address the men on the importance of their relationship with their daughters.

The $50 per couple cost includes a four-course meal and gratuity. Seating is limited and reservations are required. Tickets will be given upon receipt of registration. The deadline for reservations is Monday, April 11.

For more information, persons may call 301-334-1058.

Support Group Seeks Service Members' Info

The local Military Family Support Group is compiling a list of all area military personnel who have served in the Iraq or Afghanistan theaters, other locations such as Europe, or in any supporting roles, including stateside.

"We are becoming aware there are many more persons in our area who have served or are currently serving their country," a support group spokesperson said. "We feel it is important that our area know of each person's service to our country. This will permit us to give appropriate appreciation for their efforts on behalf of us all. We will also be able to offer support services to those families."

Persons with information about service persons who have served or are currently serving are asked to contact the Military Family Support Group with that individual's name and location served, and family contact information (if appropriate). Calls may be directed to Cathy and Rev. Mel Menker at 301-334-5906.

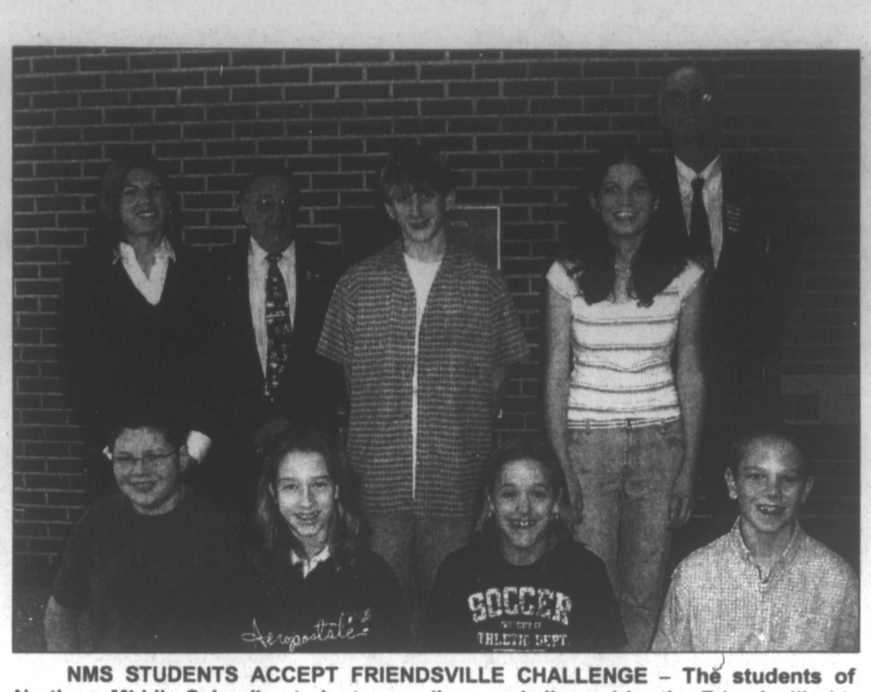
The area Military Family Support Group is also in the planning stages of a community homecoming celebration for the 10 members of the Maryland Army National Guard 253rd Engineering Detachment who hail from this area. Those 10 Guardsmen have been serving in Central Asia during the 15 months of their deployment.

The homecoming event is tentatively slated to take place at the Proctor Kildow Post 71 of the American Legion in Oakland. The date and time is yet to be determined, and will be announced in coming weeks along with other details.

The Military Family Support Group is available for all persons in the area who have a family member currently in the service, regardless of branch of service. The meetings are generally held the third Wednesday evening of every month from 6 to 8 p.m. The next meeting is Wednesday, April 20, and will be held at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren.

There are numerous topics addressed that provide assistance in dealing with the time apart. Child care is provided and Garrett County public school counselor Tim Watson is available to provide specific mental and emotional support assistance for the children who have parents away. A light meal and desert is provided at each meeting.

For more information about the Military Family Support Group and the services it offers, persons may contact co-coordinators Judy Fazenbaker at 301-746-4019 or Debbie Workman 301-746-8717. Both have completed specialized training to work directly with military families.



NMS STUDENTS ACCEPT FRIENDSVILLE CHALLENGE – The students of Northern Middle School's student council were challenged by the Friendsville Lions Club and Friendsville Foundation to raise money to support children's services for tsunami victims. The challenge to the middle school students was that for each dollar they collected it would be matched by the Friendsville organizations at the ratio of 3 to 1. The students raised $350 from their lunch time collection, which with the match will equal $1,400 being sent for children's relief in the tsunami affected areas. Pictured above, kneeling from left to right, are Lukas Tillman, Jenny Shaffer, Amanda Brenneman, and Andrew Sisler. Officials Hope To Use Schiavo Case To Encourage Use of Living Wills

by Elizabeth A. Weiss
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — State medical and legal officials are urging Marylanders to fill out a living wills now to avoid the problems that have put a Florida family through a years' long legal fight over the care of a brain-damaged woman.

The headline-grabbing fight over Terri Schiavo prompted Attorney General J. Joseph Curran Jr. last week to urge state residents to make decisions about their own care "before the crisis" by completing an Advanced Directive Form, one version of which is available on his web site.

Maryland created a living will years ago with the Health Care Decisions Act, which made it possible for a person, prior to an injury or illness, to designate treatment preferences. The advanced directive also lets a person choose a caregiver who can make medical decisions should he be rendered unable to care for himself.

"The whole country is seeing the importance of it, and I hope that it will encourage people — really give them a sense of urgency — about stating what they would like," said Jean Tucker Mann, director of patient care services at the University of Maryland Medical Center.

Mann, who is also cofounder of the center's palliative care services, has seen the benefits of the advanced directive first hand.

"Having someone who they (the patients) trust and know" carry out their wishes makes the decisions during grief-stricken moments much easier on the families, said Mann, who has witnessed the quarrels that can otherwise arise.

Without written instructions, she said, people can claim they have verbal direction from the patient that others are not aware of. That can lead to fights between family members over the care of the patient — as has happened with Schiavo.

Assistant Attorney General Jack Schwartz said Maryland is one of fewer than 12 states that make such information readily available on the Internet. The web page can be found at www.oag.state.md.us/Healthpol/adirective.pdf. It includes forms and information on advanced directives.

The state forms are among the most comprehensive and thorough advanced directives in the country, but are still only a few pages long and straightforward.

"It was intended to be that way," Schwartz said. "Lots of lawyers will tell you they can do a better job drafting it for their clients" but the state's copy is very usable.

"The goal was to put documents out there that people could understand," Schwartz said. "They generally serve their purposes very well."

Even with a living will there can be disputes, he said. Parties could argue, for example, over whether a person is actually in a particular medical condition, like a coma or persistent vegetative state.

But filling out a living will provides a greater safeguard against confusion and grief over the care of a loved one. And advocates say it's not just a step for senior citizens to consider: Diane Tripplet, executive director for the Brain Injury Association of Maryland, said that most such injuries are sustained by people between the ages of 15 and 35. The group reported more than 5,000 traumatic brain injuries in Maryland in 2000, the last year for which it had figures.

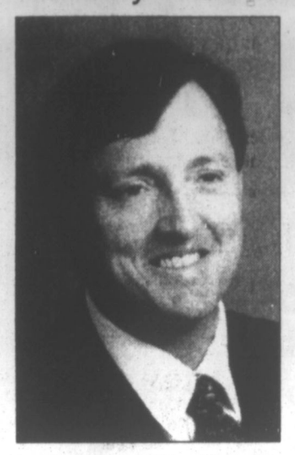
Bible Translator To Be Speaker At Salisbury Fire Hall



Wycliffe Bible Translators missionary Andy Ring will speak at a Wycliffe Associates banquet on Tuesday, April 19, at 6:30 p.m. at the Salisbury (Pa.) fire hall. He will give an account of the challenges and joys of cross-cultural mission work. Complimentary tickets are available by calling 301-895-5928.

Ring and his wife Kate have ministered in Ghana, West Africa, for the last 25 years. He currently leads a group of nationals who are translating four emerging New Testaments and the Lelemi Old Testament.

"We are privileged to help convert the Lelemi language in written form so the people could have the Bible translated into their native tongue," Ring said.

Through volunteer programs in local communities and overseas, Wycliffe Associates provides hands-on opportunities for those interested in accelerating the translation of the Bible for indigenous peoples. Such programs include Short-term Missions, which offers interested volunteers an opportunity to do construction, teach vacation Bible school, and do substitute teaching.

The Banquet Ministry holds banquets in over 200 cities each year, featuring missionaries and volunteers who provide timely information about the worldwide progress of Bible translation.

The Construction Ministry enables volunteers to build and equip translation centers, housing, and other needed facilities.

Some 1,500 volunteers will be sent to more than 40 different countries in 2005. Over 290,000 volunteer hours of work per year aid in Bible translation efforts.

More Individuals Paying Md. Taxes With Direct Debit

More individuals who owe state taxes are filing electronically and paying their tax bills by direct debit, according to Maryland comptroller William Donald Schaefer. The comptroller's office has received more than 15,000 electronic filings so far that included direct debit payments – 24 percent greater than the 12,100 debit requests received at this time last year.

"One great advantage to direct debit is that you can file now and choose to have your payment debited from your bank account any time you choose, up to the April 15 deadline," said the comptroller.

He also noted that electronic filers who pay by direct debit also receive assurance that the correct amount was paid.

"There's no worry about getting a surprise bill down the road," Schaefer said. The direct debit option is available only to taxpayers who file electonically.

Of the approximately 1.3 million Maryland tax returns processed so far, more than 806,000 were filed electronically and approximately 72,900 reported a balance due. The electronic filings exceed the total processed at this time last year by 11.6 percent, while the current number of balance dues is 12.5 percent greater, according to the comptroller's office.

Taxpayers can file their Maryland returns electronically free of charge using the comptroller's iFile service, available on his agency's web site at marylandtaxes.com. They can also file electronically using approved commercial software or professional tax preparers.

Jr. Woman's Meeting Held

The Junior Woman's Civic Club recently met at Red Run restaurant for the March meeting. The next meeting is the club's annual membership drive scheduled at Uno Restaurant on Thursday, April 7. The meeting will begin at 6 p.m. Members are encouraged to bring a guest.

The annual wine tasting is scheduled for Thursday, April 14, at DC's Mountain Steakhouse at Wisp. Tickets may be purchased at Bear Elegance Salon or the Wisp. "Save the date now and help the JWCC ladies celebrate 50 years of active service to the county," said a club spokesperson.

Junior Woman's Civic Club of Garrett County is a social and civic organization that meets the first Thursday of every month at 6:30 p.m. The object of this organization is the development of its members in intellectual endeavor and community service. The club is open to any woman 18 years of age or older.

Persons interested in joining the club may contact membership chairperson Marta Schroyer at 301-387-5898 or jwcc@iceweb.net for meeting time and information.

SPAY/NEUTER MONTH DEEMED SUCCESS – Another successful Spay/Neuter Awareness Month has been observed, reports the Garrett County Humane Society and Animal Shelter. The campaign ends this month. "It is encouraging to note that over 150 discount certificates have been given out this year during Spay/Neuter Awareness Month," said Lisa Baker of the Humane Society. "This means there will be literally hundreds less of unwanted kittens and puppies in our county. Remember that just because your pet is confined to your yard doesn't mean it can't get pregnant. Unneutered canines can still come onto your property and impregnate your female dog. I've talked to many pet owners who left their house dogs outside for only a few minutes to go to the bathroom and later on they were found to be pregnant. Please consider that a unneutered male can impregnate many females, and an unspayed female can have two to three litters per year. This is also why it is important to report or take all feral cats and stray dogs to the county animal shelter. Owners should have their pets altered and place identification tags on them in case they are found wandering or are taken to the shelter." Spay/neuter assistance will still be available after the awareness campaign ends, but one must be a Garrett County resident and in need of the financial assistance. For more information, persons may call 301-334-3553 or 387-4425. "Hopefully, one day homeless animals like the one pictured above will be a thing of the past," Baker added.

Ministerial Assoc. Sets Hymn Sing At Oak Park Church

The Mountaintop Ministerial Association has scheduled a "Cross on the Hill" community praise and hymn sing event beginning at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, April 10, at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren. The free event is open to the public, and proceeds from a freewill offering will be used to meet expenses stemming from the association's project of placing a cross on the hill overlooking downtown Oakland.

In addition to congregational style hymn singing, a music program will be presented. Slated to perform are the Meadow Mountain Mennonite Church men's trio of Duane Frederick, Ron Beiler, and Jack Beckman; Linda Anderson of the Oakland Church of the Nazarene; Alexis and Patty Brenneman; and No Other Name, the praise and worship team from Oak Park.

Those in attendance will have the opportunity to contribute to a freewill offering that will be used to help the Ministerial Association complete its financial obligation for the purchase of the large cross on the hill in Oakland, and to provide a maintenance fund for its monthly electric costs and exterior maintenance.

The Oak Park Church of the Brethren is located along Church Lane, across from Southern High School. For more information, persons may contact the church office at 301-334-2243.

FOR SALE BY "FRIEND"?

Everyone wants to avoid paying more than they have to for goods and services. When you're talking about real estate, the figures reach levels where a couple percentage points make a big difference. This is where some sellers consider trying it on their own, or letting "a friend in the business" handle the sale.

While your "friend in the business" may be willing to provide services at a reduced cost, it's a suspicious proposal. Professional agents aren't normally capable of reducing their fees, since half of those fees go to the buyer's company, and much of what's left goes to the selling agent's office and paying for marketing.

Ignore the fees and ask this question: How close is your friendship and what do you want your friend to know about your finances? Yes, even sellers may need to divulge mortgage details, financial background, etc.

Even if you're comfortable discussing these details with your friend, be prepared for the unexpected. The stress and anxiety of selling can make anyone edgy and irritated. Would you rather take that out on your friend, or a neutral expert who understands what you're going through?

Feelings get hurt when friends face problems in their business relationship. When you're ready to sell, contact an agent who will objectively handle the transaction. Suddenly, you've sold your home and made a new friend!

If you'd like to buy or sell your home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call today!

FITNESS AFTER 55

by Christy Hoalcraft
Fitness Director
Flowery Vale Fitness Center

My name is Christy Hoalcraft and I am the new fitness director of the Flowery Vale Fitness Center in Accident.

The staff would like to welcome Arthur Coddington to the center this month. We are pleased to have him joining our program. As the weather looks more like spring, more and more members are starting to return to the center. We look forward to seeing more of you at the gym.

A new nutrition program is starting at the center, developed by the Garrett County Health Department. It is called Operation Jump Start and is a six-month program through which members are slowly going to be changing their dietary habits. Sharon Custer from the Health Department came to the center on March 16 and gave a presentation about the program. She will be meeting with us once a month to discuss the new "healthy habit," and we will be keeping a progress chart in the facility to track the success of the project. Each time that a "healthy habit" is added we hope that the previous one will become a natural part of our daily routine. Then by the time the program is completed we will be drinking more water, eating more fruits and vegetables, exercising at least 30 minutes a day, and including more calcium sources in our diets. Any member wishing to participate who has not received a booklet or would like more information is invited to stop by the office at the fitness center or call 301-746-8050. Sharon will also be providing blood pressure screenings for members.

Need a new way to unwind after a stressful workday? We have added an afternoon yoga class with Peggy Santamaria from 4:30 to 5:30 on Thursdays. This class is open to the community for a very reasonable fee of $3.00 for non-members. Please stop by and join us.

We are also developing a class for menopausal women to help maintain bone density through yoga. No times or dates have been set as of yet, but we will keep you updated on this issue.

We would like to let everyone know that today, March 31, is Steve Guy's last day with us. Steve is one of our Frostburg State University interns. We appreciate everything that he has done for us here at the center this semester. We hate to see him go, but wish him the best of luck in his future endeavors.

Recipe of the Month:

Cheese and Tomato Quesadillas

¾ cup tomato, seeded and diced
¼ cup green onions, thinly sliced
2 pickled jalapeno peppers, chopped
6 eight-inch fat-free flour tortillas
¾ cup reduced fat, sharp cheddar cheese, shredded
¾ cup salt-free tomato salsa
½ cup fat free sour cream

Divide the first three ingredients into six equal portions, and then spread them along the tortillas. Top each tortilla with cheese. Coat a medium, non-stick skillet with cooking spray, and heat over medium-high heat until hot. Place one tortilla in the skillet, and cook for one minute or until the bottom of the tortilla is golden. Fold the tortilla in half, and cook another 30 seconds or until the cheese melts. Repeat this with the remaining tortillas. Cut each quesadilla into four wedges, and top with salsa and sour cream. Makes 4 servings

GARRETT COUNTY NOTICE OF A PROPOSED REAL PROPERTY TAX INCREASE

The County Commissioners of Garrett County proposes to increase real property taxes.

1. For the tax year beginning July 1, 2005, the estimated real property assessable base will increase by 10.6%(a) from $2,218,666,043(b) to $2,453,059,994(c).
2. If Garrett County maintains the current tax rate of $1.036(d) per $100 of assessment, real property tax revenues will increase by 10.6%(e) resulting in $2,428,321(f) of new real property tax revenues.
3. In order to fully offset the effect of increasing assessments, the real property tax rate should be reduced to $.937(g), the constant yield tax rate.
4. The County is considering not reducing its real property tax rate enough to fully offset increasing assessments. The County proposes to adopt a real property tax rate of $1.000(h) per $100 of assessment. This tax rate is 6.7%(i) higher than the constant yield tax rate and will generate $1,545,428(j) in additional property tax revenues.

A public hearing on the proposed real property tax increase will be held at 11:00 a.m. on April 12, 2005 in the County Commissioners Meeting Room, County Courthouse, Oakland, MD. The hearing is open to the public, and public testimony is encouraged. Persons with questions regarding this hearing may call 301-334-8970 for further information.

There are certain municipalities within the County which have different county tax rates. The above revenues and tax rates are county wide, excluding municipalities with different county tax rates. The following chart provides the corresponding information and tax rates for those municipalities.

CONSERVATION CAMP

The 64th annual West Virginia State Conservation Camp will be held June 13-18 at Camp Caesar in Webster County.

This youth program provides natural resources education and outdoor activities for the youths of West Virginia and surrounding states. Classes are presented by professionals from federal and state agencies. Class sessions include forest management, wildlife management, soil conservation, water conservation, watershed management, nature awareness, fish management, and forest protection. Afternoon activities include outdoor cooking, rappelling, shooting sports, mountain biking, and water safety (boating). Evening council fires and group activities provide campers an opportunity to contribute to the overall camp program.

Camp cost is $125 for the week; scholarships are available through local conservation agencies, sportsmen's clubs, service clubs, and individuals.

This is an overnight camp for the week and is for youths ages 14 as of January 1, 2005, and no older than 18 on June 1, 2005. Persons may contact Mike Hall, Webster County Extension agent, at Mlhall@mail.wvu.edu, or locally, Carol Burdick at 304-789-6864 for more information.

PITTSBURGH STEELERS

Recent benefit basketball games sponsored by Terra Alta / East Preston Athletic Boosters were held in Terra Alta between the Mt. Top Athletic Club (MTAC) and members of the Pittsburgh Steelers football organization. The event was considered a success, as Booster president Bill Kelly received a phone call from Tom O'Malley, manager of the Steelers basketball team, who complimented the Boosters on the "excellent organization" of the event and that all had had "a very enjoyable stay" and are eager to return to Terra Alta in the future. During their weekend stay they were housed at Alpine Lake, and the players also commented on the "excellent care and service" they received from the staff and management of the resort.

The Steelers and MTAC team played two games, with the Steelers winning the March 19 game, 79-58, after a 30-30 tie at halftime. Brett Kiesel led the Steelers with 29 points and Russell Stuvants added 16. Nathan Smith, a Morgantown High School graduate, led MTAC with 13 points and Deon Dobbs from Fairmont Senior High added 11.

In Sunday's game the Steelers were again led by Russell Stuvants and Brett Kiesel, who each scored 24 points. Preston High alumni Chad Reese and Shawn Myers led the MTAC with 16 and 11 points, respectively. Current Preston High freshman Craig Kelly faced the "biggest" challenge of the weekend, as the 5'8" youngster stepped in for the opening tip against 6'8", 310-pound Josh Burr. The Steelers won the game, 75-62.

The MTAC roster included Chuck Fultz, Brandon Rohrbaugh, Bill Kelly, Chad Reese, J.R. Sines, Jennings Freeland, Jeff Roy, Jim Freeman, Mike Fazenbaker, Shawn Myers, Nathan Smith, Deon Dobbs, and Craig Kelly.

Members of the Terra Alta East Preston Athletic Boosters note appreciation to everyone who helped or attended these fundraisers.

DINNER SLATED

The Ladies Auxiliary elimination dinner will be held at the VFW on Saturday, April 9. Persons may call 304-789-2672 for tickets. Only 150 tickets will be sold, and $1,000 in prize money will be awarded. This dinner directly benefits the Veterans Memorial Park that will be located on the CSX property, obtained by TABI, behind the flower shop in the center of town. Plans are at City Hall.

WALK UNDER WAY

Health Toppers' 100-mile, 100-day walk started Monday, March 21. It is still not too late to sign up at their office at Fit and Fabulous. Some 40 people have signed up so far. The walk will continue until June 28.

SEATS FOR SALE

Terra Alta East Preston School is selling memorial auditorium seats for $95 each. Each seat will have a brass plaque with the name of the buyer's choice. All donors' names will be on a large plaque that will be on display in the auditorium.

FAMILY NIGHT OUT

Terra Alta Health Toppers' "Healthy Family's Night Out" is set for 5:30 p.m. Saturday, April 16, at Terra Alta East Preston School. All ages are welcome and admission is free.

RAILS TO TRAILS

Rails to Trails meetings are held the fourth Thursday of each month, 6 p.m., at the Friends of Cheat office in Kingwood. The members of this group work to turn abandoned railroad lines into multi-use trails. They have already obtained the old Northern Railroad track from Tunnelton to Kingwood, and are currently working on the trail along the Cheat River from Rowlesburg to Albright. TABI members have adopted the trail from Evans curve to Albright.

SPORTS BANQUET SET

A sports banquet for the Terra Alta Youth League will be held at the school this Sunday, April 3.

After the banquet the Youth League high school teams will play the Youth League coaches at approximately 4.30 pm. Admission will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students. Persons desiring more information may contact Helena or Todd Slaubaugh at 304-789-6089.

MEMORIAL BRICKS

Memorial bricks for the park entrance or for use at City Hall are available for purchase. Terra Alta note cards are on sale at City Hall and Gregg's Pharmacy.

TAX ASSISTANCE

Free tax assistance from VITA volunteers is available at City Hall every Thursday from 10 a.m. to noon.

LIBRARY NEWS

Mrs. Messenger's first grade class from Terra Alta/East Preston School came to visit the library last Thursday. This class was the winner of the February READO game. All 25 classmates were in attendance along with another first grader from Mrs. Williams' class, Rylee Roy, who was the top overall reader of the program. A game of Bingo was played by the students, with Rylee as the card marker. Gabby Gank from Mrs. Messenger's class was treated with a surprise for being the top reader in the class.

All students, teachers, and parents shared a mid-morning snack and then browsed through the library. Games, puzzles, toys, and books were shared by all.

This program was to encourage the students to read and visit their library. Each class that participated had its own card with book titles. Once the books were read and returned, the markings were done. Mrs. Hauger's kindergarten students participated and read several books on their level, as this class was the first to respond to be included. Other teachers participating were Ms. Nordeck/Ms. Dixon, Mrs. Rodeheaver, and Mr. Williams.

Donating periodicals, pamphlets, audios, videos, and/or books recently have been: Milton Crum, Betty Smith, Ben Dobeck, Chris Evans, Sue Daley, Laurie Noland, Sara Mersing, Grace Athey, Albert Ossman, Mary McLaughlin, Tyler Friend, Cindy Cramer, Cheryl Seeders, and Rowena Heath.

Another activity available at the library is putting together jigsaw puzzles, from 300 to 2,500 pieces.

Ilene Evans To Portray Social Activist Garrison

The Grant County Arts Council will present local actress Ilene Evans as Memphis Tennessee Garrison, a pioneering West Virginia teacher and social activist on Thursday, April 14, at 7:30 p.m. at the Moomau Library in Petersburg.

This free presentation is part of the West Virginia Humanities Council's "History Alive" series of enactments of notable West Virginians.

Persons requiring accessibility assistance may contact the GCAC at emv1@hardynet.com in advance.

Preston Garden Club Sets Philippi Mansion Outing

The Cranberry Garden Club of Preston County has slated a day trip to the Adaland Mansion in Philippi for Thursday, June 9. Reservations are currently being accepted for the chartered bus excursion, which will make morning pickups in Oakland, Alpine Lake, and Kingwood.

The trip will focus on the 135-year-old Adaland Mansion, and will feature guided tours of the mansion and its recently restored barn. A catered lunch will be served in the mansion's dining room, and time will be available to tour the extensive gardens filled with irises, heritage roses and herbs, as well as a butterfly garden, terrace, and bird sanctuary. The staff will also describe its heritage garden restoration project. The gift shop will be open as well.

Adaland Mansion was built in 1870 and is listed on the National Register of Historic Places. The mansion house has been restored with attention to authenticity for the period of the house and the gardens are being restored as heritage gardens. The old barn has also been restored in the past year and contains antique farm equipment and heritage crafts.

The cost for the bus, tours, full lunch and tips is $32 per person. For a sign-up sheet, persons may call Mildred Lindley at 304-329-1117 or Marilyn Sedlack at 304-789-3134.

Membership and meetings of the Cranberry Garden Club are open to all interested persons. The club meets the third Thursday of each month in the Kingwood and Terra Alta area.

AURORA/EGLON

SOUP, SALAD DINNER

An all-you-want soup and salad dinner will be served at the Maple Spring Church on Saturday evening, April 2. Serving will be from 4 until 8 p.m. and will feature three soups – chili, bean, potato. Included in the meal are beverage, bread, dessert. Donations asked are $6 for adults, and $3 for children 12 and under. Proceeds go to the new building fund.

Students who had displayed art at Preston High were invited to a reception and art-music night at the school. Chelsea Wolfe's exhibit was chosen for the student art show in Charleston at the Cultural Center. Among those who had work exhibited at the Preston High were representatives from K-6th grades.

Students of all ages were asked to submit either poetry or prose items for the Young Writer's contest. Samantha Blossom, poetry, and Harlin Wolfe, prose, were selected from the 5th grade. Sixth graders were represented by Caitlin Norwish, prose, and Misty Humphrey, poetry.

Peer Mediators at Aurora (Stacy Kemphfer, Michael Ludle, and Caitlin Norwish) were given training, along with other school representatives, in February at Camp Dawson. The school was represented at Math Field Day. The first graders did a choral reading of "The Gingerbread Man" for the kindergarten class on Feb. 10. Kindergarten celebrated the 100th day of school by displaying collections of 100 items. Third graders are again working on a quilt. A spring concert and art show are also planned.

EGLON 4-H

"Are you getting your daily requirements of food portions according to the new food pyramid?" was the question asked of members of the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club when Shari Lawler presented a program on Food and Nutrition, using plastic foods based on actual portion sizes. "Nearly everyone overeats and this is blamed for the childhood epidemic of obesity," Lawler said. "These eating habits also result in diabetes, hypertension, heart disease, and other related diseases later in life."

Jesse Schalker used the theme "Courage to be Different" for the devotions, and was the only member of the music committee present. Results of the recent county poster and photo contest show the club met the score sheet requirements, with six posters submitted for judging. Receiving a blue ribbon and going on to state competition was Chad Vandevender in "4-H Promotion"; Nathan Cussins in "Dairy"; Caitlin Roth in "Litter, Recycling and Environment"; and Kaitlyn Schalker in "Health and Nutrition." Jonathan Blamble got a blue ribbon in "Litter, Recycling and Environment," and Cody Hardesty had a red ribbon in "Safety." Photos were submitted by Cody Hardesty, blue, state; Jonathan Blamble two red ribbons; and Debbie Collins a red ribbon.

Debbie Collins and Caitlin Roth attended Teen Leader/Charting Weekend Camp at Jackson's Mill, March 4-6.

The spring fundraiser was the selling of Pizza Hut cards, which ended March 28. Volunteers are needed to help with County 4-H Day on April 30 at East Preston from 9 a.m. until noon, as room chairpersons, tabulators, and judges.

Dates for county camps are May 6-7 for first-time camper weekend; July 10-15 for older members; and July 24-29 for Younger Camp. Volunteers are also needed for these camps. Upcoming is trash pickup along the Eglon Road in April and Beef Expo at Jackson's Mill, April 8-9. Then the next meeting of the club will be April 11 at 6:30 p.m. at the Farmers' Wildlife park for picking up trash and debris. A program on tractor safety is planned.

Debbie Collins gave a talk on "Foods and Methods of Preserving," then attempted to demonstrate how to lad film into a camera.

Recreation led by Nathan Cussins was an Easter egg guessing game. Each member tried to determine the egg's contents by shaking, "Candleing," or weighing. All eggs were filled with everyday household items.

Those in attendance were Jonathan Blamble, Debbie Collins, Nathan Cussins, Katelyn Harsh, Nathaniel Lawler, Caitlin Norwish, Caitlin Roth, Jesse and Kaitlyn Schalker, Trevor Spaid, and Chad Vandevender, plus adults.

FRIDAY DINNER

This Friday evening, April 1, an all-you-can-eat roast beef with mashed potatoes dinner will be served at the Aurora fire hall from 4 until 8 p.m. Donations of $6 for adults and $3 for kids 12 and under is being asked.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mrs. Charles (Dodie) Burrell of Brookside was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment last Friday.

Louella Fike of Aurora is a patient in Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she underwent surgery on March 25.

Eileen Rembold of Pittsburgh visited this weekend with her daughter-in-law and grandsons, Mary, Shawn, and Craig Rembold at Stemple Ridge, and with her sister and brother-in-law Wilma Mae and David Teets, at Horse Shoe Run.

Tom, Linda and Sara Lewis of Eglon were Saturday overnight guests in Martinsburg with Emily and Chuck Young, where another daughter and family, Gary, Julie, Grayson, and Madison Baker, of Virginia Beach, Va., were visiting.

There were about 80 Preston County seniors in attendance at last Tuesday's Spring Get-Together at the Aurora Memorial Building. Speaking to the group concerning the April 23 election for a Preston County school levy was John Lofink, superintendent of Preston County schools, who gave the group the facts concerning what the levy will do and how it will benefit each school.

Lorain Hanline was treated Wednesday at Garrett County Memorial Hospital and then returned to his Mt. Top home.

Junior Myers has returned to Aurora to continue his recuperation from knee surgery.

Richard Norwish of Eglon made a short visit Sunday to see his mother and sister, Peggy and Louise Norwish, in Virginia.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Some people can't just grow up completely, like myself and Linda and Pete Buckel. We just can't resist the urge to do a big project with Easter eggs, even though we don't have any young children at home. Years ago Linda and Pete attended a lesson at the Deep Creek State Park on natural egg dyes. They get the best results with onion skins, so each year they do a batch of onion dyed eggs. They just simmer hard-cooked eggs in a solution of water and onion skins for several hours. According to Linda they got the most beautiful results this year. I did not have to see them to know they would be a magically blended swirl of all shades of gold and brown, just like a piece of fine rare wood.

That beauty, of course, only exists for several days because to children Easter eggs are for eating, meaning the beautiful shell will be broken in a hundred little pieces. I know that from my own experience, as for many happy years my little ones scattered tiny bright color shells of their Easter eggs all through our house. I do not miss the mess, but I do miss the joyful faces of my kids when they found dozens of brightly colored, hidden eggs. Now their Easter treat is just some candy and a few other little gifts, but they gave me my Easter morning gift of their presence with me. All I desire from them is just to be with me. All I can give them is my most cherished values of beauty, creativity, and keeping your promise, even if it gets hard to do.

I promised Pastor Pat that I would have some hand-painted empty eggs for her Children's Time on Easter Sunday morning. A week before Easter I blew out a dozen lovely brown eggs. However, some helpful one threw away the dozen shells. Of course, I didn't want the egg inside of them because another thing I want to teach my daughter is not to fall into the modern way of living.

I made a very large batch of homemade noodles for the homecoming dinner for my Claire, who is home from college, plus some to put extra in my freezer. It is a big job making old-fashioned noodles, but I learned from my two grandmothers and my mother how to get the dough stiff enough by adding more flour a little at a time to reach the desirable consistency to roll out. This is a hard job for a person with two hands, but it is possibly a bit harder for me.

That is another lesson I want to teach my children – not to quit if a job gets hard. Every day I get up to be there before school and be there when they come home to me for a few precious minutes. Just keeping on living is very hard for me, but they tell me repeatedly that they do still need me, so quitting is not an option for me.

The second batch of my eggs that I had blown out got smashed by the helpful someone who threw a heavy scrub bucket into my kitchen sink where the second dozen shells were being drained. This meant another dozen eggs and more noodles, and a big-time setback for Easter morning because my eggs will have to have several coats of paint – first a heavy rich dark purple acrylic paint, a gold cross on one side, and on the other side a white Easter lily. This design is to express the true meaning of Easter, the death of Christ on the cross and being risen from the death means new life for us – just as the lily comes back to life from seemingly dead dry bulbs. These painting sessions take several drying periods. I will not allow defeat, even if it requires me to get up bright and early to work at 3 a.m. on Easter morning to put the finishing touches on them.

The adorable group of little ones seem delighted with my eggs. I suggested to their parents to save them for Christmas-tree ornaments. Easter is a further reminder of the cycle of birth, death, and rebirth embodied in the story of Christ. Our society puts more emphasis on Santa Claus and the Easter Bunny than what the holidays really mean. It is impossible for any loving parent to not give their kids the fun things, but we can try to insist on reminding them of what this holiday really means. I was more rewarded for my efforts to see how those little hands cradled my eggs, as if they were solid gold. Our dear little Alayna Stanton even presented me with a bag of Easter candy. The extra egg went to Zion with Pastor Pat. My girls seemed a little disappointed that they did not get one. I still have one left, which will make an appearance on our next Christmas tree.

It looks like the groundhog was right, as we have had six weeks of winter weather after February 2, right in time for the spring equinox. It was not a serious winter, with just a fresh bit of snow every now and then and rare, really low nighttime temperatures. Our Easter was not snowy, but just dismal, foggy and chilly, and the fog still lingered most of the day on Monday. Tuesday finally brought out some sunshine, which was a welcome sight. Our glades are full of water due to the drenching rain we have to deal with the last few days. Thank goodness we do not have to worry too much about flooding here in the highlands of Maryland. I remember words from an old song my mother used to sing, "How high the water, mama?" "Six feet high and risin'."

Some people probably interpret the saying "In like a lion and out like a lamb" means mild, sunshine, and gentle weather. But here in Bittinger, March is going out like a real lamb, wooly and frisky, like the wind today. But we still are far from real spring, which means more green grass than mud, blue sky, flowers, and birds. I did hear my first sound of geese the other day, but the fog was too thick to see them. An article said that a sign of global warming is the earlier appearance of migrating birds. I am not sure when we usually see the first robin here in Bittinger, but some have seen them for two weeks. We usually have at least one more snow after they are around.

I am sure there were lots of big family holiday feasts besides that of my family, but I did not hear of any. We had our family dinner at the home of my sister, Carol Bass, and family. Family is just about everything in Bittinger, so I hope everyone had a good one.

There were a couple of important birthdays at Cherry Hill, where Edna Beitzel turned 96 and Harriett Buckel had her birthday on March 28.

Ruth DiPaolo returned Saturday after spending part of the week at Betty Sacra's home in Winchester, Va. Barry Glotfelty also spent the weekend with his mother Ruth and family.

Sally and Lenny Poholsky traveled to Ferrum, Va., Friday hoping to see Torrey's team, Greensboro College, battle the Ferrum team, but because of the heavy rain and bad weather, the games were canceled. They then went down to Greensboro, N.C., to spend the Easter holidays with Torrey.

Robbie Glotfelty returned to University of Maryland on Sunday after spending his spring break at home visiting family and friends. Claire Sussman from W.Va. University also spent Easter weekend visiting her family.

A lovely Palm Sunday service was held at St. John's Lutheran Church honoring Ida Reckner on her 100th birthday. Altar palms were presented in her honor by her daughter, Donna Glotfelty. Special musical selections were rendered throughout the service by family members, Karl, Cathy, Kara, and Marc DeBoeser, and Lyndsae Reckner. Sixty-eight of Ida's family members gathered Saturday evening at the Bittinger Community Building for dinner and reunion time, and approximately 130 family and guests attended the public reception held there Sunday afternoon.

After attending Easter morning church services together at St. John's, Linda Oester and her grandmother Ida, and her mother, Donna Glotfelty, enjoyed reading again the more than 200 birthday cards and notes Ida received. Other lunch guests at the Glotfelty home were Lisa and Amanda Platter, Smithsburg. Tim Glotfelty and Adam Platter were afternoon callers, and all except Tim traveled to the Long Stretch home of Julius and Karmen Carey for an evening dinner. Ida very much appreciates all the festivities held in her honor, and is grateful to everyone who attended or sent cards, flowers, gifts, and best wishes to mark her 100th birthday occasion.

NORTH STAR 4-H CLUB

Seven members of the North Star 4-H Club presented speeches or radio spots at the county public speaking program held at Garrett College on Thursday, March 17. Kevin Haenftling gave a junior-prepared speech on Rokenbok and won a blue ribbon and was named champion. Misty Paugh gave a junior speech on 4-Wheel Safety and won a red ribbon. Jennifer LaMastus gave a senior-prepared speech on Epilepsy and won a white ribbon. Angela gave a speech on Softball and won a red ribbon. Rachel Schmidt gave a prepared speech on Honey, her golden retriever, and won a blue ribbon and reserve champion. Helaina LaMastus gave a prepared speech on Thelma and Louise, her goats, and won a blue ribbon and was named champion. Rachel also gave an extemporaneous speech on "How 4-H has Given Me Self Confidence" and won another blue ribbon. Kara Savage presented a radio spot and won a blue ribbon and reserve champion.

All of the reserve champion and champion winners are eligible to participate in a regional public speaking even in Hagerstown on April 2.

Rachel, Pam, and Darlene Schmidt attended a Rabbit Workshop in Washington, Pa., on Saturday, March 19. The workshop was sponsored by the Westmoreland County Rabbit Breeders Association and Eric Stewart, director of Region 9 of the American Rabbit Breeders Association. The workshop presented classes on fitting and showing of rabbits, how to identify different breeds of rabbits, rabbit judging, genetics, and feeding of rabbits.

Rachel Schmidt participated in the Washington Rabbit Breeders Association Rabbit Show on Sunday, March 20. She won blue, red, and white ribbons and received a best-of-show for her rabbits. Rachel is taking the rabbit project as part of her 4-H learning activities.

The Accident Head Start children visited the farm and rabbitry of Rachel Schmidt on Monday, March 21. Rachel's rabbitry is called Pamdara's Rabbit Tree and is located on Cove Road. Rachel raises Holland lops, Jersey woolies, lionheads, and mini lops. Rachel also showed the Head Start children her new baby lambs and her dairy calf, Jessie.

NEWS from THE MARYLAND FOREST, PARK & WILDLIFE SERVICE

SAFE DEBRIS BURNING

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Forest Service, in cooperation with the Garrett County Health Department and the Garrett County Emergency Management Office, would like to remind people that spring is traditionally a time of high forest fire danger in Maryland. In 2004, there were 253 natural fuel fires in the state that burned 3,149 acres. In Garrett County there were six natural fuel or woods fires in 2004. These fires burned approximately 15 acres.

Typically, spring is the time of the year when many property owners are conducting outdoor burning of leaves and other debris. Unfortunately, many people do not burn safely, resulting in wildfires. Fifty percent of the natural fuel fires in Garrett County in 2004 were caused by unsafe debris burning, and 33 percent of these fires occurred Monday through Wednesday.

In order to prevent wildfires from occurring and causing destruction to private homes and woodlands, the state of Maryland has established open-air burning regulations. These regulations apply to activities in woodlands and within 200 ft. of woodlands, or activities adjacent to or within an area where flammable materials could ignite and carry fire to woodlands.

These regulations are:

1) A natural or constructed fire break at least 10 feet wide must completely surround the material to be burned.

2) Adequate personnel and equipment must be present to prevent the fire from escaping.

3) At least one responsible person must remain at the burning location until the last spark is out.

4) Permissible burning hours are between 4 p.m. and midnight, Eastern Standard Time (EST). After the time change on April 3, the burning times change to between 5 p.m. and 1 a.m.

5) All open-air burning requires a permit from the county health department. Open-air burning prior to 4 p.m. EST also requires a burning permit from the DNR.

Open-air burning of any type not in accordance with these regulations is subject to citations and fines ranging from $70 to $260.

Landowners interested in conducting open-air burning are encouraged to burn after 5 p.m. when a burning permit from the Maryland DNR Forest Service is not required, and the air is generally moister and calmer, reducing the chances of the fire escaping.

If a landowner wishes to burn before 5 p.m., he/she should contact the Forest Service office at Mt. Nebo Monday-Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., at 301-334-3296.

Prior to doing any open-air burning, the landowner should contact Garrett County Emergency Management at 301-334-1929 to let dispatchers know about the controlled burning. This reduces the chances of local volunteer fire departments being dispatched on false alarms.

When conducting open-air burning, it is the landowner's responsibility to make sure the fire doesn't escape, and to make sure the fire is out cold before leaving it.

Farming On The Mountaintop

LEAD MARYLAND — Several local residents are moving forward in LEAD Maryland, the agriculture leadership development program coordinated by the LEAD Maryland Foundation. Pictured above is Cheryl DeBerry (middle), as she helps to steer a skip-jack in the Chesapeake Bay during a LEAD Maryland session in Southern Maryland last May. Below are Lewis R. Riley, Maryland secretary of agriculture, and Richard McCrobie during a LEAD Maryland session in Annapolis last year.

Area Residents Move Forward In LEAD Md.

Richard McCrobie and Cheryl DeBerry recently graduated from Class III, and Bill Bishoff began as a fellow in Class IV of LEAD (Leadership, Education, Action, Development) Maryland, the agriculture leadership development program coordinated by the LEAD Maryland Foundation.

Governor Robert Ehrlich made an appearance at the reception prior to the graduation ceremony on March 22 in the Miller Senate Office Building in Annapolis.

"It was exciting to have the governor attend part of the graduation," DeBerry said. "In total, about 75 people were there, including people from each class of LEAD Maryland so far, Class III family members, and several members of the LEAD Maryland Foundation board."

A presentation of slides from the Class III international study tour to Brazil was presented during the graduation ceremony. Graduation certificates and pins were awarded to the graduates.

LEAD Maryland is a non-profit organization dedicated to identifying and developing leadership for agriculture and rural communities. The purpose of the LEAD Maryland Foundation is to provide men and women interested in the future of Maryland agriculture with opportunities to expand their leadership abilities; develop an active network of resourceful, diverse, and highly motivated people; increase their understanding of critical public issues; and enhance their knowledge of technological practices, marketing strategies, and environmental concerns.

Each class fellow completes an educational two-year fellowship, which includes eight three-day study tours around Maryland, as well as a four-day study tour of Washington, D.C., and an international study tour. Class III went to Brazil in January. Fellows learn through lecture, discussion, self-assessment, and group activities, and by completing a leadership project.

Bill Bishoff completed his first study tour as a fellow of Class IV in Cecil County in February. "I was so impressed with my fellow classmates," he said. "We went through three days of sessions and tours, plus we sat up half the nights talking about our vision for the future of agriculture in Maryland. My goal for the LEAD program is to become a better citizen who can help preserve our rural way of life and the viability of agriculture in Maryland."

Class IV will meet in Garrett County in June. Bishoff, McCrobie, and DeBerry are helping with the planning of the session. The group will tour the county and will learn about the timber industry, agriculture production, and rural issues unique to western Maryland.

"I have really enjoyed the LEAD Maryland program. I learned so much about the diversity of Maryland agriculture," said DeBerry. "I also learned how important it is for farmers to become active in local and state government."

The LEAD Maryland Foundation will accept applications for Class V through Oct. 1, 2006. For more information about LEAD Maryland, or for an application packet, persons may visit www.leadmaryland.org or call 410-827-8056.

YOUTH COMPETE IN STOCKMAN'S CONTEST – Members of Garrett County 4-H clubs traveled to Hagerstown recently to participate in the Stockman's Contest, sponsored by the Maryland Cattlemen's Association. In addition to a written test, the youth were required to identify breeds of livestock, cuts of meat, feeds, hay, and livestock equipment. Members were divided into junior and senior divisions. Senior members also had to complete a livestock management problem. Pictured left to right, in the first row are junior division competitors Kim Cogley, Katelyn Gnegy, Faith Tichnell, Greg Tichnell, Kelsy Skipper, and Levi Lantz. In the second row are Aaron Lantz, junior division; J.B. Gnegy, senior; Nathan Tichnell, junior; Eric Tichnell, senior; Becky Berkebile, senior; Ashley Rodeheaver, junior; Catlin Carrico, junior; and Rachel Schmidt, senior. Katelyn Gnegy, a member of the Country Explorers 4-H Club, also placed second individually in the junior division. She received a set of livestock resource books. The Garrett County A-Team – Katelyn Gnegy, Ashley Rodeheaver, Catlin Carrico, and Kim Cogley – placed third. Photo courtesy of reporter Katelyn Gnegy, Country Explorers.

Agriculture Helpers

Agriculture Professionals in Garrett County Who Help Agriculture Entrepreneurs

"There is a future for young people in this area," said Rick McCrobie, agriculture instructor at Garrett College. "We have a strong agriculture industry in Garrett County, but today's farmers can't do the same things as their fathers and succeed."

In an advisory capacity to the Rural Development Coalition, McCrobie works with people like Willie Lantz, Cheryl DeBerry, Joyce Bishoff, Dr. Bill Shockey, and Terry Rohrbaugh. They all see farming as a viable part of the area's economic environment.

"Today's farmer does not want to become a burden on the environment," McCrobie said. "Some people might call it being environmentally friendly, but we believe in doing it with what we've got. We are using resources we have and want to continue to have in the future."

McCrobie noted that Garrett College is beginning to focus on sustainable agriculture and organic agriculture. The greenhouse and other agricultural facilities offer the opportunity to test different methods. Young people wanting to stay on the farm can get the training they will need to be successful in today's economy.

Garrett College is working with agricultural groups to help provide opportunities for young people to succeed in agriculture. The emphasis is on such activities as pasture poultry, egg production, and organic vegetable production. People today want quality assurance in the beef, poultry, and vegetables they buy, said McCrobie.

Grant funding will help students pursue the pasture poultry project. Some egg production is planned for this summer. It is important, from a business point of view, to know what it costs to produce a dozen eggs, McCrobie said.

McCrobie added that a grass-fed beef project and some sustainable dairy production may also be in the works. Beef quality assurance is a voluntary program with best-management practices, ensuring that products from beef and dairy cattle are safe and wholesome.

In addition, a vegetable production plot will be used to test some organic farming methods. These methods also may be used to grow some fresh fruit, such as apples and grapes.

"We are also considering non-traditional methods, such as short courses and different certificate programs," said McCrobie. "I would like to see an organic certificate and a sustainable agricultural program developed for the state."

McCrobie said that farming has always been a part of his life, and believes that opportunities for farming should be part of the lifestyle of young people in the area. "There is a future for agriculture on the mountaintop, and Garrett College wants to continue to work with others to make this possible," he said.

For more information, persons may contact McCrobie at Garrett College or call 301-387-3056.

FRIENDSVILLE NEWS

ON A PERSONAL NOTE
by Lucretia Sines

First of all, I would like to apologize to everyone who was wondering where the Friendsville news was last week. I was approached by many people wondering where it was, and it is nice to know that so many people look forward to reading the Friendsville news. I did indeed write the news and even hit the send button on my e-mail to deliver it to The Republican, but just because I missed one little letter in my e-mail address the wonderful world of the Internet kicked it back to me and it was never received by The Republican. I did not realize it until Saturday night when I checked my e-mail. With the mystery solved and questions answered, I hope that it did not traumatize too many people (just kidding). I really appreciate all of my readers and will try to be more careful next time. Enjoy!

ASHER GLADE CHURCH OF THE BRETHREN

Pastor Ed will be holding Bible study classes beginning at 6 p.m. at the church this Sunday, April 3. Any interested person is welcome to attend.

The ladies will meet right after morning worship on Sunday, April 3.

The Ladies Aid will meet Thursday, April 7, at 7 p.m. It is important for all the ladies of the church to attend.

There will be a board meeting on Friday, April 8, at 7 p.m.

On Sunday, April 10, the Asher Glade Church of the Brethren will be in charge of nursing home visitation at 2:30 p.m. at Henry Clay and then South Fayette.

Glenn McClelland and his group will be talking about his trip to Haiti on Sunday, April 17, during the a.m. worship. All are invited to attend.

Anyone with questions or concerns about dinners that are held at the church is asked to contact the food committee chairperson, Norma Frazee.

CELEBRATING 86TH

Mildred Umbel recently celebrated her 86th birthday, with several family members treating her to a dinner at Lone Star Restaurant. She received gifts and a birthday cake.

THE WISHING WELL
by Lucretia Sines

Gary Hoover has been moved to Health South for rehabilitation. His address is 1447 Sand Spring Road, Friendsville, MD 21531. He still has a long recovery ahead of him.

BLOODMOBILE VISIT

The Johnstown Red Cross bloodmobile will be at the Friendsville fire hall on Monday, April 4, from noon to 6 p.m. If turnout is low at this visit, they will discontinue the visits.

WOW NEWS

Woodmen of the World Lodge 45 held its meeting on Thursday, March 17, at Grace Lutheran Church. There were 29 members and guests present. Homemade ice cream was made by Burt and Linda Lytle and Roger and Alice Lohr. Sandwiches and soup were served, along with the ice cream, which was the highlight of the evening.

President Julia Sines was in charge of the business. Jurisdictional president Calista Sommerkamp, along with Georgetta Sommerkamp, Darlene Jenkins, and Nadine Hoeller, were in attendance.

The next meeting of WOW Lodge 45 will be held April 21 at 6 p.m., with a weiner roast at the WOW Pavilion on Blooming Rose Road.

WING NIGHT SCHEDULED

The Friendsville Volunteer Fire and Rescue Dept. Inc. will hold Wing Night this Friday from 6 to 9 p.m. Wings are offered in a variety of flavors. Live music is featured every other Friday.

FRIENDSVILLE COMMUNITY WATCH

The Friendsville Community Watch is sponsoring a bowling trip for Sunday, April 10. A bus will transport all to Par-Matt Lanes and will be leaving the school at 1:45 p.m. The bus is scheduled to return around 5 p.m. This event is open to students age 10-21, and the cost is $2 per person. Anyone under the age of 10 must be accompanied by an adult and pay the full price of $9.50. This includes two games of bowling, two slices of pizza, free shoe rental, and a drink. Those wishing to attend should register with JoAnn Ross at 301-746-4210 by April 3.

Teen recreation will be held every Wednesday from April 20 through May 25 from 6:30 to 8 p.m. at the town park. Youth must attend at least five of six scheduled sessions to be eligible for the free trip to Smiley's for golf, Lazer Tag, and pizza. Free snacks and door prizes will be given each evening of teen recreation. For more information and to register, persons may contact JoAnn Ross at 301-746-4210.

BUCKWHEAT SUPPER

A buckwheat supper will be held at the McHenry fire hall on Saturday, April 16, beginning at 4 p.m. The cost is $6 for adults and $3 for children. Children under 5 may eat free. Proceeds will benefit the Club Caregivers for Relay for Life.

PERSONALS

Edna Sines recently traveled to Sebring, Fla., to attend the wedding of her great-grandson, Mark Nugent, to Stephani Wilkins of Florida. Also attending from Friendsville were Richard and Ethel Artice, as well as Brenda Sines and RuthAnn of LaVale.

Mark is the son of Linda and Kenny Nugent, Sebring, and the grandson of Dale and Jessie Friend, Sebring, and Curt and Hazel Nugent of Friendsville. The newlyweds were married Saturday, March 19.

Sunday afternoon dinner guests of Mildred Umbel were members of her family who shared a covered dish dinner. She had several of her children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren with her.

Visiting Rick and Mary Ann Umbel were their daughters Dawn and Chrissy this past weekend. Dawn lives in Baltimore, and Chrissy lives in Richmond, Va. The girls went back to their homes Sunday and Monday.

Town Hall

OAKLAND

The next meeting of the mayor and town council of Oakland will be held April 4, starting at 7 p.m. with the swearing in of the council members and the appointment of the president. An information meeting of zoning recommendations from the Oakland Planning Commission will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Other items on the agenda are the monthly financial report for March, the Main Street report for March, committee appointments, discussion of police retirement, budget introduction, approval of bills, and the resolution for CDMA checking account, R2005-03.

LOCH LYNN HEIGHTS

•Voter registration will be held on Monday, April 4, at the town hall from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Persons who are registered in the county and have voted in the last five years do not need to register in the town. Those registered in the town only and who have voted in the past five years do not need to register.

•Persons interested in assisting with planning the second annual homecoming are encouraged to meet at the town hall on Monday, April 4, at 1 p.m.

The Planning Commission will meet on Monday, April 18, at 7 p.m. at the town hall.

The next regularly scheduled council meeting is April 5.

Hockman, dated October 8, 2001, and recorded in Liber 859, folio 234, among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, default having occurred under the terms thereof, and at the request of the parties secured thereby, the undersigned Substitute Trustees will offer for sale at public auction at the Garrett County Courthouse, Alder Street entrance, Oakland, Maryland, on

Friday, APRIL 8, 2005
at 12:00 Noon

All that lot of ground and the improvements thereon SITUATED IN Garrett County, Maryland, and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust.

The property is improved by a dwelling and is in fee simple. The property address is 158 Bowser Lane, Grantsville, Maryland 21536.

The property will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any, and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $10,000.00 will be required at the time of sale, such deposit to be in cash, cashier's check, certified check, or in other form acceptable to the Substitute Trustees. Balance of the purchase price is to be paid in cash within ten (10) days of the final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County. If payment of the balance does not take place within ten days of ratification, the deposit will be forfeited and property will be resold at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. The defaulting purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds or profits resulting from any resale of the property. Interest to be paid on unpaid purchase money at the rate pursuant to the deed of trust note from date of sale to date funds are received in the office of the Substitute Trustees in the event the property is purchased by someone other than the note holder. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of interest. Taxes, ground rent, water rent, condominium fees and/or homeowner association dues, all public charges, assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges, if applicable, to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. If the Substitute Trustees are unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law or equity shall be limited to the refund of the deposit. Upon refund of the deposit, this sale shall be void and of no effect, and the purchaser shall have no further claims against the Substitute Trustees.

Everett aka Sharon K. Everett and Terry J. Everett, the authority to sell having been vested in Jeffrey B. Fisher, Martin S. Goldberg and Craig Ingram either by Deed of Appointment of Substitute Trustees duly executed and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, or by decree of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, default having occurred in the terms and conditions of said Security Instrument, the said Substitute Trustees will sell at public auction at the Courthouse entrance of the:

CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY AT 203 S. 4th Street, Oakland, MD 21550
on Wednesday, April 20, 2005, at 3:00 p.m.

All that property described in said Security Instrument, said land and premises being in the 16th Election District of Garrett County, Maryland, and being improved by a dwelling bearing the street address of 3467 Maryland Hwy., Oakland, MD 21550. Subject to all covenants, restrictions and easements of record, if any. (NOTE WELL: For administrative convenience, several sales have been scheduled for this specific time and date. Prior to commencement of the sales, an announcement will be made as to the order of sale. Additional information is available at www.first-legal.com.)

TERMS OF SALE: A cash or cash equivalent deposit of $3,900.00 will be required at the time of sale, the balance to be payable in cash within ten (10) business days after ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, with interest on said balance from the date of sale to date of receipt of funds by the Substitute Trustees at the rate of 15% per annum. Failure of the purchaser to settle may result in resale of the property at purchaser's risk and cost, and forfeiture of deposit, at the election of the Substitute Trustees, who specifically preserve all legal and equitable remedies available to them. There shall be no abatement of interest allowed for any reason. In the event of a resale, the defaulting purchaser shall not receive any benefit, profit or proceeds therefrom. The Substitute Trustees reserve the right to waive the deposit requirements if the noteholder is the purchaser. Sale is "AS-IS" and Substitute Trustees make no warranty of any kind whatsoever regarding the physical condition, physical description, or title to the property. All due and/or unpaid water and sewer facilities charges and front foot benefit payments are payable by the purchaser without adjustment. v.

NORMAN J. BURNS
1030 SW BORLAND RD.
WEST LINN, OR 97068
and
All other persons having or claiming to have any interest in all that lot, piece or parcel of land situate in Election District No. 6, containing 0.95 acre, more or less, known and designated as Lots 34 and 35, Section 3, Block P, Piney Mountain Corporation and described in a deed from Piney Mountain Corporation to Norman J. Burns dated September 19, 1980, and recorded October 8, 1980, in Liber No. 413, folio 257, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.
DEFENDANTS

NOTICE AND ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption in the following property situate in Election District 6, Garrett County, Maryland, sold by the Collector of Taxes for Garrett County and State of Maryland to Ace Ventures, LLC.

All that parcel of land situate in Election District No. 6, containing 0.95 acre, more or less, known and designated as Lots Nos. 34 and 35, Section 3, Block P, Piney Mountain Corporation, and described in a deed from Piney Mountain Corporation to Norman J. Burns dated September 19, 1980, and recorded October 8, 1980, in Liber No. 413, folio 257, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The complaint states, among other things, that the amounts for redemption have not been paid, although more than six (6) months and one day from the date of sale has expired.

It is thereupon, this 25th day of March 2005, by the Circuit Court for the Garrett County, Maryland, ORDERED that the notice be given in accordance with Rule 2-121 by certified mail requesting: "Restricted Delivery - show to whom, date, address of delivery" on the defendant named in the complaint, warning the Defendants to be and appear in this Court by the 24th day of May 2005, and redeem the property and answer the complaint, or thereafter a final decree will be rendered foreclosing all rights of redemption in the property, and vesting in the Plaintiff a title free and clear of all encumbrances.

MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT
WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION
NOTICE OF TENTATIVE DETERMINATION

Garrett County

Application for State Discharge Permit 04-DP-3490, NPDES Permit MD0069418:

Garrett County Department of Public Utilities, 2008 Maryland Highway, Mtn. Lake Park, Maryland 21550, applied for a new permit to discharge an average of 50,000 gallons per day of treated domestic wastewater from the Keyser's Ridge Wastewater Treatment Plant (WWTP). The proposed WWTP will be located in the vicinity of National Pike (Alternate US Route 40) and US Route 219 intersection, Grantsville, Garrett County, Maryland 21536, and it will discharge to Puzzley Run downstream of Lake Louise just north of the National Pike (Alternate US Route 40) which is designated Use I waters protected for water contact recreation and aquatic life.

The Department proposes to issue a new discharge permit with the following effluent limitations for future Outfall 001: BOD_5, 10 mg/l maximum monthly arithmetic mean, 15 mg/l maximum weekly arithmetic mean; total suspended solids, 10 mg/l maximum monthly arithmetic mean, 15 mg/l maximum weekly arithmetic mean; ammonia nitrogen - N, 1.5 mg/l maximum monthly arithmetic mean; E. coli, 126/100 ml maximum monthly geometric mean value; total residual chlorine, 0.013 mg/l maximum when chlorine or chlorine compounds are used in any treatment process. Regular effluent monitoring and reporting are required including whole effluent toxicity testing and priority pollutant scans. The effluent limits reflect water quality based requirements necessary for compliance with both the Maryland and Pennsylvania water quality standards.

A public hearing on the tentative determination will be scheduled if a written request is received by April 6, 2005. The request should be sent to the Maryland Department of the Environment, Water Management Administration, 1800 Washington Blvd., Baltimore, Maryland 21230-1708, Attn.: Stephen Luckman, and must include the name, address, and telephone number (home and work) of the person making the request, the name of any other party whom the person making the request may represent, and the name of the facility and permit number. Failure to request a hearing by April 18, 2005 will constitute a waiver of the right to a public hearing on the tentative determination. Written comments concerning the tentative determination will be considered in the preparation of a final determination if submitted to the Department, to the attention of Mr. Luckman at the above address, on or before April 18, 2005. Any hearing-impaired person who requests a hearing may also request an interpreter at the hearing by contacting Mr. Luckman at 410-537-3671 or 1-800-633-6101 by written request to the above address at least ten working days prior to the scheduled hearing date.

Information supporting the tentative determination, including the draft permit and fact sheet, may be reviewed by contacting Mr. Luckman at the above telephone number to make an appointment or by written request to Mr. Luckman at the above address. Copies of documents may be obtained at a cost of $0.32 per page.

INVITATION TO BID
INTERIM UPGRADES TO THE BFS WASTEWATER TREATMENT PLANT

The Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland, will accept sealed bids for furnishing all labor, equipment, and materials to construct an interim upgrade to the existing Bruceton Farm Service Wastewater Treatment Plant, which is located at Keyser's Ridge, Maryland. Plans and specifications were prepared by Thrasher Engineering. The project basically will modify the existing flow equalization tank, new flow meter, new composite sampler, new PolyAluminum Chloride (PAC) feed system, and new ultraviolet disinfection unit and other incidentals to allow the 14,000 gallon per day plant to function until a new plant can be constructed at the Keyser's Ridge Industrial Park. The contractor will be required to complete the construction of the project within ninety (90) calendar days after issuance of the Notice to Proceed. A bid bond or certified check in the amount of 5% of the total bid amount shall be submitted with each bid. A performance/payment bond in the full bid amount will be required of the successful contractor.

A Pre-Bid Meeting will be held at 10:00 a.m. on Wednesday, March 30, 2005, in the Commissioners' Public Meeting Room located at 203 South Fourth Street, Room 209, in Oakland, Maryland.

Bid documents and specifications may be obtained in person from the Procurement Office of the Garrett County Department of Financial Services, 313 East Alder Street, Room 105, Oakland, Maryland 21550. The cost of the bid specifications and drawings is $50.00 per set and is nonrefundable. All out of town contractors must pre-pay for shipping and the cost of the plans. Inquiries may be made by calling 301-334-5003.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

by Dr. Thomas P. Sheahen

Potholes

Q. I'm positive that the potholes are always worst in early spring? Why? What is causing that?

You're absolutely right that potholes are at their worst right about now. That is because the weather conditions near the end of winter are just right to break up the pavement. The condition of freezing-at-night and thawing-by-day is what causes all the problems.

First of all, a pothole is basically a place where there is supposed to be pavement but there isn't. That's because the pavement got broken up and then scattered away by the wheels of passing vehicles. It's usually several weeks after the damage to the pavement occurs that a visible pothole appears.

Second, when water freezes into ice, it expands. This is actually very unusual. Most substances contract (get smaller) when they freeze, but not water. The reason that ice floats on top of a lake is because it is less dense than liquid water, which is due to the expansion that takes place upon freezing.

There are often tiny cracks in pavement, and sometimes water seeps down into those cracks. If the water freezes at night, the expansion tends to push the sides of the crack apart. The forces involved are huge, even in a small crack and the pavement moves a little bit as the ice expands. Then, in the warmth of the next day, the ice thaws and the stress goes away, so the pavement can relax back to its original position. Keep up that back-and-forth motion (even though it's a tiny motion) for a few days and the pavement loses its mechanical strength. Then when a heavy wheel rolls over that place, the pavement gives way – the cracks get bigger, and pieces start to come apart.

Wherever salt is used on the roads, the whole process goes much faster. The same Chlorine ions that cause ice to melt also cause chemical reactions to occur which deteriorate the chemical bonds in the asphalt or cement; the mechanical strength of the pavement is lessened, and it can break apart easier. In Garrett County, cinders are preferred because they give traction to wheels but don't have any chemical effects on the pavement or on automobile bodies.

In seasons where the night/day freeze-and-thaw cycle isn't happening, potholes won't form. Over many cold days in January when thawing doesn't take place, that's just as good as days in June when freezing doesn't occur. Either way, mechanical distortion of the pavement is avoided.

Moreover, the damage that begins to happen in February doesn't result in broken pavement right away; and at first, even broken pavement can still be driven on. Only by late March has enough pavement actually gone away that potholes are noticeable. Then later in April, the road crews come out and start repairing the potholes.

So you are quite right in identifying early spring as the worst time of year for potholes.

SWANTON NEWS

The Swanton Community Center will hold a baked-steak dinner on April 9 beginning at 4 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

The Kids for Christ Puppeteers will present their Easter message in puppetry Sunday, April 10, during the 11 a.m. worship service at Otterbein U.M. church. Everyone is welcome.

Guests of Melvin, Dotty, and Andrew Beckman for Easter weekend were Leslie Tracy and Anthony Beckman, West Farmington, Ohio. While here they attended the Friday evening wedding reception of Linda Fleming and Ross Glotfelty at the Pleasant Valley Community Center.

On Saturday afternoon Leslie, Tracy, Melvin, and Andrew Beckman visited Paul and Mildred Harvey, Oakland. On Sunday all the Beckmans attended the Easter Cantata at Otterbein U.M. Church and later that afternoon they all visited at the Durst Funeral Home for the family of Lydia Sweitzer.

Leslie, Tracy, and Anthony Beckman returned to their home in Ohio on Monday afternoon.

Mary June Harvey had Ellisa, Mike, and girls, Emily and Michaela Woodbrey, Shepherdstown, W.Va., as her guests over Easter weekend. Other visitors were Ellida and Jamie Bernard, Warrenton, Va.; David and Jancie Schofield, Frederick; Richard, Renee, and Alexandra Schofield, N.Y.; and Brian and Sandy Schofield.

Guests of Sandy Friend were daughter Gena and husband Kurt and children Karly, Kyle, and Kasey Winegardner, Hollywood (Md.). They returned home after Easter.

Ray and Carol Sweitzer had her sister Jerri as an Easter weekend guest. She attended church with them and later returned to her home in Virginia Beach.

GC Airport Proj. Receives Federal Grant Of $3.1M

Garrett County has received a $3.1 million federal grant from the Department of Transportation's Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), Senators Paul Sarbanes and Barbara Mikulski announced last Thursday.

These initial funds will be used for the $9.43 million Garrett County Airport runway extension project. Plans call for a 5,000-foot long, 75-foot wide runway with a parallel taxiway. Ninety-five percent of the funding for the extension will be federal, while 5 percent will be provided by the state and county. The airport is located off Bumble Bee Road near McHenry.

The Garrett County Department of General Services and the procurement office opened construction bids for the project last Thursday, just minutes after the funding announcement was made. Planners with URS Corporation, the county's airport consultant for the project, will now analyze the nine bids that were submitted and report back to the departments. A date has not been set yet for the Garrett County commissioners to award the bid. The project is scheduled for completion in 2007.

In recent months, General Services director Gary Mullich and his department have been negotiating the purchase of several acres of privately owned land near the end of the proposed runway extension. Though the

DESPITE THE HAZARDS of springtime in Garrett County, the flowers are making their way up and out, heralding the onset of warmer weather. Crocuses, daffodils, bluebells, and other spring blooms are indeed showing their faces, and the birds are chattering as they do only this time of the year. There is always the possibility of more cold days, but the balmy ones will now outnumber them (we hope!). Photo by John McEwen.

Constant Yield Tax Rate Hearing Slated Next Week

A constant yield tax rate hearing will be held next Tuesday, April 12, at 11 p.m., Wendy Yoder, director of the Garrett County Department of Financial Services, told the county commissioners this week during a departmental update. The hearing will be held in the commissioners' meeting room at the courthouse.

According to Financial Services, if the county maintains its current rate of $1.036 per $100 of assessment, the county's real property tax revenue will increase by 10.6 percent for the tax year beginning July 1, 2005. In order to fully offset the effect of that increase, the real property tax rate would have to be $.937, the constant yield tax rate.

The state requires that a hearing be held if a county proposes a tax rate that is higher than that of the constant yield.

In recent weeks, the commissioners have been considering adopting a rate of $1.00 per $100 of assessment. This would still be 6.7 percent higher than the constant yield, generating about $1.545 million in additional revenue for the county. If the county were to keep the current tax rate, however, about $2.428 million in new revenue would be realized, according to Financial Services.

The hearing is open to the public, and testimony is encouraged. For more information, persons may call Financial Services at 301-334-8970.

The director also told the commissioners that all meetings with county departments had been completed for the FY 2006 budget process. She noted that preliminary figures from the departments' budget requests showed a $5.8 million increase from FY 2005. She said that this did not include capital projects, capital outlay, or debt service.

Yoder also reported that the county's annual sale of properties with delinquent taxes will be held May 6 at 10 a.m. in the courthouse rotunda. Yoder said there were 229 properties slated for the sale, so far. Property owners have until the day of the sale to pay their taxes.

She also said her department will eventually phase out its Motor Vehicle Service window at the courthouse over a three-to-four-week period. To make sure the public is well informed, the closure will be gradual and a notice will be published, Yoder stressed. She said providing the service was not feasible for the department.

State Budgetary Ax Continues To Swing At Mental Health Services

by Glenn Tolbert

Garrett County's mental health care system is being forced to operate under continuous budget cuts, with the possibility of additional hits to its complex funding mechanisms. Based on a series of interviews with leaders in the local mental health field, the fact that it is operating at its current efficiency is only because of extremely tight fiscal management and, in some cases, the reduction of services in certain areas.

One of the latest programs to take a severe blow is the Garrett County Health Department's Healthy Families Program. This service, with an overall budget of $800,000, was recently cut by over $80,000. The program's short-term objective are to ensure that young children are on a healthy path for school, ready to learn, and pre-tested for kindergarten.

"It kind of gives them a jump start," said Garrett County health officer Rodney Glotfelty. "Long-term studies have shown that children under the program have less involvement with the juvenile justice system, are less likely to use drugs and alcohol, and more likely to finish high school."

Glotfelty said the cuts will mean fewer families may be eligible for the program and that visitations to the homes by a therapist will have to be curtailed.

A program for which funding is in danger of being eliminated is Med Bank. This service offers medications to psychiatric patients who have no insurance and are usually on a low, fixed income. Glotfelty pointed out that it is cheaper for the state to provide this service than the alternative of dealing with patients without medication who are often institutionalized.

"We're fighting hard to keep this one going," he said.

The so-called "gray zone" patients (people who have no insurance at all) may face a harder time receiving authorization for mental assistance of any kind. According to Fred Polce, director of the Core Service Agency which oversees most public mental health services in the county, money spent in the fiscal year ending January 31, 2005, on the uninsured was $794,404. Medicaid paid in $3,286,369 to the system. Much of the gray zone money was reimbursed through the Maryland Public Mental Health System.

No one is sure how the current state legislature will react to this year's request for "gray zone" funding, but things are expected to be tighter.

"Right now it looks like people are just going to have to be a lot sicker than before to qualify," Polce said.

One indication of problems with mental health in the area that is the number of suicides. This year, preliminary vital statistics show that there have already been five successful suicides, plus one attempted, considered high for the county in just over three months time. The year in which the most suicides occurred in the county was 2001, and that was five for the entire year.

"One suicide is obviously too many. And we in this profession take every one to heart," said Polce.

In response to these numbers, Polce's group is organizing a suicide symposium. "This will basically be a conference on suicideology. We'll have national speakers helping us to develop an intervention program," he said.

Meanwhile, the program of preventing the depression and other problems that can

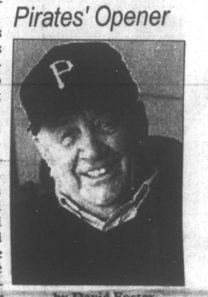
Marucci Tosses Out First Pitch At Pirates' Opener



by David Foster

Throwing out the ceremonial first pitch at a season-opening Major League Baseball game is an honor usually reserved for presidents, politicians, and other notable dignitaries, but Oakland resident A.T. "Blue" Marucci got his big league shot Monday when he tossed out the first pitch before the Pittsburgh Pirates' 2005 season opener at PNC Park. The diminutive 84-year-old towered over the 38,000 at the stadium as he was shown live on the park's huge screen, and was the subject of feature news reporting in media outlets including the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette and television news stations across the region.

The Pirates had asked Marucci to take to the mound in recognition of his "streak" of attending 60 consecutive home openers in Pittsburgh.

It's hard to tell if anyone else has ever pulled off such a labor of love for the game and bulldogged tenacity. Cal Ripken didn't do it; Lou Gherig didn't do it; so a little history may be in order.

In 1944, then-Sgt. Marucci was a homesick young soldier among hundreds of thousands of homesick American soldiers fighting World War II in Europe. He received a note from a buddy back home in his native Fayette County, Pa., that included a program and a ticket stub from the 1944 All-Star game at Forbes Field. In a gesture of hope, Marucci vowed to himself that if he ever got home again, he would make a point of taking time out to enjoy a Pirate game whenever he could.

Immediately after the war ended, Marucci returned to Garrett County, which he had fallen in love with when he was sent here for a pre-war stint with the Civilian Conservation Corps. He debuted at the Pirates' season opener on April 20, 1946, when he and Howard Jones borrowed Jones's mother's car and set out on a five-hour expedi-

Ad Valorem Taxes To Continue For Fiscal Year 2006

Existing sanitary district customers will continue to pay ad valorem taxes in Fiscal Year 2006, the Garrett County commissioners announced this week.

In a press release issued on Tuesday, the officials noted that the county had begun its formal review and approval of the FY 2006 Operating and Capital Budget. The commissioners had thought about appropriating general fund revenue to reduce or eliminate debt service ad valorem taxes.

"This financial option was considered to reduce the total cost of public water and sewer infrastructure to residents in certain sanitary districts, [on] the premise [of] adequate countywide water and sewer service comprehensive responsibility," the commissioners said.

But because many public water and sewer projects, specifically in the Deep Creek Lake area, will not be started until FY 2007, the board of commissioners decided to "continue to include and collect ad valorem taxes for existing sanitary districts for the next budget period."

The commissioners added that they would "further evaluate the debt affordability of certain areas as it pertains to what percentage of the debt will be collected by this tax paid by residents in certain sanitary districts and what percentage of that debt would be considered for a cost share directed from the county's general fund or undesignated reserve balance."

Questions about the issue may be directed to Monty Pagenhardt, county administrator, at 301-334-8970, or Wendy Yoder, director of the Garrett County Department of Financial Services, at 301-334-8971.

Students Adjust "Quickly" To New Cafeteria System

Students from pre-kindergarten through 12th grade seem to have adapted fairly quickly and easily to the new PIN system in the Garrett County school cafeterias, according to Scott Germain, director of food services.

The new system was started in October, and Crellin Elementary School will be the final school to receive the system this month. Each student was given a four-digit number to keep until graduation. Students punch the number into a keypad as they go through the breakfast, lunch, or a la carte line.

"We are still learning about the system," said Germain. "This new system has made it much easier for us to track the number of lunches served each day. What used to take about a week to compile is now calculated at the end of lunch each day."

Leota Martin, cafeteria manager at Broad Ford Elementary School, agreed that this new system has worked very well. She added that the line moves very quickly, and the students have no trouble remembering their number or working the keypad.

Route 40 Elementary School was the first elementary school to implement the system. "It has worked perfectly from day one," said LuAnn Klink, cafeteria manager. "It has been a blessing."

Parents may send in a check or cash, which is then applied to the student's account. The balance will carry over from year to year, Germain added. If a child's account is empty, he or she will still be served lunch, Germain said. No

Senators Unveil Bill For Highway Corridor In AC

Senators Paul Sarbanes and Barbara Mikulski introduced legislation yesterday that would create a new 35-mile north-south highway corridor in Allegany County and West Virginia as part of the Appalachian Development Highway System (ADHS).

The legislation would provide for the construction of a new 35½-mile highway, extending 15 miles south from Interstate 68 in Cumberland to the Maryland-West Virginia state line, and then an additional 20½ miles from the state line to Scherr, W.Va. The new roadway could include upgrades and or relocation in Maryland of U.S. Route 220 from I-68, via Md. Route 53 to the West Virginia line, and upgrades within West Virginia as well.

At least two Maryland state economic development task forces over the last decade have identified a north-south corridor as their leading priority for the region.

A multi-state study completed in 2001 identified two corridors as having the greatest potential for benefiting Appalachian economic development – the U.S. 219 Corridor in the north from the Pennsylvania Turnpike to I-68 in Garrett County, and the U.S. 220 Corridor in the south from I-68 in Allegany County to Corridor H in West Virginia.

The study also found that upgrading U.S. 220 south of I-68 would support the largest number of potential new jobs (7,800 – 8,600 jobs) with the highest relative growth – 19 percent – of any of the corridors and have fewer impacts than the alternatives.

Over the past four years, and with additional funding provided by the Congress in the Fiscal 2003 Transportation Appropriations bill, Maryland and West Virginia have been undertaking a detailed project-planning phase of the 35½-mile segment of U.S. 220 south that was recommended in the feasibility study. Improvements which have been proposed include a four-lane divided highway, most of which would be on a new alignment, with at-grade intersections.

The corridor would inter-

Accidental Fires Cause Major Damages To Two Area Houses

Separate, accidental fires this past week resulted in major damages to two single-story, wood-frame houses in the southern part of Garrett County.

The first occurred Friday afternoon when an overheated service line to an electric panel set fire to a house located at 435 Crellin Mine Road and owned by Michael Ashby. Responding to the 3:03 p.m. alarm were units and personnel from the Oakland, Terra Alta, Aurora, and Deer Park fire departments.

It took the approximately two dozen volunteers only about 10 minutes to bring the fire under control, but damage was extensive to the structure and contents. A report released by the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office estimates loss to the structure to be $115,000 and to contents an additional $10,000.

The fire was discovered in the basement of the house by Ashby when he arrived home from work. A spokesman for the Oakland VFD noted that it appeared the fire had been slowly burning for some time before being discovered.

Also responding to the scene was the Southern Rescue Squad and the county air cascade unit, which is housed at the Deep Creek fire hall. There were no injuries reported.

The second fire was reported at 7:15 p.m. Saturday after Robert Hicks discovered flames in the kitchen of his house at 1316 Broad Ford Road.

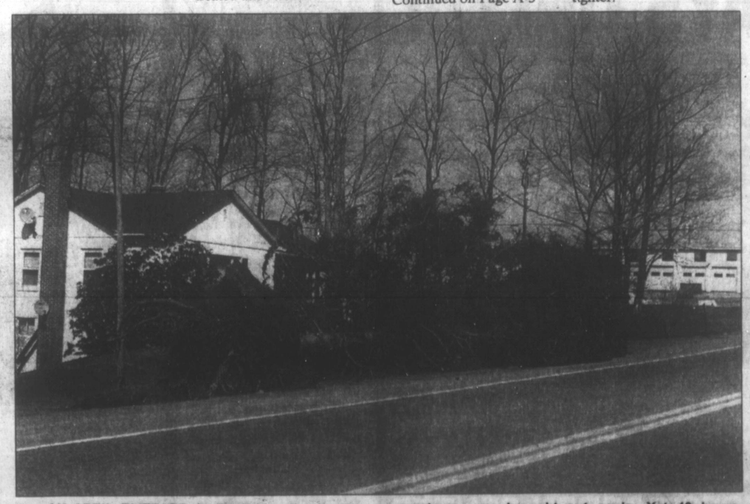
Summoned to the scene were the Oakland and Gorman fire departments, along with Southern Rescue and the air cascade unit.

The house served as Hicks' residence and also his business, Bob's Bait Shop.

Firefighters brought the blaze under control in about 15 minutes. Total damages were estimated to be $15,000, with the house damaged beyond repair, according to the report filed by Deputy Fire Marshal Jamie Rodeheaver.

Rodeheaver said that the fire was caused by a portable electric heater located too close to combustible materials.

Hicks sustained some facial burns and was transported by Southern Rescue to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released.



AN APRIL BLIZZARD — Predicting the weather in Garrett County is always risky, but never more so than during the spring months. A few tiny snow clumps still remain on the ground today following a damaging, bitter cold snowstorm that hit the mountaintop Sunday. The high winds brought down a number of large trees, including this one, located along Rt. 40 in Grantsville. Churches cancelled services and the snowplows were brought out again. Yet 48 hours later, the sun was beaming and the mercury climbed to at least 60, maybe even 70 in some areas. So it goes here in western Maryland. The forecast is actually calling for a mild weekend, with partly cloudy skies and temperatures in the 60s. Dare we believe it? Photo by Lisa Broadwater.

Man Charged Following Alleged Domestic Assault

An Oakland man was arrested Monday evening after he allegedly assaulted his mother during a domestic altercation, according to the Oakland Police Department.

Timothy Brandon Field Lax, 18, was taken into custody following the 8 p.m. incident at an Oak Street residence.

Lax is accused of hitting his mother and leaving a visible red mark. He was held the following day in the Garrett County Detention Center on a $2,000 bond set by a District Court commissioner.

Unclaimed Funds Supplement Lists 56,793 Owners

Maryland comptroller William Donald Schaefer's office will issue a 40-page advertising supplement next week to help locate 56,793 recently identified owners of unclaimed funds worth $20.7 million. The spring supplement — the largest ever issued by the Comptroller's office — will appear in 24 newspapers throughout the state, including The Republican, starting Monday, April 11, and running through April 21.

"If you find your name in the ad, call our office at 410-767-1700 in central Maryland, or toll-free 1-800-782-7383 from elsewhere," said Comptroller Schaefer. "We'll tell you how you can claim your money."

Financial institutions, utilities, insurance companies, and other corporations are required to report to the comptroller any bank accounts, security deposits, wages, insurance benefits and contents of safe deposit boxes that have been unclaimed after three years.

The comptroller's office advertises recently reported names of unclaimed property owners each spring and fall. Funds remain the property of the owners or their legitimate heirs that they can claim anytime. There is no statute of limitations.

GC Chamber Of Commerce Members Discuss Variety Of Issues At Retreat

More than 40 Garrett County Chamber of Commerce members recently participated in the organization's annual Membership Retreat, held at the Deer Park Inn.

The membership was well represented, according to a chamber spokesperson.

In addition to newspaper advertising, the comptroller searches for owners of unclaimed funds by matching files with those of the IRS and the Maryland Department of Motor Vehicles, and setting up computers at the Maryland State Fair and other events to allow people to check the comptroller's files of unclaimed funds.

Those attending were from a wide range of businesses, such as manufacturing, accommodations, media, restaurants, retail, agriculture, and financial, as well as county and state agencies.

"This was the largest one held to date," said Deb Clatterbuck, director of tourism and marketing. "The chamber membership was eager to submit new ideas and initiatives."

Much of the time at the retreat was spent discussing a variety of issues presented by the chamber members. Some of the issues discussed were marketing, customer service, event promotions, agricultural initiatives, DNR funding, health care, and the cultural climate.

Members also suggested ways the chamber staff could improve communication and ideas for future promotion and ways to help smaller business members.

Meetings like this show that the chamber supports small businesses, as well as the big ones, said Eugene and Pamela Dixon of the Yough Valley Motel, Friendsville.

"As the largest business organization in Garrett County, the Chamber of Commerce supports businesses in the way our members, as business people, direct," said Charlie Ross, chamber president and CEO.

It represents business to government and other partners and seeks new ways to present Garrett County to the community and future residents, as well as existing and future businesses. Also, as a tourism marketing organization, the chamber promotes the strongest attributes of Garrett County; its natural resources, recreation, history, education, culture, and wonderful quality of life, Ross added.

Meetings such as the Membership Retreat are important to keep in touch with members and make sure the chamber is continuing to fulfill its mission, he said.

More information about the Chamber of Commerce, its members and activities, is available at garrettchamber.com

GC INTERNSHIP PROG.

During the retreat, Mike Kilgus, Garrett College's dean of administration and interim director of business and technology, told the chamber members that his department wants to establish at least five in-house internships in the fall and spring semesters. He also is working to establish external internships for business students.

"I'm excited about this," said Kilgus. These internships can help students gain practical knowledge that uses their classroom learning. Additionally, this provides a great opportunity for Garrett County businesses to recruit future employees.

"It's very important what Mike is doing here," said Ross, as he stressed the importance of business and educational facilities working together. "Opportunities are going both ways."

Kilgus also discussed the college's new certificate in graphic web design which will be offered beginning in the fall. The certificate includes a new Intro to Macromedia Studio course that is designed to provide students with an introduction to electronic illustration and animation for the web, as well as web page design. The new Desktop Publishing course is designed to provide students with hands-on experience in the basics of desktop publishing.

The department also will offer some of the latest programming and network security courses, including Security+, Implementing and Administering Security in a Microsoft Windows Server 2003 Network, and Introduction to C#.

Plans also include expanding online course offerings for business and new business elective courses for both traditional and non-traditional students. Kilgus is seeking experienced business leaders who may be interested in serving as adjunct instructors for future business and information technology courses.

Certificate programs offer employees a chance to improve their skills without long-term commitment, said Ross, encouraging business managers to consider internship programs. Besides working with Garrett College, the Chamber works with the PIVOT program, Robotics and Electric car projects, freshmen seminars, and other Board of Education programs.

More information about college programs is available at garrettcollege.edu.

Poor Visibility Blamed For Vehicle Mishap

Low visibility from the blowing snow and snow-covered roads were to blame for a three-vehicle accident Sunday afternoon on Rt. 219 just south of Sand Flat Road, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

A 1995 Volkswagen that was operated by Daniel Alan Digiacomo, 17, Grantville, was stopped on the northbound shoulder of Sand Flat Road, when it was hit by a 2004 Pontiac car operated by Howell Kent Billingslea, 55, Abingdon. According to police, Billingslea lost control of the vehicle because of the road conditions and blowing snow.

A third vehicle, owned by Crystal Joy Dornburg, 21, Grantsville, was previously stranded in the ditch at the same location and was also struck by Billingslea's vehicle.

No injuries were reported. Billingslea was charged for failing to reduce speed during dangerous weather conditions, police said.

In other police news, no charges were filed in a two-vehicle accident on Sand Flat Road near Pergin Farm Road. According police, a 2004 Dodge truck operated by Thomas Hedrick Jr., Petersburg, W.Va., and a 1997 Plymouth operated by Mary Gank of Oakland collided in a turn because of icy road conditions.

Gank and two juveniles were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment. Also responding to the 10:34 p.m. incident were Southern Rescue Squad and Deer Park firefighters.

In a separate accident, Peggy Jean Arnold, 48, Davis, W.Va., received minor injuries and was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital after she lost control of her vehicle on Blue Ribbon Road Sunday morning.

According to police, Arnold lost control because of the weather conditions, traveled off the shoulder of the northbound lane and into a ditch, where the vehicle overturned.

Oakland firefighters also responded to the 9:30 a.m. accident. No charges were filed by deputies.

TA Man Faces Charges After Traffic Stop

A Terra Alta, W.Va., man was arrested after his vehicle was stopped for speeding on Rt. 219 near Foster Road Wednesday morning, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

John Wayne Strawser Jr., 27, was confirmed to be driving on a suspended driver's license. He was charged with speeding and driving on a suspended driver's license and privilege.

He was released after posting bond, according to a jail spokesperson.

Workshops Set To Aid In Job Fair Preparation

Several workshops and programs are available to help job seekers increase their chances of success by being prepared for the Garrett County Job Fair, scheduled for April 22 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Continuing Education Building at Garrett College.

"Career Services wants to help you make the most of the Garrett County Job Fair by helping you prepare in advance to make the best impression possible on employers," said Judy Carbone of Career Services. "Please consider attending one of the following workshops and getting your resume critiqued."

Workshops on "How to Make the Job Fair Work for You" will be held in the Continuing Education Building on April 12 at noon in Room 224, April 15 at 10 a.m. in Room 204, April 18 at 6 p.m. in Room 202, and April 20 at 4 p.m. in Room 202.

For resumé critiques, job seekers can drop off a copy of their resume during the week of April 11 at Room 409 of Garrett College and can pick up a written critique 48 hours later.

A walk-in critique also is available on April 19 from 1 to 5 p.m. and April 19 from 9 a.m. to noon in Room 409.

For more information persons may contact Carbone at 301-387-3046, Room 409, Garrett College.

The Garrett County One Stop Job Center Workshop, 221 S. Third Street, Oakland, also will help people prepare for the job fair with a workshop April 14 from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

"Learn the best techniques to impress an employer," said Cheryl Angle, supervisor of the center. Job seekers are invited to attend the whole workshop or just the parts they need.

The workshop includes: Complete Effective Applications from 9 to 10 a.m., Refine a Resumé from 10:15 to 11:15 a.m., and Sharpen Interviewing Skills from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Mock interview sessions will be held by appointment after 1:30 p.m. Appointments can be scheduled that day.

Space is limited so those interested are encouraged to call in advance. To register or obtain more details, persons may call 301-334-3972 or 301-334-8136.

Tentative plans for the day of the job fair include having a special area available for job seekers to prepare before going into the exhibit room. A few volunteers will be available to help coach people, offering basic hints on how to present themselves, such as "Take off your hat" or "Stop chewing gum," said Lynne Crehan, who is representing the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce on the Job Fair Committee.

General job applications also will be available for those who do not have a resumé, so they can have all their education and work information prepared before they go to talk to recruiters.

"A separate area also may be set aside for job seekers to fill out applications if an employer wants them that day," she said. "That way they can thoughtfully complete their job application.

"Opportunities will be available for all. This is not just for the young, but for people relocating to the area or considering a career shift."

A "Making the Most of the Garrett County Job Fair" brochure and tips on resumé writing are available on the job fair web site, www.garrettcollege.edu/events/jobfair.

Information about employers will be available upon registration, such as what companies are present and if immediate openings are available or if they are considering future hiring.

tion to Pittsburgh's storied Forbes Field, where they watched their beloved Buccos down the Cincinatti Reds, 2-1.

Since then, from Forbes to Three Rivers to PNC Park, from Kiner to Clemente and Parker to Lawton, Marucci has seen them all in pilgrimages that have grown from two buddies in a borrowed car to a chartered bus carrying over 50 friends and family members spanning three generations, expertly outfitted with gallons upon gallons of gumbo and chili, several gas grills, pork chops, hot dogs, kielbasas, a case of beer or two (or 35), and the vital stock of Rolaids.

The number 60 holds a special place in Marucci's heart, as this past January he and his beloved wife Margaret celebrated 60 years of marriage. The couple's progeny could fill a baseball dugout, as they have produced three children, four grandchildren, and three-great grandchildren.

Over the years, Marucci's won-lost record sitting in the Pittsburgh stands on those early April days is 32-28. He said last week that Monday's game would be his final Pirates' opener, but after a 9-2 loss to the visiting Milwaukee Brewers, it's hard to imagine the venerable baseball fan going out on a losing note.

It's even harder to imagine Section 127 at PNC Park without Blue.

Airport Project

land will not be needed for the runway itself, the FAA requires a large safety buffer at the end of runways.

Airport plans also include a new terminal, airplane hangars, and other amenities. Those additions, however, will not be funded by the federal government. But the county has been exploring funding sources for that capital improvement project as well.

Extending the runway from its current 3,000 feet to 5,000 feet will allow corporate jets to land at the airport. Local officials anticipate that this will increase economic development in the county. The new hangars, along with jet fuel sales, are also expected to create more interest in the airport and make the facility more profitable.

Sarbanes and Mikulski also announced that Frederick Municipal Airport had received grants totaling more than $7 million for multiple obstruction removal and land acquisition projects. Hagerstown Regional Airport's Richard A. Henson Field was awarded another $7 million to construct a runway safety area.

"Improving our state's transportation infrastructure is one of my top priorities," Sarbanes said. "These funds will provide for the improvements for a growing passenger population and will enhance the safety of the passengers and pilots using these facilities."

"When I met with western Maryland county commissioners, they told me how important these airports are to keep the region on the move," Mikulski added. "This money is a federal investment to do just that."

Hearing Slated

Residents will still be able to get their vehicle tags and renewal stickers at the local MVA office, located beside Browning's Foodland near Mtn. Lake Park.

Additionally, the director told the commissioners that her department was still trying to determine how to add the state's new "flush fee" to property tax bills. As of October 2004, property owners throughout the state with private sewer systems will be assessed $30 per year.

The problem is, however, determining what properties in the county have systems. Yoder said she will contact other rural counties to see what mechanisms they use to determine what properties have private sewer systems.

The fee will appear on property tax bills in June 2006. Yoder noted that the first fee will actually be $45, since 1½ years will have passed since the bill was enacted.
